Applications Are Available For GYAC Delegates

Between May 1 and July 1 of each year 115 residents and citizens of Maryland, between the ages of 13 and 22, are chosen to serve as delegates to the Governor's Youth Advisory Council (GYAC).

Delegates from every county and the city of Baltimore assemble in the Joint Hearing Room of the Legislature Services Building in Annapolis. The new officers are met and the delegates are educated on the activities of the council.

The purpose of the GYAC is to communicate the concerns of Maryland youth regarding state programs, policies, and legislation to the governor through the Office for Children and Youth. The GYAC takes actions already underway which are impacting upon Maryland youth, and makes proposals for new state action to meet the special needs of youth. Headed by the officers and area caucus coordinators, the concerns of the state of Maryland's youth are voiced.

Not only do they voice youth's concerns but, as delegates to the GYAC, these concerns are put into proper legislation and can be lobbied before any group. The Governor's Youth Advisory Council promotes action by youth.

For further information or an application to apply, contact Garrett County's GYAC Delegate Spencer Schlosnagle at 746-5864 on or before April 1, 1985.

Excellent Season Anticipated For Veteran Southern Baseball Team

Two of Southern High School's major sports teams made it to the level of the state playoffs this school year and odds are that a third squad will follow a similar path.

The Southern varsity baseball team, which will open its season next Wednesday afternoon in Westernport against Bruce, will no doubt be the area's top rated team in the pre-season rankings as the Rams return 11 lettermen, including seven of nine starters. The 1984 team also recorded a 13-5 record, the most wins in the history of the school for one season.

Every pitcher, catcher, and infielder is back from last year's team, including the 1984 Most Valuable Player, Scott Stem, who led the team in hitting with a remarkable .511 average.

"We are very optimistic and enthused about the season," stated Coach Jim Bosley. "Anytime you have seven of nine full-time starters back you have to have a good feeling. But the competition is going to be tough, as usual."

Also back to manage the pitching duties along with Stem are Danny Holler, Scott Colaw, and John Nelson, who all saw considerable action last season.

Jon Reneslacis, a junior who batted .300 last year, has a firm grip on the shortstop position.

Stem or Gibson will play second base, while Scott Colaw or Gibson will handle the third base position.

Dave McLaughlin, who led the '84 team in RBIs, and Duane Evans will play their senior seasons in the catcher position.

J.R. Gibson, who Bosley calls "Mr. Utility", will be seen at almost any infield position, depending upon who is on the mound.

First base candidates are Holler and Mike Hill. Junior Jeff Sweitzer is pegged to start in right field, while the center field slot is up for grabs between Manuel Moon, a junior, sophomore Bruce Bosley, or Nelson. Hill, Chad King, Brad King, and Tim Chapman are all expected to see action in the left field position.

Bosley said he expects the toughest Class C competition to come from Northern, Mt. Savage, and Clear Spring. Class B schools which will undoubtedly present a strong challenge to the Rams will be Allegany and Bishop Walsh. "The three doubleheaders that are scheduled, with Berkeley Springs, Central Preston, and Tucker County, will also be real tests for us," Bosley said.

"Practices have been better than ever," Bosley said, "even though we have been outdoors only twice. I think the kids realize that if we do the things we are capable of, we should have a really successful season."

But he was quick to add, "There is always a danger about feeling too optimistic, though. Sometimes when you are expected to be a powerhouse team, the chemistry just isn't quite right and things don't click. This happens a lot in sports competition."

Bosley, who was a three-sport letterman at Southern, is in his sixth year at the helm of the baseball squad. He has compiled a 53-32 record and is 36-19 over the past three seasons.

"The group of seniors we have this year is probably the most talented overall ever to come out of Southern High School," Bosley noted. When the present seniors were freshmen, the Rams finished with an 11-8 mark, followed by a 12-6 record in 1983, and 13-5 last season.

Monroe First Choice On Region All-Star Team

Art Monroe, the 6-2 sophomore guard who led the Garrett Community College Lakers to their best season in history this year, was the top vote-getter on the 1985 All-Region XX Men's Basketball Team, thus making him an automatic candidate for NJCAA All-America honors.

Monroe, a resident of Catonsville, netted 821 points on the season for a 26.5 average. He made good on 342 of 677 attempts from the floor for a 50.5 percent average, and hit 137 of 180 shots from the foul line for a 76.1 percent effort. He pulled down 162 rebounds, or 5.2 per contest, recorded 124 assists and 93 steals.

He was named the Most Valuable Player in the March 10 Region XX East-West All-Star game after finishing with 21 points and leading the East to a 114-91 victory.

A transfer student this past year from Fairmont State College to Garrett, Monroe ranks as one of Maryland's all-time high scorers in high school, having averaged over 30 points per game in his junior and senior seasons at Catonsville High School.

Others named to the Region XX All-Star team were Darrin Mosley, of Allegany Community College, Sam Smith, of the Community College of Baltimore, Ricardo "Tico" Cooper of CCAC Allegheny (Pittsburgh), and Tony Harris, of Frederick CC.

Doug Shiflett, a two-year starter at Garrett and team leader in rebounds, was named to the Region XX All-Star second team, while another Garrett standout, Quintin Kearney, received honorable mention.

BIG 33 FINALISTS — Three members of the 1984 Southern High School football team are among the top high school players in the state of Maryland considered to play on the Maryland Big 33 team against the top 33 players in Pennsylvania on July 20 in Hershey Park, Pa. They are, left to right, Scott Colaw, Steve Bennett, and J.R. Gibson. Colaw and Gibson have received word that they are among the 66 finalists in the selection process and the final 33 candidates will be named April 11. Unofficial sources say that at least one of the two Southern athletes will most likely make the final team. Tom Woods, head coach of the Rams, is a member of the selection committee for the Big 33 team, which is the first of its kind in Maryland. The committee started the selection process with a list of 300 players from throughout the state. Colaw, who was the defensive captain for Rams last season, led the team in tackles. Bennett was the leading receiver, all-purpose runner, and a defensive standout, having been selected the Pepsi Cola Defensive Player of the Area. Gibson, who quarterbacked the Rams for the past three seasons, was also one of the team's leading running backs and defensive performers.

For your ad to be read, the publication that carries it must be read.

If you're advertising in a publication that is given away, you'll never be sure your ad message has the impact you paid for.

Measure the impact of a newspaper by paid circulation, and make sure it is audited. Third class, direct mail publications are not audited and therefore have no proven readership whatsoever.

The Republican, a member of the Audit Bureau of Circulations, has an audited circulation of 10,900, meaning there are approximately 30,000 people who read The Republican every week. That's proven readership. Not a single copy of The Republican is tossed into the garbage can when it is received each week, because people pay to receive it. The same cannot be claimed by shoppers and other third class mailings, many copies of which are never read and do indeed line the interiors of refuse cans all over the community.

Many persons also receive more than one copy of a particular shopper each week (we know of one person who receives four!), which also makes circulation figures inflated and misleading.

How many people pay for a newspaper is a sure way to determine its value to its readers, and a rather strong indicator of where you should spend your valuable ad dollars (unless you give away your product or services, too).

Local Elks Host Appalachian Ctr. Clients, Staff

The BPO #2481 Elks Club, Oakland, was the site for an appreciation dinner held on February 15 by the Elks Club Members for the clients and staff of the Appalachian Center. The Center, a day habilitation training program in Oakland, is celebrating its 10th year anniversary.

A spaghetti luncheon was provided to the 35 center clients in attendance (pictured above) in appreciation of them as people and the Center which provides their training. Exalted Ruler Bryan Thayer and member John Kurilla welcomed the Center participants, while clown, Gary Bray, created balloon animals, flowers, and fruits for the clients. Kitchen helpers were Tom Pratt, Mr. and Mrs. David Livengood, John Smith, Bob Bray and Madge Vance.

The luncheon included salad, garlic bread and beverage. The clients thanked their hosts with a hearty round of applause. Elks members indicated they wanted to repeat the occasion with a picnic this summer. The Elks were immediately challenged to a softball game at the picnic.

This appreciation dinner is the second dinner to which the Center staff and clients have been the special invited guests within the past two months. Prior to Christmas, the Eugene Matthews family held a Christmas luncheon at the Starlite Restaurant for the Center clients and the staff to thank everyone for the programs at the Center and the positive influence this had on Susan Matthews, their niece. Susan was surprised when presented with a corsage at the luncheon to celebrate her birthday.

Poinsettias on the table were given as door prizes by the Matthews family, as well as individual gifts which were given to each Center client who attended. Christmas songs were sung by all in the dining room which was decorated in Christmas decor. A ham dinner, salad, vegetables, beverage and dessert were served. Eugene Matthews was presented with a large thank-you card.

The Appalachian Center is operated by the Appalachian Parent Association, Inc. a local, private nonprofit group which operates the Appalachian Workshop and Country Oven Bakery, each celebrating five year anniversaries this year. This year has been designated by the Appalachian Parent Association, Inc., as their "Year of Appreciation" and many activities and events are planned to celebrate with and thank those persons who have helped to make their programs successful.

For more information about the Appalachian Parent Association, Inc., and its programs, persons may contact Charlotte Griffith, executive director, at 334-1322.

Something To Think About

R. Mark Durst

DIRECTOR

FACING UP TO FATAL ILLNESS

Any kind of death can have a profound impact on a family—but there are significant differences. In the case of sudden death by accident, or the death of someone young—particularly a child—it is a shattering, shocking experience. The family must come to grips with their unexpected loss in a very short amount of time.

On the other hand, when a family member is suffering from a long, fatal illness, there is stress of a different sort. There is suffering and the witnessing of suffering. There is time for the family to prepare for the loss, but psychological barriers to doing so.

Often, the patient knows that he or she is dying, but will not talk about it to protect the family, and vice versa. Much is lost by this. The individual loses the opportunity to share innermost thoughts; and the family misses the chance to express their good-byes, their love, and their sense of loss.

FSC To Host Regional Band

A total of 57 high school musicians representing 11 schools in the tri-state area have been accepted to perform with the 1985 Frostburg State College Tri-State Regional Honor Band.

The band, a newly organized event in this area, will perform in concert this Sunday, March 24, at 3 p.m. in FSC's Physical Education Center, under the direction of Dr. Robert H. Hearson, FSC Director of Bands.

This event, organized by Dr. Hearson and Mr. Ronald Horner, FSC percussion instructor, is intended to bring together many of the most talented instrumental musicians of western Maryland as well as those of closely neighboring counties in West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

Directors of bands representing the participating schools have been directly involved in the auditioning and rehearsal process which will culminate in the performance of the band. Honor Band participants include: Tracy Springman, Scheree Savage, David Benson, Brian Saulpaw, and Blair Stoltzfus, all of Northern High School, along with James Boord, director.

The concert is free of charge.

Good Firewood Must Be Aged

"Although the next wood burning season is, hopefully, another seven or eight months away it may not be too early to lay in your winter supply" says Lou Straub of the Maryland Department of Agriculture, Weights and Measures Office. "This is especially true if you want to be fully assured that the wood is well seasoned before burning. A minimum of six months is suggested for proper seasoning from the time wood is cut until it is burned. There is no better way to assure yourself of this quality than to personally supervise the aging process."

There is another possible advantage to early buying and that's price. Vendors may be willing to negotiate a better price during the off-season when business is slow and there is less demand on their time.

Buyers whose stove or fireplace requires a certain size (length and/or diameter), split or unsplit should discuss this with the vendor prior to purchase. The purchaser should request that such specification be printed on the delivery ticket, which Maryland law requires to accompany each sale. These tickets must be serially numbered and contain the vendor's name, address, signature or person determining the quantity of wood delivered and the license numbers and letters that identify the vehicle by which the wood is transported. If the deliveryman doesn't offer a ticket, buyers should ask for it, otherwise they may never be able to obtain satisfaction should questions arise concerning the sale once delivery is made.

"When buying firewood don't be misled by such terms as 'face cord' 'rack', 'pile', 'truckload,' or terms of similar import," Straub said. These are meaningless definitions, all of which are illegal under Maryland law."

The most widely recognized and generally used measurement for firewood is the "cord." A cord is precisely defined in the Maryland law as "the amount of wood which is contained in a space of 128 cubic feet, when the wood is ranked and well stowed. 'Ranked and well stowed' means when pices of wood are placed in a line or row, with individual pieces touching and parallel to each other and stacked in a compact manner." Cubic feet is calculated by multiplying the width of the stack by its height by its length.

In Maryland wood sold for use as fuel can only be advertised, offered for sale, and sold by measure using the term "cord", and fractional parts of a cord, except that, wood for use as fuel and offered for sale in package form will display a combination quantity in terms of weight and cubic feet to include fractions of cubic feet.

Questions or complaints relating to the purchase or sale of firewood should be directed to MDA's Weights and Measures Office at (301) 841-5790 in Annapolis.

AN ILL WINDE . . .

The Proverbs of John Heywood printed in 1546, is the earliest collection of English colloquial sayings. Here in addition to "an ill winde" we find such bits of wisdom as "I know on which side my bread is buttered" and "this hitteth the nail on the head."

Is there an ill wind—and does it blow in our land? A close friend worries about our lack of concern for religion. He believes that the religious education provided by our churches is essential to our moral and spiritual character as a nation. He's hitting the nail on the head.

But when the opportunity for religious education is neglected you have religious ignorance . . . "that bloweth no man to good."

In spiritual matters we need to know on which side our bread is buttered!

PHARMACY IS CHANGING

The man who owned his own store and was content to just make that pharmacy his livelihood is being replaced by a new breed of pharmacists. We are now more skilled at our jobs, more interested in your problems and more involved with the other health professionals in the community.

We are constantly learning about the community in which we practice. We are involved in drug education programs and are available for many other community projects. And, we do it not just for a living but because we take a great pride in our profession.

"A GREAT MANY PEOPLE ENTRUST US with their prescriptions, health needs and other pharmacy products. We consider this trust a privilege and a duty. May we be your personal family pharmacy?"

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE WITNESS
March 24, 1985

Background Scripture: John 18:1 through 19:6.

Devotional Reading: John 18:1-10.

John's account of Jesus' several appearances before Pontius Pilate is the story of an intimidated man—a man so intimidated that he could not bring himself to do what his conscience was telling him to do.

But the "intimidated man" is not Jesus. It is the formidable and powerful Pilate who is too fearful to exercise his power. Although Jesus is the one who is captive in chains, it is the Roman Governor who is the real captive. He knows what is right, but he cannot bring himself to do it.

A PLEA BARGAIN

Perhaps Pilate would remember and wonder until his dying day why Jesus had not sought to work out a compromise, to win what we call today a "plea bargain." All Jesus would have had to do would be to slightly modify his stand. When Pilate asked, "Are you the King of the Jews?" (18:33), why didn't Jesus seize this opportunity to say, "No, I have never made and am not now making that claim for myself!"?

But, instead of giving the direct answer that would have helped his case, Jesus replied with "Do you say this of your own accord, or did others say it to you about me?" (18:34). And, when Pilate asks again, Jesus still gives an answer that was less than satisfying: "My kingship is not of this world" (18:36). And a third time Pilate presses him, "So you are a king?" (18:37) and Jesus' response is even less direct: "You say that I am a king."

Pilate obviously knew that Jesus was innocent of the charges and sought to release him, but the crowd would have none of it: "Crucify him, crucify him" (19:6) So, Pilate made one more attempt to offer Jesus a respectable way out, but Jesus refused to answer the question as to his place of origin (Pilate would like to solve the problem of Jesus by sending him to some other authority.) Exasperated, Pilate demands: "Do you not know that I have power to release you and power to crucify you?" (19:11).

BORN FOR THIS

Jesus would not have had to seriously compromise himself in order to have gained his release. A few conciliatory words Pilate would probably have sufficed to get him off the hook.

Why didn't Jesus save himself at this point? Was it because he wanted to die, to assume the role of the martyr? No, I don't think either of those were his motivation. I think the key is to be found when he says, "For this I was born, and for this I have come into the world, to bear witness to the truth" (18:37).

He did not want to die, but even more than that he did not want to do anything at all to diminish his role as a witness to the saving love of God. And that is the kind of witness we all are called to be.

A quiz to test film a buff's Oscar IQ

By Marc Minnelli

Jack Lemmon

Joan Crawford is proud to have slept with him. He's 57 years old, 13 1/2 inches tall, weighs 6 3/4 pounds and is usually called by his first name. He's a colorful little chap, his sleek body coated with 10-karat gold. Some people use him as a doorstop; others value him as a family member. The destitute hock him as a last resort, pocketing the mere $100 or so the pawnbroker offers. He has been belittled, bemoaned and beloved. His name is Oscar, or to be formal, The Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences Academy Award.

On Monday, March 25, "The 57th Annual Academy Awards" will air, live from Los Angeles, on ABC. Jack Lemmon, a Best Actor Oscar winner for his performance in the 1973 film "Save the Tiger," will be the show's host. Before the envelopes are opened, we've come up with a teasing Oscar quiz, to test just how much you know about the coveted statuette. Good luck!

1.) Multi-Oscar-nominee Jack Lemmon won another Oscar in 1955. Name the role and film.

2.) Liza Minnelli's Best Actress Oscar acceptance speech (she won in 1972 for her role as Sally Bowles in "Cabaret") was considered by many to be an exercise in egomania. What did she say?

3.) What was the first musical to win the Best Picture Oscar?

4.) "The Wizard of Oz," "Of Mice and Men," "Wuthering Heights," "Dark Victory," "Goodbye, Mr. Chips" and "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington" — each one a masterpiece — were all nominated for Best Picture. Why did they lose?

5.) Which actress was asleep in Rome when she was announced as the winner of a Best Actress Oscar?

Answers: 1.) Ensign Pulver in "Mister Roberts" 2.) "I want to thank you for giving me this award. It's made me very happy." Miss Minnelli emphasized the words me, much to the annoyance of her Hollywood peers. 3.) "The Great Ziegfeld," 1936. 4.) BEHIND THE SCENES

Neil Tardio masters the art of commercials

By Marta Tarbell

Neil Tardio

Neil Tardio did not set out to direct TV commercials. "I was an art student in college," recalls the Bronx, N.Y. native, who attended the University of Oregon on a football scholarship. "But I'd always been a real movie lover. Elia Kazan was my idol — I still think 'On the Waterfront' is an incredible movie."

Tardio, whose direction has brought to life such memorable spots as "Waterfront" star Karl Malden's American Express commercials, Lee Iacocca's Chrysler's commercials and the Xerox commercials starring the little monk, would like to try his hand at Hollywood features next.

"I just finished another screenplay," says the 51-year-old father of four children, who lives in suburban Rye, N.Y. But even for someone who has scored several smash successes, that move is proving to be difficult. "A lot of people think a commercial director can't think beyond a minute," Tardio complains.

Directing television commercials is a highly sophisticated art, says Tardio. "You have to pay the highest level of attention to detail. You must have enormous discipline and be very well organized. It's very challenging to make a commercial work," he adds.

Tardio, who arrived on Madison Avenue in the late '50s, following a stint in Korea as a first lieutenant in the Army, takes pride in his reputation as "an actor's director." Though he has worked with such stars as Farrah Fawcett, Orson Welles, John Houseman, Jack Klugman and Frank Sinatra, Tardio is proudest of the performances he is able to elicit from non-professional actors.

"You really have to know how to approach people," he explains. "No matter what you say in advance, they're not used to being on the camera. Once they see the crew, the lights and the cameras, you have to be very strict with them, because all that can really shake somebody up. In the moment of truth," he adds with a grin, "the director must prevail."

Denise (Lisa Bonet) teaches her father Cliff (Bill Cosby) a lesson when she explains the reasons she wants to attend an Ivy League school in the episode of "The Cosby Show" airing Thursday, March 28 on NBC.

Tracey Ross steps ahead and keeps her shape

By Renee Ross

Tracey Ross

Tracey Ross knows that nothing — whether it's a healthy body or a satisfying career — comes without hard work. "I believe that undeserved rewards can make you nuts," says Miss Ross, a $120,000 winner on the syndicated TV talent showcase "Star Search." "I've always earned my way in life."

Though Miss Ross was already a successful model when her "Star Search" fans cheered her to victory in the series' 1984 TV Spokesmodel category, her childhood roots trace back to a gritty neighborhood in Brooklyn, N.Y.

Thanks to talent and determination, however, Miss Ross's career is going strong. Audiences recently saw her as Eddie Murphy's lusty girlfriend in the film "Best Defense." She also appeared as a showgirl in Francis Coppola's "The Cotton Club."

Miss Ross, 25, recalls the days when she didn't boast great looks. "At 11 or 12, I had a round face and pot belly from eating too much. I was always conscious of being called chubby," remembers Miss Ross, who admits she loves junk food. "I've eaten it ever since I was little. I would earn a quarter doing errands, then run to the store and buy as much junk food as I could with the money.

"Because of my weight problem, I started dieting at an early age. Now it's just a way of life," laughs Miss Ross, who maintains her 5-foot-8 frame at a trim 120 pounds. "The secret seems to be aware of exactly what you have to do to make up for it. When I eat cookies or cake, I don't feel guilty because I know I'll exercise later. I know that has to be the next step taken."

Tap, jazz and ballet lessons, along with gymnastic classes, help compensate for her sweet tooth. "I also walk a lot when I'm in New York City. And if I can't get out to exercise, I'll do Jane Fonda's exercise tape."

Miss Ross says her level-headed attitude keeps her from being too dazzled by success. "I work hard and like anyone else, I sometimes get frustrated. But I keep working, then, all of a sudden, I notice I've taken another step ahead. I'm always at a place in my life where I can handle success. That keeps me from getting too stressful."

Making eye contact with President Reagan

By Cindy Adams

NEW YORK — In my quest to bring you the latest up-to-date show-biz chatter, I offer a 1968 recollection from veteran gossip columnist Sheilah Graham's upcoming tome, "Confessions of a Hollywood Columnist."

"Ronald Reagan wears contact lenses which give his eyes an extra sparkle. He and wife Nancy Reagan were lunching at Sardi's, and I was startled when, after the main course, Ronnie took out his contacts, put them in his mouth, sucked on them for a few minutes and then put them back in his eyes before dessert."

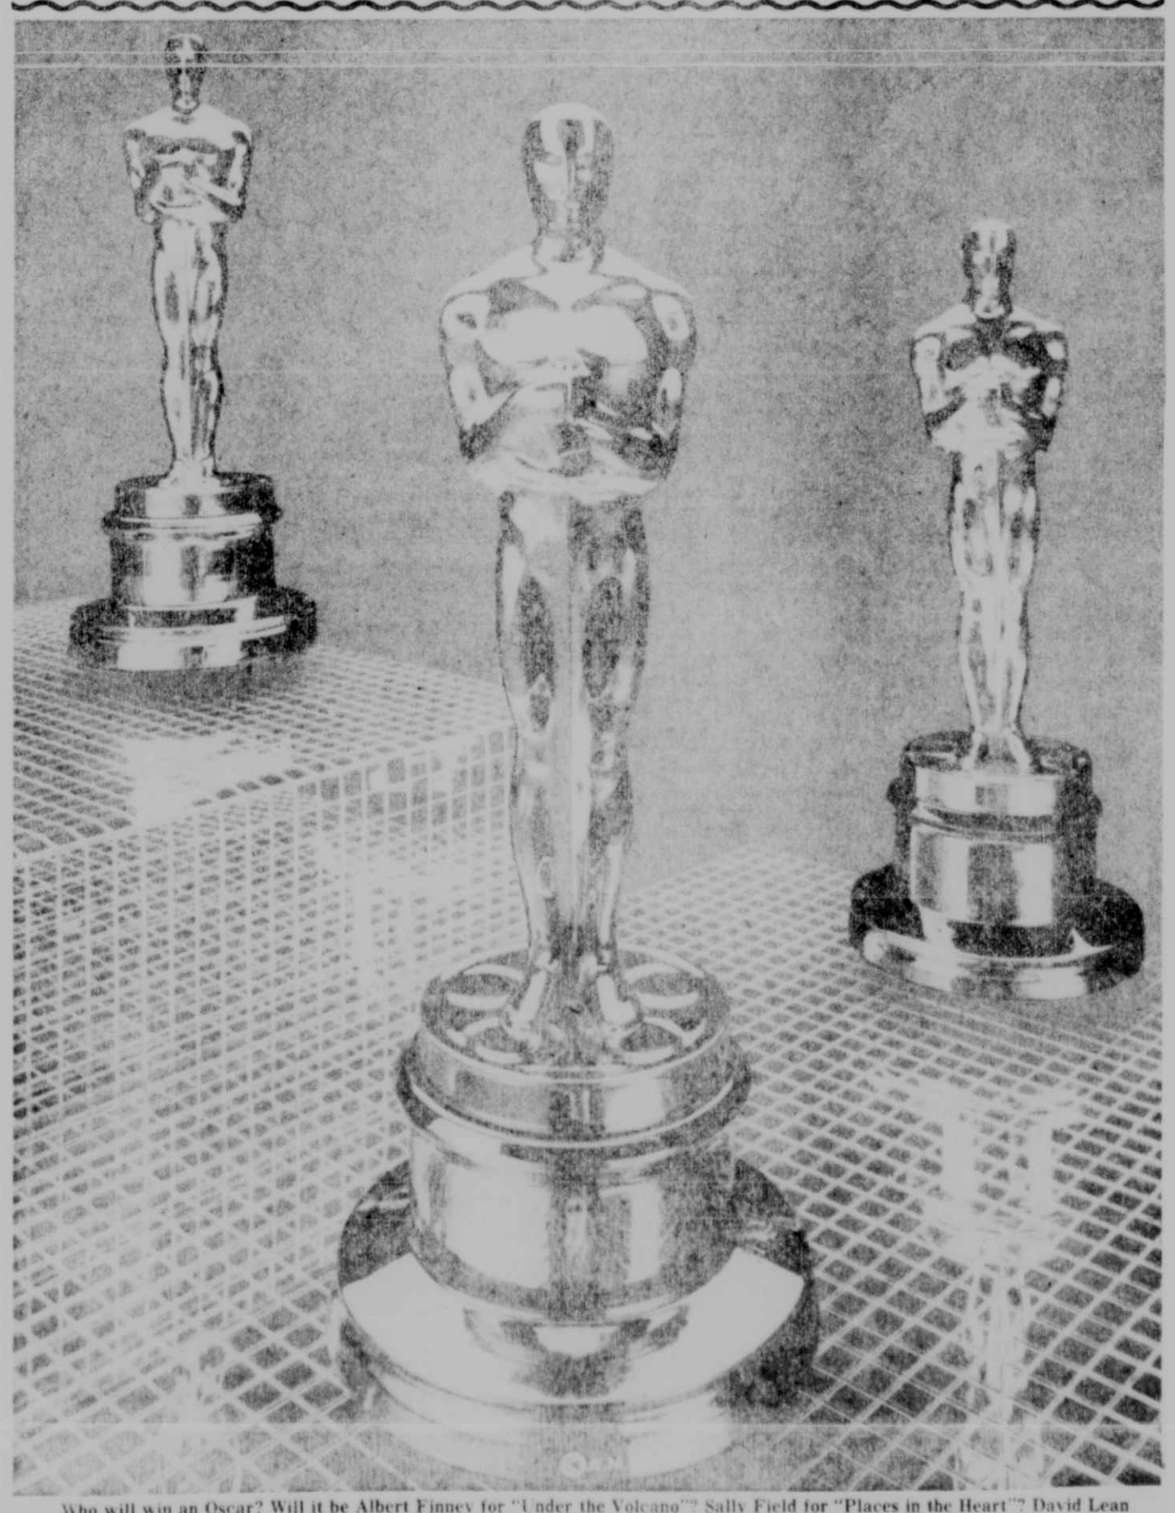

Vintage Sheilah Graham

Sheilah, dear readers, sees all. And forgets nothing.

That sizzling androgynous sexpot Grace Jones will take it off... take it all off...when she poses for Playboy's July issue. It'll be a 10-page spread. ... It was a treat watching Treat Williams and Swoosie Kurtz watching the new Broadway play "Pack of Lies." In the darkness of the theater, they were huddlin' and cuddlin'. It was almost as riveting as the play. And that's no pack of lies.

Shaun Cassidy will soon make his mama Shirley Jones a grandmama — again. ... Doc Severinsen's investing his "Tonight Show" hay in racehorses. He doesn't bet on them; he raises them. While Doc is raising, son Al Severinsen is training them. ... Cliff Robertson secured permission from Chinese and Nepalese officials to pilot his glider over Mt. Everest in January. How's that for a Cliffhanger? ... Drew Barrymore is one movie star who isn't lying about her age. She'll be 11 next February. I asked her what she wants. She wrapped her new black seal coat around her body and said, "I want a Barbie Doll — and a car." That kid's got one foot in "Sesame Street" and one foot in "Dynasty."

Who will win an Oscar? Will it be Albert Finney for "Under the Volcano"? Sally Field for "Places in the Heart"? David Lean for "A Passage to India"? Envelopes will be opened and Oscars presented on "The 57th Annual Academy Awards Presentation," airing Monday, March 25 on ABC.

TUESDAY

Both Greta Garbo and Viven Leigh have played Anna Karenina. Now it's Jacqueline Bisset's turn. The actress stars with Christopher Reeve in "Anna Karenina," an adaptation of Tolstoy's epic novel airing Tuesday, March 26 on CBS.

ASK ME ABOUT TV

By Val Carew

Are "Newhart" star Julia Duffy and "Dallas" star Patrick Duffy related? — P.T., Jamestown, N.Y.

Patrick Duffy

Except for the fact that they share the same last name and are both in show business, the Duffys are not related. Miss Duffy is from Minneapolis, and she began studying drama when she was 10. The actress won her first television audition — the role of Jerry on the CBS soap "Love of Life" — and she portrayed the role for six months. She later starred as Penny on NBC's "The Doctors." Patrick Duffy was born in Townsend, Mont. on St. Patrick's Day. Duffy's interest in acting began when he was in high school. He and his wife, Carlyn, live in Los Angeles with their two children. Miss Duffy married actor-producer Jerry Lacy last June. The couple live in Tarzana, Calif.

Can you tell me Tom Selleck's birthday? I'd like to send that hunk a gift that I think he might wear on the show, but I don't want to send it to him in care of CBS in Los Angeles. He may never get it. Help! — D.B., Sylacauga, Ala.

Selleck celebrated his 40th birthday on Jan. 29, so you'll have to wait until next year to send him your gift. But then again, why not send it for Easter? Write to the actor c/o "Magnum, P.I.," Universal Studios, 510 18th St., Honolulu, Hawaii 96816.

I enjoy watching reruns of "Rawhide." Whatever happened to Eric Fleming, the actor who played Gil Favor? — A.D., Chinook, Mont.

Shortly after "Rawhide" went off the air in 1966, Fleming was filming a river scene in South America for a movie in which he was appearing. There was an accident on the set, and Fleming drowned.

SOAP OPERA WEEK

Soap fan in a lather over actress mix-up

By Kimberly Redmond

I'm positive that Arleen Sorkin, the actress who portrays Calliope Jones on "Days of Our Lives" is the same actress who portrayed the nurse that Peter Love recently fell in love with on "Another World." My sister says I'm wrong. How can I be? Can you help? — K.W., Willingboro, N.J.

Sorry to burst your soap bubble, K.W., but Miss Sorkin has never appeared on the NBC soap "Another World." The actress who played nurse Emily Benson — the character to whom you're referring — was portrayed by Dianne Neil. Miss Neil and Miss Sorkin look somewhat alike.

Dianne Neil

My friends tell me that Donna Mills, who plays Abby on "Knots Landing," used to appear on a soap opera. Is this true? What was the name of the soap and her character? — S.V., Shelly, N.C.

Miss Mills appeared as the first Laura Donnelly Elliott on "Love is a Many Splendored Thing," which premiered in 1967 and went off the air in 1973. David Birney was also on the CBS soap.

Donna Mills

I was a fan of Marie Cheatham, the actress who portrayed, until last fall, Stephanie Wyatt on "Search for Tomorrow." I wonder if you could tell me what's happened to her since she left the CBS soap. — M.B., Clarksburg, Mo.

Miss Cheatham, after an on-again, off-again romance and engagement, recently married businessman Patrick Searcy, who has three sons from a previous marriage. The wedding ceremony was done with a Mexican motif, and the bride wore an antique French lace gown. Miss Cheatham has also been busy professionally. She's produced a documentary film about her home state of Oklahoma.

Actress feels 'Boss' validates her career

By Gregory Garver

Judith Light

HOLLYWOOD — Of all the new shows that premiered last fall, "Who's the Boss?" was given only an outside chance to survive. But what a difference six months can make. In a recent Nielsen report, "Who's the Boss?" ranked seventh out of all shows on the air. One reason the sitcom is working, says Judith Light, who stars as Angela Bowers on the ABC show, is because of the chemistry between her and her co-star, Tony Danza.

Danza portrays Tony Micelli, the show's streetwise ex-athlete who turns housekeeper for his employer, played by Miss Light. In real life, Danza was an established middleweight boxer before switching to acting; Miss Light had a proper upbringing, including an education at St. Mary's Hall, a private girls' high school.

"But both Tony and I felt the good chemistry," she recalls, "as soon as we started reading together. It's something that isn't easy to explain, but wonderful when it happens."

For the actress, the success of "Who's the Boss?" is her personal vindication and validation. She starred as Karen Wolek on the ABC soap "One Life to Life" for five years, winning, among other awards, two Emmys.

"I felt I had had enough already," Miss Light says. "It had been a good and nice part — and an emotional one since I got to cry every day — and I had worked with fine people. I also developed tremendous respect for soap opera actors. It's a miracle that they do what they do every day. But I," she adds, "wanted to do more."

She was encouraged to do more by actor Robert Desiderio. He played the actor she ran away with on the show, and Desiderio and Miss Light also ran away in real life.

They ran to Hollywood in 1983, and were married on New Year's Day 1985. "We talked it over," she says, "and decided to leave the soap together."

And though Miss Light won two parts soon after she arrived in California, she didn't work again for six months. She was discouraged, but she never considered going back East. She had fallen in love with Los Angeles, she says, and with the laid-back working situation the city — and the sitcom — offer.

"MARCH FOR ART" is the national slogan being used to observe and promote public awareness of the importance of art for youth. Throughout the month of March, groups across the nation are sponsoring activities to show the importance of art, its influence in human existence and the artistic talents and endeavors of youth. Mrs. Sonia Pratt, Southern High School art teacher, has coordinated the March For Art observance in Garrett County. The schools are celebrating Youth Art Month with art displays in each school, and all Garrett County schools have kindergarten through twelfth grade students' art work represented in displays in five Oakland stores and the Ruth Enlow Library. Among the works on display at the library are this Negative Design Project (above) done in ink by Jodi Rush, a 17 year old student of Mrs. Maggie Pratt at Northern High School; the oil painting pictured above right titled "Sunset Flight" by Todd Arbogast, an eighth grade art student of Mrs. Jean Noel at Bloomington School; and pictured below, a tempre painting by Shannon Livengood, age 15, a student of Mrs. Linda Reeves at Southern High School.

Human Resources Seeks Info From State Employees

A questionnaire, developed by the Maryland Commission for Women in cooperation with the State Department of Personnel, has been distributed to all State employees in an effort to gather information on the impact of State personnel policies on State employees and their families. Through the questionnaire, State employees are being asked for their help in determining which existing policies make it more difficult, or easier, for them to cope with jobs and family responsibilities.

In making an announcement about the survey, Governor Harry Hughes noted that "The composition of the workforce has changed over the past several decades. Twenty-five years ago, most workers did not have a major responsibility for the care of children or dependent adults. Most workers were husbands with wives at home who handled that responsibility. Today's worker is likely to be a single parent, a father who is more involved in parenting, or a member of a two-career household that shares family responsibilities equally with his or her spouse. As an employer, the State of Maryland recognizes that many of its employees are juggling both work and family responsibilities and we want to find out what can be done to make that situation easier to handle."

The questionnaire will be the first step in assessing the needs of State employees with regard to a range of policies—part-time employment, job sharing, flexitime, child care and leave policies—and how the State of Maryland might adjust its policies to meet their needs.

The survey results are expected to be available by Summer 1985. For further information persons may contact: Martha Clark McIntyre, Maryland Commission for Women (301) 383-5608.

January Motor Fuel Use Up

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein says, despite the cold weather many of us remember from January, 1985, Marylanders used more motor fuel than in any January on record.

Motor fuel consumption totaled 175,272,277 gallons, up 6.6% from the 164,415,202 gallons sold during January, 1984.

"The January sales produced February, 1985, motor fuel tax revenue of $24,167,868, a 6.4% increase over the $22,718,115 collected during February, 1985," Goldstein said.

For the first eight months of Fiscal Year 1985, motor fuel tax revenue totals $211,484,329, a 3.4% gain over the same period of Fiscal Year 1984.

"Sales of diesel fuel continue to grow at an above average rate," Goldstein said. "Although diesel fuel accounts for only 9% of the total motor fuel sold at this point in the fiscal year, its sales are running about 9.4% ahead of this time last year."

Federal Asbestos Grants Available

The Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene is processing applications for federal financial assistance under the Asbestos School Hazard Abatement Act of 1984, according to Max Eisenberg, Ph.D., the Department's Director of Science and Environmental Health. The applications will be processed in concert with the Maryland Department of Education.

This Act provides for loans or grants for the abatement of asbestos containing materials in school buildings. Public and private school systems are eligible for $50 million appropriated nationwide in the first increment of funding. Future appropriations under this Act are not guaranteed.

Applications from school systems will be placed on a statewide priority list based on the nature and magnitude of the existing or potential exposure to asbestos materials. The applications and priority list must be forwarded to the U.S. Environmental Protecion Agency (EPA) by March 15, 1985. EPA will award loans or grants on a school by school basis to local school systems by June 6, 1985. Awards will be made to those projects representing the most serious asbestos hazards and the greatest financial need, as determined by EPA.

For further information about this program, persons may contact Dr. Katherine Farrell of the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene at (301) 383-2759 or Ms. Pauline Levine, Asbestos Coordinator, EPA Region III, at (215) 597-9859.

SPRING FASHION TIPS

Bring last year's spring and summer wardrobe into 1985 with flair using these tips:

*Add a jacket. Over-sized ones are one of the main looks for the season. Most of them are easy to make, since most of them are unlined and require very little fitting. Update last year's dresses and separates with this year's jacket!

*Include the large oversized shirt. Wear it loose over many kinds of clothes. The long shirttails reach down to thigh-length.

*Update shirts by giving them rolled up and pushed up sleeves. Cut off the bands from sleeves that are gathered into them. Start at the underarm to take in sleeve seams, gradually to the bottom. Trim seams to 5/8" from stitching. Press open, machine-stitch narrow hems at the bottom edge. Roll or push up!

*Add a dropped shoulder top to your wardrobe since the majority of shoulder seams will fall down over the shoulders into loose armholes.

*A wide variety of design and line emphasis at the shoulder and neckline will be seen in the form of cowls, buttoned shoulder seams, high oval neckline, V's, and long low collars.

*Skirt lengths can be mini, mid–calf or longer–a big choice!

*Wear your flatter shoes with longer shirts and your higher shoes with shorter skirts.

*Accessorize your wardrobe with large beads and colored baubles plus exaggerated and dangling earrings for the fashionable look!

FOOD NOTES

Fish is a good, low calorie way to get protein, plus the minerals, magnesium, calcium, potassium and copper. An example of this is: a 3½ ounce serving of Haddock contains a comparable amount of protein but has 189 fewer calories than the same size serving of regular ground beef. Here's a Haddock recipe I think you'll enjoy:

HADDOCK IN LEMON SAUCE

2 pounds frozen Haddock or Cod fillets
½ cup lemon juice
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons grated onion
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
Paprika

Thaw frozen fillets. Arrange fish in a single layer in heat-proof platter or shallow baking pan. In small saucepan combine lemon juice, butter, onion, brown sugar, dry mustard, salt and pepper. Heat, stirring till blended. Pour sauce over fish. Preheat broiler. Broil fish slowly, about four inches from the flame, basting two or three times with sauce until it is browned and will flake when tested with fork. Sprinkle with paprika after final basting. Makes six servings.

NOTE: There is enough liquid in the sauce to keep the temperature below a spattering point. This much liquid keeps the fish moist and tender while it broils to a golden crust.

Tax Offices To Be Open Maryland Day

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced that all 15 Maryland income tax offices will remain open on Monday, March 25, to offer free state taxpayer assistance while most other state offices will be closed in observance of Maryland Day. The hours are 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m.

The comptroller reminded taxpayers that state tax experts will be happy to complete your state return free of charge, as long as you bring a completed copy of your federal return and all W-2 statements.

The addresses and phone numbers of all the state income tax offices are listed on the back of the state tax packet and in most local telephone directories.

Alcohol, Tobacco Taxes Reflecting National Trends

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced that alcohol and tobacco tax revenue for the month of February, 1985, totaled $6,344,585, down about one percent from the $6,411,784 collected for the same month a year ago.

"These revenues are reacting according to national trends, especially the distilled spirits and tobacco tax sources," Goldstein said. "The revenues are on target with estimates for this point in the fiscal year."

For the month of February, 1985, distilled spirits tax revenue posted a decline of 2.6%, while tobacco tax receipts dropped 1.8%. Wine and beer tax revenues grew by 6.4% and 3.5%, respectively, when compared with February, 1984.

Total alcohol and tobacco tax revenue for the first eight months of Fiscal Yedar 1985 amounted to $57,678,363, just slightly above the $57,524,791 collected during the identical period of the previous fiscal year.

"For the fiscal year to date, wine tax revenue is up nearly 14%, largely reflecting newly promoted wine products, Goldstein said.

For the seven month period of the current fiscal year, tobacco tax receipts are up 1.2%, while distilled spirits and beer tax collections declined 1.5% and 5.6% respectively.

Low-Interest Mortgage Program Set To Re-Open

Governor Harry Hughes announced last week that the state's Mortgage Purchase Program, which offers low-interest mortgage loans to qualified borrowers, will reopen next month.

The Maryland Department of Economic and Community Development (DECD) will make available in April nearly $100 million in low-interest mortgage loans. The 30-year, fixed-rate mortgages will be loaned to eligible limited-income borrowers by DECD's Community Development Administration (CDA), the state's housing finance agency.

To qualify for the reduced-interest-rate mortgages, borrowers must be first-time homebuyers. Family income must be less than $33,000 per year; the income of single individuals cannot exceed $28,000 per year.

In an effort to make housing more affordable for people with incomes below $20,000 per year, a unique dual interest rate system has been established. Borrowers with annual incomes of less than $20,000 will pay 9 5/8 percent interest; those with incomes above $20,000 per year will pay 10 3/8 percent interest.

To encourage people with limited incomes to apply for the low-interest mortgages, participating lenders will be required to set aside 35 percent of their mortgage allocations for borrowers with incomes of less than $20,000 per year.

"We have made major changes in the Mortgage Purchase Program in order to make the dream of homeownership a reality for people who otherwise could not afford to own a home," said Governor Hughes.

"We are announcing this program a month early to give people the chance to start looking for a home," he added. "People will have a greater chance of participating in the program if they have a contract on a home ready when the mortgage money becomes available on April 22."

When the funds become available on April 22, people interested in obtaining a loan should apply directly to the participating lending institutions. Information on participating lenders will be released on April 18.

Newly constructed or existing single-family residences, including townhouses, detatched or semi-detatched homes and condominiums, are eligible for financing. Modular homes qualify for financing if they carry the State seal of approval for code compliance.

The maximum purchase price for Garrett County is $66,000.

Since its inception in 1980, the Mortgage Purchase Program has provided more than 5,300 mortgage loans to Maryland residents, for a total of $223.3 million in mortgage commitments.

For further information, persons may contact CDA's Single-Family Programs office at (301) 269-3524.

Humanities Council Seeking Members

The Maryland Humanities Council is seeking to fill a limited number of membership vacancies. Applications are invited from residents throughout the state of Maryland who by reason of their achievement, scholarship, and creativity in the humanities, or their knowledge of community and state interests, are particularly qualified to serve. Members spend many hours reviewing and evaluating applications for funding.

The Council seeks members from all areas of the state, especially from outside of Baltimore City and its suburbs, and those in corporations and cultural institutions.

The Maryland Humanities Council, a private, nonprofit, tax-exempt affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities, annually awards approximately $400,000 for public programs, including lectures, seminars, symposia, exhibitions, and films in the various humanities disciplines.

The deadline for applications is May 31, 1985. Interested Marylanders should send a resume with a cover letter, explaining their reasons for wishing to serve on the Council to: Dr. Carl Bode, Chairman, Maryland Humanities Council, 516 N. Charles Street, Suite 305, Baltimore, Maryland 21201.

EXAMINE PRICE-VALUE RATIO

Many people who are buying a house automatically tend to relate house price to house value. Now be very careful about this relationship. Price and value are not necessarily the same thing. While price is a specific thing, value can mean different things to different people.

Now that you have settled on the price you can afford, or are willing to pay for a house, get down to the even more difficult task of deciding what you want your home to offer. When you consider things like proximity to transit, access to schools and shopping, project yourself several years hence toward possible family growth or job changes and other factors. In addition to all the usual physical considerations such as construction quality, lot size, condition of fixtures, review your own personal needs. Do you like to have parties? Perhaps you need a finished recreation room. Do you use a typewriter at odd hours? Consider the location of your study. Value is more than just a financial matter.

RECEIVE PROMOTIONS — Four members of Company C, 121st Engineering Battalion, Maryland Army National Guard, pictured above, were promoted to the NCO grade of sergeant during a weekend training session March 9-10. All four attended the Primary NCO Leadership Course at Fort Indiantown Gap, Pa., and met the qualifications set by a promotion board at Battalion Headquarters in Ellicott City. They have all served in leadership positions during the past year. They are, left to right, David H. Athey, John A. Willis, Ezra D. Conklyn, and Michael L. Sisler, all of the Oakland area. Recent enlistees of Company C are pictured below. They are Lawrence E. Hinebaugh, left, and Rodney A. Sweitzer. Hinebaugh, son of Jack E. and Lula B. Hinebaugh, Deer Park, is a senior at Southern High School. Sweitzer, a 1984 graduate of Southern, is the son of Rodney W. and Glenna M. Sweitzer, Swanton. Both enlisted under the high school bonus program and will take basic and advanced individual training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo. Photos by Warren F. Weeks, Unit Information Specialist.

Mathias Deplores Cost Of Mailings

Declaring that he would "have to think a long, long time to come up with a more embarrassing example of the waste of taxpayers' money," Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. (R-Md.) urged his colleagues last week to severely restrict the amount of unsolicited mass mailings they send out.

Mathias, chairman of the Senate Committee on Rules and Administration, noted that in 1984 Congressional mailing costs totalled $111 million. He said that by 1986 mailing costs for the House and Senate "will be more than triple what they were in 1979 ($43 million), just seven years ago. That's an increase of $101 million dollars despite the fact that we now use the much cheaper third-rate class bulk sort and postal patron rates instead of first class," he added.

He noted that the allotment rate of one sheet per voting age person has been raised to one and one-third sheets per person in each senator's state. "No senator, however, receives fewer than 1.2 million sheets per year," he pointed out. He said that "if each of these sheets becomes a newsletter, additional postage will top $9 million, even if the lowest possible postage rate is used."

In listing the amount of mass mailings by individual senators, Mathias pointed out the wide variation among his colleagues. "Twelve senators were responsible for 50 percent of the cost, with one senator alone accounting for over 10 percent," he said. "Eight senators incurred no mailing costs whatever, and two senators had costs of less than $1,000 each for the entire year.

"You would expect the volume of mail to correspond with state size," he added, "but there are notable exceptions. For example, one of the eight senators with no costs at all is from a state that ranks in the top ten in population, and two senators among the 12 largest mailers are from states that rank between 25th and 30th in population size. Further, six senators from the six most populous states ranked 16th, 20th, 29th, 72nd, 89th and 95th in cost."

Mathias also criticized the cost per person of the mass mailings. "The ratios range from a high of $630 per 1,000 persons to, of course, zero for the eight senators with no mail cost at all." He said that the largest single quarterly cost was $1.5 million and was for the same senator with the largest total cost—$3.8 million. Mathias pointed out that $3.8 million represents "the total income tax payments of 2,188 families of four earning $20,000 per year."

In urging his colleagues to reduce their number of mass mailings, Mathias asked them to consider "a very basic question: Why should any mail come out of a senator's office except in reply to a constituent's question or request?"

In concluding his remarks on the Senate floor, Mathias said, "We should not forget that economy should begin at home. Here is certainly an area where millions of dollars could be saved. Each time American citizens receive unsolicited congressional mail, they should be on notice that it is costing them money and increasing the national deficit."

Garrett County Roads Crews Endure, Hopeful That The Worst Is Over

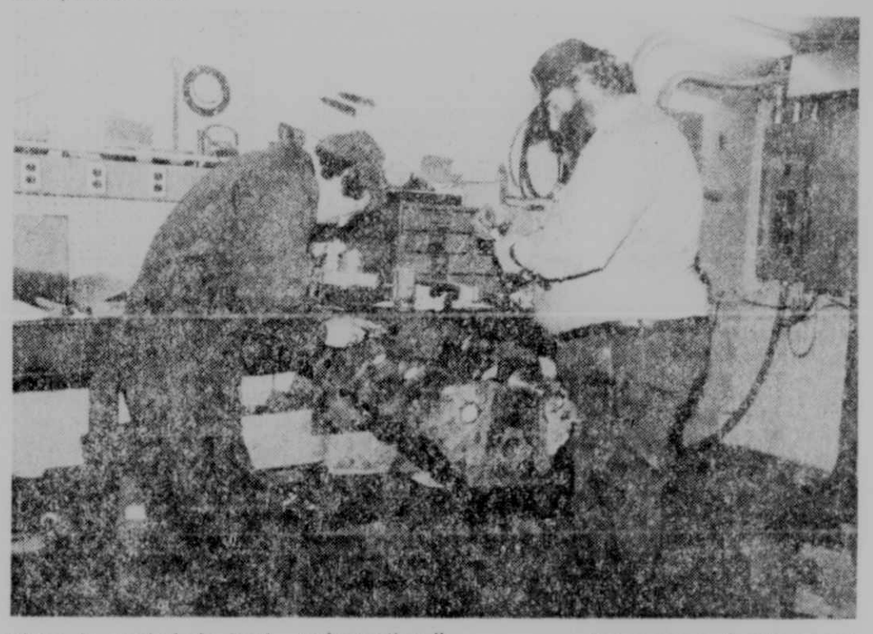

THEN AND NOW — It seemed like a never-ending battle with the snows of January. The Garrett County Roads Department crews manned the plows 12 hours a day, seven days a week during the huge storm to keep the county open, as shown in the photo above. Curt Nugent, Danny Upole, and Harold Maust, shown below, give us the promise of spring as they repair fences on the Spear Road. Unfortunately, some damage does occur during winter plowing operations, but as soon as the weather is fit, the men are out in full force for fix-up and clean-up detail.

WESLEY DURST, TRUCK DRIVER, from the Grantsville garage, shown above, says he likes the new trucks and finds them easy to operate, but the men must still make repairs to the older trucks they use for backup as John Ross and Jim Savage, both truck drivers from the Central garage, diligently work on an old transmission to give it new life. Parts foreman, Mike Phillipi, shown far right, is able to supply the men with needed parts which saves a lot of running time for Garrett County Roads crews.

Editor's note: The following is the first of a two-part feature on the men who worked to keep the roads open this winter in Garrett County. Today's feature deals with the Garrett County Roads Department. The second part will appear in next week's edition and will cover the State Highway Administration road crews.

by Pam Ashby

Not much sleep, long hours, diminished supplies, over budget, cooperation, pride of accomplishment, newer, bigger equipment, and hopeful that the worst is over are just a few ways to describe the hard, fast winter as seen through the eyes of the Garrett County Roads Department crews.

Roads Administrator Paul R. Shockey said, "There were moments we thought the snow would never end. Normally, during the winter, we get a big storm and then a break before the next one hits, but January was just one long storm."

Cooperation

Shockey couldn't praise his crews enough for their dedication. "The men worked 12 hour shifts, seven days a week, and I heard no complaints from them," he said.

The administrator also gave much credit to his area supervisors, local police, Garrett County Emergency Management, the Garrett County Board of Education, as well as the general public for being so cooperative through it all.

Garrett County Airport and Garrett Community College officials highly praised the department for keeping them operational during the worst of the storms.

Statistics

Due to the 12% increase in fuel consumption so far this winter, the huge amount of abrasives used and the crews overtime hours, the department is $90,000 over budget. According to the Garrett County Commissioners, though, that is not all that alarming. When a winter is particularly hard, summer operations have to be curtailed and vice versa. It usually balances out in the long run.

The department began the winter with 34,000 tons of ashes, which is more than needed for a normal winter, but, thus far, crews have used 10,000 more tons than expected. During the mild weather now, the roads crews are traveling to Albright, W. Va. and Masontown, W. Va. to replenish the supply of ashes.

Divisions

The Garrett County Roads Department consists of three areas. The Oakland garage covers the southern end of the county with administrative offices being located there. The central garage, located in Accident, serves the central part of the county. The northern end of the county is served by the Grantsville garage.

Each garage has an area supervisor at the helm, who keeps in close touch with the administrator. County area supervisors include: Leo Miller, Grantsville; Joey DeWitt, Central; and Butch Smith, Oakland.

Shockey said his supervisors "did a super job this winter overseeing road maintenance and operations."

The area supervisors normally meet with the administrator on a weekly basis, but those meetings were sometimes cancelled during the heart of the bad storms so the men could tend to the business at hand. Communications at those times were handled by radio and telephone.

The average Garrett County citizen would probably be amazed at the versatility of the roads department employees. One employee from the Grantsville garage jokingly said, "Yes, we're universal men."

Indeed they are. It is not uncommon in the framework of the department to find a mechanic who is also a backhoe operator, or a truck driver who is a proficient body man or electrician. Garrett County certainly gets its money's worth from the roads department employees who do two or three jobs exceptionally well, resulting in a substantial savings for the county.

Administrative Changes

Administrator Shockey said he received quite an education during his first winter with the department. Battling some 100 inches of blowing snow in less than a month was quite a learning experience for the new administrator but he said it gave him insight on improved methods of tackling the winter problems.

Changes within the department have been taking place over the past few months beginning with the appointment of Alan Lewis to the post of administrative assistant. Since his appointment, Lewis has been involved with the Round Glade Landfill where he spends most of his time since the state has put so many demands on the operation of the landfill.

Roads officials are hopeful that sometime in the near future the landfill will be a separate agency.

The department has also recently joined the computer world. Rick Skeweris is in charge of computer operations, using the IBM computer primarily for accounts payable, although he says the possibilities with it are endless.

Shockey has an idea in the works now that would give a read out on exactly where his men are located during winter storms which would greatly improve communications with emergency agencies.

Another new addition to the department is the creation of the traffic and safety division, with Terry Spear recently being hired as the coordinator. Among Spear's new responsibilities are doing the legwork in obtaining Federal Grants and compiling data for traffic safety reports to complete workmen's compensation and liability insurance forms. He is also in charge of traffic signs for the department. He said $16,000 a year is spent replacing road signs damaged by vandals or accidents.

Barbara Dintaman has also been hired as a data entry clerk to aid financial officer Harold Fike. Joyce Skidmore remains a permanent fixture around the office as the indispensible secretary.

Shockey said one may be led to believe that additions to the administration would lead to higher operating costs, but actually there was a substantial savings in the department through the reorganization.

Parts Department

County residents might also be surprised to find that each garage has an impressive parts department which greatly aids mechanics, welders, and body men. Having a parts room saves the men a lot of running time.

Although there are three men assigned to those departments, they are not full-time jobs. In Oakland, "Fuzz" Shaffer not only heads the parts department, he is also a purchasing agent. Mike Phillipi mans the parts department at the central garage as well as being a mechanic. Parts man, shop foreman and furnace tender are all titles attributed to Jim Fadely at the Grantsville garage. Jim's co-workers say he is really money conscious because he saves the ashes from the furnace to use on the roads in the winter.

New Trucks

The truck drivers at the roads department were impressed with the new trucks and found them easy to operate. There were only a few problems with the trucks this winter but the Mack Corporation was swift with supplying the needed parts under the full-maintenance agreement they have with the department.

It is interesting to note that each truck driver is responsible for routine maintenance on his assigned vehicle and with the aid of the garage mechanics, welders, and body men, the trucks are kept in mint condition.

Due to the size of the new trucks, some scratches were acquired during the winter, but apt body men at each garage have made repairs and the trucks look brand new once again.

THE TIRE MUST COME OFF so Fred Bowser, shop foreman, and Joe Sweitzer, mechanic, from the Oakland garage, can repair the brakes on the payloader shown above. In the photo below, Fred demonstrates the good working condition of the payloader as he scoops cinders to load on the Garrett County Roads Department trucks, which have to be ready to roll at a moment's notice. After all, it is not uncommon to have a snowstorm in late March or early April in Garrett County.

A Job Well Done

One could write a book on all the operations and accomplishments of the Garrett County Roads Department employees who worked so diligently this winter to get the county back on its feet.

Although some people missed getting their hair done, were late for work, or even missed a day or two of work (one woman even requested that Area Supervisor Leo Miller should make the wind stop blowing so they could keep her road open), the concensus is that Garrett County didn't buckle under the demands of Old Man Winter for very long.

Thanks guys, for being on those trucks 12 hours a day, seven days a week during weather that wasn't fit for man or beast.

BPW Members Hear Program On Computers

"Computer Literacy" as explained by Marci McClive and Jeri Swartzentruber was the topic of the March 14 meeting of the Garrett County Business and Professional Women's Club. Twenty-one members and guests were present at Will O' the Wisp, Deep Creek Lake, for the dinner and the business session as well as the special program which explained the various uses for computers, from games to graphics and music.

President Phyllis Buckel reminded all chairpersons that annual reports are due to the club and at the state level during April. At the April 11 meeting, the club will vote on a slate of officers selected by Pat Vetter and committee, and will choose delegates to the state convention to be held at the Baltimore Hyatt Regency May 9 through 12.

Local chairmen were reminded also of a board meeting March 25 at 7:30 p.m. in Room LC 155 of Garrett Community College.

Barbara Flinn reported that so far $67.50 has been donated for a dozen Candystriper uniforms for young volunteers at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. All club members were given tickets to sell on either a handmade knitted afghan, donated by Wilma Calhoun, or a walnut and cherry magazine rack made by Art Calhoun. That drawing will he held May 16 to help benefit club projects. The winner will have first choice of the two prizes, with a second name drawn for the other prize, according to Bea Crosco, ways and means chairman.

The club's May meeting has been changed to May 2 to eliminate conflict with the state convention in Baltimore.

Nine club members assisted John Kurilla and James Matthews at a games party March 15 at the Oakland fire hall, with the club realizing approximately $300 from the evening's entertainment.

Anyone with an interest in joining the Garrett County BPW, which has as its goal elevation of the standards for women in business and the professions may contact Pet Vetter, membership chairman, at 334-9213 prior to April 8. Membership is open to any working woman who wishes to expand her knowledge regarding women and the workplace.

Additional PEP Workshops Set For Dairy Farmers

A winter snowstorm cancellation and high interest from dairy farmers have prompted the University of Maryland's Cooperative Extension Service to stretch its 1985 Profitable and Efficient Production (PEP) winter educational workshop season into April.

Mark A. Varner, Extension dairy management specialist at College Park, reports that an additional training session has been added to the nine already scheduled during January, February and March in nine counties, covering the state's northern tier from Western Maryland to the Eastern Shore.

The new workshop is set for April 4, 8 and 16 at the Washington County Extension Office, 101 W. Antietam Street, in downtown Hagerstown. Each day's session will run from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

A rescheduled workshop will be held April 9 and 10 in southern Garrett County at the Old Swan Meadow School, located along Rt. 219 south of Oakland. Those sessions will run from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. They replace a workshop, originally set for January 22 and 23, which was cancelled because of a snowstorm.

According to Dr. Varner, this year's workshops represent Phase III in a three-year statewide educational program for dairy farmers. The goal of this year's PEP program is to help participants put together a total reproductive management effort which integrates herd health, nutrition and genetics. A first-of-its-kind manual, Dairy Integrated Reproductive Management, is being used as a text for this year's workshops.

The workshop sessions include lectures from University of Maryland Extension specialists and panel discussions with local veterinarians. There also are laboratory periods where participants have the opportunity to dissect the reproductive tract of a cow.

Registration charges are in the range of $20 to $30 for each two or three-day workshop. This cost includes a copy of the course manual.

Interested dairy farmers from anywhere in the state, who haven't had the opportunity to attend one of the earlier workshops, may register if space permits. Contact your local county Extension agricultural agent for details.

The Garrett County workshop is nearly full, and registration for the Washington County session is already at two-thirds capacity.

Individual counties are expected to schedule followup workshops during the next few years for dairy farmers not able to attend one of the 1985 meetings. An advanced workshop series tentatively is planned in about five years.

Dr. Varner estimates that 150 Maryland residents will have attended the Phase III 1985 PEP workshops through the end of March.

Applications For Head Start Now Being Accepted

The Garrett County Head Start Program is now accepting applications for children who were born in the years of 1981 and 1982. Children with special needs or handicapping conditions are encouraged by Head Start officials to apply for enrollment into the program.

Garrett County Head Start Centers are located in Jennings, Friendsville, Crellin, Oakland, and Dennett Road areas. Opening and closing dates for the Head Start centers will be September 1985 through May 31, 1986.

The Garrett County Head Start Program, in operation for 20 years, is currently serving 105 children and is under the direction of Mrs. Jean Tressler.

Further information and applications may be obtained from the Garrett County Community Action Head Start Office located at 360 West Liberty Street or from any of the Head Start centers. Interested persons may call Dolores Burrell at 334-3981.

Miller, Myers Named Southern States Directors

Ralph Miller, Oakland, and Herbert Myers, Kitzmiller, were elected to the local Board of Directors at the Southern States Annual Membership Meeting held in Mt. Lake Park on March 9. Over 50 stockholder-members and their families attended the session.

Hubert Custer, Deer Park, was selected chairman of the local board, while Troy Gnegy, Oakland, was named as vice-chairman.

Elected to the local Southern States Farm Home Advisory Committee were: Mrs. Lee Shillingburg, Deer Park, and Mrs. Ralph Miller.

Mrs. Shillingburg was chosen as chairman of the Farm Home Advisory Committee, while Mrs. Floyd Snyder, Eglon, W.Va., was named secretary.

Jim Stutler, Clarksburg, W.Va., a member of Southern States Cooperative's regional staff, reported on the over-all Southern States operations.

The report on local operations and services rendered to farmer-members in the community was given by Rex Hoalcraft, manager of Oakland Cooperative. He reported that total volume for their operation for the past year was about $1,821,000.

There was also a special recognition ceremony for new board members, Farm Home Advisory Committee members, as well as those from these groups who were retiring. These included: Ralph Miller and Herbert Myers (new); Lee Shillingburg, Ellwood Sanders and Brooks Hamilton (retiring); Mrs. Ralph Miller and Mrs. Lee Shillingburg (new); Mrs. Keith Blamble and Mrs. James Wildesen (retiring).

Hummingbirds Face Fence-Line Electrocution

Electric fences have some surprising side effects. In addition to keeping livestock inside pastures and pens, some of them are thinning out the hummingbird population in rural areas.

John F. Kundt, Extension Forestry specialist as the University of Maryland in College Park, says that some hummingbirds seem to mistake electric-fence insulators for flowers. They are electrocuted if they touch the grounded steel fence post and the hot wire when they try to feed on an insulator.

The hummingbirds' problem with electric fences started when colored plastic began to replace white ceramic insulators.

Dr. Kundt reports it is red and orange insulators that pose the greatest problem to the birds. By using white or dark-colored insulators, farmers can end the threat at its source.

Donald H. Messersmith, professor of entomology at College Park, notes that ruby-throated hummingbirds prefer to feed on red or orange flowers.

Dr. Messersmith says that the hummingbirds winter on the Yucatan penisula in Mexico. They return to Maryland in April and remain through September. Ruby-throats feed on nectar from trumpet-shaped flowers like the cardinal flower, bergamot and salvia. They are also attracted to trumpet-creeper and azalea flowers.

They are found throughout the state, and they can be attracted with feeding stations, according to Messersmith.

Hummingbird feeders dispense a mixture of sugar and water. They should be designed to discourage insects from feeding, too. Feeders should be mounted well off the ground in a manner that provides protection from cats.

Use Of Equine Arteritis Vaccine Is Restricted

In a recent Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA) Order, Secretary Wayne A. Cawley, Jr., approved the use of a modified live virus vaccine in Maryland to prevent the spread of Equine Viral Arteritis (EVA).

Equine Viral Arteritis is an acute infectious disease of horses characterized by depression, fever and a severe drop in the number of white blood cells (leukopenia). It is often accompanied by swelling of the lower abdomen, legs, and eyelids. The disease gets its name from the fact that it causes necrosis (death) of cells found in small arteries. Up to 80% of pregnant mares may abort and the occurrence of abortion following illness is highly suggestive of the disease.

Under the same Order permitting the vaccine, Secretary Cawley also imposed certain restrictions regulating its use and the interstate movement of thoroughbred horses.

First of all the manufacturer of the vaccine, Fort Dodge Laboratories, must report to Maryland's State Veterinarian the name and address of any veterinarian purchasing the vaccine. They must also furnish the number of doses, by lot number, supplied. Veterinarians using the vaccine must then report to the State Veterinarian, within seven days, the date of any vaccination. This report must include the breed, sex, age, tattoo, color and marking of animals vaccinated. The lot number of the vaccine used must also be given.

Mares may not be vaccinated without the written approval of the State Veterinarian. Stallions may be vaccinated providing that, prior to vaccination, they have not knowingly been exposed to EVA infected horses and have been blood tested and found negative.

They must be withheld from service for a period of at least 28 days following vaccination. At the end of the 28-day period a second blood test must be taken to determine the presence of antibodies.

Provisions have been made in the Order for the movement of thoroughbred horses into Maryland. Recommended procedures are described for each class of animal as determined by a serological test for the disease.

Maryland horse owners seeking additional information on the MDA Order, testing procedures, interstate movement, etc., should contact the Office of MDA's State Veterinarian in Annapolis.

MARYLAND FARMERS • PARTNERS WITH THE BAY •

This is the first in a five-part series of articles resulting from a cooperative project between the Maryland Soil Conservation Committee and the Cooperative Extension Service. The articles relate to agricultural management practices and soil conservation and are provided by Shaun Sanders, district manager of the Garrett Soil Conservation District, located in the Garrett County Court House, Oakland. Questions or requests for additional information may be directed to Sanders by calling 334-8339.

NONPOINT SOURCE POLLUTION TO THE CHESAPEAKE BAY, MAN IS THE CAUSE, RAINFALL THE MESSENGER

It comes from fields and forests. Construction sites, roads and parking lots are another source. Some of its unwitting participants are farmers, weekend auto mechanics and your neighbor down the street fertilizing his lawn.

"It" is what scientists call "nonpoint source pollution," a very special kind of pollution because it is elusive, its sources cover large areas, and it is insidious.

In spite of the fact that it is virtually invisible, nonpoint source pollution accounts for millions of pounds of contaminants entering the Chesapeake Bay each year and changing the health of a fragile ecosystem.

The best available research concludes that a combined total of 160 million pounds of nitrogen and phosphorus enter the Bay in a typical year between March and October. At this time, warmer temperatures and low stream flow compound the effects of polluted runoff. A good deal of that pollution comes from nonpoint sources.

Most scientists agree, a key link exists between the Bay's problems - declining fish and oyster harvests, and the disappearance of aquatic grasses - and pollution, including nonpoint source pollution.

At the request of Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Wayne Cawley, the State Soil Conservation Committee is assembling for Maryland farmers a list of recommendations. These best management practices or BNPs will help control the nonpoint pollution that goes into the Chesapeake Bay.

Part of the problem, however, is educating everyone in the state about the role each citizen plays in polluting the Bay's 150 tributaries and, ultimately, the Bay itself.

Says Dr. William Magette, an agricultural engineer at the University of Maryland: "Most people see a pipe discharging waste into a river or stream and recognize that as pollution. Most of those same people, however, do not see a connection between runoff after a heavy rainfall from lawns, corn fields, forests or urban parking lots, and pollution in the Chesapeake Bay."

Because there is no easily identified point of entry for pollutants from fields, forests and urban areas into rivers or the Bay, most people are unaware of the impact, according to Magette.

However, research shows that of the combined total of 160 million pounds of nitrogen and phosphorus entering the Bay during a typical seven-month period, when the effects of pollution are most critical, 67 percent of the nitrogen and 39 percent of the phosphorus come from nonpoint sources. The same studies show runoff from cropland contributes the largest share of nonpoint source pollution to the Bay.

When these nutrients enter the Bay, they promote the growth of algae, which in turn use oxygen from the water and also make it cloudy. Algae creates undesirable living conditions for Bay grasses, oysters and fish.

"It shouldn't be surprising that we have to do something about nonpoint sources of pollution if we're going to make progress correcting the water quality problems in the Bay," says Magette.

Not only is it difficult to pindown the exact location where nonpoint source pollution enters the Bay, it is equally difficult to identify specific culprits.

"Generally, once rain hits the ground - whether it is in an urban area or rural area - the process of nonpoint source pollution can begin," Magette explains.

In urban areas, surface runoff from rainfall can carry a number of contaminants such as oil and grease from parking lots, deicing chemicals from roadways, fertilizers and pesticides used by homeowners, even pet droppings.

"In agricultural and forested areas, many of the same contaminants wash into rivers and streams feeding the Bay. They include fertilizers, pesticides, animal wastes and soil particles," Magette says.

Even water moving through the soil, in addition to that moving above ground, can transport contaminants to rivers and streams feeding billions of gallons of water daily to the Bay, according to Magette.

Is nonpoint source pollution, then, a problem caused by people or rainfall?

Says Magette: "Nonpoint source pollution is, of course, basically a people problem, caused by people. But finding a solution and controlling the problem is made difficult by how water moves from place to place on this planet."

To Magette, the analogy is not pleasant, but accurate. Precipitation, or rainfall, starts the process of nonpoint source pollution in the same way a flush of the toilet or use of a garbage disposal begins the process of sending contaminants to a central treatment plant, where they will be discharged into rivers and find their way to the Bay.

Because no one can say with absolute certainty when, where, how much or how long it will rain or snow, the efforts to control nonpoint source pollution should be directed at the sources of pollution, according to Magette.

"We have to turn our attention to those factors we can control," he says. "In agriculture, particularely, this means effective land management, sound cultural techniques, and proven soil and water conservation practices. We call these 'best management practices,' and they serve as a start to gain control of one of the state's most valuable natural resources."

Farmers Advised To Pre-Measure Crop Acreage

Farmers who use pre-measurement service prior to planting their spring crops will be guaranteed that their field sizes are accurate for the program year, Olin S. Davis, Jr., chairman of the Maryland State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee said.

He said pre-measuring is encouraged because it assures the farmer that he or she is in compliance with the acreage reduction programs, and eliminates worry over the loss of farm program benefits.

The service is offered at cost by ACSC and includes measuring, referencing and marking out fields with stakes before planting. Farmers are required to plant within the stakes that are placed when the land is pre-measured.

"We strongly recommend pre-measurement because it helps plan the amount of land to devote to the acreage conservation reserve and planted acreages of program crops."

After planting, Davis said all program participants need to certify, or report their crops and ACR land to the ASCS county office to be eligible for price support loans, deficiency payments and other acreage reduction program benefits. Pre-measurement helps assure accurate reporting, the ASCS official stated.

Fertilize Fruit Trees

Newly planted fruit trees should receive an application of 10-10-10 fertilizer immediately after planting. Use a half pound of fertilizer, applying it in a circle around the tree but no closer than eight to ten inches from the trunk. One treatment is all a newly planted tree will need for the first year.

Each year thereafter, all fruit trees except pears should receive an application of 10-10-10 fertilizer in the spring. Use a half pound of fertilizer for each year of tree age up to a maximum of three to four pounds total for trees over six to eight years old. For older, larger trees spread the fertilizer on the soil surface under the spread of the limbs.

Pears are subject to a disease which kills back branches starting at the limb tips. This disease is more severe on tender succulent growth which results from fertilizer applications. For this reason pears should receive little to no fertilizer. If you have a pear which is growing very poorly and appears weak, perhaps a light fertilizer treatment would be worth the risk. But, keep the application very light.

Since there is a possibility peaches won't have a crop this year because the flower buds were killed during severely cold weather in January they should receive only half the suggested application of fertilizer now. If your trees bloom and are developing a crop, give the remainder of the fertilizer in early May. If they have no crop, a half application of fertilizer will be adequate for this year.

Forage And No-Till Crop Meeting

A Forage and No-Till Crop Meeting will be held on Wednesday, March 27, at the Ali Ghan Shrine Club, Rt. 40, east of Cumberland, from 10:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.

Drs. Morris Decker and Les Vough, agronomists at the University of Maryland, will present an update on sod-seeding systems and techniques to renovate forage stands; characteristics and performance of new forage species and varieties such as Spreader alfalfa and ryegrass, lespedeza, bromegrass, etc.; and the latest on endophyte-free tall fescue's effect on cattle performance.

Richard Witmer from the Chevron Chemical Company will have two special slide programs on no-till practices for alfalfa, corn and other crops. These will utilize three projectors on a single screen to give a moving picture effect which I think you will enjoy, in addition to the information which will be valuable in making management decisions.

We plan to have the ASCD's new sod seeder at the meeting for you to look at. This machine is equipped with a ground driven pre-set paraquat applicator for banding this chemical to control competition to the seedlings so as to enhance seeding establishment. Dr. Gary Smith, Agricultural Engineer from the University of Maryland, will be with us to discuss the operation of this machine.

Lunch will be provided at the Shrine Club in the form of a buffet, courtesy of Chevron Chemical Company. Although reservations will not be required, it would be helpful to have an idea of the number planning to attend. If you plan to be present for lunch, please call me at 334-2145 by March 25.

Young Farmers Meet At GCC

The Garrett County Young Farmers Organization held its monthly meeting February 28 at Garrett Community College. There were 15 members in attendance. President Dana Rush presided.

The group discussed having a Dairy Bar at the Garrett County Fair in August to promote agricultural products. Dana Rush is to make final arrangements.

If the group is able to have a Dairy Bar at the Fair, county youth would be invited to work the booth. The booth would open in the morning at about the time that exhibitors would be arriving and it would close in the late evening.

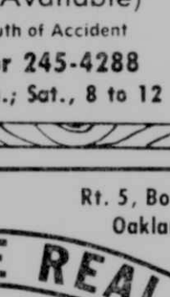

Committees were also organized. Some of the committees assigned are: Fundraising, Activities, and Public Relations. When the group becomes larger, more committees will be assigned.

The Young Farmers will meet the second Wednesday of each month at Garrett Community College. Any interested persons are welcome to attend and are encouraged to become a member. The next meeting will be April 10 at 7:30 p.m. at GCC in Room LC 159. Plans for a guest speaker are being arranged.

Assessment Answers & Tax Talk

by James Burley

On Farmland And Open Space

At a recent meeting of a group of some Maryland farmers, their attention was drawn to agricultural assessments and the agricultural transfer tax and the influences leading to these developments.

By explanation, generally lands in agricultural use are assessed according to this category rather than by an estimated market value as is the case for residential property, including that on the farm; or income capability as in the case of commercial property.

Other factors can also apply, such as zoning, productivity, and income from the activity, depending upon specific circumstances; but present and past use has been the one traditional standard which has applied to all such lands whether large or small.

The agricultural transfer tax is relatively new, dating in one form or another to 1979, and applies only to lands that have been assessed in the agricultural category that undergo a change in ownership if the change results in removing the lands from agricultural use. The tax is imposed to discourage development of remaining farmlands and open space. Collections from this tax are used to fund the easement purchase program designed to help owners of these lands to retain them for this use and to resist the temptation to sell for development purposes.

But the reasons for the agricultural category and the transfer tax go deep. The importance of the Port of Baltimore and the Chesapeake Bay might tend to overshadow the historical significance of agriculture to Maryland, a connection traceable to Maryland's founding as a fledgling English colony.

The settlers quickly discovered that, in addition to supplying their needs, their land could also produce a marketable crop called tobacco. Becoming quickly a prime product—Maryland's first agriculture was based on tobacco—this trade item had a profound influence on the growth and prosperity of the colony. By the time of the urge for independence, agriculture had developed to the degree that the colony was a reliable supplier of foodstuffs to General Washington's army. One historian referred to Maryland as the "Breadbasket of the Revolution," and suggested a very likely different outcome were it not for the contribution made by Maryland's farmers. In due time, other crops replaced the relative importance of tobacco, but even today, it remains the most important crop in Southern Maryland.

As is being so sadly demonstrated in some parts of the world today, a society perishes without food. It determines to a great extent the economic condition of a country endowed with ample food production capability. The United States is a leading producer of food and fiber commodities, and Maryland has played an important role in this singular achievement.

True, Maryland's farms are relatively small in comparison with other parts of the country; but, have no doubt, Maryland is an agricultural state and all of the 23 counties have vigorous enterprises that weigh heavily in their local economies. The strength of Maryland's agricultural system is due in part to the relative smallness of individual operations, allowing them to be in close proximity to metropolitan markets, coupled with the diversity of pursuits and products; and the positive synergistic effect of these two conditions upon one another.

Did you know that more than $1 billion worth of farm commodities are marketed each year? As important as this is to the economy, even more important is the nutritional value these products provide. In terms of cash, Maryland's highest-ranking operations are poultry, dairying, and grain production, in that order. Meanwhile, soy beans, fruits and vegetables, livestock, and nursey stock are giving tobacco some very strong competition.

For instance, did you know that Maryland has received worldwide recognition as a source of quality fruit trees and exports them in quantity by air and through the Port of Baltimore? Because of dwindling farmlands and pasturage, grazing capacity is now limited. Despite this, and with better management, dairying is still one of Maryland's strongest agricultural enterprises.

The Maryland legislature, recognizing the importance of agriculture and the value of farmlands and open space, has attempted to protect and preserve the remaining lands in various ways. The agricultural use category for assessing and the agricultural transfer tax are two important examples. The agricultural use category is based on the precept that it is in the general public interest: that farming be fostered to maintain a close and available food supply; to encourage the preservation of open space as essential to human welfare and happiness; and to prevent the forced conversion of such open space to more intensive uses as a result of economic pressures caused by assessing land at a rate or level incompatible with the practical use of such lands for farming. Interestingly, two of the three factors in the concept relate to preserving open space. Once lost, it is gone forever.

Despite this intent, in the past 30 years, Maryland's farmlands have diminished by something like two million acres. In the meantime, the population has increased by about the same number, breaking down to one acre lost for each person added. If this situation continues, Maryland will not have so much as a single acre of land left to feed its own people—much less others—within another 60 years. And the pattern of diminishing farmland and undisturbed space is being repeated elsewhere throughout the nation.

GCAFT The Federation Speaks

by William C. Hogan

PARENT/TEACHER TIPS

Two weeks ago, this column discussed a book which dealt with raising a "street smart" child. It gave hints for parents on how to prevent abuse and abduction of school-age children.

The American Federation of Teachers has produced a half hour TV special, Protecting Our Children, to address the growing alarm among parents and educators about these problems.

Some of the facts presented in this film are:

*One out of every ten boys and one out of every four girls are sexually abused before the age of sixteen.

*Between 80 and 85 percent of young sexual abuse victims were abused by someone they know—a friend or relative of the family, for example.

*One-third of adult abusers were victimized when they were children.

*90 percent of sexual abusers are men.

*In 35 states teachers are legally mandated to report any suspected sexual and physical abuse or child neglect.

*1.8 million children in the United States are currently missing.

*There are seven million "latchkey" children in this country—youngsters who go home to empty houses each day and are easy targets for abduction or abuse.

*This show, part of AFT's monthly "Inside Your Schools" series, originally aired on the 500 cable systems affiliated with The Learning Channel (TLC) and on more than 80 PBS stations during November and December. It is being repeated by popular demand over TLC stations on Thursday, March 14 at 3:00 p.m. ET.

Protecting Our Children is even more about solutions than about the problems. The show examines the positive efforts of public school districts in several states to identify and treat abuse and to prevent abductions in the hope that these efforts will be replicated elsewhere. Minnesota is a case in point:

*In Minnesota teachers are mandated to report any suspected abuse or neglect. Penalties for failing to do so can be as severe as a year in jail or a fine of one thousand dollars.

*In order to monitor and apprehend child abusers, many school districts have set up abuse teams and official reporting procedures involving the school nurse, principal, psychologist, social welfare department and finally the police.

*Minnesota is also the home of the Sexual Abuse Prevention Program developed by the Illusion Theater. It includes theatrical performances that teach youngsters the difference between healthy, normal touching and sexual abuse, and has become a prototype for other communities across the nation.

Because children are usually too frightened to disclose abuse, the AFT lists danger signs for parents and teachers that could indicate trouble:

*A child misses school or is frequently tardy.

*A child has unexplained injuries.

*A child is sleepy at school.

*A child is either very flinchy or too clingy.

*A child cries easily.

*A child is destructive or exceptionally passive.

*A child exhibits low self-esteem.

Post-Conviction Relief Granted For Tichnell

Prince George's County Circuit Court Judge Audrey Melbourne has granted post–conviction relief to Richard Tichnell, convicted killer of Garrett County Deputy Sheriff David Livengood.

The post conviction relief order means that Tichnell is granted a fourth appeal of the death penalty. Unless the relief order is overturned, another jury or judge must determine whether Tichnell receives the death penalty or life imprisonment.

Melbourne found that Tichnell's attorney, Clark Frame, was ineffective at Tichnell's sentencing, thereby agreeing with Tichnell's claim that his counsel was incompetent. However, Melbourne rejected 17 other claims made by Tichnell in the case.

In discussing Tichnell's 18th claim, Melbourne found that because of acts and omissions which were based on incorrect understanding of the law as to character evidence and mitigation of punishment, Tichnell's counsel was ineffective at sentencing.

Garrett County State's Attorney James L. Sherbin, who argued at the hearing held in the Calvert County Circuit Court in October 1984, stated Wednesday that he personally and legally felt that Clark Frame did an outstanding job in each of the three cases in which Tichnell was tried. Sherbin said he disagrees with the judge's decision and will file application for leave to appeal to the Maryland Court of Appeals, an action which is allowed in post–conviction proceedings.

The purpose of the post-conviction relief hearing was to determine whether there were constitutional errors or errors in the sentencing of Tichnell.

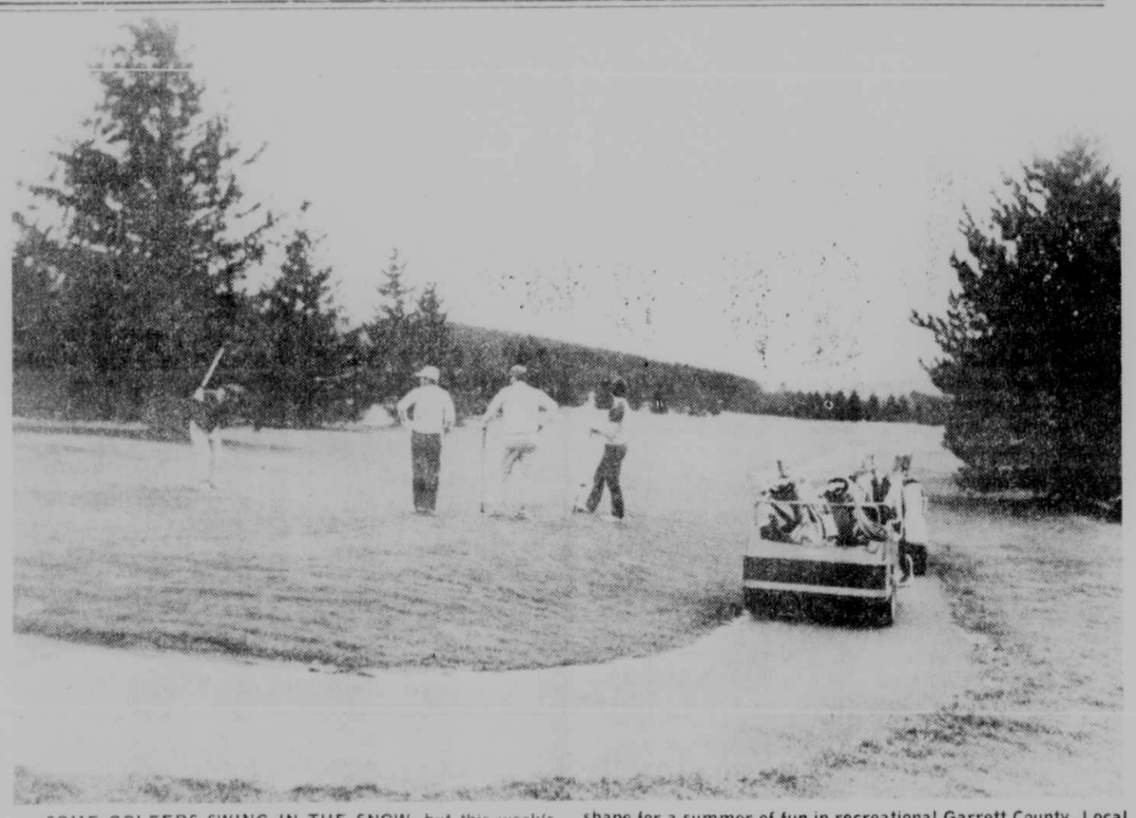

Tichnell, 37, Fairmont, W.Va., shot Deputy David Livengood as the officer responded to a burglar alarm on January 18, 1979, at Davidson's Army-Navy Store in Oakland. His co-defendent, Roberto Oskar Rescek, 35, also of Fairmont, was sentenced to life imprisonment for his part in the crime.

Tichnell was convicted in Wicomico County in August 1979 of first degree murder of Livengood and was sentenced to death. That sentencing was overturned based on a judge's remark.

Tichnell was retried August 1980 and was again convicted and sentenced. This sentencing was overturned because the judge employed an incorrect procedure at the trial.

In a third trial in Calvert County in January 1982, Tichnell was again convicted and sentenced to death. This case was affirmed by the Maryland Court of Appeals and application to the Supreme Court of the United States was denied.

Tichnell then filed the post–conviction proceeding in the summer of 1984.

SOME GOLFERS SWING IN THE SNOW, but this week's mild 70 degree weather seemed to bring out even the most squeamish golfers, which is another sure sign of spring in Garrett County. So far this week, golfers and other outdoor sports enthusiasts have had two beautiful, balmy spring days to get in shape for a summer of fun in recreational Garrett County. Local radio stations are predicting mild weather through the weekend with a chance of showers, and Monday promises to be sunny and mild.

Community Parks To Benefit From POS Allotment

The Maryland Legislature has allotted Garrett County a $66,411 appropriation of additional money for the Program Open Space fiscal year, 1986. This appropriation will not take effect until July 1 when the fiscal year begins.

This appropriation will be handled by the Park and Recreation Committee of Program Open Space. This committee has not met yet, however, according to Open Space Coordinator John Nelson, the project priority list is the same as last year with those projects completed scratched from the list.

The planned improvements on the development side of the Program Open Space budget include: added improvements to the Accident Community Park; phase two of the development of the McHenry Regional Park; and development of the Mtn. Lake Park north playground area. High on the priority list is the development of track fields and softball fields at Northern High School, however, Nelson does not expect available funding to cover that development at this time.

Planned acquisitions on the budget include: the prospective purchase of land for a Friendsville park; Mtn. Lake Park's planned purchase of the old grove around the Mtn. Lake Park Assembly Hall; and an added purchase in Grantsville to add to the existing park. Several other communities are on the list with no specific site in mind. They are Oakland, Kitzmiller, Loch Lynn, Deer Park, and Bloomington.

Coal Slurry Legislation Fails For Second Consecutive Year

For the second consecutive year, coal slurry pipeline legislation has failed in Maryland's General Assembly.

The Senate Finance Committee halted the legislation's future with a 5-5 tie vote last Thursday. Senator Joseph S. Bonvegna (D-Baltimore) abstained from voting because of the pressure exerted on him from labor unions on both sides of the issue. Senator Dennis F. Rasmussen (D-Baltimore county), committee chairman, voted against the pipeline which tied the vote.

Rasussen urged that the state embark on a new, expensive study of the coal slurry issue, but the committee was not in favor of his suggestion.

Supporters of the bill had expected more support from Governor Harry Hughes, but that support did not materialize.

The tie vote, which killed the bill, was an important victory for the Chessie System railroads, who had been up against the Baltimore Gas and Electric Company, other utilities, construction unions and coal companies who lobbied in favor of the coal slurry pipeline.

Railroaders opposed the bill because they felt it would cause unfair competition, massive layoffs and rail spur closings.

The bill effectively died in committee, however, some senators want to use a petition to take the measure to the full senate. Senator John N. Bambacus (R-Allegany-Garrett) feels this will not happen this close to the end of the General Assembly session. If it did arrive on the senate floor, Senator Victor Cushwa (D-Allegany-Washington) would lead a filibuster against the bill, aided by Bambacus and at least four other senators, to delay and eventually kill the pipeline measure.

Delegate Gerald J. Curran (D-Baltimore), the sponsor of the bill in the house, wouldn't say if he thought the pipeline legislation would be reintroduced next year.

Commissioners Accept Bids For Roads Supplies

At a press conference Tuesday, the Board of Garrett County Commissioners announced they have accepted bids for stone and supplies to be used by the Garrett County Roads Department for the upcoming summer season.

Numerous bids from area contractors were received for culvert pipe, stone, gasoline and asphalt.

The Garrett County Roads Department administration will now review the bids and submit their recommendations to the commissioners for the final awarding of the bids.

Town Meeting

The commissioners also discussed the town meeting they held with the Mayor and Town Council and citizens of Kitzmiller on Monday evening.

The commissioners told reporters that the town of Kitzmiller is yet another municipality that will not seek a tax differential.

Mayor E. James Barrick reportedly told commissioners that their town wants to cooperate with the county and felt that not seeking a tax differential would benefit Kitzmiller as well as the county and felt it would not be economically beneficial to have their own tax differential.

The residents of Kitzmiller shared their concerns with the commissioners about the coal dust problem they are having from a West Virginia firm, Chestnut Ridge Coal Company. There is a particular coal dust problem at the elementary school.

Town officials have contacted the West Virginia Bureau of Mines and Representative Beverly Byron about their concerns, and have a meeting scheduled this week with the Garrett County Board of Education. Officials have requested that the owner of the mines also be present for the meeting. The owner has failed to attend two previously scheduled meetings.

Police Appeal Judge's Decision In Resh Case

The Maryland Court of Special Appeals will hear an appeal of Chief Judge Fred A. Thayer's decision that the Maryland State Police must stop all interdepartmental proceedings against Tfc. Gary D. Resh.

Thayer issued his decision February 20 that proceedings against Resh were improper. He ordered the department to stop its proceedings on three charges against Resh of police brutality.

The charges were filed within the department against Resh October 4, 1984 after a departmental investigation of a January 28, 1984 incident on Posey Row Road when Resh allegedly struck Larry D. Wilt, Boynton, Pa., with his fist.

Wilt allegedly interferred in an arrest and attacked the officer at which time he was struck in the face before falling and striking his head on the roadway. Wilt, reportedly, remains in a coma at Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, as a result of the incident.

A suit against Resh, his superiors, the Maryland State Police and the state of Maryland has been filed in the U.S. District Court in Maryland by Paul Sullivan, a Cumberland attorney, who represents Mr. and Mrs. Wilt.

Resh claimed in his suit that the Maryland State Police did not follow procedure for investigations of a law enforcement officer as stipulated in Section 728 (b)(4) of the Law Enforcement Officer's Bill of Rights.

State Police officials maintained that Section 728 does not apply to internal administrative investigations, but only to investigations stemming from external complaints. They also stated in a hearing before the judge that they would have been administratively irresponsible if they had not proceeded on the brutality charges.

In his opinion, Chief Judge Thayer states that the Maryland State Police did not comply with legislated procedures and that Section 728 (b)(4) "prohibits investigation of a complaint of brutality unless the parameters of that section are fulfilled."

Group Opposes Reappointment Of Hamilton

Garrett County resident Wayne Hamilton has become the subject of a highly--organized campaign to prevent his reappointment to the Public Service Commission.

Hamilton, who has been recommended for reappointment by Governor Harry Hughes, was grilled Tuesday during an ordinarily routine interview by the Senate Executive Nominations Committee. Members of the committee wondered why the campaign has been mounted against Hamilton.

Reportedly, the campaign has been organized by the Maryland Citizens Energy Coalition and is joined by Western Maryland legislators Sen. Victor Cushwa (D-Allegany, Washington), Del. W. Timothy Finan (D-Allegany) and Del. Casper R. Taylor (D-Allegany, Washington).

Supporting Hamilton's reappointment are Sen. John Bambacus (R-Allegany, Garrett), Del. George C. Edwards (R-Garrett, Allegany) and Del. William B. Byrnes (D-Allegany).

Hamilton's opponents apparently want Sylvia Hancock, a former Hancock consumer activist, who now works for a Washington, D.C. consulting firm which specializes in utility rates, to be appointed to the position.

However, aides to the Governor have said Hughes will not appoint Hancock and may name someone from outside Western Maryland to represent the region on the PSC.

Opponents have also criticized Hamilton as having little background in utility issues or accounting. They have also stated their desire for a person who is more responsive to consumers.

Hamilton said Wednesday that he was surprised by the opposition. He said he has reviewed the public records of all hearings he has conducted and found no instances in which he was insensitive to consumer concerns.

He added that his five years on the Commission have provided him with a good background as have his 30 years of experience in business activities.

Qualifications for a commissioner are merely that he broadly represent the public

Steep Slope Bill Goes To Hughes

The steep slope mining bill is on its way to the governor's office after passing both houses of the General Assembly.

Governor Harry Hughes had earlier said that the measure was a "good candidate for a veto" because of some potential negative environmental impacts of coal mining on slopes greater than 20 degrees. But that was before both the Senate and House measures were amended, he said.

Several amendments have been added to the bill. The latest would allow the state Bureau of Mines to deny a mining permit on steep slopes when there is a threat to a single property rather than require a certain population density to block mining in a certain area.

The bureau would also be required to review steep slope mining and present a report to the 1999 General Assembly.

An amendment also authorizes the bureau to deny a mining permit when it can be proven there will be adverse effect to a public water source as well as the waters of the state, such as a river.

The state's coal industry has said the bill would give miners in Garrett and Allegany counties access to 38 million tons of coal.

Environmentalists opposing the bill say there is no evidence of long-term success in the reclamation of steep slopes. Supporters, however, think the amendments provide adequate safeguards.

The Senate passed the bill on March 1 and the House bill was passed March 23. The final decision now rests with Governor Hughes.

Note: Due to lack of space in this week's edition of The Republican, the story featuring the State Highway Administration will be held for next week's edition.

County Commissioners Forced Into "No" Vote Against Citicorp Bill

The Maryland Senate passed a bill Tuesday that would permit Citicorp to compete freely in the state's financial market, but at a meeting of the western area county commissioners' meeting last Thursday night, the Board of Garrett County Commissioners said they were "forced to voice a strong 'no' against the bill," before it goes to the House.

The commissioners said they were completely surprised to find that Governor Hughes was pushing for the five counties approval at the Thursday meeting and that they were pressured to make a decision about a matter that wasn't on the agenda.

Initially the commissioners abstained, but later justified their "no" vote. "We did it in the best interest of Garrett County. As I see it, the record shows that whenever something as large as Citicorp comes into a local banking situation, it tends to put the small operators at a disadvantage," said Commissioner Elwood Groves II.

Commissioner John Braskey said that the commissoners had a responsibility to the Garrett National Bank and the First United National Bank and Trust institutions in Garrett County. "Our two local banks and their branches are major employers of Garrett County citizens," he said.

Commissioner Ernest Gregg Jr. added that supporting Citicorp would be inviting competition for the local banking systems.

Under the bill, Citicorp would be allowed to compete with Maryland banks beginning in 1986 in return for building a credit card processing certain economically-depressed Hagerstown. The New York bank holding company would also have to hire 1,000 new employees in Maryland, at least 750 of them in Hagerstown. Citicorp already has a limited service bank in Maryland which can make loans and take deposits. Current law prevents the bank from opening branch offices and advertising for additional business.

Before making their final decision Thursday, the commissioners telephoned the presidents of both local banks. Both presidents opposed the legislation.

"Look at the support that we in Garrett County government have had from the two banks in supporting our economic development, specifically in the area of Industrial Revenue Bonds. How do we know that Citicorp would be interested in that sort of 'peanuts'," said Gregg.

Allegany, Frederick, and Washington county commissioners said they would sign a supporting telegram, although Carroll County commissioner president wanted to talk with his constituents before making a decision

The commissioners said the governor wasn't satisfied with their abstention so after contacting the two local bank presidents they voted "no".

Commissioner Braskey said he was very annoyed with the way things were handled last Thursday. "Hughes wanted me to make a decision without being familiar with the situation," he said.

Commissioner Groves added, "It was a lack of organization on their part. They could have called us a day before or written a letter the week before the meeting informing us of the vote."

"We're not opposed to Washington County getting many jobs due to the credit card center to be located there by Citicorp, but we have to be concerned about Garrett County. People in Washington County don't vote for me!", said Braskey.

The House did give a tentative approval of the bill Monday, but many Maryland banks are fighting the legislation, saying it would place them in a regional, interstate banking compact with 13 southeastern states and Washington, D.C.

At a press conference Tuesday, Commissioner Gregg responded to an editorial that had appeared in the morning issue of The Cumberland News strongly hinting that the Garrett County Commissioners should change their minds and join those who support Citicorp and also accused the commissioners of being hurt by the

Erick Friedman

Kathryn Sincell

Erick Friedman, hailed as the American violin virtuoso, will be a featured guest of the Garrett Choral Society this weekend when the Society will present an Easter concert at St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Oakland. Also performing will be Kathryn Sincell, Mtn. Lake Park, a mezzo–soprano, who is a graduate student of voice at Southern Methodist University, Dallas, Tex.

Friedman, who began playing the violin at the age of five, has appeared as guest soloist with most of the world's great orchestras, including the New York Philharmonic and the National Symphony, as well as the orchestras of New Orleans, Pittsburgh, Miami, Detroit, Indianapolis, the Berlin Philharmonic, Orchestre de Paris and many other major orchestras throughout the world. Among the internationally celebrated conductors with whom he has collaborated in recent years are Karajan, Stokowski, Steinberg, Leinsdorf, Previn, Ozawa, and Pretre. He has recorded for RCA with the Boston Symphony, Chicago Symphony, and London Symphony. His recordings of the Bach Sonatas for Violin and Harpsichord and the Franck and Debussy Sonatas won Grammy Award nominations.

According to Donal Henahan of The New York Times, "The number of violinists who play the instrument as sonorously as Erick Friedman belong to the Fingers of One Hand Club, meaning you do not have to count very high to run out of members . . . He is not only a master violinist, but also one with a distinctly personal and identifiable style of playing."

A critic for The Washington Post said, "Friedman is a brilliant, polished artist who seems insistent on playing more for poetry than bombast. The result was dazzling beauty."

The Philadelphia Inquirer called Friedman "masterful and sensitive. He is an artist of top rank." The London Daily telegraph said he "is a surperb artist. There was in his stylistic individuality and inspired eloquence an unmistakable quality of greatness."

A member of the SMU faculty, Friedman, along with local organist Dr. David Sheets, will accompany Ms. Sincell on "Lullaby for the Christ Child" by Johannes Brahms. Ms. Sincell will also sing "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth," from Handel's Messiah.

Ms. Sincell, who is presently compieting her first year of graduate study at SMU, is a vocal student of Thomas Hayward, a former tenor of the Metropolitan Opera in New York City. She is a 1984 magna cum laude graduate of Frostburg State College with a bachelor of arts degree in vocal performance and is attending SMU as a recipient of the Meadows Artistic Achievement Scholarship Award.

Among her scheduled activities is a tour of the Far East featuring guest appearances at

District Judge Issues Sentences To Five Thieves

Garrett County District Court Judge Jack Turney issued sentences on March 20 for five persons who had earlier been convicted in separate theft incidents.

Raymond D. Piper, 19, Accident, received a $50 fine and a sentence of 18 months with the Department of Corrections. The judge suspended all but 10 days of the jail term and placed Piper on 18 months of supervised probation.

Piper was convicted in court on February 5 of the November 26, 1984 theft of $2,235 worth of tools from a shed owned by Marvin Bittinger, Accident.

The judge ordered Piper to seek alcohol and drug abuse counseling and noted that restitution to Bittinger would be determined at a later date.

Judge Turney suspended an 18-month jail term for Larry Lee Wagner, 27, Accident, who was convicted of aiding Sincle Brown in the December 23, 1984 theft of six shotguns and 11 rifles from Manor Builders, Inc., Mountain Lake Park. Brown is to be tried for theft in the Garrett County Circuit Court.

Wagner was placed on 18 months of supervised probation, fined $50 and ordered to pay restitution of $83 to Manor Builders.

Shirley J. Welch, 25, Oakland, who was also convicted on February 5 of aiding Sincle Brown in the December 23, 1984 theft received an 18-month sentence with the Department of Corrections. Judge Turney suspended all but 10 days of the jail term and placed Welch on 18 months of supervised probation.

The judge ordered Welch to pay $90 in restitution to the Garrett County Sheriff's Department as well as $83 to Manor Builders.

Both Welch and Wagner were represented by public defender John Toston.

Judge Turney suspended 15 months of an 18-month jail term for Gordon E. Kisner, 18, Oakland, who was convicted of misdemeanor theft on February 19. Kisner was charged with the December 16, 1984 theft of a camera, cassette player and leather jacket from Steven Teets, Crellin.

The judge ordered Kisner to pay $230.75 in restitution to Teets and to seek alcohol counseling.

Kisner was represented by public defender John Toston.

James W. Butler, 22, Terra Alta, W. Va., who was also convicted on February 19 of the December 16, 1984 theft from Teets, received a two-year sentence with the Department of Corrections. The judge granted Butler 75 days credit for time awaiting trial.

Judge Turney suspended a $10 fine for Butler, but ordered him to pay $230.73 to Teets and to participate in alcohol counseling.

Representing Butler was Michael Morrissette, an Oakland attorney.

In court cases heard March 19, Judge Turney convicted Robert E. Eichorn on two charges of unlawful use of the telephone.

On the first charge, Eichorn received a $50 fine and was sentenced to 24 months with the Department of Corrections. The judge suspended 23 months of the jail term and placed Eichorn on 24 months of supervised probation.

Eichorn received the same sentence on the second charge which is to run concurrently with the first sentence. He was fined an additional $50.

Judge Turney ordered Eichorn to participate in psychological counseling, to actively seek employment and to refrain from contact with his victims, Daniel and Rosie Ganoe, Frostburg.

Daniel Ganoe pressed charges against Eichorn for phone calls he and his wife received on February 3, 4 and 5. In court documents, the February 5 phone call is described as one in which Eichorn made obscene suggestions to Daniel Ganoe. The February 3 and 4 calls were made with the intent to annoy and embarrass Rosie Ganoe, according to statements in court records.

Eichorn was represented by Michael Morissette, Oakland.

James L. House, 24, Friendsville, was found guilty of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle belonging to John A. Cosner. The charge stemmed from a September 23, 1984 incident in Friendsville.

Judge Turney sentenced House to 12 months in jail, but suspended all except 25 days. He placed House on 18 months of supervised probation and fined him $50.

An 89-day jail term for William D. Stemple (age not available), Fitzwater Trailer Park, Oakland, was suspended. Stemple, convicted on a battery charge filed by Patricia Ohler, Oakland, was fined $10 and placed on six months of unsupervised probation.

Ohler filed the charge after a February 23 incident in Oakland in which Stemple struck her in the face with his hand.

The state chose not to prosecute a malicious destruction of property charge against Michael L. Friend, 31, Mountain Lake Park, who was charged with damaging a vehicle owned by Joel B. Miller on February 3.

Walter Fearer, 52, Friendsville, was acquitted of two battery charges filed by separate persons but stemming from one incident on February 23 at the Friendsville Amoco. The charges were filed by Jeffery S. Miller and Gerry Bowser, both of Friendsville.

Fearer was represented by Michael Morrissette.

Clarence Whitacre, 47, Deer Park, was found not guilty of unlawful sale of alcohol as charged by Phillip A. Ottavini, a Maryland Alcohol, Tobacco Tax Enforcement Unit Agent. Ottavini alleged that Whitacre illegally sold alcohol at his establishment in Deer Park on November 17, 1984.

Whitacre's attorney was Michael Morrissette.

Cases placed on the stet docket included three bad check charges filed against Mark A. Furman, 38, McHenry, by Karlinda Kamp, representative for Southern States Co-op, Grantsville; four bad check charges filed against Frederick N. Shaffer, 30, Oakland, by Susan Livengood, vice-president of Ralph's Richfood, Mountain Lake Park; and a battery charge filed against Russell L. Welch, 47, Oakland, by Patricia A. Welch, Oakland.

Richard Green, assistant state's attorney, represented the state in the court cases on March 19 and 20.

Mark Ochsankehl, Dr. Charles Springman, and Dr. Thomas Johnson will present three numbers, and Martin Heise, pianist, will also offer three pieces. The festival portion of the evening will close with congregational singing of "O Sacred Head Now Wounded," accompanied by the brass quartet.

The organist will be Lynette Karsten and Sherry Savage will play the clarinet. Brass quartet musicians include Dr. Springman, Gary Beachy, Rev. Wilfred Karsten, and William Robinson. The Good News Chorale will present the choral singing.

Arrangements for the dinner were made by St. Paul's Lutheran Church Women.

The public is invited to attend all three events of the evening.

General Assembly Speeds Up Work On Bills In Final Weeks

Maryland legislators have speeded up the legislative process in the final weeks of the 1985 General Assembly session and, so far, both Delegate George Edwards (R-Garrett, Allegany) and Senator John Bambacus (R-Garrett, Allegany) believe most of their bills are faring well this year.

A bill which neither legislator sponsored, but which could benefit some Garrett Countians is one which will provide a subsidized "lifeline" telephone service for an estimated 40,000 low income Marylanders. The bill passed the House of Delegates Friday without debate.

The $4.05 a month service would be provided by Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. The half-price service would be financed by allowing the company to deduct the estimated $3 million cost for the service from its state tax bill.

The service is to be available to people receiving general public assistance or supplemental security income.

General public assistance goes to disabled adults and supplemental security income is given to elderly, disabled or blind.

It will not apply to people receiving welfare grants under the major federal program, aid to families with dependent children.

A similar bill passed the Senate last week. Differences between the two versions will be ironed out by a conference committee.

The House also passed a bill Friday which establishes a new state aid program for fire protection and ambulance services in Maryland counties and Baltimore City. The Senate has also passed its version of this program which differs from the House in how the money is distributed.

Senator Bambacus, one of the original co-sponsors of the bill, said the Senate version strays from the intent of the bill which was to provide aid to volunteer fire companies throughout the state. An amendment was added to the bill which allows paid companies to receive part of the $4.2 million allocated to the program.

In the Senate version, the money is to be disbursed to the municipalities while the House version of the bill calls for the money to be given to the counties for distribution to the volunteer companies.

Bambacus explained that the two versions will go to a conference committee, composed of three legislators from each house, where differences in the bills will be settled. Bambacus, who favors the House version of the bill, hopes to be appointed to the committee.

Bambacus added that Garrett County will not really be affected regardless of how the bill is written because there are no paid companies in the county and its allocation would be unchanged. However, Allegany County does have a paid company in Cumberland, and the form of the bill will have a greater impact on the volunteer companies there.

A bill supported by the Garrett County Commissioners has received an unfavorable report from the Senate Budget and Taxation Committee, Senator Bambacus reported Wednesday.

Senate Bill 811, sponsored by Sen. Frederick C. Malkus, Jr., would have forced the state of Maryland to pay back any loss of real estate taxes on land in a county that is held, owned or controlled by the state.

Edwards Reports On Bills

Del. Edwards reported the House of Representatives has passed a bill he proposed which allows the Department of Natural Resources to prohibit the hunting of black bears in Maryland, by classifying the black bear as a forest game mammal.

The House this morning passed the second reader for Edward's bill which allows snowmobiles to cross certain highways in Garrett County at a right angle. The bill, HB 115, came out of the House Judiciary Committee this morning.

Three bills which Edwards co-sponsored and which proposed amendments to workmen's compensation law received unfavorable reports from the House Constitutional and Administrative Law committee.

In other news, Edwards reported he has written a letter to the president of the State Board of Education supporting the five-day waiver requested by the Garrett County Board of Education.

Edwards stated in his letter that without a waiver county students will have to be in school longer than other students and will be at a disadvantage in trying to get summer jobs.

He added that teachers who must attend summer school may have problems because their summer classes may begin before county schools are closed.

Beginning their thirtieth year in business with a new name is Glotfelty Enterprises, Inc., formerly Hawkinson Tread Service.

Located on Route 219 north of Oakland, Glotfelty Enterprises, Inc. provides new B. F. Goodrich, Michelin, Cooper, General, Goodyear, Firestone, Toyo tires, and retreaded tires for cars, trucks, farm tractors, and off-road vehicles.

Owners of the enterprise are Gene Glotfelty, president; George Glotfelty, vice president; and Larry C. Glotfelty, vice president. The owners explain that the business has always been a wholly owned subsidiary of Glotfelty Enterprises, but the trade name will now be changed.

Father of the current owners, F. B. Glotfelty, retired in 1982 but is still active in the business. F. B. started the family enterprise in 1956 with 10 employees. The original building was located on North Third Street in Oakland, where the NAPA Oakland Auto Parts store is now located. The building was destroyed by fire in 1972.

The company moved to its present location in 1973, where F. B.'s three sons currently operate the business. In 1969, G. & G. Tire Service in LaVale was added to the family business, and a third location, Bridgeport Tire & Supply in Bridgeport, W. Va., was added in 1980.

The three locations employ a total of 51 people including Charles Tichnell and Russell Rodeheaver, two men who started with F. B. Glotfelty in 1956.

Cheese Recovered By Community Action Workers

Two National Guardsmen and an employee of Garrett County Community Action were questioned last week by Chief John K. Sines after receiving a tip from two Community Action employees that the three men had stolen cheese and butter from the trucks that deliver the food to distribution centers, which is given to needy families who qualify for the free surplus food.

Chief Sines said he contacted 1st Sgt. Weeks of Company C about the hard evidence that had been presented to him. He also contacted the superior in charge of the Community Action employee. The three allegedly confessed to taking the food and all the cheese and butter was recovered.

Chief Sines did not make arrests and Community Action did not press charges. The two National Guardsmen are reportedly being reprimanded by the military, and the Community Action employee was placed under the supervision of his superior.

There's No Such Thing As A Free Lunch

For your ad to be read, the publication that carries it must be read.

If you're advertising in a publication that is given away, you'll never be sure your ad message has the impact you paid for.

Measure the impact of a newspaper by paid circulation, and make sure it is audited. Third class, direct mail publications are not audited and therefore have no proven readership whatsoever.

The Republican, a member of the Audit Bureau of Circulations, has an audited circulation of 10,900, meaning there are approximately 30,000 people who read The Republican every week. That's proven readership. Not a single copy of The Republican is tossed into the garbage can when it is received each week, because people pay to receive it. The same cannot be claimed by shoppers and other third class mailings, many copies of which are never read and do indeed line the interiors of refuse cans all over the community.

Many persons also receive more than one copy of a particular shopper each week (we know of one person who receives four!), which also makes circulation figures inflated and misleading.

How many people pay for a newspaper is a sure way to determine its value to its readers, and a rather strong indicator of where you should spend your valuable ad dollars (unless you give away your product or services, too).

Sound Decision . . .

At a meeting of the Western Maryland Association of Counties last week the Garrett County commissioners parted company with their fellow commissioners from Allegany, Washington, and Frederick counties on Governor Hughes' request that the organization make an endorsement of the proposed legislation that would allow Citicorp, a huge New York bank holding company, to move into Maryland with full service banking privileges. The local commissioners decided not to support the measure, while the other three counties' leaders voted affirmatively.

Since that time, the Garrett County commissioners have been accused by some, including the editor of the Cumberland Times-News, of displaying "tunnel vision" and voting in such a way simply because they are still upset that Allegany County, and not Garrett County, was selected for the site of a state convention center.

The commissioners' response to this criticism was that the decision was made in the best interest of Garrett County's citizens, and we agree with them.

Garrett County is the only one of the four counties in western Maryland that has its own local banks. Citicorp poses stiff competition to all other financial institutions, especially smaller, local banks, such as Garrett National Bank and First United National Bank & Trust. These two institutions employ nearly 200 of our citizens and have always been extremely supportive of local economic development, as well as our many community, civic, and service organizations. Although competition is normally healthy for the economy, there would no doubt be a great mismatch created if and when Citicorp comes to town.

Our commissioners are well aware of the benefits Citicorp would bring to the Hagerstown area, where the company would build a credit card center offering nearly 1,000 jobs to the area. The editorial in the Cumberland publication stated that the members of the Western Maryland Association of Counties need to stick together and support each other. When, we ask, did any of these other three counties ever support Garrett County on an issue that would benefit solely Garrett County residents? And when, lately, has Governor Hughes made a decision to benefit Garrett County?

Also, as Commissioner Braskey pointed out, they were called upon to make this decision at a moment's notice, without any prior opportunity to study the issue. The item was not even on the agenda of the Association meeting.

In a somewhat related matter, we see that most of the legislators of Allegany and Washington counties are working to have Garrett County's Wayne Hamilton replaced on the Public Service Commission with a woman from the Hancock area. They give no concrete reasoning for this decision which convinces us that it is politically motivated. Sylvia Hancock, their choice for the job, is a consumer advocate whose objectivity as a member of the PSC would be highly suspect. They also do not cite specific negative aspects of Hamilton's record on the Commission. They make a vague reference to "his lack of background" for the job.

We submit that Mr. Hamilton may well be the sharpest, most informed member of the Commission right now, and more importantly, he is a citizen of Garrett County, who knows and understands the concerns of the county. We have so few representatives on state boards and commissions, we would hate to see this one eliminated as well.

We may not have many votes in Garrett County, but it's encouraging that we have many political leaders and citizens who refuse to simply lie down and be steamrolled by the state and those counties who do, by virtue of voter strength, have more power than we do.

Letter to Editor

To the Editor:

This letter is in reference to the growing number of people in Garrett County involved with outside physical sports. Numerous people may now be seen along the streets and highways running, walking, and bicycling. Since becoming an avid runner the past two years, I have noticed a disregard for the person along the highway by many passing motorists. The motorist feels he has complete right-of-way on the highway and the runner is in his way. The runner feels he has the right-of-way to pursue his activity. The result is a no win situation for the motorists and the runner.

My point is that we must learn to share the streets and highways, recognizing each others rights and privileges. With the increasing number of motorists and runners on the roads it becomes necessary for the laws and regulations to be followed by both.

Let's try to learn to be courteous to the motorist and to the runners and share the road safely with each other.

Thank you,
Steve Hile

Resh Case

The section specifies that "a complaint against a law enforcement officer, alleging brutality in the execution of his duties, may not be investigated unless the complaint be duly sworn to by the aggrieved person's immediate family, or by any person with firsthand knowledge obtained as a result of the presence at and observation of the alleged incident, or by the parent or guardian in the case of a minor child before an official authorized to administer oaths."

Thayer noted that the state legislature did not designate in Section 728 (b)(4) that an administrative superior of the suspected officer could file and swear to a complaint and, therefore, the charges and proceedings were improper.

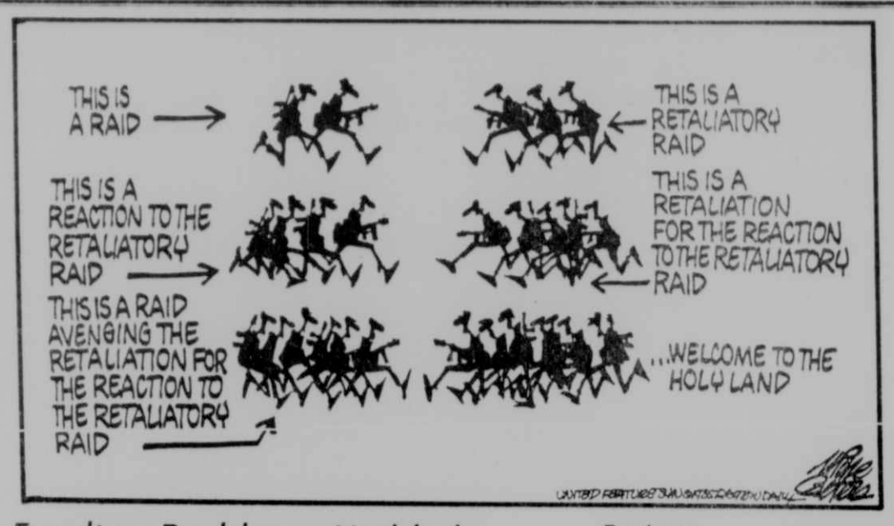

In discussion of the State Police officials' arguments, Thayer wrote, "Hypothetically, it could certainly be administratively irresponsible not to investigate certain conduct of law enforcement personnel. However, Section 728 (b)(4) cannot logically be interpreted to accomplish the result sought by the State Police."

state's decision to locate a conference center in Allegany County instead of Garrett County. "We are in favor of economic development, and if it's going to help Washington County, that's fine. We are not opposed to that, and we are not crying over spilled milk about the supposed conference center in Allegany County, which, in my humble opinion, will never materialize," said Gregg. "They're still talking about a conference center. We're building one.

The editorial also claimed that the board of commissioners had "tunnel vision" because of the stand they took on the legislation. Commissioner Braskey reported, "If protecting the best interests of the people of Garrett County is 'tunnel vision', let me have 'tunnel' vision!"

Funding Problems Highlight Sanitary Commission Meeting

The March meetings of the Garrett County Sanitary Commission were held on the first and third Tuesdays of the month, with several important issues discussed. Among those topics discussed were the spring start-up of construction of the final phase of the Deep Creek project, problems in obtaining funding for a backhoe for the Deep Creek project, reports on public hearings for the Bloomington and Gorman projects, and updates on several other projects.

Deep Creek Lake Sewer

Sanitary District Administrator Wendell Beitzel reported that there has been little activity during the last month due to the weather, however, the contractors have started back to work and anticipate that the entire Deep Creek project will be completed sometime in May.

Bids were received for a backhoe for the Deep Creek project, after being advertised by the sanitary district. According to Beitzel, the district requested grant assistance for the purchase and had received word that they could buy the backhoe and consider the purchase grant eligible, subject to state approval. Beitzel stated, however, that the state had rejected the bid, that the bid must be advertised again, and new bids taken.

The state informed the sanitary district that this was because they had not required a bid bond and a performance bond from the bidders. The state regulations require bidders to have the bonds, and require that the bids comply with MBE and WBE requirements of federal regulations or that the district request a waiver from these regulations.

These regulations were unknown to the sanitary commission, who will now readvertise and accept new bids on the backhoe in an attempt to satisfy the requirements of the state for grant funding.

The sanitary commission has been informed by the Environmental Protection Agency that they will audit step three, the construction phase of the Deep Creek project, and phase out step two, the design aspect of the project. Beitzel explained that there are a couple of items that the EPA considers grant ineligible, that the sanitary district is in disagreement with. He went on to explain that the state is holding off payment of the grant for step two until the audit is done. If the state does not decide to fund those items in question, $55,000 will be added to the local share of the project, said Beitzel.

Bloomington Sanitary District

The Bloomington Sanitary District public hearing was held in March to present the revised cost estimates of the completed design, and to update the community on the status of the system and give them an opportunity to review the design.

Beitzel reported that a high-cost supplemental grant from the state of Maryland for the amount of $169,300 was successfully obtained. EPA and Maryland state grants along with local capital costs will pay the total estimated project cost of $1,683,900.

The design is now being reviewed by the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene's Office of Environmental Programs. After state approval is given, bids will be taken for construction of the system, according to Beitzel.

Gorman Sanitary District

Also held in March was a public hearing on the Gorman Sanitary District. Reports showed that because of a necessary change in location of the treatment facility resulting in a necessary lift station, the need to change to an ultraviolet light system, and low cost estimates for the operation and maintenance of the system, estimates are substantially higher than those presented in the facility plan.

This combined increase in cost estimates would mean much higher user fees. More so, explained Beitzel, because there will only be approximately 28 users which will make a drastic increase to each user.

At the public hearing, the community was advised that the sanitary district will attempt to seek funding for the total local share for the entire project. Those in attendence concurred with the sanitary district's action to obtain funds and felt that if that can be accomplished, the district should proceed with the project.

Kitzmiller Sewer

The design for the Kitzmiller sewer project is complete and has been submitted to the health department for review. Estimates have been requested in order to prepare for a public hearing to be held in approximately one month.

Although estimates have not yet been received, it appears that construction estimates will be high. A revised estimate will be presented at the public hearing.

Mtn. Lake Water System

The Mtn. Lake Water System, which serves Mtn. Lake Park and Loch Lynn, experienced problems during the cold weather getting water from the springs. Beitzel said that it was necessary to supplement the supply with purchases from the Oakland Water System.

To add to the problem, the meter at the Oakland Water Company was broken, making it difficult to determine the amount of water being purchased by the Mtn. Lake Water System. This made it necessary to notify the Oakland System when the Mtn. Lake System was taking water and the valves had to be operated manually. The operators then estimated the amount of water purchased by the Mtn. Lake System.

Beitzel reported that there now seems to be plenty of water in the Mtn. Lake Water System, and the sanitary district is somewhat puzzled as to what happened. They will attempt to find an answer so that the problem won't recur next winter.

South Garrett Industrial Park

The engineer engaged by the sanitary commission to design the South Garrett Industrial Park system has finished the design and submitted it to the health department for review.

The sanitary commission has been advised by the state that they won't approve the line extention unless the Bausch and Lomb treatment plant operation is improved.

Beitzel stated that if the sanitary district cannot proceed with that project shortly, there is a possibility of losing the funding. They will therefore, make an attempt to get the issue resolved soon.

Gorman Water

The Gorman Water System experienced problems last winter because of a couple of line leaks on the Maryland side and some problems on the West Virginia side of the North Branch of the Potomac River. Beitzel reported that the problems have been corrected and that service is back in normal operation.

interest. There are no specific qualifications required, Hamilton noted.

Both Del. Edwards and Sen. Bambacus said Wednesday that they believed Hamilton has been a conscientious, open-minded and fair commissioner.

Both legislators pointed out the sensitive nature of the PSC because of its decisions on the setting of utility rates. "It is a thankless job," noted Bambacus.

Hamilton also explained that a commissioner must be fair in his approach to all issues and must strive to serve the best interests of both consumers and utility companies.

"You have to be fair to all sides," said Hamilton. "If nothing else, what can be said about me is, at least, I am fair."

Icy Roads, Fog Blamed For Area Vehicle Mishaps

Bad weather conditions contributed to several automobile accidents which occurred in the county this past week, according to reports filed by the Maryland State Police.

According to a hospital spokesman, Bonnie Jean Winters, 42, Oakland, was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital where she was treated for injuries sustained in a one-vehicle accident and later released.

According to Tfc. Larry Rosage, Winters was traveling east on Route 39 Friday at 6:45 a.m. when she lost control of the 1984 Ford Bronco she was operating due to icy road conditions. The vehicle reportedly ran off the right side of the roadway and struck an embankment and continued on across both lanes and struck an embankment on the left side of the road before it overturned on its side in the westbound lane.

Winters was transported to the hospital by the Southern Rescue Squad.

Another Friday morning accident sent Douglas Ellis, 40, Oakland, to Garrett County Memorial Hospital where he was treated for minor injuries and then released.

The 7:15 p.m. accident occurred when Ellis, who was operating a 1980 Ford pickup on U.S. Route 219 north, lost control of his vehicle due to patches of ice on the roadway. The vehicle then ran off the right side of the road and struck an embankment, according to Sgt. R.E. Edwards, investigating officer.

Ellis was transported to the hospital by the Maryland State Police.

Icy road conditions also caused another Friday mishap on U.S. Route 219 north.

The 3:15 p.m. accident occurred when Arleen Clair Schudd, 33, Moundsville, W. Va., lost control of the 1982 Ford Escort she was operating. The vehicle skidded on the roadway and then traveled off the west shoulder and overturned.

Schudd was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Northern Rescue Squad where she was treated and released.

Tfc. R.C. Resh investigated the mishap and charged Schudd with negligent driving.

Two persons escaped serious injury early Sunday morning after being involved in a one-vehicle accident on U.S. Route 219.

Patrick L. Gregg, 23, the operator of a 1984 Ford Tempo, and his wife Michelle Gregg, 20, of Mtn. Lake Park, were traveling south on U.S. Route 219 when the vehicle left the right side of the road onto an embankment causing the vehicle to overturn.

According to Tfc. R.J. Resh, heavy fog was a contributing factor in the mishap. Gregg was charged with negligent driving.

Note: It was incorrectly reported in last week's accident story that George Winters was charged with failure to slow to avoid a collision in an accident that occurred on U.S. Route 219 south. The person actually charged in the mishap was the other driver, Joseph H. Bava Jr., Parsons, W. Va.

It was also incorrectly stated in another accident that a vehicle being operated by Randy Sisler overturned in a mishap in Mtn. Lake Park. Actually, it was the other vehicle involved in the accident that overturned. Sisler and his two passengers were not transported to the hospial as was earlier reported. The Republican regrets the errors.

Our Turn

Coed Moms
by Susan Alvarez

Statistics show they are increasing in number on college campuses. They have turned diaper bags into book bags, can pack four lunches in the wink of an eye, and actually survive standing in fee payment lines while carrying on a conversation with the kid behind them on the merits of "Purple Rain" by Prince. Who are they? They're coed Moms. That new breed of women who juggles husbands, kids, and housework with computer programs and Plato.

The Mom on campus has several disadvantages that most younger students never have to face. For instance, coed Moms turn in research papers not realizing there is a crayon drawing of a shark chasing an army tank on the "Works Cited" page. They bravely volunteer to keep the group discussion notebook only to find themselves, two weeks later, scrubbing the maple syrup fingerprints from the pages as they peel them apart. The coed Mom must learn to fit studying into any available part of the day; namely reading the fourth act of Hamlet to the kids as a bedtime story or finishing chemistry problems while peeling potatoes. They must meekly explain that a "Star Wars man accidentally walked across the typewriter keyboard" when the professor notes "j7hgtr" typed halfway through a page of a paper. There are those moments, too, when a coed Mom realizes that she and the professor are the only ones in the class who know who Bob Dylan is and actually remember when LBJ was president. And, of course, there are a few coed Moms who actually get to go to Ft. Lauderdale for spring break.

The husband of the coed Mom has to take his lumps, too. He must endure weeks of TV dinners, gets invited to Parents' Weekends, and hears "not tonight, hon, I have a geography exam."

The coed Mom does have several advantages over the regular college student. She doesn't have to spend hours inventing clever excuses for missing classes. She has real excuses like, "The baby had strep throat, I broke a tooth, and the dog had puppies; so I had to go to the doctor, the dentist and the veterinarian all in the same day. But the biggest advantage a coed Mom has is when she opens her grades to a chorus of "Atta way, Mom. We knew you could do it."

North Glade Man Injured As Result Of Farm Accident

An area man was admitted to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland yesterday after his hand was injured in a corn picker.

Harold Lohr, 50, North Glade Road, was flown to the hospital by the Medevac helicopter and was listed in "stable" condition last night.

According to Cpl. M.R. Mattingly of the Maryland State Police, the accident occurred at about 11 a.m. in a field located on Lohr's property.

Lohr was reportedly gathering corn that had not been picked last fall for his animals. He said the power takeoff on the borrowed tractor was running the corn picker when it jammed. Mattingly said Lohr apparently did not turn off the machine and it caught his glove, pulling his hand into the machine. When the machine had advanced as far as Lohr's wrist, the slip clutch engaged, stopping the machine.

Emergency crews worked an hour to remove Lohr's hand from the machine and reportedly disassembled the machine to do so.

Garrett County Emergency Management dispatched the Southern Rescue Squad, Deer Park Fire Department, State Police, Sheriff's Department and the helicopter to the scene. All units remained at the scene until 12:25 p.m.

DeWitt is currently an instructor of music at Alderson-Broaddus College, Philippi, W. Va. Privately, he instructs trumpet, French horn, and euphonium. He is presently directing the music for the college's production of "Camelot."

Dr. Sheets, an Oakland dentist, also holds a bachelor degree in music history and composition and a master of arts in musicology from the University of Pittsburgh. He is a Vietnam veteran, having performed with USO shows for Special Services.

Sheets, who is the organist at St. Paul's United Methodist Church, has served as professional piano and organ backup for Lawrence Welk, Loretta Lynn, Maureen McGovern, The Four Aces, The Ink Spots, and others. He has accompanied numerous productions by the Garrett Choral Society and the Garrett County Playhouse.

The major portion of the concert will be a cantata, "The Seven Last Words of Christ," featuring soloists Lana Brenneman, soprano; Rev. John Grant, tenor; Carl Fike, baritone; Jim Chisholm, tenor; Dave Callis, baritone; and Ms. Sincell, mezzo-soprano.

Other numbers will be "O Come and Mourn" and "Hosanna, Loud Hosanna."

The concert will be presented Saturday, March 30, at 8 p.m. and on Sunday, March 31, at 3:30 p.m. Tickets are on sale at Englander's Pharmacy in Oakland. Although tickets may be purchased at the door, those already holding tickets will be admitted at 7:15 p.m. on Saturday and at 2:45 p.m. Sunday. The doors will be opened for the remainder of the public at 7:40 p.m. and 3:10 p.m., respectively, according to Nancy Learey, director.

Garrett County Native Named 1985 Maryland Mother Of The Year

Eleanor (Nellie) Glotfelty Robey, formerly of Oakland, has been named 1985 Maryland Mother.

Now a resident of White Plains, Charles County, Mrs. Robey was chosen for the honor by the Maryland Mother Search Committee, and will represent the state at The American Mothers' Conference at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel, New York, in April. Of that competition she says "That is big time stuff, and I cannot expect to come out on top, but I very humbly and proudly carry the honors that Maryland has bestowed on me."

Mrs. Robey is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Glotfelty. Her mother, Carrie Browning, was a great-granddaughter of Meshack Browning and his wife, Mary McMullen. Mrs. Robey carries the bloodlines of Browning, McMullen, Thayer, Glotfelty, Frantz, Casteel and Brant, all pioneer families of Garrett (formerly Allegany) County.

One of the requirements of nominees for State Mother is a statement of her Philosophy of Parenting. Eleanor said, "Each child is a composite of all the genes of its ancestors . . . a most unique individual. Positive discipline, love, example, prenatal care . . . lays the path for adulthood. A good home, where love, responsible parents, social, moral and financial concerns are dealt with capably, surround the children with a nurturing environment for fullest potential developments.

"Standards of conduct and achievement, flexability to accommodate each individual personality, and the needs of each family member, provides stimuli for commendable development of children.

"Teach the child and the adult will bless humanity."

Mrs. Robey has four children: Eleanor Flemister, antique dealer and bridal consultant, Colesville; Joan Betsill, director of admissions, High Point College, North Carolina; Ret. Maj. John M. Robey, Jr., USAF, Strategic Air Command pilot, a resident of Charles County and now with the Department of Defense; and Joy R. Klingaman, supervisor of probation, Montgomery County Juvenile Services, Germantown. She also has six grandsons, four granddaughters and one great-grandson.

Mrs. Robey was graduated from Oakland High School in 1919, at age 15. She attended Western Maryland College, where she majored in education and took honors in speech and drama. In 1923 she taught at Selbysport School, then went to the University of Maryland, where she graduated with honors in speech in 1924.

Her husband was John M. Robey, a native of Charles County, and a life-long journalist.

After graduation, Mrs. Robey taught in Maryland's first vocational high school, at Baden, Prince Georges County. She did not teach during the years her children were growing up, stating, "I felt they needed me more than did anybody else's thousands of children, and I have never regretted it."

Later she took credits in special education, and after moving to Charles County 30 years ago, she was a special services teacher, specializing in teaching learning-problem, brain-damaged, physically impaired and emotionally disturbed children. Today she hears from those children and their parents from all over the world.

While doing that work she spearheaded the organization HARC, (Handicapped and Retarded Children) that has remained an active organization of Charles County.

Following her husband's death in 1955, Eleanor resumed active community participation. She serves on the Board of League of Women Voters, organizes voter registration drives and co-chaired the 1984 Voters' Guide. Her prime community concerns are adequate water and sewerage for Charles County and adequate roads to serve the needs of that most rapidly growing Maryland area. A staunch Democrat, she works in the Democrat Clubs, and serves as Secretary and administrative officer for Citizens for a Better Charles County. One of her representatives in the House of Delegates said "she is demanding of public officials, as far as integrity and performance in office are concerned."

As a member of 300-year-old Christ Episcopal Church, La Plata, Mrs. Robey has served as its first female lay reader and chalicist. Her Rector said of her, "Eleanor's enthusiastic heart keeps her confident about the goodness of life, the worth of people and the possibilities for the future. Her zest and optimism infect the rest of us and encourages us."

She was recently honored by The Greater Jaycees and Jaycee Women of Waldorf, as Outstanding Senior Citizen of the County.

Rotarians Hear About Hopemont

"Hopemont" was the program theme for the Terra Alta Rotary Club members' meeting Thursday evening, March 14.

The program was presented by Steve Forsythe, administrator of the institution. His talk covered the past when Hopemont was a hospital for the chronically ill and the present situation which is still in transition for personal care residents and the probable future of the institution. At present, the facility has been through a period of controversy and difficulty because of the type of patients transferred from mental institutions. He said the staff at Hopemont is not quite prepared to deal with unpredictable personalities. In order to train personnel, several in-services and outside courses have been made available. It is expected that, in the future, more specialized professionals will be part of the Hopemont staff.

The Rev. Bruce Reed and John Whitehair recently returned from a tour of the Holy Land and Egypt. It is anticipated that they will relate their experiences during the trip to Rotarians during a coming meeting.

The program chairman for March 28 will be Charles Harriman.

Work-Study Program Aids GCC Students

About one-quarter of the full–time students at Garrett Community College work in a variety of on-campus jobs to earn part of their college expense money. They work in nearly all areas of the college, including the academic area, the business office, food service, and maintenance.

The College Work Study Program, which is funded 80% by the federal government and 20% by the college, provides employment for 67 students, who work seven to 14 hours per week. Students apply for work study when they make their financial aid application, and assignments are made on a first-come, first-serve basis.

"We try to place the students in jobs where they will learn a skill or gain an experience that will be helpful to them," said Cissy VanSickle, financial aid officer at GCC. "For example, business majors may be assigned to the college business office, and computer students to the Computer Lab"

Learning and sharpening of skills is mentioned repeatedly by both supervisors and students when discussing the benefits of the work-study program. Carol Smith, librarian, who supervises six work-study students, praised the students' contribution to the library's operation and pointed out an extra benefit. "They help out a lot, and take a lot of clerical duties off our hands. At the same time they learn a lot about a library that they can take with them for the rest of their lives - things like looking up books in the card catalogs and using reference books."

Greg Rodeheaver, one of the library work-study students, agreed. "I have learned a lot about what a library has to offer and how to use it. It has been a help to me, especially in my English courses at the college."

Robin Spiker, an English major who works in the English Department, does clerical work, and this semester assisted with the production of the college literary magazine, "Murphy's Horses". She said, "I enjoy my work very much. It has given me a lot of experience in the field in which I hope to work some day - English. Helping put together 'Murphy's Horses' was a great learning experience for me."

Many students' work assignments will benefit them when they enter the world of work. Karen Martin is a freshman who worked 10 hours per week in the business office. She said that her work there has been valuable for more than just the money she earns. "It gives me experience in communicating with people. I'll be more confident looking for and holding down a job in the future because of it."

Supervising the Computer Lab 14 hours per week is Kenny Thomas, who plans to work in the computer field when he graduates in May. Thomas helps students get acquainted with the computers, answers students' questions, and helps the computer teachers when a large number of students are working in the lab at one time. Thomas, who has taken all the courses on computers offered by the college, said, "It keeps me sharp because of the many problems that can arise. Students want answers now. It helps me keep up with my skills until I graduate and can use them in my work."

Another benefit of the work–study program was mentioned by Bob Crone, chairperson of the arts division. "It's good for the students because it makes them part of the overall operation of the college. When that happens, the sutdent's interest in the school as a whole increases."

Roz Lancaster, who works in the college bookstore, agreed. "It keeps you in touch with the mainstream of the college. You get to know both the students and the instructors. You feel like you are a part of things."

Several students said that the most positive aspect of work–study was the fact that they were actually earning their money for college. Robin Spiker said, "It makes you feel like you're not just taking money, you're earning it."

A library work-study student, Cindy Stewart, agreed. "It teaches you a lot more about responsibility than just having things handed to you."

The college will honor three outstanding work-study students next month with cash awards. Nominees for the awards are recommended by their supervisors, and final selections are made by a committee. VanSickle stated, "It is never easy to pick the outstanding work-study students because as a group they do an excellent job. The fact that it helps the college while, at the same time, helps worthy students is what makes the program work."

New Program At GCC To Be Given Final Approval

The Board of Trustees for Garrett Community College met March 19, and learned that the State Board for Community Colleges formally approved, on March 14, the Hotel/Restaurant Management Program to be implemented at GCC.

Dean of Academic Affairs Fred K. Leary told the board he had received the formal approvement and that the program would next have to be approved by the State Board of Education on April 4. He said he felt certain that the new program would begin in September of this year. It will be a certificate program.

Funding

President Randall Harman reported that the funding proposal for Maryland Community Colleges is presently being read by the House Ways and Means Committee and that the companion Senate bill No. 506 is also being read. He felt sure the proposal would go through as presented by the State Administration. Several minor amendments added to the bill were voted on yesterday with unfavorable results.

The $4 million proposal was to increase the student aid rate to $25 per FTE, although Governor Harry Hughes still contends he will not find the money for that. The outcome of the vote will be known in April.

Harman stated, "The prospects of the bill passing look good, but I'm not counting it in our revenue until after April 1." Harman added that the budget for the college should be ready by the next meeting on April 16.

Budget

Dean of Finance Leo Martin reported to the board that the college is in good shape budget–wise, although spending was light in the beginning of the fiscal year and is now showing up on budget figures. The college is nearly on the mark for its projected budget.

Martin also said that although the college normally runs into cash flow problems during February and March due to increased utility bills, the college is actually in better shape than it was last year at this time.

It was also announced that an advance on state money will be forthcoming in July.

Finally, Martin stated that the college budget has been well-managed this year and that the college has lived within the budget.

Policies and Objectives

The GCC Policies and Objectives handbook was presented to the board for approval Tuesday night and was unanimously accepted with a few minor changes. Board member William Grant volunteered to work on the wording of some of the policies and is to present the final draft at the next regular board meeting.

Dr. Goldberg To Conduct Science Seminar At GCC

A seminar on "Problems that Students Have Conceptualizing Scientific Principles" will be held at Garrett Community College on Friday, March 29. The program will be conducted by Dr. Fred Goldberg, coordinator of physical science at West Virginia University. The hour-long seminar will begin at 2 p.m., and will be followed by a question and answer session.

Dr. Goldberg will focus on teacher assumptions that can cause serious problems with student understanding of scientific subject matter. He will use practical demonstrations to illustrate those assumptions, and will offer suggestions about how teachers can avoid those problems.

Students, teachers, and other interested persons are urged to attend. There is no charge for participation in the seminar, which is sponsored by the Science Area at Garrett Community College.

Judge Denies New Trial Motion In Physician's Malpractice Case

Chief Judge Fred A. Thayer Wednesday denied a motion for a new trial requested by the attorney for Paul Williams, M.D., a former Garrett County physician.

After a four-day trial in the Garrett County Circuit Court in February, the jury upheld a 1983 arbitration panel's original verdict of guilty in a malpractice suit brought against Williams by Thomas and Helen Fowler.

The Fowlers filed the case on behalf of their son, Craig, who suffered an illness when he was 10 years old and was treated by Williams at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Fowler remained at the hospital for four days and was released. Four days later he was taken to Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland, where he underwent surgery for peritonitis, an inflammation in the abdominal and pelvic area. He remained a patient for over two months and underwent surgery three more times ultimately having part of his colon and his appendix removed.

The jury awarded Craig Fowler $125,000 and his parents $2,500.

Conrad Varner, a Hagerstown attorney who represented Williams, stated in his motion for a new trial the specific grounds for the motion were: 1) that there was insufficient evidence to submit to the jury the issue of whether Williams' actions directly caused the young Fowler's subsequent health problems; and 2) that there was insufficient evidence to submit to the jury "the issue of damages suffered by the Plaintiffs."

Varner and Robert Reinhart, a Cumberland attorney who represented the Fowlers, presented their arguments concerning the motion before Chief Judge Fred A. Thayer in his court chambers Tuesday afternoon.

Reinhart stated Wednesday that the evidence was sufficient for the jury to decide whether Williams' negligence caused Craig Fowlers' health problems and to decide the issue of damages suffered by the Plaintiffs.

The judge stated in his order that there was testimony from which the "jury could have concluded that Craig Fowler's hospitalization at Sacred Heart Hospital was unduly prolonged by omissions or commissions" of Williams and that Fowler's physical problems and recovery were complicated by Williams' violation of the appropriate standard of care.

Thayer indicated there was adequate evidence for the jury to decide the issue of damages suffered by the Plaintiffs.

After notification of the judge's decision Wednesday, Varner stated Wednesday that the next step will probably be an appeal of the jury's verdict and the judge's denial of the motion for a new trial. The Maryland Court of Special Appeals is the court where the appeal will be filed.

Deputies Attend DWI Conference In College Park

Garrett County Sheriff's Deputies Charles P. Nolan and Larry Gnegy attended a four-day seminar last week titled "The Fifth Vehicular Homicide/DWI Conference", conducted at the University of Maryland, College Park.

Guest speakers included Dr. Yale Caplan, state toxicologist, and officials from the Department of Transportation and the Maryland State Police.

The conference provided information on the collection and analysis of evidence, court testimony, and an update on DWI laws and amendments, as well as the rehabilitation of intoxicated drivers.

Rams Open With Win Over Bruce

John Nelson and Scott Stem combined for a one-hitter and 17 strikeouts Wednesday afternoon to lead the Southern High Rams to a 9-0 opening season victory over Bruce at Westernport.

Nelson pitched until the sixth inning, fanning a dozen batters and allowing the Bulldogs' only hit, a third inning single by Dale Kimble, before Stem came in to pick up five more strikeouts and allow no hits.

Danny Holler paced the Rams' offense as he drove in four runs on two doubles and a single. Jeff Sweitzer added a double in the seven-hit performance.

Charlie Wilson, who was relieved by Todd Lutton in the sixth, took the loss for the Bulldogs, who were also playing their season opener.

Southern, picked by many as the top team in the area, will return to action Tuesday at Keyser. Gametime is 3:45.

IN MEMORIAM

In Loving Memory of my son "Dink" who died on Good Friday, April 1, 1983.

It is lonely here without you, so sad along life's life. Life does not seem the same to me, since you were called away. It broke my heart to lose you, but you did not go alone, for part of me went with you that day God called you home. They say time heals all sorrow and helps us to forget, but time so far has only proved how much I miss you yet.

Dearly loved, Fondly remembered, and Sadly missed.

Payment Approved For SHS Track

The Board of Public Works has approved the payment of a cost over-run on work done constructing the track, tennis courts, and softball field at Southern High School.

The over-run of $49,117 is partially due to inflation and partially due to underestimates in the original application, according to John Nelson, Open Space coordinator. The original amount approved for the project was $107,000.

The State Program Open Space's policy is to pay the county directly, however, this cost over-run will be paid to the Garrett County School Board and the county who have paid the subcontractors for work completed so far.

Little League Tryouts Slated

The Central Garrett Baseball League will hold final registration and tryouts this Saturday, March 30, at Northern High School, rain or shine. Registration will be held from 10 to 11 a.m. and tryouts will follow immediately.

League officials state that all applicants will be placed on a team. First-year players must bring a copy of their birth certificates and there will be a $2 registration fee for all players.

Lakers Coast To 7-1 Beginning, To Face Allegany This Afternoon

The Garrett Community College baseball team is off to one of its best starts ever this season as they have rolled up seven wins against a single loss over the past ten days. The Lakers will travel to Cumberland this afternoon for a doubleheader against arch-rival Allegany Community College, beginning at 1 p.m.

The Lakers, under new head coach and former Garrett standout Lawrence Nesselrodt, are competing as an independent team in the western section of Region XX. The roster includes 14 freshmen and nine sophomores.

Garrett opened the season with a pair of convincing wins over Chesapeake CC, 13-5 and 9-1. Phil Carr, a freshman and former all-around athlete at Northern High School, along with returning All-Region performer Ted Sova paced the offense in the first game. Bill Liller, a Moorefield High School graduate, picked up the win in relief.

Vaughn Yenitch tossed nine strikeouts in the second contest in recording the win for Garrett in the nightcap. Ben Shreve rapped three hits and registered a pair of stolen bases on the afternoon.

Garrett then traveled to Catonsville Community College and nipped the home team in the first game, 3-2. Brian Cueva, formerly of Bruce High School, and Tim Pavlik each had two hits.

The Lakers dropped the second game, 5-0, as the defense faltered and gave up four unearned runs. However, Nesselrodt stated he was "pleased" to be 3-1 at that point in the season.

The Lakers then came home to sweep a pair of games from CCAC-South Campus, 4-3 and 9-8. Lenny Shook, a freshman out of Frankfort High School, and returner Bob Scavina each smacked two hits in the first game. Denzil Evans, a Tucker County High School graduate, recorded the last two outs to pick up the save and secure Chris Huyett's win.

With the score knotted at 8-8 in the last inning of the nightcap, former Southern High three-sport letterman Ron Bosley led off with a double. Martin Harvey then doubled Bosley home for the winning run to give Bill Liller his second win of the season. Kent Freeman and Jim Keller each finished with two hits in that contest.

Garrett maintained its momentum Tuesday afternoon in Parkersburg, W.Va., in rolling over Ohio Valley College, 9-0 and 16-6.

Ed Frizzell struck out 13 batters and gave up a single hit in the first game for the Lakers, as his bid for a no-hitter was spoiled by Ted Bunnel's single in the bottom of the fifth.

Meanwhile, the Laker offense recorded nine hits, as Sova drove in three runs on a triple and a single, Shook doubled and singled, Cueva and Harvey each picked up two singles and Benny Shreve slammed a two-run single. Julio Rodiguez and Bunnel took the loss on the mound for Ohio Valley.

The Lakers jumped out to a 5-0 lead in the second inning of the nightcap, but the Ohio team rallied with five runs of its own in the bottom of the second, forcing Nesselrodt to pull John Luscko from the mound and send in Brian Jones with two outs. Jones then went the distance, giving up only one hit and a single run.

Garrett finished that game with 18 hits, including a three-run homer, an RBI double, and a single by Shreve. Cueva added a solo homer and two singles, Sova collected four RBIs on a double and a single, Freeman hit a run-producing double and single, Keller provided a pair of RBI singles, and Shook singled twice.

Bunnel absorbed the loss for Ohio Valley.

Nesselrodt, of Petersburg, W.Va., and a graduate of Davis and Elkins College, succeeded Phil Caruso as head coach of the Lakers. "I hope to carry the tradition that Phil had at Garrett," he said. "He brought in quality student athletes and was extremely successful in placing them in four-year programs after they left Garrett."

by Southern Middle School Student Government

Due to inclement weather the dance that was to be held last Friday was cancelled. In addition to this cancellation the countywide spelling bee was also postponed.

The winners of the St. Patrick's Day door decorating contest were: First place, Mrs. Green's 7B-1; Second Place, Mr. Rice's, 7B-2; and Third Place tie, Ms. Dean's 8B-3 and Mr. Thompson's 8A-1.

Student Government is busy preparing for the eighth grade Spring dance which will be held on May 18. They are also preparing the annual eighth grade trip. This year students will be given the opportunity to travel to Fort McHenry and the Inner Harbor in Baltimore. This event will take place on June 10.

Students will enjoy a three-day weekend this week as teachers will be available for parent conferences on Thursday evening and Friday morning at their respective schools.

The featured activity of the week is Drama Club. This activity is sponsored by Ms. Fike and Mr. Lovelace. The purpose of the club was to provide an opportunity for the participants to feel at ease and express themselves in front of an audience. In addition, the students were given an opportunity to emulate feelings and actions of the characters that they portray.

The following are some of the students reactions to this activity:

"I feel that the activity period went well. I enjoyed it because it gave me a chance to be something other than myself."

"The first activity period was the hardest to get through. I was nervous. By the time we had our last activity period on March 15, I felt much more at ease about performing in front of people."

All of the students questioned responded positively to this activity and its sponsors.

Featured faculty member of the week is media specialist, Mrs. Sue Kisner. She is the sole caretaker of the library that serves approximately 800 students.

Mrs. Kisner was born and reared in Garrett County, graduated in 1968 from Southern High School and attended Garrett Community College. Prior to her employment with the Garrett County Board of Education she was employed by the Cuppett and Weeks Nursing Home and Bausch and Lomb.

Her position as media specialist involves: the processing of all books, ordering of books, magazines and reference material, orientation of sixth grade students concerning media procedures, teaching or co-ordinating of classes for research, and providing a decoration atmosphere in the center.

Mrs. Kisner lives on the Garrett Road with her husband, Ron, and daughter and son, Callesta and Zane. She spends her leisure time enjoying football, car races and gardening. She and her husband are presently restoring a 1967 Mustang that they will eventually display at various auto shows.

The Annual Talent show will be held in several weeks at Southern Middle. Participants are being directed for preparation by show sponsors Mr. Thompson and Mrs. Clever. More concerning this event will appear in our next Newsy Notes.

County Democrats Attend Symposium

A symposium, held at Hood College in Frederick on Saturday, March 9, sponsored by the United Democrats of Frederick County, in cooperation with the Democratic State Central Committee for Frederick County, was attended by Garrett County Democratic Club members, President Spencer Schlosnagle and Phyllis Trickett and Garrett County Democratic Central Committee member, Doris Goldsborough.

The theme of the conference was "The Democratic Party: Where Do We Go From Here?" The concurrent panel discussions in the morning were "Leading the Way to the White House in '88" and "Liberalism: Mired in the Past or Building for the Future?" The afternoon panel discussions were "Are Interest Groups in the Best Interest of the Democratic Party?" and "Who are We and What do We Stand for as Democrats?"

Congresswoman Beverly Byron, Sixth District, introduced the keynote speaker, Dave McCurdy, congressman, Fourth District, Oklahoma. Speaking to a group of over 200, voter registration and getting out the vote was urged; however McCurdy put special emphasis on "reaching out to young people today, encouraging them to vote and become active within the Democratic Party."

During the panel discussions, there was concern that "young people need someone to inspire them," said Jim Kraft, chair of the club's committee for the Maryland Democratic Party. Dr. Virginia Lewis, professor emeritus of political science at Hood College, spoke her concern that "young people have failed the American government. They have no feeling. They should feel 'this is my country, I love it. I want it to be the kind that I want it to be.'"

John Willis, chair of the rules committee for the Democratic State Central Committee of Maryland and Maryland coordinator for the Mondale–Ferraro campaign, felt that "too much emphasis was put on the delegate selection process and getting the delegates rather than concentration on the presidential candidates."

Benjamin Cardin, speaker of the Maryland House of Delegates, stressed that "the Democratic Party stands for equity and fairness to all people in the country. We should use our elected officials more and more; use the grass roots support."

Delinquent Gas Customers Urged To Avoid Shutoff

Columbia Gas of Maryland this week urged customers with unpaid gas bills to take action now to avoid having their gas shut off.

"We know that some customers are facing high accumulated bills, but many of them probably have not taken advantage of all the assistance that is available," Thomas Lindsey, Jr., Cumberland manager for Columbia, said.

"Some customers may still be eligible for assistance from the federally-funded Maryland Energy Assistance Program. Customers should obtain all the help they can get, because it is there precisely for that purpose."

Lindsey said any customer with bill-paying difficulities, whether or not eligible for the federal assistance fund, should contact the nearest Columbia office and discuss the situation.

"Our people are ready and willing to work out extended payment plans tailored to individual needs and to advise eligible customers where to obtain assistance," Lindsey said.

However, Lindsey pointed out, if a customer fails to act to take care of accumulated costs of past gas usage, the company will be forced to discontinue service. This will require the customer to pay an additional charge for reconnection later, and to make arrangements for paying delinquent bills, Lindsey said.

Most people who read this will never have to pay extra for calls to Directory Assistance.

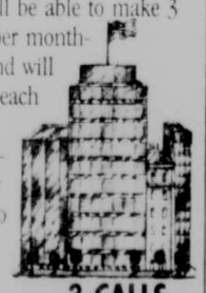

A new Directory Assistance charging plan becomes effective on April 1, but most people will never have to pay extra. Because each residential line will have an allowance of 12 Directory Assistance calls per billing period. That's more than most people use in a month. After that, each additional call will cost 25¢ and will be charged on your monthly bill. These charges will apply to calls made to 411 for local Directory Assistance, and 555-1212, the Directory Assistance you call for all other numbers within Maryland.

12 CALLS

Businesses will be able to make 3 calls on each line per monthly billing period. And will be charged 25¢ for each additional call.

Operator handling charges apply to all calls placed to Directory Assistance through the "0" operator.

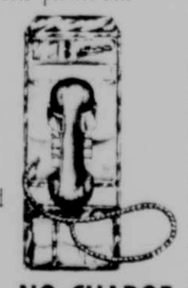

3 CALLS

Of course, if you have any kind of visual, physical or reading disability that prevents you from using your phone directory, you may be eligible for a Directory Assistance charge exemption for your home phone.

THERE ARE EXCEPTIONS.

A business that employs an individual with a qualifying disability may apply for an exemption from Directory Assistance charges when the disabled employee is the primary user of a business line that can be identified.

To apply, simply contact your local C&P Business Office. You'll find the number on your C&P phone bill and in the Customer Guide section in the front of your White Pages Directory. Also, there will be no charge for Directory Assistance calls placed from C&P-provided coin-operated phones and hospital patient telephones.

NO CHARGE

Even though many people will never have to pay extra for calls to Directory Assistance, we have a few suggestions to help you get the most from this service.

For instance, keep your C&P directories close to your phone and write down a list of numbers you call often. Or circle numbers in the directory to find them more easily a second time. To get the number of someone who recently moved, simply call the old number. The new number is usually provided. Also, when you call Directory Assistance, be sure to supply complete information, such as: the correct spelling of the full name and the exact address—to avoid having to place a second call. If you need two numbers from Directory Assistance, it's a good idea to ask for both of them at one time. Two numbers count as one call.

USE YOUR TOOLS

At C&P Telephone, we're dedicated to making the best local telephone service as affordable as possible. And we prove it every day.

Motion To Modify Wotring Sentence Denied By Judge

A motion to strike, modify or reduce the five-year sentence of Mrs. Regina K. Wotring, 34, formerly of Glen Oaks and a Garrett County native, has been denied by Allegany County Judge J. Frederick Sharer.

Mrs. Wotring received a 15-year sentence from Sharer on October 31, 1984 after being convicted September 21, 1984 by an Allegany County jury of solicitation to commit murder. The judge suspended 10 years of the sentence.

Evidence was presented that Mrs. Wotring had negotiated with Allen W. Reeves, of Rawlings, to kill someone in the garage of her Glen Oaks home on November 18, 1983.

State police responded to the Wotring garage on the night in question and discovered that Mrs. Wotring herself had dressed in men's clothing and was in the garage. She indicated she wanted Reeves to kill her.

Mrs. Wotring also had been charged with murder in the August 19, 1983 death of her estranged husband, Ronald F. Wotring, in their Glen Oaks home. However, she was acquitted June 11, 1984.

Mrs. Wotring is confined at the Maryland Correctional Institution for Women at Jessup.

Dispute Arises Over Payment To Engineers For SHS Project

A dispute has arisen between the Garrett County Board of Education and Potomac Engineering, Oakland, over engineering work done outside a contract for the new athletic fields at Southern High School.

Henry Moomau, owner of the engineering firm, discussed the matter with the school board March 14 during its monthly meeting. Also present during the meeting was the board's attorney, Ralph Burnett, Oakland, and Sull McCartney, Potomac Engineering office manager.

Moomau exlained the sequence of events leading to the dispute and explained that most of the firm's work has been compensated by the board, an outstanding balance of $1,400.20 remains due.

The problem arose because no contract or written agreement between all parties involved in the project was drafted, Moomau told the board members.

The engineering firm had a contract with the school board for drafting plans for the athletic fields which was to then be bid out to a contractor. However, the board received one bid on the project for an amount far above what had been anticipated.

The school board, with the support of the engineers, worked out a verbal agreement with the county to do the work. The end product, after hours of work by many who volunteered their time, was a track and two softball fields. There are still plans for a tennis court and multi-purpose field.

Moomau stated that his men did much of the engineering work which would have been done by a contractor and the work performed was not within the scope of the contract.

James Lupis, assistant superintendent of administrative services, stated he and Gene Coddington, building supervisor, disputed some of the work the firm claimed. They indicated they believed some of the work was within the scope of the contract. They also did not agree with some of the hours claimed by the firm.

Moomau asked the board to consider the matter and hopefully pay the outstanding amount to prevent pursuit of legal procedures.

The board members decided to further study the issue before making a decision.

Budget Presentation Delayed

In other school board matters, Ryscavage told the board he had intended to present his proposal for the FY 1986 school budget, but because of delays in negotiations with personnel bargaining groups, the budget was not yet complete.

Ryscavage said negotiations with the teachers were almost complete and he was expecting the teachers to vote soon on the proposed agreement.

The board's negotiation team is at an impasse with the Classified Supervisory Personnel, a group represented by the American Federation of Teachers. This group includes head custodians and cafeteria managers. Dr. Ryscavage stated a letter has been sent to David Hornbeck, state superintendent of schools, seeking his aid in the matter.

Negotiations with the Garrett County Association of Educational Support Personnel are progressing, but are not complete, Ryscavage noted. This group is affiliated with the Maryland State Teachers Association and includes secretaries, teachers' aides, custodians and cafeteria workers.

Ryscavage noted this is the year state law mandates school boards to begin negotiating with bargaining groups for the various employee groups.

Actions Noted

The school board approved a sabbatical leave request for teacher Judy Pula who serves as a resource teacher in the special education program.

A transportation manual, drafted by transportation director Michael Sines, was adopted by the board.

The board also approved a policy proposed by Dr. Ryscavage which outlines re-admission procedures for expelled students.

The board denied a request by Southern High School senior Criss Kepple to be absent a day of school to testify at a Maryland General Assembly hearing. The board's reason for denying the request was because the trip was not a school-related activity.

A BIT OVERWEIGHT perhaps, but this male German Shepherd would make a great companion. You can adopt him by calling the Garrett County Animal Shelter at 334-3553. Last week's kittens were adopted by Danette Anderson, Sue Kisner, Kathy Teter, and Nancy DeLauder.

Southern High Open House Set

Southern High School will have an Open House for parents this evening, March 28. The school staff will be available between 5:00 and 8:00 p.m. to discuss student progress, curriculum, college financing, and other topics. Parents who wish to schedule a specific conference time with a teacher may call the school office at 334-9447. Student ushers will be available to assist visitors.

Teachers will also be available at the school on Friday from 9 a.m. to noon for parents who are unable to attend the Open House. Parents who wish to visit on Friday are asked to stop at the school office upon arrival.

Mtn. Lake Park Town Council Meeting Held

The Mtn. Lake Park Mayor and Council met on March 14 to discuss topics of regular business plus a tax differential for the citizens of Mtn. Lake Park.

The mayor informed the council that the plat of Minnick Addition to Mtn. Lake Park has been filed with the Garrett County Circuit Court. This plat was made by Franklin Associates because there was no plat of this area. This plat was accepted by the town council.

Mayor Russell B. Alexander asked the council to hold the constant yield tax rate at $.53 and to approve a 10 percent discount on real estate taxes. This measure was approved by the council.

Also discussed was a tax differential for the citizens of Mtn. Lake Park. The Mayor requested a meeting with the Garrett County Commissioners which will be held April 11. The mayor and council will be seeking a $.20 per $100 of assessed value tax differential.

A letter written by Mayor Alexander to Delegate George Edwards, voicing the town's opposition to HB1647 was read. The House Bill was for the purpose of requiring counties to take into account benefits to residents of certain municipal corporations that are not available to other county residents when computing the county property tax rate on assessable property within a particular municipal corporation.

Mayor Alexander wrote that he felt the bill would severely hamper the town's negotiations with the county government and further add to the confusion concerning the double taxation legislation. He asked to hear from Delegate Edwards with an explanation of why the present tax differential law should be changed.

The town discussed three proposed charter amendments. These dealt with voters, registration, and purchase and contracts. The mayor and majority of the council felt that these amendments should be made to the town charter.

The chairman of the Mtn. Lake Park Planning Commission, Morgan France, was present and discussed with the town council changes to the proposed zoning ordinance. The council felt the town attorney should be contacted and the sections in question reviewed.

DAV Opposing Budget Proposal

Mt. Top Chapter 29, Disabled American Veterans, and its Auxiliary are encouraging their members and other citizens to contact their legislators and voice opposition to the proposed Fiscal Year 1986 Veterans Administration budget.

According to the DAV, the Senate Budget Committee's proposal "strips away" $1 billion from the President's original VA budget request. As a result, they say, service-connected disabled veterans and DIC recipients would not receive equal treatment when compared to all other federal beneficiaries who will be provided cost of living increases. "The proposed reduced funding for medical care would seriously jeopardize the quality of care the VA can provide and result in denying health care to even more needy veterans," stated National Commander Chad Colley in a letter to all DAV chapters and auxiliaries.

Colley says the proposal will also require veterans to pay a 3.8 percent origination fee to use the VA Home Loan Guaranty Program, a 2.8 percent increase over the current fee; mandate the VA to collect from private health insurance carriers the cost of health care provided to veterans when treatment is for a nonservice-connected condition; and impose certain cost savings that would lead to a further decline in the quality and availability of VA medical care services.

Commander Bill Meyers and Commander Hazel Meyers, of Mt. Top Chapter 29 and its Auxiliary, respectively, urge citizens to write to U.S. Senators Charles McC. Mathias and Paul S. Sarbanes, United States Senate, Washington, D.C. 20510, as soon as possible.

Local Educators Attend Special MSTA Conference

Four local educators recently spent a weekend in Baltimore attending an Instruction and Professional Development Conference sponsored by the Maryland State Teachers' Association. Representing the Garrett County Teachers' Association during the weekend of March 16 and 17 were Jim Raley, of Southern Middle School, GCTA president; Irene Sigel, Red House Elementary, GCTA secretary; Keith Harvey, Broad Ford Elementary; and Cheryl Henderson, Dennett Road Elementary.

The theme of the conference was "Teachers, Parents, and Children: Bonding the Relationship" and dealt with such topics as child abuse, parent involvement, teacher assistance teams, and teacher expectations and student achievement.

Wil Luna, staff member with the National Education Association, presented the highlights of the new NEA training program on child abuse and neglect which is intended to educate teachers about detecting and reporting child abuse and neglect, aids in helping teachers to talk with victims, and provides resources to be used in the classroom and community to promote awareness and understanding among children and their parents. MSTA is only the second state association to have had a training session using this new multi-media program. Later in the year, the GCTA, in conjunction with the Allegany County Teachers' Association, is tentatively planning to sponsor a child abuse and neglect workshop using the new NEA program.

During the afternoon session, Gloria Furtaw, Fred Goos, and Dotty Marchall, of the Baltimore County Public Schools, discussed and demonstrated successful home/school conference techniques and provided suggestions for aiding and improving parent involvement in learning.

Janice Piccinini, MSTA president, spoke during the evening session about the future of the teaching profession, including facts about the rapidly escalating teacher shortage. Ms. Piccinini also addressed the child abuse bills currently being debated in the state legislature and the MSTA position on those bills. Following Ms. Piccinini's speech, Beverly Stonestreet was introduced to the group. Ms. Stonestreet, the current MSTA vice president and newly elected president of the state association, will take office in the fall.

Sunday's schedule included a session about merit pay led by Bob Moore of the MSTA staff. Moore detailed information about types of merit pay plans in use in a few states and reported on the status of proposed plans for Maryland. Also on Sunday's agenda was Teacher Expectations and Student Achievement by Chris Daniel, of the Virginia Education Association staff, and Teacher Assistance Teams by Dr. Hattie Washington, of the Maryland State Department of Education.

Persons desiring more information about these or the other topics presented during the conference may contact the GCTA participants.

Pharmacy Topics

Exercise—even mild, such as walking—helps prolong life. That was a major finding when a large sample of middle-aged and older men were studied at Harvard and Stanford.

In a number of big cities, doctors have established house-call services that are on duty 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. They're said to be faster and less expensive than emergency rooms.

To keep grafted veins from becoming obstructed after coronary bypass operations, doctors at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minnesota, are prescribing a combination dose of dypyridamole and aspirin. Regimen proved effective in a controlled test.

Stroke is followed by depression in as many as 40 to 60 percent of patients. Psychiatrist and neurologist at Johns Hopkins School of Medicine recommends nortriptyline for post-stroke depression; most patients get almost complete relief.

Now being tested: antihistamines that DON'T cause drowsiness. Terfenadine is expected to be approved soon by the FDA.

Now, in "the quiet years," he has a chance to put the finishing touches on that schooner. When a man's working with his hands, he has time for some thinking, for some looking back.

Our aged friend has a good many years to look back over—some of them good, some bad. But, through all of them, there's been one steady, continuing force, like a thread of steel woven through the pattern of his life.

This force has been the thread of faith—a faith that is sustained and strengthened when a man devotes great time and energy to the Church and its mission.

Now in "the quiet years" he can look back over what has been—he can rejoice because he is able to review a life full of devotion.

You see, it is all-important to be able to review the right kind of life. Don't wait. Start going to church now.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

FREE CROSSES!
March 31, 1985

Background Scripture:
John 19:17-42.

Devotional Reading:
John 19:38-42.

If the story of Jesus were being created for TV or the silver screen today, we would almost certainly want to re-write the passion narrative. As Jesus arrives at Golgotha, an in-the-nick-of-time pardon would arrive by way of a breathless messenger from Pontius Pilate, or Jesus' disciples would mount a massive rescue operation to snatch him from the jaws of death. Or perhaps we would see that Jesus only appeared to die on the cross and was resuscitated by his disciples after taken down from the cross and spirited to a safe place.

HUMILIATION

But that isn't the way the writers of the four gospels tell the story. In Matthew, Mark, Luke and John there is no rescue, no pardon and no faked death. The cross was real, the pain and humiliation and, above all, the tragic death on it was real. None of the four gospel accounts mince words about just how awful a punishment it was.

John, for example, does not hide the humiliation of the cross. He is nailed to a cross, the most humiliating form of execution at that time, and hung between two common criminals. Pilate's inscription, whatever his intention, was a mockery: "Jesus of Nazareth, King of the Jews." His garments were taken from him and divided among the soldiers in the crucifixion detail. His cloak they gambled for.

Furthermore, John wants us to know that Jesus really suffered and died on the cross. This was not play-acting to satisfy our need for religious drama. This was not a cosmic charade played-out to elicit religious devotion. At one point, Jesus cries out, "I thirst," and his physical suffering is apparent.

REALLY DEAD

At last, Jesus says "It is finished," and John tells us, "he bowed his head and gave up his spirit" (19:30). Shortly after, one of the soldiers from the crucifixion detail thrusts a spear into Jesus' side to make sure he is really dead.

Yet, despite all of this--humanity operating on its lowest, most vile level--Jesus does not come across to us as either humiliated or broken. It is as though he is showing all of us how to die rightly, how to meet the reality of the cross in our own lives.

Clarence Jordan, who wrote the Cotton Patch New Testament, was getting a red-carpet tour of a well-heeled church. Taking Jordan outside, the minister pointed to a huge cross atop the steeple. "That cross alone cost us ten thousand dollars," boasted the minister. "You got cheated," was Jordan's surprising reply, "times were when Christians could get them for free."

Today we live in times in which, if a Christian is really following his Lord, crosses are still free!

SOAP OPERA WEEK

Fans mourn loss of 'GL' veteran Charita Bauer

By Kimberly Redmond

Whatever happened to Charita Bauer, the actress who played Bert Bauer, on "The Guiding Light"? I knew she had returned to the soap after an illness, but I haven't seen her in a few months. — B.J., Minocqua, Wis.

Charita Bauer

Miss Bauer passed away on Feb. 28 after a long battle with lung cancer. She was 62. The actress had portrayed Bert for 35 years. Miss Bauer (the similarity in last names was only a coincidence) began her role in 1950, during the days when "GL" was broadcast on the radio. She continued in the role when the soap came to television in 1952. Miss Bauer played Bert continuously until Dec. 10, 1984. She holds the record for the longest-running TV serial player.

In 1984, the actress had her leg amputated, and this real-life drama was also used as part of the "GL" plot. Both the character and the actress faced the subject with courage, vitality and a sense of humor. In 1983 the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences honored Miss Bauer with its Lifetime Achievement Award for her contributions to the television industry.

Miss Bauer, who will be missed by countless fans, is survived by her father, George, and her son, Michael Crawford, and his daughter-in-law, Lucy, and her 4-year-old grandson, Alexander.

I'm positive that Richard Egan, the actor who portrayed Sam Clegg on "Capitol," has appeared in a nighttime TV series. Can you tell me which one? — J.W., Utica, N.Y.

Egan starred in the Western series, "Empire," which ran on ABC from 1962-64. The series also starred Ryan O'Neal and Charles Bronson. The show was later picked up by NBC and renamed "Redigo." It only lasted 13 weeks.

The right exercise keeps Gerard fit and trim

By Renee Ross

Gil Gerard

A few brisk laps in the swimming pool transports Gil Gerard into another world. "People say that jogging puts you into a Zen-like tranquil state. I get the same result with swimming. After several laps, my mind is a million miles away," says Gerard, 42, who stars in "Stormin' Home," a made-for-TV movie airing Friday, April 5 on CBS. "Besides," he confesses, "I hate jogging. And I have a long torso and short legs — not the best body structure to endure the physical stress of running."

The actor, married to "Hotel" star Connie Sellecca, also keeps his 6-foot, 190-pound frame in top form with six-times-weekly workouts using free weights.

"Getting in shape doesn't have to be torture," he explains. "The 'no pain, no gain' theory of exercise is a big falsehood. Pain is a signal from our body that we're overdoing it. The body needs rest or we wind up with exercise-related problems.

"It's also important to give up exercise fantasies," Gerard adds. "Most of us will never be Olympic athletes, and we shouldn't try to be. But we can still stay fit and trim." The key to fitness? The actor insists it's choosing the right activity. "Do something you really enjoy," he says, "not just because it's healthy. If it's not pleasurable, it won't last. It also helps to find an exercise buddy with whom to work out."

A Southern heritage gives the Arkansas native a love for hearty eating. "I try to avoid too much fat and cholesterol, but it's hard because I grew up with lots of delicious fried food," says the actor who keeps a close eye on his weight. "Sometimes I win the battle and sometimes I don't," he laughs. "But the war isn't over yet.

"I used to be obsessive with diets," he confesses. "It got to be a pain for everybody who knew me. My wife and I would be invited to dinner at someone's house, and I'd ask for a special diet dish. Eventually, I learned how to get around it. If a host makes a good meal, I can usually find a way to enjoy some part of it.

"People make the mistake of thinking they'll go on a diet for two weeks or a month. But to be a success," adds Gerard, "a diet should be a way of eating for a lifetime."

Will Telly end up on the telly or on stage?

By Cindy Adams

NEW YORK — Telly Savalas says that he's "90 percent signed" for next fall's new Broadway musical "Treasure Island." Telly will 90 percent sing and dance as pirate Long John Silver in the show based on Robert Lewis Stevenson's classic tome — if Telly parks his lollipops and if his CBS series "Kojak" isn't resuscitated. It seems there's a 50-50 chance of that 10 percent becoming 100 percent. Telly's recent "Kojak" TV movie earned good ratings, so the actor's waiting to hear if he's back on the air.

What would he rather choose from: the candy-sucking detective or the leg-limping pirate? Telly assures me he'd rather do telly.

Telly Savalas

Golfer Nancy Lopez and her hubby, New York Mets third baseman Ray Knight, are house shopping in Westport, Conn. ... Florence Henderson and her hubby, Ira Bernstein have decided to stop sharing their house — and marriage — after 29 years. ... Word is out that Doubleday's Jackie O is trying to talk Elizabeth Taylor into writing her autobiography.

Mary Lou Retton

Mary Lou Retton is the newest body in the fitness field. The Olympic gold medalist is coming up with "Get in Shape, Girl," a line of gym toys and exercise accessories for preteens. Hasbro-Bradley is the manufacturer. ... Speaking of fitness, Jack Nicholson's taking golf lessons.

A band of businessmen have invested in a rock 'n' roll band. Eager to advance their Virginia hometown, 35 executives threw together $675,000, reassembled an old, busted-up folk group, revitalized it and renamed it Roanoke. The five-member group's new manager is Wes Farrel, who was married to Tina Sinatra way back when. Roanoke will debut with Debbie Reynolds in April. And where's Debbie working? Roanoke.

Edward Asner plays Sam Waltman, a crusty, chauvinistic garment business owner who's nearly bankrupt in "Off the Rack." The new sitcom airs Friday, April 5 on ABC. Eileen Brennan co-stars.

COMING ATTRACTIONS

Millie Perkins comes back with a vengeance

By Marc Minnelli

Millie Perkins

In 1958, 19-year-old model Millie Perkins accepted her first film role: that of Anne Frank in the classic film "The Diary of Anne Frank," the real-life German Jew who was forced to hide from the Nazis in an attic. It was a role that propelled Miss Perkins into the show-biz spotlight.

But being a celebrity was not a role the actress enjoyed playing. Never finding Hollywood and its environs "comfortable or appealing," Miss Perkins shuttled back and forth between the West and East Coasts, before settling in Jacksonville, Ore. in 1974. There, the actress, who was married to writer Robert Thom, raised her two daughters, hosted a TV talk show and taught acting in local schools. It wasn't until she starred as Jon Voight's wife in the 1983 film "Table for Five" that Miss Perkins' fans — and major Hollywood producers — realized she had returned.

"I hate," Miss Perkins, 46, says, "the word 'comeback.' It sounds derogatory — as if I was put away in a mental hospital and finally decided to come back to life." Indeed, that's the way many interviewers treated the actress. "When 'Table for Five' came out," she recalls, "one woman said 'So Millie, tell me all about your problems with booze and drugs and breakdowns. I said to her, 'What are you talking about? Why won't you believe I simply made a choice to stay away?'"

Now, it seems Miss Perkins is back for good. This season, she had a recurring role as Greg Sumner's wife in the CBS series "Knots Landing," and later this spring, she stars with Lindsay Wagner in the CBS film "The Other Lover." On Sunday, March 31, the actress appears as the Virgin Mary in the 12-hour, $30 million NBC opus "A.D."

Miss Perkins admits that she had trouble deciding how to interpret the role. "I was confused because I wasn't sure if Mary should be the spiritual woman that appears in the Bible or a woman who has always been human," she says. "I reread the Bible and talked with priests, but the choice was up to me."

The actress ended up with what she calls a characterization "representative of love," but is worried over how people may react. "I don't want Jews and Christians fighting with me over fundamentals," she says, "but I did what I had to do. The Virgin Mary is a special woman and I'm glad I played her. It was the closest I've ever been to Christ."

ASK ME ABOUT TV

By Val Carew

Can you tell me about Alyssa Milano, the cute little girl who plays Samantha on "Who's the Boss"? — C.P., Greenville, Texas

Miss Milano was born in Brooklyn, N.Y. on Dec. 19, 1972. When she isn't working on the ABC series, the actress lives in Staten Island, N.Y., with her musician-father, fashion-designer mother and 2-year-old brother, Corey.

Miss Milano began acting after she was chosen from more than 1,000 girls auditioning for roles in the second national touring company of the Broadway musical "Annie." Miss Milano played the roles of Kate and July, and understudied the role of Molly. She also appears in the motion picture "Old Enough" and in a TV fruit drink commercial.

Is it true Heather Locklear is no longer dating Scott Baio? Does that mean I have a chance? — S.F., Riverdale, N.Y.

It's true: Miss Locklear is no longer dating the star of "Charles in Charge." The star of "T.J. Hooker" and "Dynasty" insists their relationship fell apart because they weren't having any more "fun." Do you have a chance? Miss Locklear tells me she's always looking!

Screen legend Ava Gardner, who recently made her dramatic network debut in "Knots Landing," stars as Agrippina, the scheming, ambitious mother of Nero in the 12-hour miniseries "A.D." The opus, starring an all-star cast and more than 18,000 extras, airs in five parts, beginning Sunday, March 31 on NBC.

'60 Minutes' producer runs ragged for research

By Marta Tarbell

Sanford Socolow

Sanford Socolow doesn't want to be a star. "I hate what I look and sound like on camera," says Socolow, one of the 59 producers of the CBS series "60 Minutes."

So he stays behind the scenes, letting Diane Sawyer and Morley Safer take over after he has laid down the careful groundwork for them to come in with crew and cameras. "I do a lot of dog work," explains Socolow, who must deliver at least five 12-minute video segments every year. "I go in early and find out the facts and figures of the situation."

That's not a new job for the veteran newsman, who joined CBS in 1956 as a news writer, after serving as the Tokyo correspondent for International News Service.

Socolow cut his teeth as part of the charter crew on "Eyewitness to History," CBS's first news magazine, which aired Friday nights between September 1959 and August 1963. He arrived at "60 Minutes" after working as CBS bureau chief in London.

Among the segments Socolow has turned in since joining "60 Minutes" last March is "The Hostage Game," which was a videotape of a dramatic drill in terrorist-management for Maryland's Prince Georges County police force. The segment was narrated by Diane Sawyer.

"We shot 14 1/2 hours of video for that piece," recalls Socolow. "It took us three days just to look at it. I spent a total of three weeks in the cutting room." The segment ran 24 minutes, twice the normal length of a "60 Minutes" segment.

Socolow also produced a segment about the stepchildren of Claus von Bulow, convicted of attempting to murder his wife, Sunny, with a lethal insulin injection, and another about Cameron Kerley, a Canadian orphan who murdered the adoptive father who had sexually abused him.

It's obvious Socolow prefers asking questions to answering them. When asked his age, he's as coy as a starlet. "I don't want to tell you," he says. But when asked where "60 Minutes" will take him next, the world traveler is quick to answer. "I wouldn't mind lining up some work in Europe."

Insight Into Education

This is the ninth in a series of articles provided by members and staff of the Garrett County Board of Education. This article was written by Ron Kuhn, vocational education guidance/placement counselor at Northern and Southern high schools.

Vocational-Technical Programs

The mission of vocational–technical education in Maryland secondary schools is to provide all Maryland students access to high quality vocational-technical education and training programs which lead to opportunities for gainful employment.

A variety of criteria has been used in the past for assessing the effectiveness of vocational education in a comprehensive high school like Northern High School or Southern High School. But, in recent years, the main focus of program accountability has been directed to the number of vocational graduates that find jobs related to their training. In fact, in 1976 Public Law 94-482 mandated that each state systematically evaluate its vocational education programs and identify the primary evaluative criterion as the extent to which students find employment in occupations related to vocational skills training.

Therefore, state and federal policymakers have made it clear that there needs to be some type of organized effort on behalf of the local educational agency to provide some type of placement service for all vocational graduates of public supported institutions. Thus, each school agency has the basic responsibility to assist youth in making the transition from the school's protective environment to the world of work.

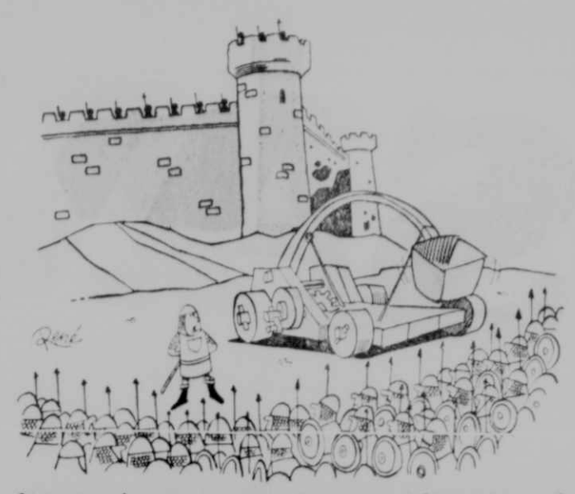

The Garrett County Board of Education staffs a part-time school-based job placement service for vocational students at both Northern and Southern high schools. The objectives of the program include:

1. Implementing a county-wide placement service for vocational students;
2. Assisting students with selection of vocational courses;
3. Working with counselors and teachers in providing service to vocational students;
4. Developing local labor market information;
5. Assisting students with pre-employment preparation;
6. Developing a computerized student and employer job bank;
7. Assisting with vocational planning and curriculum modification.
8. Following up student placement.

In order for the program to successfully fulfill the stated criteria input, cooperation and support are necessary from the general public, the Board of Education, the Vocational Advisory Council and its craft committees, counselors, vocational teachers, and members of the business community. With this combined effort employment opportunitites can be made available for all vocational graduates, and the stipulated evaluative mandate of Public Law 94-482 will be met. More importantly, Garrett County will be enriched as each vocational graduate becomes a responsible and productive citizen of the community.

We presently have students who have job skills in the following vocations: auto mechanics, business (clerical and secretarial), carpentry, drafting, electronics, electricity, food service, health service, machine tool, masonry, and vocational agriculture.

Businesses with job openings can obtain student names, skill information, and educational background from the school system. The schools can also assist in arranging job interviews as confidentially as an employer might desire.

OH COME NOW!... SURELY SOMEBODY REMEMBERED TO BRING THE ROCKS?

PEER REVIEW

According to Linda Darling-Hammond, a researcher for the Rand Corporation, now is the time for teacher organizations to take another look at peer review, because it can greatly improve the evaluation process and lead to the professionalization of teaching.

In a paper she had recently written, Darling-Hammond discussed her extensive research on various methods of peer review, evaluation, and involvement, noting that in teaching, peer review "in some form will be necessary for the development of a full profession."

Many of the things that really define what teaching is—textbook selection, curriculum and course requirements, scheduling, grading policies, student promotion and course loads—are decided elsewhere.

This leads to the most common objection of peer review, that being, "Why should teachers do management's job?" The answer is that administrators can't do it well because they have too many staff to supervise, too little time to carry out a thorough evaluation and often insufficient expertise in the subject areas of the teachers who are being evaluated.

Darling-Hammond says that a good starting point for giving peer review a tryout could be with beginning teachers. "Teachers learn to teach by teaching, and the sink-or-swim method does not work." She added that the profession loses half of its new teachers in the first three to five years. Further, most will accept the validity of the idea that an experienced practitioner can assist and evaluate new teachers as peer advisors.

"Any teacher will tell you that there are some teachers who don't belong in the schools," she said, and it is a reality that "Can't be ignored if the profession is going to be trusted."

A concern of many educators concerning peer involvement is, "How can we change the profession if we don't change the basic way schools are managed?"

Darling-Hammond had this to say about the concern: "Peer review cannot beat down the doors of bureaucracy, but with the autonomy of the profession comes accountability. It is very important that we can guarantee the competence of our profession if we are to change the constraints on our autonomy."

Class of 1940 Slates Reunion

Tentative plans have been made for the reunion of the Oakland High School class of 1940 on July 27, 1985. This will be the 45th reunion of the class, and the committee in charge of arrangements has made plans for a dinner meeting at the Oakland Country Club to begin at 6:30 p.m.

As a part of the planning procedure, post cards are being mailed to graduates of the Class of 1940, announcing the forthcoming reunion of the group. This will allow members of the class who live away from the Oakland area to make vacation plans which will include the reunion.

Loch Lynn Church Joins Evangelical Free Fellowship

The Loch Lynn United Brethren Church was unanimously received into the Evangelical Free Church on Saturday, March 16, at the District Evangelical Free Church Conference, held in Lanse, Pa. The Evangelical Free Church of America is a fellowship of churches that hold strongly to the fundamental doctrines of the Bible and the Evangelical faith.

With over 95,000 members, the Evangelical Free Church has national headquarters in Minneapolis, Minn. Although the EFCA provides many opportunities of ministry and help to the local congregation, each local church remains independent. Each local church has the right to decide and govern its own affairs.

By joining the EFCA the Loch Lynn Evangelical Church will benefit by a fellowship of churches across the United States and Canada, according to Pastor Russell Hamilton. Additional benefits include a strong foreign missions and youth program, Layman Fellowship, Women's Missionary Society, church help from the Church Ministries Department, educational institutions like Trinity Evangelical Divinity School (the seventh largest seminary in the U.S.) and Trinity college (a fully accredited liberal arts college), a magazine published twice monthly (the Evangelical Beacon), and the support, advice and counsel of a district superintendent.

Those travelling from Loch Lynn to the District Conference in Lanse were Dwight Stover, Carlton Sembower, Gary Bittinger, Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Bittinger, Mr. and Mrs. Harland Paugh, Mrs. Betty Trickett, Mrs. Beulah Sisler, Miss Hilda Winters, and Pastor and Mrs. Hamilton.

The Church's new name is The Loch Lynn Evangelical Free Church. Services are held at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. each Sunday, with Sunday School at 10 a.m. Mid-week Family Night is held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, with special programs for children, youth and adults.

All are welcome to visit this new Evangelical Free Church at 107 West Third Ave, Loch Lynn. For more information, persons may call Pastor Hamilton at 334-4172.

Deadline Nears For Purchasing County Directory

The New Horizons Program of Garrett Community College, with financial assistance from the Mountain Top Chamber of Commerce, is continuing to make progress in the update of the 1985 Garrett County Directory of Agencies and Organizations. This directory will contain approximately 140 entries of service organizations and agencies providing special services to Garrett county residents.

Final orders to purchase the directory must be made by April 5. Anyone interested in purchasing a directory must do so by submitting a prepaid order of $8.50 to New Horizons, GCC-Oakland Center, 104 E. Center Street, Oakland, MD 21550, by April 5, which will be the cutoff date.

If any agency or organization is interested in being included in the directory and has not returned or submitted their information by this time, the deadline is also April 5 for submission of these entries.

Interested persons may contact New Horizons at 334-9184 for more information on the 1985 Garrett County Directory of Agencies and Organizations. Only as many directories as are ordered will be printed for distribution in June so none will be available if they are not ordered immediately.

GOOD HEARING

NEED NOT BE EXPENSIVE

DAR Chapter Has Dinner, Tour At Garrett Memorial

The Youghiogheny Glades Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution met March 18 at the Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Twenty-four members shared dinner in the hospital dining room. A brief business meeting followed the meal.

Mrs. Richard Sherwood, Regent, conducted the opening ritual. Chaplain Mrs. Asa Lewis presented a short memorial service in memory of deceased member, Mrs. Reaford Purbaugh. The secretary and the treasurer read their reports, and the President General's message was read by Mrs. Sherwood.

Larry Beck, hospital administrator, and Benjamin Rosenthal, associate, took the group on a tour of the hospital. Many questions and comments were presented by the participants. The tour was completed in about an hour.

The next meeting will be held April 15 at the home of Mrs. Randall Kahl, with a patriotic program being presented by Mrs. Robert Stevenson.

Wildlife Shrub Packets To Be Sold April 4

Spring has arrived, and so have thousands of wildlife shrub packets to be offered for sale on April 4 by the Maryland Forest, Park and Wildlife Service.

Each packet contains eight seedlings which, when mature, will offer both food and shelter for many species of birds and wildlife. Each seedling was grown from hand-collected seed at the state tree nursery. Plant species included in each packet are white pine, sawtooth oak, eastern dogwood and autumn olive.

For nearly ten years the wildlife shrub packets have been offered for sale in cooperative effort to restore wildlife habitat to backyards and other areas across the state. According to biologists, diminishing habitat is one of the greatest threats to wildlife today. Through this program the foresters, biologists and the general public can all work together to help Maryland's valuable wildlife resources, according to the DNR.

The packets will be on sale for one day only, April 4, from 8:00 a.m. until 1:00 p.m. The cost is $2 per packet. Wildlife shrub packets will be available on a first-come basis at the Mount Nebo Wildlife Management Area (Office), Kings Run Road, north of Oakland.

DNR Secretary Charged With Drunken Driving

Dr. Torrey C. Brown, state natural resources secretary and a former state delegate, was arrested for drunken driving Friday night in Anne Arundel County, according to police.

Brown was charged with driving while intoxicated and failing to obey an automatic signal following an accident in Pasadena, said a police spokesman, Officer V. Richard Molloy.

The 48-year-old physician's car "sort of drifted through" a red light and hit another car broadside. Neither the driver of the second car, 24-year-old William Thomas Logwood of Pasadena, nor Brown was injured, Molloy said, and neither car carried any passengers.

Brown, appointed to Governor Harry Hughes' cabinet in 1983 after serving 12 years in the Maryland House of Delegates, was taken before a court commissioner in Glen Burnie and later released on personal recognizance.

Molloy said he was not allowed to say what level of alcohol was found in Brown's blood or even whether his blood alcohol level was tested.

Extra Tax Help Slated In April

All 15 Maryland income tax offices will be offering extra opportunities for free taxpayer assistance during April for last-minute filers, Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced recently.

Free help for state income taxpayers will be offered on the following evenings, weekends and holidays: Monday, April 1, 4:30 p.m.-7:00 p.m. (telephone assistance only); Good Friday, April 5, 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m.; Saturday, April 6, 9:00 a.m.-1:00 p.m.; Monday, April 8, 4:30 p.m.-7:00 p.m. (telephone assistance only); Saturday, April 13, 9:00 a.m.-1:00 p.m.; and filing deadline Monday, April 15, 8:30 a.m.-9:00 p.m.

The comptroller reminded taxpayers that state tax experts "will be happy to answer questions, provide the neccessary forms, and double-check your calculations. They'll even complete your Maryland income tax return free of charge, as long as you bring a complete copy of your federal return and all W-2 statements."

The addresses and telephone numbers of all the offices are listed on the back of the state tax packet and in most telephone directories.

Tree Seedlings To Be Presented To Local Students

For 101 years Arbor Day in Maryland has been celebrated on the first Wednesday in April; and Garrett County Project Foresters Ernie Metz and Paul Mateer state that trees and seedlings are planted on Arbor Day to foster an awareness and appreciation of the value of forests and trees.

The Forest, Park and Wildlife Service reports it is committed to planting trees for the future and has begun a yearly program of providing pine seedlings to public and school third–graders as an Arbor Day gift. Working in cooperation of the State Board of Education, approximately 50,000 seedlings are being given to third graders across the State this year. The Governor has proclaimed April third, Arbor Day 1985. The pine seedlings distribution program to third graders is designed to instill in children the value and importance of trees with the hope that they will carry the thought with them into adulthood. "Trees planted on Arbor Day help call attention to a resource essential to our quality of life," Metz said.

As more and more attention is focused on the Chesapeake Bay, Metz and Mateer noted that planting seedlings and trees along the shore-lines of the Bay and tributaries can help Bay restoration efforts. "Trees hold the soil, eliminate surface runoff and filter contaminants in the soils as well. Buffer strips of trees along waterways can reduce soil erosion, sedimentation and nutrient load into streams, rivers and the Chesapeake Bay while at the same time providing habitat for wildlife and contribution to the wood and recreation needs of the State," Mateer said.

Metz and Mateer said that sound forest management "is crucial to the continuation of our way of life and urge forest landowners to manage and protect their forests from fire, insects and disease, and recognize the watershed value of the forests." Persons may call 334-3296 for information about how managing woodlots can benefit them and the environment.

Poster Winner Honored

April Slaubaugh, daughter of Sam and Shirley Slaubaugh, Horse Shoe Run, was taken to Charleston last Tuesday, March 19, by her principal, Gary Henline, where she received an award for a poster on "Mr. Yuk says, 'Stay Away from Poisons.' " The competition was sponsored by West Virginia Poison Control Center and April's poster won first place in Preston County and received Honorable Mention in the state. April was accompanied by her Aurora first grade teacher, Donna Beckman, and her mother.

Homemakers Study Family Stress

Ten members were present for the Aurora Extension Homemaker's March 19 study on Family Stress which was held in the home of Mildred Kovalck.

Wilda Wilt read Isaiah 53, a poem, "Wounded for Me," and closed her opening devotionals with prayer.

Cheryl Resha, program leader, defined stress as that state of mind and body that is caused by conflict, frustration, and/or pressure. The group discussed the questionnaire that she distributed.

Mrs. Resha then introduced Tom Hoffman, a representative from Appalachian Mental Health Center, Elkins. He spoke of the family stress which makes removing a child from that situation to a less-tense environment desirable. This program is under the Department of Human Services' umbrella of services.

In the absence of the president, Cheryl Resha, the vice president, also presided at the business meeting.

Following some discussion, it was decided that the club will go to Hopemont Hospital once monthly to sponsor Bingo for the residents. Needs of the Preston Memorial Hospital were also discussed with interest. There was no decision made but action will be taken at the April meeting.

Attention was directed to the following upcoming events: Cultural Arts program April 17, 12:30-3:00 p.m. at Kingwood in the Wesley U.M. Church, Kate Clark the speaker on clothing alterations; Demonstration Day on May 1 at Arthurdale; Health, Foods and Nutrition Workshop on April 29 with Dr. Dorothy Schusterman speaking on Osteoporosis at 7:00 p.m.

The Aurora 4-H Club will be collecting for the American Cancer Society fund this year rather than the Extension Homemakers as in past years.

Special features shown were mock stained glass plaques by Opal Myers and a collection of homemade lace by the hostess.

On April 16 the Aurora Homemakers will meet with Vesta Stemple where Ernestine Sisler will be leader for the study on Overcoming Procrastination.

Lenten Services

April 3 Lenten services will be in the form of a drama to be presented at the Maple Spring Church. On April 4, Brookside Church will host the meeting with the Rev. Vincent Fink the speaker. Maple Grove Assembly will be the April 5 host at which the Rev. Ralph Wycoff will bring the message. All times are 7:30 p.m. Sunrise Services will be held at the Aurora United Methodist Church at 6:30 a.m., with Rev. Daniel Yeiser bringing the message.

4-H Roundup

Shannon Eskridge, Mark Utterback, and Elizabeth "Bitsy" Whitehair participated Friday night in the Preston County 4-H Roundup. "Bitsy" will go on to area competition with her puppet presentation on the handicaped.

Aurora F.H.A.

The Aurora F.H.A. met March 5 and March 19. The March 5 meeting was chaired by Faith Steele and plans were made for a dance on April 12 and a Mother-Daughter banquet or tea in early May. President Tammy Parks presided at the March 19 meeting.

A candy raffle is being planned for which members are to bring in candy to be placed in a jar. Chances will be available at 10 cents each or 3/25 cents beginning on April 1 and the drawing to be made April 4.

The April 12 dance will be held from 7:00 to 9:30 p.m. with a $1.00 charge at the door and refeshments included in that amount.

Farming in Maryland

Oakland FFA Chapter Celebrates National Agriculture Week

The Oakland FFA Chapter celebrated National Agriculture Week, March 1723, with several field trips to an area farm and agribusinesses.

The FFA chapter had established as its purpose in celebrating National Agriculture Week, to enrich and inform students and the community about various aspects of the field of agriculture. Students were not only able to see a successful working farm, but also businesses that supply agricultural related services and supplies to the public.

Two FFA members drove tractors to school on Wednesday, March 29, as part of the celebration. They were Steve Paugh, son of Mr. and Ms. Harland Paugh and Ken Rinker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Rinker.

Wednesday, March 20, found the Vo-Ag III and IV students at the farm of David Stemple in Aurora, W. Va. While there, students observed the new veal calf barn owned and operated by Stemple's daughter and son, Darla and Davey. The barn featured slated concree floors for waste disposal into a 16 inch pit under the floor, two automatic feeding machines, and thermostat controlled fans and louvers.

Stemple and his daughter Darla, explained to the group the process they went through to acquire financing, building the facility, problems and successes with the two groups of calves raised thus far, and marketing stratagies. They provided the group with very sound and informative advise.

The students were also able to observe Stemple's dairy barn and milking parlor. He explained to the group the Dairy Diversion Program he was participating in, whereby he had eliminated milking three times a day and cut back on grain consumption to reduce milk production. He stated that he had achieved his goal for the program, and found it successful for his operation.

In the afternoon, the Plant Production class toured the facility at Green Acres Garden Center, located on Route 219, north of Oakland. Dave Tayler showed the students the various services available at the store. Students observed the greenhouse, the florist shop, The Flower Basket, the pesticide and fertilizer area, the small engine repair shop, and the nursery area outside. Students asked questions about various aspects of the business and job opportunities available in the field of horticulture.

Friday, March 22, was devoted to visiting Jackson's Equipment Co. in Oakland. The Vo-Ag I and II students were given a tour of the facilities by Bob Jackson. Included in the tour was the shop area where repairs on farm and lawn and garden equipment are completed, the parts receiving area, the parts storage area, office areas and showroom floor with various John Deere lawn and garden equipment displayed.

He also discussed with the students, job opportunities in the field of ag-mechanics. While at Jackson Equipment Co.'s open house, students viewed a film on the new and innovative ideas and pieces of equipment John Deere has developed. They were also treated to free refreshments.

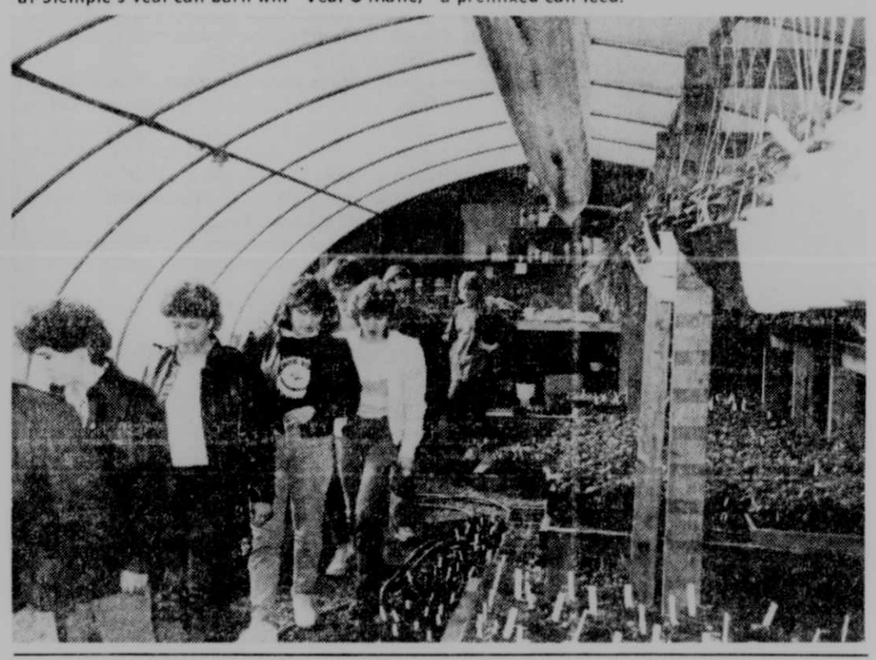

As a part of National Agriculture Week, Karen Hamilton, state FFA secretary, presented the chapter with a souvenir broken plate commemorating the TV documentary, "Agriculture's Next Generation - A Conflict of Interest," featuring Eddie Albert. This documentary has been shown across the United States during the month of March. It was developed by the National FFA Association to promote high school and college agriculture programs. Another purpose was to increase awareness in the public to the crisis facing the agriculture industry with fewer young people studying agriculture. The Oakland FFA Chapter hopes to acquire a copy of this documentary to show to the public in the near future.

According to Janet Boggess, Oakland FFA advisor, the chapter would like to extend its appreciation to all the businesses and individuals who helped make a success of their celebration of National Agriculture Week.

February Prices Down Slightly

Overall, the prices Maryland farmers received for their products in mid-February were down slightly from mid--January and they were off around 13 percent from a year earlier.

Prices received for feed grains and hay were off a little, but soybean prices averaged up marginally from a month earlier. Soybeans were still $1.40 below February 1984.

Livestock prices in Maryland during February averaged two percent lower than a month earlier and 11 percent below a year earlier. Prices for meat animals brightened a little, but dairy products and poultry and eggs averaged lower than January prices received for these commodities. Meat animal prices were even higher than a year earlier.

Nationally, prices for commodities, in general, were stable from January to February. Crop prices were down a little, but this decrease was offset by higher meat animal prices. The national ratio of prices received by farmers for their commodities to the prices they paid for inputs was stable during January and February. The prices paid index has been stable for the past three months.

In Maryland producer prices for corn in February averaged $2.93 a bushel, down five cents from January and 72 cents a bushel less than a year ago. Maryland corn was 31 cents higher than the National average. Soybean prices averaged five cents higher than a month earlier at $5.86 a bushel. Soybeans were $1.40 lower than a year ago, but 12 cents higher than the national average price. Hay averaged $3.00 higher than the January average at $96.00 a ton.

Hog prices in Maryland were up from a month ago and they were above a year ago at $49.40 per cwt. Cattle prices averaged $48.70 during February, up $2.70 per cwt. from January but below a year ago. Fluid milk averaged $14.10 per cwt., down 30 cents from mid-January but 40 cents higher than February 1984.

Prices for all poultry items were down from last year. Eggs averaged 72 cents a dozen and broilers were 31 cents a pound.

THE CASKET

A casket is rectangular, unlike a coffin which is usually tapered at the head and again toward the feet. It is used principally as the receptacle for the body during the period of the funeral and transportation to the place of final disposition. Most times, it is also the receptacle which encases the body in or above the ground.

It is important to remember that the casket is the last material gift the survivors can give the body which once was a beloved person. It can add greatly to the esthetics of the funeral setting and to the repose of the body.

Selection of a casket is a matter of personal or family preference. Our funeral home, has on display at all times, a wide range of caskets to satisfy varying tastes and budgets. Choices typically involve material, design, construction and color.

WILL ENCUMBRANCE PREVENT SALE?

An encumbrance is any claim or charge attached to and binding upon real property. It may lessen the property's value or impair its use, but it doesn't have to mean that the title cannot be transferred. Liens, easements, licenses or encroachments are among the most common encumbrances.

A lien is a claim upon the property that provides security for repayment of a debt. Liens can be voluntary or involuntary. A mortgage lien would be voluntary. The owner agrees to use the property as collateral for a loan. A tax lien arising when a court attaches a property for non-payment of taxes, is obviously an involuntary lien.

Encumbrances that are monetary, such as liens, are usually paid and released at the closing. On the other hand, physical encumbrances such as easements (like a power company's right to cross a property to service electrical lines) are usually transferred with the title to the new owner.

MARYLAND FARMERS • PARTNERS WITH THE BAY •

This is the second in a five-part series of articles resulting from a cooperative project between the Maryland Soil Conservation Committee and the Cooperative Extension Service. The articles relate to agriculture management practices and soil conservation and are provided by Shaun Sanders, district manager of the Garrett Soil Conservation District, located in the Garrett County Court House, Oakland. Questions or requests for additional information may be directed to Sanders by calling 334-8339.

BEST MANAGEMENT PRACTICES CAN HELP FARMERS AVOID TOO MUCH OF A GOOD THING

"Moderation in all things" is a bit of advice that wasn't lost on Mother Nature. Too much of a good thing seems to be the condemnation earned by modern society, and the Chesapeake Bay has fallen victim to that same verdict.

The bay, according to scientists, suffers from "nutrient overenrichment"—a mouthful that simply means too much nitrogen and phosphorus, chemical elements usually associated with healthy growth of all living things, is getting into the bay.

Given the right amount, plant and animal life thrive on the two elements, commonly found in commercial fertilzers. Too much, and a chain reaction begins that ultimately chokes off aquatic life in the bay.

How is too much getting to the bay, and where is it coming from?

Most of the nitrogen, say scientists who studied the problem for five years, comes from diffused sources—what the scientists call "non-point sources" of pollution. Unlike the discharge from a waste treatment plant that comes out of a single pipe, non-point source pollution generally is carried by heavy rainfall from many different sources.

Of all the nitrogen and phosphorus that flows into the bay during a year of average rainfall, approximately two-thirds of the nitrogen and more than one-third of the phosphorus comes from non-point sources, according to an Environmental Protection Agency study.

Most of those non-point sources are farmlands, where expensive fertilizer washes off cultivated and poorly managed fields, and into the more than 150 tributaries feeding the Chesapeak Bay.

The pressure to produce more food, use more fertilizer to do so, and risk losing nutrients to rivers and streams is an irony not lost on farmers like Wally Miller, manager of the Walnut Point Farm in Kent County, Md.

"We're not only interested in good farming, here, we're interested in the water that surrounds us," says Miller, as he surveys a farm that butts against the Chesapeake Bay.

"We use the water same as our neighbors do. Everyone has a right to clear, clean water, and there's no reason at all why we farmers should be polluting."

A seemingly "simple" solution is to stop letting fertilizers run off into rivers and streams. But the task is not so simple, says Dr. William Magette, an agricultural engineer at The University of Maryland.

American agriculture requires heavy doses of fertilizer to keep productivity at a level where each farmer in this country feeds 78 other people.

When too much fertilizers like nitrogen and phosphorus get into bodies of water like the bay, they set off a population explosion of small floating plants called bluegreen algae, according to Magette.

Their growth out of control, the algae cut off precious sunlight to submerged plants and animals, consume huge amounts of life–sustaining oxygen and literally asphyxiate less mobile creatures like oysters.

Magette says the key to stopping the flow of nutrients from non-point sources into the bay is to control them at their source. For nitrogen, especially, that means on the farm.

"We have to show farmers how to control the amount, the type, the time and methods of application for fertilizers," says Magette.

He also believes that those controls actually complement most farmers' objective of getting the optimum economic yield from their crops.

If the task sounds simple, adds Magette, it isn't. What appears at first glance to be a simple matter of matching fertilizer rates of application to crop needs is a complicated process, he says.

The process for nitrogen is influenced by factors beyond the farmers' control, factors such as: most crops can use only inorganic forms of nitrogen; inorganic nitrogen can be changed into organic forms by bacteria, and back again by other bacteria; in extremely wet soils, inorganic nitrogen can change to a gas and escape into the atmosphere; when useful forms of nitrogen go below the root zone of a crop, water moving through the soil will leach the nitrogen into groundwater.

Similarly, phosphorus exists in soils in different forms. It, too, can change from one form to another and attaches itself to soil particles. Erosion carries both sediment and phosphorus into streams and other bodies of water, according to Dr. Richard Weismiller, an associate professor of agronomy at The University of Maryland.

There are two ways to manage nutrients like nitrogen and phosphorus," says Weismiller. "One way is to limit how much nitrogen and phosphorus you put on, or find ways to put it on so crops use it more efficiently.

"Another approach is to find ways to keep the nitrogen and phosphorus on fields once they are applied correctly," he says.

Together, the two management concepts—application guidelines and retention guidelines—form what agricultural scientists call "best management practices," or BMPs.

The basis for application BMPs, according to Weismiller, is the soil test. It can help farmers determine nutrient needs, set realistic yield goals, and take into consideration the "case history" of a given field: What was grown on it in the past, how was it fertilized, and with what?

Some application BMPs, he says are proper timing and proper application. Proper timing means that split applications of nitrogen during the growing season are better than one massive dose. And avoid applying nitrogen in the fall to fields that will be planted in the spring. Proper application—depending on the crop and the tillage system, some methods of application and sources of these elements are better than others.

When it comes to retention BMPs, there are even more choices, says Weismiller. To minimize surface runoff, erosion and fertilizer losses, farmers can, choose the right tillage system for their soil type, climate and type of farming system; employ crop rotations, cover crops, contour farming and strip cropping their farming systems; seed areas that are highly susceptible to erosion; preserve or establish grass filter strips to trap sediment from field runoff; and to incorporate terraces, diversions and grassed waterways to control the flow of runoff, especially during periods of heavy rainfall.

Pesticide Recommendation Handbook Now Available

I now have the new Pesticide Recommendation Handbook available for you. The manual gives recommendations on herbicides, insecticides, fungicides, and nemocides for use on farm crops. The book is right up to date. You may either stop in my office and pick one up, or upon request, I will mail you a copy. This is a very good manual to have on hand when applying pesticides.

Phosphorus—Coming In Low

I have noticed on the soil analysis coming across my desk that about 50% of our fields are low in phosphorus. Phosphorus is very important and there are a few points I would like to remind you of. There are 3 facts about Phosphorus: 1) P. moves very little through the soil, 2) P. becomes fixed and relatively unavailable in our clay, acid soils, and 3) Recovery of applied Phosphorus by plants ranges only from 10 to 30%. If your fields are low in Phosphorus, it is important that you place the Phosphorus close to the root zone this spring. When the soils are cold, Phosphorus uptake is less. Phosphorus is very important for good root growth on young plants. Test your soil—don't guess.

Grazing Period To Close Monday

Olin S. Davis, Jr., chairman of the Maryland State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said the grazing period on acreage conservation reserve (ACR) land will close April 1. Farmers participating in the 1985 programs are not authorized to graze these acres between April 1 and September 1.

Under the wheat and feed gain acreage reduction programs, ACR or idled cropland, cannot be harvested or grazed during the five principal growing months. Davis said program participants who fail to comply with harvesting or grazing restrictions could lose program benefits.

Additionally, he said that cropland removed from production by the programs must meet certain eligibility requirements. 'The land must be devoted to row crops or small grains in two of the past three years," Davis said. Farmers need to be sure that the land has actually been planted or has been enrolled as ACR within the specified time frame," he said.

To qualify for full program benefits, farmers are required to maintain their ACR land in accordance with acreage reduction program provisions. "These provisions are to protect the acreage from wind and water erosion by planting a cover crop, or establishing various conservation practices

Seventeen Percent Of Labor Force In Agriculture

More than 17 percent of the labor force in Maryland is involved in the food and fiber system. The Economic Research Service found that 257,490 workers in the state were associated with the food and fiber system in 1984.

Nationally, 22.7 million people were working in the food and fiber sector. In the ranking of states according to the number of workers in the food chain, Maryland is at the midpoint—25.

In the Northeast, where Maryland was included, six percent of the workers in food and fiber industries were engaged in farming, six percent were in food processing, 18 percent were in textiles, 32 percent were in trade and 14 percent were working at eating places.

Livestock Judging Session To Begin

A 4-H/FFA Livestock Judging training session will begin Monday, April 1, 7:00-8:30 p.m., at Garrett Community College, Room TC-260. William Curry, livestock specialist from the University of Maryland, will lead the judging of swine, sheep and beef animals. Youth involved in any of these projects or other interested youth are urged to attend.

A training session is being planned for alternating Monday nights after April 1.

CLUB NEWS

Deer Park

Mabel Hauser gave a demonstration on "Hawaii" at their March meeting. She displayed various items of jewelry and a photo album with pictures of her trip to the island. The Spring Fashion show was discussed. Gifts were presented to the following for perfect attendance: Mary Rollman, Maxine Perry, Jane Miller, Leona DeWitt, Janet Browning and Laura Belle Harvey. The members are reminded to bring their "Spring Bonnet" to the April meeting.

Meadow Glade

Due to the inclement weather they had to cancel their club's 30th Anniversary activities January and February. They will celebrate their anniversary with a covered dish April 11 at the Extension Office. They have two charter members: Opal Fazenbaker and Marguerite Wotring. This club donated $25 to the Terra Alta Rescue Squad in honor of Charles Wotring and $25 to the Southern Rescue Squad.

Rt. 40

This club skipped January and February meetings due to the inclement weather. The March meeting topic was Hawaii. Zeola Robeson, a club member, had visited Hawaii and she showed slides. Hawaiian food was served. Winter projects were displayed. Information on other demonstrations were handed out. Plans for the club Banner and the spring meeting were discussed. Marion Majors and Merla Murray attended a leadership workshop at the University of Maryland on March 12. Beatrice Opel reported on her trip to Florida.

Swallow Falls

The club combined three demonstration topics into their meeting when they met on March 21. Ann Glotfelty presented a demonstration on "Diet and Disease" which covered Aneorexia Nervosa, Bulimia and Osteoporosis. Mary Glotfelty's demonstration was on "Hawaii". She concluded her presentation with an Hawaiian lunch. "Alterative Shopping" was presented by Donna Bittinger. She shared many shopping ideas with the group. During the business meeting, the spring meeting was discussed. The club will be making a banner to display. The next meeting will be held on April 18, 1985 at noon at the Extension Office. Sharon Arnold will present the program on "Lighting."

THE NESTORS: LIVING AMICABLY WITH ADULT CHILDREN

A new stage can be inserted into our family life cycle. We are now in the era of the nesters: adult children (past age 18) who are again living at home. Thomas Wolfe said, "You can't go home again," but in 1985 at least 25 percent are more likely to do so than they would have 15 years ago.

Nesting is seen as a temporary phenomenon. The adult children want to be self-sufficient. At least 90 percent go home for financial reasons. Education and housing cost more these days and an entry-level job paycheck buys less than before.

Most nesters are re-roosters. They've tried independent life. Some have lost a job and others have gone through a divorce.

It is helpful for parents to look at the positive aspect of the situation. It offers an opportunity to develop close adult relationships with their kids as individuals, aside from the burdens of child rearing.

However, if mishandled, nesting can be hazardous, even destructive to the family. It can strain the parents' marriage and hinder the nester's growth.

You cannot dictate to nesters nor smother them with indulgence. They need to make their own decisions to ease their transition to independence. The following are some guidelines to follow:

*Release your parental authority.

*Don't be too generous with advice or financial aid. Don't offer, but don't refuse. Find a solution that preserves the nester's responsibility.

*Communicate. Speak up about what's bothering you.

*Do NOT perform a nester's personal business. They're adults and need to get up on time for work, pay their taxes and walk their own dog.

*Share household chores equally. Make a written list.

*Ask that they contribute toward room and board. A fair formula: propose that the nester pay 15 percent of take-home pay. Remember, you are teaching a key survival skill: how to handle money and live within one's means.

*Remember, that it's your roof and mortgage. They must abide by your rules and value system. This applies not only to the telephone and the bathroom, but also to drugs and pre-marital sex. If you are uncomfortable with certain behaviors, it's your right to forbid them.

*Keep in mind that home rules stop at the front door. What nesters do outside is their own choice. Curfews are unrealistic. Much of a young adult's life happens after midnight.

*Reject the notion that nesters are failures. They're home again to become equipped to become independent.

*Before the nester moves back in, set a departure date. This could be 3 months after college or 6 months after a divorce. The date can always be modified according to circumstances. But by the assurance that the nester's stay is only temporary, you'll relieve anxiety on both sides.

Remember, it's an opportunity for both parents and adult children to develop positive, adult relationships with one another.

FOOD NOTES

Fish is always a Lenten feature. Canned pink salmon is in good supply and will be put on special, along with tuna. A good way to include salmon in your menu is by using the following recipe:

SALMON AND BROCCOLI EN CASSEROLE

1 can (7¾ ounces) salmon
1 pound fresh broccoli
⅓ cup chopped onion
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 can (10¾ ounces) condensed cream of celery soup
1 can (4 ounces) mushrooms, drained
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
½ teaspoon dried dill weed
½ teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Drain salmon, reserving liquid. Break into chunks. Trim off tough ends of broccoli. Cut into pieces and cook in boiling water until just tender. Drain. Saute onion in butter until tender. Add soup and heat. Stir in mushrooms, cheese, seasonings and reserved salmon liquid. Mix with broccoli and salmon. Pour into shallow buttered baking dish. Bake at 325 degrees for 30 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

as well as carrying out control measures for weeds, insects and rodents," stated Davis. The conservation protection must be established on ACR land as soon as possible after the normal planting period for spring crops.

The ASCS official said farmers will be out of compliance if they fail to carry out conservation measurers that would protect their idled cropland, or fail to comply with harvesting and grazing requirements on the land.

Many Due Refund Have Not Filed State Return

"The next few days are an excellent time to file your Maryland income tax return because the processing time is very short during the annual 'March lull,'" State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said. "While more than half of the 1984 Maryland income tax returns have already been filed, we are still waiting for an exceptionally large number of returns from taxpayers who are due a refund.

"Of the nearly 1,000,000 returns yet to be filed, about 500,000 will be due refunds," the Comptroller said. "That's why the time between now and April 1 is a good time to file. We will be able to get your refund check out in the mail much quicker than if you wait until the last minute crush of returns."

Goldstein noted that his office has already mailed about 700,000 refund checks to taxpayers, each averaging $240.

"We also urge you to file early because the error rate goes up on returns filed closer to the April 15 deadline," Goldstein said. "Take the time to complete your return, then set it aside for a short period before checking it over a last time."

The comptroller says common errors this year include the traditional math errors, as well as taxpayers using the wrong forms and misusing the tax tables.

"There is a worksheet to help you figure your state tax on page 20 of the state tax packet," Goldstein said. "This worksheet actually helped to cut down math errors last year, so please use it."

The comptroller also reminded taxpayers that the Maryland short form 503 cannot be used unless you meet the requirements listed right on the front of the form.

"Remember, you can only use Maryland's tax tables if your income was $20,000 or less," he said. "And our tax tables list your personal exemptions right across the top. No additional calculations are necessary, so please read the instructions carefully."

Savings Bonds Interest Rate Near 11 Percent

The November-April interest rate for Series EE Savings Bonds is 10.94 percent, up 0.99 percent from the 9.95 percent rate for the previous semi-annual interest period. Treasurer of the United States Katherine D. Ortega announced recently.

This is the fifth semiannual rate to take effect since market-based variable rates for Savings Bonds were introduced on November 1, 1982. It also is the second highest interest rate declared since the start of the market-based interest program. The average rate for the five periods since November 1982 is 10 percent.

Treasurer Ortega, who also is National Director of the Savings Bonds Program, said the new rate "is excellent news for persons already holding Savings Bonds since it raises their average earnings. It also should be an incentive for others to invest in bonds because they are a better buy than ever before.

"Rates paid on Savings Bonds remain competitive," Ortega said. "Increased confidence in the bond program is reflected by the 1.5 million people who joined the payroll savings plan, or increased their rate of savings, in 1984. The value of Bonds outstanding has also increased $3.1 billion during the past 12 months. With more than $73.5 billion worth of bonds outstanding, the bond program is saving taxpayers nearly $2 billion annually in interest costs on the debt."

Older Series EE and E Bonds and U.S. Savings Notes also receive the new market-based rate for six month interest-accrual periods starting between November 1984 and April 1985, Ortega said. All bonds must be held at least five years from the date of purchase or November 1, 1992, whichever is later, to receive the variable rate.

The market-based rate is 85 percent of the market rate on Treasury five-year securities during the previous six months. The rates are changed semi-annually, in November and May. Previous market-based rates, and the periods for which they were effective, are: 11.09 percent (November 1982-April 1983); 8.64 percent (May 1983-October 1983); 9.38 percent (November 1983-April 1984), and 9.95 percent (May 1984-October 1984).

Economic Education Grant To Benefit Maryland Schools

Maryland schools will benefit from a $30,000 grant from the council on Economic Education in Maryland to help promote economic literacy among public school students, according to the State Department of Education. The grant is expected to be matched by gifts from the private sector.

The award was announced at a ceremony at the Baltimore Gas and Electric Company on March 18. Participants were Frank Lucier, retired chairman of Black and Decker and president of the council, and David W. Hornbeck state superintendent of schools.

"Students need to understand how the economy works if they are going to be effective workers, consumers, and voters," said Lucier. "General economic literacy is critical for economic growth and development. Indeed, the quality of our future in this state depends upon it.

"This ceremony illustrates two vitally important pieces of modern public education," said Hornbeck. "First, the partnership of the schools and the business community must be given to assure the good health of public education as we move toward the 21st century. Second, I cannot imagine today's youngsters succeeding in life without the ability to understand and work within our economic system."

The award is part of a five-state $360,000 three year program to the Joint Council on Economic Education, a national organization, by the J. Howard Pew Freedom Trust, to help students in the five Middle Atlantic states at all grade levels understand the economic system. In Maryland the council will focus on helping school systems carry out a 1978 Joint Resolution of the General Assembly calling on schools "to teach about the American Economic System," and a 1982 by-law of the State Board of Education, a social studies framework, that includes economics in elementary and secondary programs. Funds will be allocated to find out how much students know about economics and what is needed in teachers training, curriculum development, and instructional materials. At the end of the three-year period covered by the grant, one school system in Maryland and one in each of the other four participating states will be selected to receive national recognition for achievements in improving economics instruction.

The Council is a nonprofit, nonpartisan group funded by the state and by private contributions and is the official Maryland affiliate of the Joint Council on Economic Education. Through its eight affiliated Centers for Economic Education—at Frostburg State College, Johns Hopkins University, Loyola College at Columbia, Morgan State University, Mt. Mary's College of Maryland, Towson State University, UMCP, and Washington College—the Council has formal relationships with 14 of Maryland's 24 public school systems and plans to increase that number over the term of the grant.

Heating Protection Plan To End Soon

The first phase of the Public Service Commission's Winter Heating Protection Plan will end March 31, Shirley Marcus, director of the Maryland Energy Assistance Program, has announced.

"Families who have signed up for the plan should be reminded that their April bill will include a payment on the unpaid portion of the winter bill. To avoid being shut off, it is important that this payment not be skipped. Families that are experiencing problems with payment of the bill should contact their local utility at once," said Marcus.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our mother, Grace Resh, who passed away March 30, 1971, 14 years ago. You only have one mother, patient, kind and true, no friends in all the world was quite like you. The way you talked, the smile you wore and all the thousand things so dear, we loved you while you lived. Did not go with you from here. They live in memories garden watered many times by our tears. No more worries, tears, nor strife. He has given you eternal life, we'll carry on, though sad we will be until we meet you joyfully in eternity.

Stanley B. and Wilma J. Friend on this day, March 14, 1985, protest the survey of the property deeded in part to said Stanley B. and Wilma J. Friend from the former deed of Ernest Shreve and recorded in the land records of Garrett County, Liber AGR No. 140-335.

We are also protesting the line that appeared on the tax map of Garrett County (Map #91 and #96) in the years of approximately 1966 through 1968. Said line being moved from its rightful place or close by in an easterly direction some 1300 feet more or less without any notification to our knowledge.

We, Stanley B. and Wilma J. Friend, do not recognize the survey and the line in question in that they are not valid but on the contrary are problematic and questionable. It is our intention to have a licensed surveyor from the State of Maryland resurvey the property in question and plot the findings for future reference.

We, Stanley B. and Wilma J. Friend, are not doubting the honesty and integrity of any persons living or deceased, but feel that with the records we have in our possession, we will pursue our findings in the courts of the State of Maryland.

Steven Feldman Is Manager Of Va. Food Service

Steven I. Feldman is the sales manager of the uniquely different Doughtie's Food Service in Vienna, Va.

Feldman's wife, Linda, is a former resident of Oakland, and the daughter of Mrs. Faye Nally and the late James B. Nally, of Oakland.

Doughtie's Food Service, which started in Norfolk, Va., selling barbecue in 1952, opened a home delivery sales office in Vienna last September. Since then, about 500 customers have signed up for delivery of a freezer full of meats, fruits, vegetables and cheeses.

The food service is unique in that it is directed toward "people on the go." Located in the convenience-oriented Washington, D.C., area, the service saves time and commuting woes for residents who hate to face traffic and grocery store lines after battling traffic jams on the way home from work.

According to Feldman, the Vienna office grew from one sales person to 12 in five months and serves residents in Fairfax County, Arlington and Alexandria, Va. Doughtie's now plans to open similar sales offices in Fredericksburg and Winchester, Va.

Doughtie's customers can open their freezers to USDA Choice aged meats and Grade A Fancy vegetables. Meats, vacuum-sealed in thick plastic packs, allow customers to cut out single servings and avoid freezer burn.

Suitable customers for Doughtie's business need a separate, standard-sized freezer to store the food; other "requirements" concern the size of the family and the amount of money normally spent on groceries, said Feldman.

Every four months, Doughtie's delivers to the average family of four about 224 pounds of assorted meat, 45 pounds of vegetables, seven pounds of fruit, 48 ounces of juice, six pounds of cheese and about four pounds of barbecue. That four-month supply costs about $700 or $800 and can be paid for in four equal payments.

Appointments are made several days in advance of delivery. Doughtie's can afford free delivery service because it doesn't have the overhead costs of grocery stores, explained Feldman.

"We're not preaching savings, we're giving customers better quality food," said Feldman, "but", customers can realize a savings because they aren't as susceptible to impulse buying."

Feldman and his wife live in Columbia, and have three sons, Timothy, Samuel, and Jerry.

Statewide EMS Symposium Set For June 21-23

The Region V Emergency Medical Services Advisory Council in cooperation with the Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services Systems, will host EMS Care '85, a statewide educational symposium for volunteer and career emergency care providers at the Bethesda Marriott Hotel in Bethesda, June 21-22. The symposium workshops include a wide variety of emergency care topics including: Trauma Case Reviews, Spinal Immobilization, Infection Control, Hazardous Materials, Emergency Childbirth, and others.

The theme for the conference is "Best Care Anywhere," a phrase remembered from the M★A★S★H★ 4077 television fame. "It is appropriate that we look back 35 years to the Korean war to find this theme since the roots of modern emergency medical care for the critically injured can be found in that war," stated an EMS spokesman. "What these dedicated physicians, nurses, corpsmen and medevac pilots learned and demonstrated in Korea has evolved into our modern EMS system."

Pre-symposium workshops will be offered for pre-hospital care providers, nurses and physicians on Friday, June 21. Friday evening activities include: an early bird reception, vendors exhibitions, and the statewide EMS Olympics. On Saturday and Sunday will be workshops, lectures, and extra curricular activities.

Overnight accommodations are available through the Bethesda Marriott Hotel and further information regarding registration and accommodations may be obtained by contacting the Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services Systems, Region V EMS Office, Landover Mall, West Office Building, Suite #202, 2100 Brightseat Road, Landover, Maryland, 20772. The telephone number is 301-773-7970.

Southern GOP Women Meet

The Southern Garrett Republican Women held their first meeting for 1985. Sue Shockey, president, presided.

Following the business meeting, Norma Dankulich introduced the guest speaker of the evening, JoAnn Harsh, activities director for the Dennett Road Manor Nursing Home. Mrs. Harsh informed the members that the nursing home currently has 100 residents with approximately one-fourth of them having no family or regular visitors. She encouraged the Club to become more involved in programs at the Home such as the "Adopt-A-Grandparent" program through which volunteers participate in various social activities with the residents.

The club decided to consider helping with the "Las Vegas Night" program as their community service project for 1985. A decision is to be made next meeting.

Following the program, the meeting was adjourned and the group shared a time of fellowship and refreshments which were provided by Arzella Parsons.

WHAT FAMOUS PEOPLE HAVE SAID ABOUT THE BIBLE

Abraham Lincoln: "I believe the Bible is the best gift God has ever given to man. All the good from the Saviour of the world is communicated to us through this book."

George Washington: "It is impossible to rightly govern the world without God and the Bible."

Napoleon: "The Bible is no mere book, but a Living Creature, with a power that conquers all that oppose it."

Queen Victoria: "That book accounts for the supremacy of England."

Daniel Webster: "If there is anything in my thoughts or style to commend, the credit is due to my parents for instilling in me an early love of the Scriptures. If we abide by the principles taught in the Bible, our country will go on prospering and to prosper; but if we and our posterity neglect its instructions and authority, no man can tell how sudden a catastrophe may overwhelm us and bury all our glory in profound obscurity."

John Ruskin: "Whatever merit there is in anything that I have written is simply due to the fact that when I was a child my mother daily read me a part of the Bible and daily made me learn a part of it by heart."

Horace Greeley: "It is impossible to enslave mentally or socially a Bible-reading people. The principles of the Bible are the groundwork of human freedom."

Andrew Jackson: "That book, sir, is the rock on which our republic rests."

Robert E. Lee: "In all my perplexities and distresses, the Bible has never failed to give me light and strength."

Lord Tennyson: "Bible reading is an education in itself."

John Quincy Adams: "So great is my veneration for the Bible that the earlier my children begin to read it the more confident will be my hope that they will prove useful citizens of their country and respectable members of society. I have for many years made it a practice to read through the Bible once every year."

How dangerous is your home? A surprising number of accidents happen in the home—and about a third are falls. Many could be avoided with care and forethought.

Lamp and telephone cords should be run along walls or behind furniture, where no one can trip on them. If you must run a line across an open space or passageway, run it attached to the wall or ceiling overhead, not on the floor.

Any flooring or floor covering that has become loose, frayed, or worn out should be replaced. Be wary of tile floors that have become uneven; someone can trip on the high spots.

Adequate lighting is vital. Every room should have a light switch near the entry; special switches are available for rooms that have two entrances, or for the top and bottom of the stairs. Keep a night light on, or be sure there's a lamp by every bed.

Stairways are danger spots. Be sure they're well lit and free of clutter. Mark top and bottom step with contrasting color so they'll stand out. For added safety, install sturdy handrails.

Your safety, and that of your family and guests, is our concern. Come talk about protection and liability insurance at

Survey Concerning North Branch Of Potomac Slated

Local persons may be phoned and asked their opinion about the North Branch Potomac River and water resource issues in Garrett County.

Some 600 people who live in Garrett County and Allegany counties, and Grant and Mineral counties of West Virginia will be phoned on a random basis as part of the North Branch Public Opinion Survey.

All opinions will be confidential, according to the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin. In fact, the telephone interviewers will not even know the names of the people being phoned," a Commission spokesman said. "They will simply be given numbers to dial." The interviews will be about 15 minutes in length. The interviewers are citizens from the various counties who have agreed to volunteer for the project.

The purpose of the survey is to discover how people who live in the area of the North Branch Potomac feel about the river, water resource problems in their counties, and their recreational preferences. The information should help West Virginia and Maryland agencies which deal with natural resources in their educational efforts and policy decisions.

"The public's cooperation is greatly appreciated," the spokesman said.

Hauser Is Graduate Of Fashion Institute

Lisa Marie Hauser, Red House, was recently graduated from the Fashion Institute of Pittsburgh, Pa., where she majored in fashion merchandising. She received an associate in specialized technology degree.

While at the Fashion Institute, she was on the Dean's List four of six quarters.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Hauser. She plans to go into an executive training program.

Grantsville Man Killed When Hit By Automobile

A young Grantsville man was killed late Saturday night when he was struck by an automobile.

L. Michael Bittinger, 20, RD 1, was killed in the hit and run accident that occurred at 11:45 p.m. on Route 669, north of U.S. Route 40 near Grantsville.

Cpl. E.D. Selby and Tfc. L.R. Rosage investigated the accident and said Bittinger was very near his home and possibly walking in the northbound lane when a northbound vehicle hit him and fled the scene.

Bittinger's body was found by a young man who had traveled past the scene before the accident apparently occurred and was returning to go home, said police.

James D. Wiley, 18, Salisbury, Pa., reportedly turned himself in, in connection with the hit and run the next day. Wiley allegedly stated that he saw something lying in the road. Charges are pending in the case.

Born in Oakland, the victim was a son of Merrill Bittinger and Viola (Bittinger) Bittinger, who reside in Grantsville.

He was formerly employed by Dalton McKenzie as a woodsman.

Surviving besides his parents are seven brothers, Roy Bittinger, Grantsville; Luther Bittinger, Accident; Steven Bittinger, Roger Bittinger and Larry Bittinger, all of Meyersdale, Pa.; Merrill T. Bittinger and David Bittinger, both of Friendsville; four sisters, Mrs. Wilma Wilburn, Florida; Mrs. Catherine Holladay, Grantsville; Mrs. Carolyn Trent, Meyersdale; and Miss Colleen Bittinger, Friendsville.

Friends were received at the Newman Funeral Home in Grantsville where a service was conducted today by the Rev. Stanley Cosner. Interment was in the Bittinger Cemetery.

CDS Charge Filed Against McHenry Man

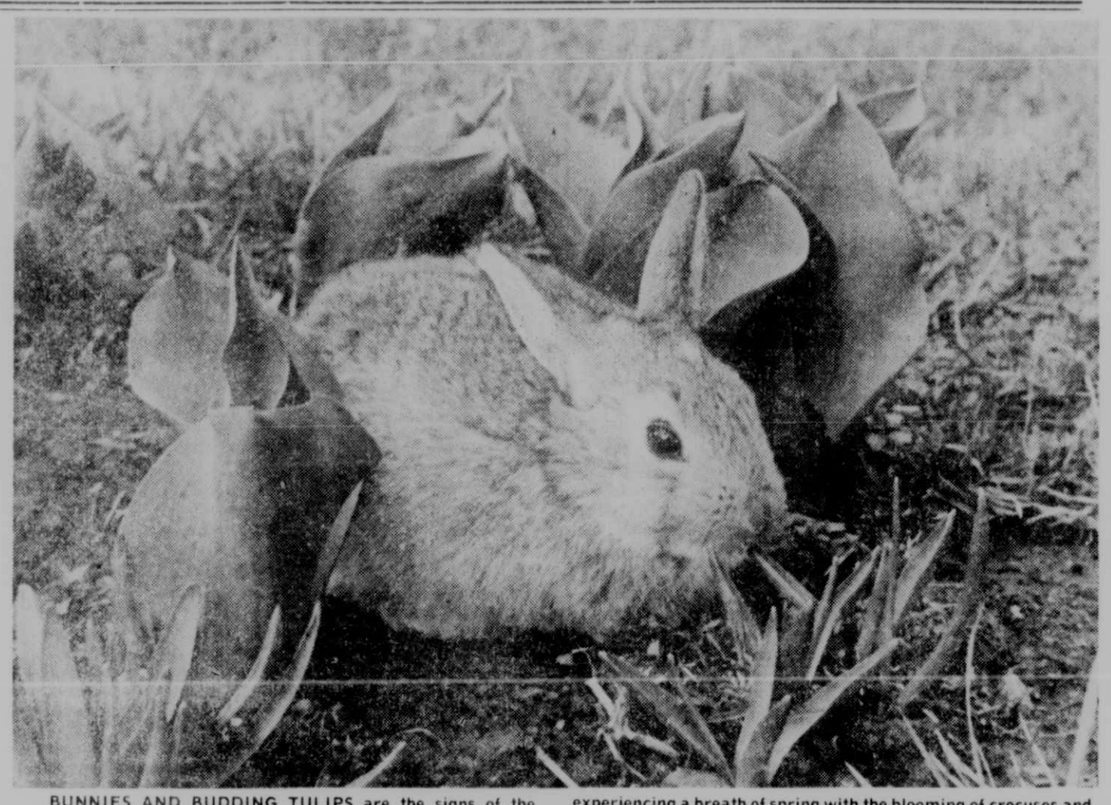

A McHenry man was charged with possession of cocaine and driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs early Wednesday morning.

Paul L. Sweene, 53, was stopped by Cpl. M.R. Mattingly at 2:15 a.m. and during the DWI arrest, Sweene was found to have cocaine in his possession.

Upon further investigation, it was discovered that the man was wanted on a bench warrant for failure to appear in court in West Virginia.

Judge Jack Turney has set Sweene's bond at $111,000.

Another charge of DWI was noted this week when Cpl. E.D. Selby stopped Loretta Mae Umble early Tuesday morning on Route 219 south of Memorial Drive and cited her for driving under the influence of alcohol.

BUNNIES AND BUDDING TULIPS are the signs of the promise of rebirth as many Garrett County residents will remember the rebirth of Jesus Christ during Easter services this weekend. The county, despite the snowstorm Monday, is already experiencing a breath of spring with the blooming of crocuses and jonquils and the budding of lilac and forsythia bushes. The Easter Bunny was quoted recently as saying, "You're nobunny 'till somebunny loves you." Happy Easter. Photo by Craig Phillips

TCC To Sponsor Economic Forum In Garrett County

A public forum on economic development strategies will be held on Thursday, April 11, at the Garrett County Courthouse in Oakland. Consultants retained by the Tri-County Council of Western Maryland will present their interim findings on strategies for the economic development of Garrett County, beginning at 2:00 p.m. in the County Commissioners' meeting room.

Economic Research Associates of McLean, Va. are assisting TCC in the development of the economic adjustment strategy that will address recent dislocations in the region, identify development alternatives and establish a framework for revitalization of the economy. The council is using this forum to bring the community into the development process and to generate additional alternatives for improving the area's economy.

The economic potential of the International Canoe Federation's Whitewater World Championships will be one of the matters discussed at the public forum.

The forum is one of three being hosted by TCC in this region. Other forums are being held in Hagerstown and Cumberland.

Offices To Close

All county and state offices will be closed in observance of Good Friday on April 5. Business hours will resume as usual on Monday, April 8.

Public Hearing Airs Proposed Deep Creek Lake Regulations

The proposed regulations for Deep Creek Lake, including boating and lake uses, buffer strip uses, permits, and appeals, were the topics of a public hearing held Saturday at Garrett Community College.

Representing the Department of Natural Resources was David L. Hathway, chief of operations of the Maryland Forest, Park and Wildlife Service; Paul Ruszin, assistant chief of operations; and Michael R. Gregory, manager of the Deep Creek Lake Natural Resources Management Area.

Hathway was moderator for the hearing, with Ruszin and Gregory, assisted by Linda Watt, Deep Creek Management Area office secretary, answering questions posed by approximately 25 representatives out of the more than 250 people attending the hearing with an interest in Deep Creek Lake.

DNR officials stated that any additional comments concerning the proposals could also be made by writing to Hathway at Tawes State Office Building, Annapolis, Md. 21401, or by calling 269-3776 no later than Monday, April 22.

The regulations have been in the development stage for three years by the Deep Creek Lake Management Committee. The committee is made up of Lake area representatives, commissioner appointees, and political representatives. The committee members are: Robert E. Watson, commissioner appointee; Ed King, president of the Deep Creek Lake Property Owners Association; Dale Carpenter, commissioner appointee; William Sisler, commissioner appointee; Helmuth Heise, president of the Deep Creek Business Association; Ernest J. Gregg, Board of Garrett County Commissioners' representative; and George Edwards, Maryland House of Delegates representative.

In an opening statement, Robert Watson explained the need to regulate the use of Deep Creek Lake and the surrounding buffer strip. He stated that there are about 20 miles of undeveloped shoreline on the lake, connected to hundreds and hundreds of back acres and open land. "That shoreline is being looked at now for development, in many cases for multiple-dwelling units, a higher level of density than we've had, generally speaking, around the lake before," said Watson.

Watson compared the result, a possible doubling or tripling of the intensity of lake use, with lake usage on peak weekends like the Fourth of July. He said that is what the lake could be like all summer, in five or ten

Two Area Men Charged With Vehicle Theft

Two Mtn. Lake Park men have been charged with the theft of a van belonging to Fitzwater Furniture Company and registration plates belonging to Virginia Hayhurst, Mtn. Lake Park.

Eugene W. Shifflett, 20, was charged with theft and carrying a concealed weapon, a manchuka, and Thomas R. Bowers, 19, was charged with theft by Tfc. R.C. Resh of the Maryland State Police. A 17-year-old female juvenile was questioned in connection with the theft but was released without being charged at this time.

The theft occurred over the weekend when the alleged thieves removed a battery from one vehicle and put it in the 1976 Ford Van belonging to Fitzwater Furniture. Reportedly, registration plates were then taken from the Hayhurst vehicle and put on the van.

The accused are presently being held in the Garrett County Jail awaiting a bond hearing.

Senate Rejects Reappointment For Hamilton

A Senate committee voted Tuesday to reject the reappointment of Wayne Hamilton as a member of the Public Service Commission, and Gov. Harry Hughes has honored Hamilton's wish to not pursue the appointment with the full Senate.

Governor Hughes said during a press conference on March 28 that he was willing to fight for Hamilton on the Senate floor, but would not press the issue if Hamilton decided he did not wish to pursue it. Constance Beims, the governor's appointment officer, has said Hamilton was "not disposed" to continue the battle.

Hamilton was the object of an intensive lobbying effort by a coalition including senior citizens groups and consumer activists who asserted that Hamilton was not sensitive to consumer concerns and was not qualified for the post.

Hughes praised Hamilton's work on the board and attributed the opposition, which was highly organized against him, to a misunderstanding of the role of a Public Service Commission member.

Hughes pointed out that "anyone serving on the Public Service Commission should not be an advocate for the public utilities, and should not be an advocate for the consumer. They serve as regulators and they are to perform their functions objectively in accordance with the law."

Senator John Bambacus, who supported Hamilton's reappointment, said Wednesday Gov. Hughes told him he would not appoint Sylvia Hancock, the choice of those opposing Hamilton, to the position, but would consider a qualified person from Western Maryland.

Bambacus described the coalition of groups opposing Hamilton as having mounted a "highly orchestrated" campaign, but he believed their criticism that Hamilton was insensitive to consumer concerns were unfounded.

Hamilton's term on the commission expires June 30.

Academic Forum At GCC Votes No-Confidence In Harman, Leary

After a lengthy discussion Tuesday on the subject of non-renewal of contracts of three Garrett Community College instructors and other recent administrative actions, the GCC Academic Forum overwhelmingly issued a vote of no-confidence in President Randall Harman and Dean of Academic Affairs Fred K. Learey. The vote was 13 - 4 in favor of the measure with one abstention. Three forum members were not present for the meeting.

Three faculty members, two with over ten years of service, received form letters this week informing them that their contracts would not be renewed for the next fiscal year. Receiving letters were Dr. Dennis Fearnow, Athletic Director; Donald Carstens, assistant professor of construction technology; and Dr. Paul Deal, instructor of Veterinary Technology.

A motion that the no-confidence vote be sent to the Board of Trustees carried.

The following are the points which were contained in the minutes that supported Forum actions.

1. There was a lack of followed procedure in recent faculty renewals. The Board of Trustees wasn't notified and evaluations weren't completed prior to non-renewal letters.

2. There was a lack of planning in regard to Dr. Paul Deal's non-renewal and the cancellation of the Vet Tech program.

3. There was a lack of respect for the faculty by the administration.

4. There is a low morale factor as the result of tenured and long-term instructors' non-renewals.

5. There was no evident justification for a tenured instructor, Dr. Dennis Fearnow, to be dismissed for the reason stated in his letter of non-renewal.

6. Public image of the college will be hurt because of the non-renewals and will negatively affect effective management and enrollment.

7. From an ethical standpoint, it's difficult to support or feel loyalty for an institution that has little regard for human values. In regard to the non-renewal of Dr. Fearnow, the institution showed little concern for such values, and little loyalty to a dedicated employee.

Several other faculty members agreed that the vote of no-confidence was not a result of just the recent non-renewals, but "that was simply the straw that broke the camel's back." They stated that several other recent decisions made by the present administration were done so with "very little, if any, thought, research, or discussion."

President Harman said he could neither confirm nor deny the names of those instructors whose contracts were not renewed, although he did confirm that three instructors had received such notification.

Fearnow and Carstens both said they received letters last Thursday informing them that their contracts would not be renewed. The letters, signed by Harman, stated, "Due to insufficient and projected student enrollment and the necessity to achieve cost effectiveness, Garrett Community College will not be renewing your contract at the end of the contract period. This decision was not based on past performance or ability. As opportunities for part-time teaching arise, we will contact you regarding your interest. Your past contributions to the college are appreciated."

Steep Slope Bill Undergoes Final Scrutiny Today

The Maryland Senate approved the House version of the Steep Slope Mining Bill by a vote of 30-16 on Tuesday.

There was no debate and the legislation repealing a 10-year-old ban on strip mining slopes of 20 degrees or more was sent to the governor.

The Senate version of the same bill will go to the House for a vote of acceptance today.

Governor Harry Hughes had stated early in the General Assembly session that he might veto the bill. Since that time several amendments have been added to the bill which supporters hope will make the bill more acceptable to the Governor.

The Garrett County Commissioners, while in Annapolis yesterday, spoke with lobbiest Joseph A. Schwartz III, who had requested new letters of support from the commissioners along with their endorsement for the amended bill. These letters were presented to Schwartz who will forward them to Hughes.

Schwartz also suggested to the commissioners that any of the incorporated towns in Garrett County who are in favor of the bill should send a letter of support and endorsement to the governor.

The governor is expected to make his final decision on passage of the bill by the end of April.

Legislators Include $4.5 Million In Capital Budget For Northern

Maryland House and Senate budget committees have included $4.5 million for the Northern High School Renovation Project in the state fiscal year 1986 capital budget as well as have appropriated money for several capital projects in the county, local lawmakers announced this week.

The House passed its capital budget proposal Wednesday while Senator John Bambacus is still working to be sure the money survives the Senate.

Del. George Edwards and Bambacus said the money was amended into the budget, along with money for schools in Montgomery County and in Baltimore County, partly because of a lot of hard work and partly because many legislators were interested in increasing funds for public school construction.

Del. Edwards pointed out that many legislators wanted to see projects in their districts funded by the Inter-Agency Committee for Public School Construction and, because the Northern High School project was the top priority for funding when available, they believed funding the NHS project this year would speed up funding for their projects.

Edwards and Bambacus added that by getting the funding for the project this year, other county projects, such as renovation plans for Southern High School, would remain on schedule.

The amendment to the public school construction allotment increases funds from $26 million to $33.6 million, allowing funds for Northern High School, as well as $2.9 million for Montgomery County School and $200,000 for schools in Baltimore County.

Other county projects included in the state's general

RECEIVE COMMEMORATIVE MEDALLION — Members of the Garrett County 350th Committee, organized to plan Garrett County participation in the state's celebration of its 350th anniversary, presented the Garrett County Commissioners with a commemorative medallion on April 2. The medallion was presented in behalf of Gov. Harry Hughes and of the Statewide Maryland Heritage Committee in appreciation of the county's contributions to the celebration. Commissioner Elwood Groves, center receives the medallion from Ruth Calderwood, president of the county committee. Also present for the occasion were, left to right, Joseph DiSimone, committee member; Ernest Gregg and John Braskey, county commissioners; and Bob Ruckert, Paul Calderwood, Ivan Rowe, Mary Jones, Clifford DeWitt and Adeline Ruckert, all committee members.

HIGH WINDS AND A LARGE ROTTED TREE wreaked havoc early Friday morning in the Mtn. Lake Park area. Electric power was out for approximately three hours and telephone service was interrupted for over 30 hours after the tree fell at about 2 a.m., snapping two utility poles on G Street in Mtn. Lake Park, creating a nightmare for C and P Telephone Company and Potomac Edison Company crews. Power and telephone lines were down not only on G Street but also on Route 135. The weight of the downed lines caused several utility poles along G Street and Route 135 to lean over. Although rainy, windy weather prevailed over the weekend, no other major damage was reported in the county.

Man Sustains Crushed Foot In Cycle Accident

A young West Virginia man is still a patient at Garrett County Memorial Hospital following a motorcycle accident Monday evening.

Jack A. Glotfelty, 23, Wilson, W. Va., sustained a crushed foot in the 7:20 p.m. mishap which occurred on the Weber Road at the intersection of Heck's parking lot.

The accident occurred when the operator of an automobile, Lorie J. McWilliams, 21, Eglon, W. Va., who was traveling south on the Weber Road attempted to make a left-hand turn into Heck's parking lot, failed to see the motorcycle operated by Glotfelty, and struck the motorcycle.

Reportedly, Laura Stottlemeyer, a passenger on the motorcycle, was uninjured in the mishap.

Tfc. G.R. Chaney investigated the mishap and charged McWilliams with making an improper turn. Glotfelty was charged with improper use of registration, driving an unregistered vehicle and operating a vehicle not covered by required security.

Garrett County Emergency Management dispatched the Southern Rescue Squad and the Oakland Fire Department to the scene.

In another accident which occurred yesterday morning, three persons were transported to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland where they were treated and released.

The 7:50 a.m. mishap occurred when Kimberly A. Buckel, 16, Bittinger, operating a 1981 Oldsmobile Omega, was proceeding down a grade on the Bowman Hill Road when the vehicle began to slide on the snow-covered road and struck a Garrett County Roads Department Mack Truck, operated by Danny Friend, 26, McHenry.

Linda Buckel, 36, and Christina Buckel, 13, were the passengers in the Buckel vehicle.

No charges were filed by Tfc. L.R. Smith, who investigated the accident.

Employee Group Contracts To Go To School Board

Proposed contracts with two employee groups are planned for presentation to the Garrett County Board of Education for ratification during its April 11 meeting, James Lupis, assistant superintendent of administrative services, reported Wednesday.

The Garrett County Teachers' Association has approved its contract with the school board, Lupis noted. The Garrett County Association of Educational Support Personnel are expected to vote on their contract this week.

Meanwhile, the board negotiating team, headed by Lupis, is still at impasse with the Classifed Supervisory personnel, a group represented by the American Federation of Teachers and including head custodians and cafeteria managers. Lupis stated that a mediator will be called in to help resolve the matter.

Details of the contracts will not be released by the board until the contracts are ratified.

Thanks . . .

I would like to express my sincere appreciation to Drs. Johnson, Alvarez, Fedde, Porcaro and Goralski; the nurses, aides and staff at Garrett Memorial Hospital for the special care I received during my recent illness. Thanks also to all my many friends and relatives who sent flowers and cards and for all the special prayers. God Bless You All.

Mtn. Lake Man, Two Juveniles Charged In Theft

A man and two juveniles from the Mtn. Lake Park area were arrested Friday and charged with theft by Tfc. R.M. Hershberger.

Donald Allen Warren, 29, was charged with theft by receiving stolen goods from the two juveniles who were charged with theft.

The juveniles allegedly took a 1985 Suzuki four-wheeler and eight pieces of lawn furniture belonging to Robert Paul Thomas, Mtn. Lake Park, sometime between March 21 and March 23.

The stolen items were reportedly recovered by the Maryland State Police on Warren's property.

The value of the stolen property was set at $2,800.

Sgt. Charles Hinnant and Cpl. Gary Berkebile also assisted in the investigation.

Commissioners Attend MACo, TCC This Week

Garrett County Commissioners John G. Braskey and Elwood Groves II and County Clerk Robert Fousek were in Annapolis yesterday to attend a legislative meeting of the Maryland Association of Counties and to touch base with several Maryland government officials to discuss legislative issues that concern Garrett County.

While at MACo, the commissioners learned of the resignation of executive director, Althea T. O'Connor. Commissioner Braskey was chosen to serve on the select search committee for finding a replacement for O'Connor. Braskey is the legislative representative for MACo for Western Maryland.

The commissioners discussed the Northern High School Renovation project with Delegate George Edwards and offered their continued support to the project. Edwards said he was optimistic about the funding at this point.

Additional state funding for the Glendale Bridge Project was also discussed by the commissioners and Edwards. The commissioners pointed out that the bridge connects two state highways and that it is an access route to Deep Creek Lake State Park. Deep Creek lake is also managed by the state.

The commissioners also said they would send a letter to Governor Harry Hughes in support of the Steep Slope Mining Bill. Lobbyists felt it would be beneficial for the commissioners to do so.

While in Annapolis the commissioners presented DNR Secretary Dr. Torrey Brown with a final State Land Consolidation Plan.

Commissioner Ernest Gregg Jr. was in Cumberland yesterday attending a meeting of Tri-County Council to discuss budgetary matters. Gregg is the chairman of TCC.

Press Conference

At a press conference Tuesday Commissioner Groves announced the appointment of Carl Fike, Mtn. Lake Park, to serve on the Garrett County Ethics Board. Fike replaces Alan Stuart who no longer resides in the county.

The commissioners also announced the reconstruction of the Airport Advisory Board. There will now be an Advisory Board as well as a Task Force to handle the increased work load due to the proposed airport renovation.

Serving on the Advisory Board will be the three commissioners, the county clerk, the economic development director, the roads administrator, the county building and operations director, and the chairman of the Task Force.

The Task Force will be comprised of local pilots and other interested persons.

Also at the press conference the commissioners said they had met with the Mayor and Town Council of Loch Lynn Monday evening and learned that that town would not be seeking a tax differential. Loch Lynn is the sixth municipality that said it would not seek a tax differential.

First United IRA's are profitable and safe, too! Your money is invested in guaranteed high-yielding First United Certificates of Deposit that are insured by the FDIC up to $100,000. Or you may choose to direct how your money is invested with First United's Self-Directed IRA. Whichever you choose, you'll get a tax break now and security in the future with an IRA at First United!

Sincere Dedication Of S.H.A. Crews Keep Local Highways On The Move

by Pam Ashby

With a norm of 16-hour shifts, seven days a week for nearly a month, how did the road crews of the State Highway Administration endure?

"There was no time to complain. You're just numb after a while," said S.H.A. operator Bob Damon.

"The men were all good about pitching in and doing their share," said Daniel Upole, supervisor of roads maintenance from the Oakland garage.

"Getting to work was tough for us, too," said one of the laborers.

Those are only a few of the comments heard by the S.H.A. crews, who exhibited a spirit of cooperation, but appeared thankful that they wouldn't have to battle much more snow - until next winter.

Chain Of Command

At the helm of the Garrett County division of the State Highway Administration are William Goldsborough, resident maintenance engineer, and Paul D. McIntyre, highway maintenance supervisor. These two men tirelessly alternate the job of supervising operations at the S.H.A. garage at Keyser's Ridge during winter storms.

Unfortunately, Goldsborough became very ill just after Christmas last year and was hospitalized for nearly two weeks before being sent home to recuperate. One of his men said, "Bill just couldn't stand being home during the terrible storm. His wife said he would worriedly look out the window wanting to be at work. Finally, he couldn't take it anymore and insisted that the doctor permit him to come back to work. The doctor reluctantly agreed if he would have one of the men drive him to work. That lasted two days and he was back to driving himself even though his legs were very weak."

Goldsborough refused to take any credit for "the excellent job" his men did this winter.

McIntyre, who also worked many 20 hour plus shifts during the storm, also highly praised his men and each S.H.A. worker received a letter of commendation after the worst of the storm was over.

The letter acknowledged "the sincere dedication the men showed to their jobs in maintaining services for the people of Garrett County and the traveling public" during the storm. He stated, "You have worked in the most severe weather conditions and put in many long hours risking your life for others. Your 150% cooperation made it possible to maintain snow operations around the clock . . . thanks for a job well done."

Two additional people, Doug Ellis, shop clerk, and Betsy Colaw, secretary, were also largely responsible for the around the clock radio watch at the Keyser's Ridge garage. They also worked 16-hour plus shifts, seven days a week.

The job of supply clerk was vacant during the winter storm, but has since been filled by Alan Meyer. Joe Kisselovich is the automotive service supervisor. Supervisors of road maintenance include Daniel Upole, Edsel Calhoun and Jim Kahl from the Oakland garage, and Jim Smith, Jim Spear and Ron Hockman from the main garage at Keyser's Ridge.

There is a total of 20 employees at the Oakland garage and 30 employees based at the Keyser's Ridge headquarters.

Facts And Statistics

County residents should be happy to hear that only 5,000 tons of salt had to be used on the highways this winter as opposed to the 21,000 tons used last year. Shop Clerk Ellis contributed the much lower salt usage to the less than usual icy conditions experienced this winter.

The S.H.A., like the county, used much more abrasives this year and coupling that with all the overtime hours the department was over-budget because of the month-long storm.

Goldsborough stated, though, "They don't complain about it downstate when we have a hard winter. There is a separate budget for road maintenance and they expect us to get the job done regardless of the cost. Saftey is much more important."

Equipment

Unlike the Garrett County Roads Department, the county division of the State Highway Administration does not own its equipment. Rather, it rents from the state and the rent goes back into a fund which purchases new or maintains old equipment.

Currently used at the county S.H.A. are two Blanchet blowers, two Oshkosh trucks with wing attachments, two Idaho Norland blowers, 17 diesel trucks, three crew cab trucks, seven loaders, and two graders.

During the winter blast, the S.H.A. was forced to pull three Oshkosh trucks from Frederick and an Oshkosh truck, an Idaho blower, and two front-end loader blowers from Cumberland. They also pulled 12 men from Cumberland to help with operations.

Manpower for snow removal was also obtained by sub-contracting trucks and labor from Frank Arnold Contractors, Mt. Top Paving, RES Trucking, Doug Callis, Jack Kight, John Manges, Don Hockman, and Jim Lininger.

Cooperation

Colaw, who handled nearly all the complaints this winter, said most people were very understanding. She said they just needed reassurance that the highways would be kept open which was often difficult with the high winds.

McIntyre said Sgt. William Graham and the entire Maryland State Police force from the McHenry detachment worked very closely with him during the storm.

One incident in particular stands out in McIntyre's mind. "We were forced to temporarily close U.S. Route 219 south at Red House during a particularly windy portion of the storm so we could safely use the big blowers to reopen the road. The State Police were right there to see that no vehicles or pedestrians were in any danger until we completed our operations. It would have been impossible without them."

McIntyre also noted that the State Police regulate the Snow Emergency Plan, and the S.H.A. advises the police through the use of the U.S. Weather Station located at the Keyser's Ridge headquarters.

Highest Praise

Although many people take the S.H.A. for granted, their efforts do not go totally unnoticed.

A recent letter from Governor

TIME TO REPLACE AND REPAIR — With the bulk of the winter storms behind them for another year, S.H.A. crews must now undertake the task of repairing damaged road signs, fences and guardrails. In the photo above, Harley Murphy shows what can happen to a road sign that is not visible to a loader blower operator during snow removal. S.H.A. crews are now out in full force replacing the damaged signs.

An Absolute Joke . . .

In about three weeks Maryland ninth graders will take the state functional writing exam, a test that all students must pass before they can be awarded a high school diploma. Last year over half of the students failed the exam and at that time we suspected that quite possibly there were problems with the test itself and the grading of it. An article in Baltimore's Sunday Sun strongly supports that opinion.

A significant number of honor students, who scored well above the national average on the verbal section of aptitude tests, are among those who failed the functional writing test. Some excellent essays and letters received failing grades, while some horrible examples received passing grades.

Below is the text of a writing sample being used by the state as a model for its functional writing test. Despite the outrageous punctuation, terrible grammar, poor sentence structure, and absence of paragraphs, this sample received a four, which is the top score! And this is being used as a MODEL! Dr. Paul L. Williams, who is chief of the testing branch of the Maryland Department of Education, has used a variety of weak arguments to justify the validity and value of the test. But he refused to comment on this particular sample.

On the other hand, the Sun article also included an essay and letter by Towson High School sophomore Jasmine Waldorf, which in our opinion were fine examples of writing. Yet for some reason, Miss Waldorf failed the exam.

Some Garrett County language arts teachers have told us that many of their students, who they feel are quite competent and creative in their writing, are among those who failed last year. Because of the unpopularity of the test and inconsistencies in scoring, many of the current ninth graders who will take the exam on April 26 are fearful, and justifiably so, that they will not pass it. There is also no way to appeal a score.

The only persons who can obtain the test papers of the students are their parents. The schools can obtain only the scores. We strongly encourage parents to do this, particularly if they believe their child's test has been unfairly graded.

We believe that the concept of a functional writing exam is most worthy. But the present test, and the grading of it, is an absolute joke, and the Maryland Department of Education had better act NOW to modify and revise it. The persons who have taken the blame for last year's dismal showing on the exam have been teachers and students, and it is evident that, in general, they have been innocent victims.

Dear Greg,

Recently I went to see Led Zeppelin in concert in Washington. We arrived early and the seats were filling up quick. You could feel a mood of excitement in the air an the clock headed for seven. Finally the lights went out and all was dark and quiet. Suddenly I heard a tremendous crash of sounds as lights flashed about the whole place. the band was pretty radical the music was so loud and it was pretty thrashable they played all my favorite songs the conceit lasted three and a half hours. When the last song was playing there was a sad mood in the air like someone. had died. We were all so sorry to see it end so soon. I enjoyed it greatly Maybe we can go to a concert together in the future sometime

Yours truly,
Mike

Feeling Of Spring . . .

by Mary I. Love

Spring appears at unexpected times and places. Some years it seems never to come, or to turn up in February or, more likely, in July.

This year, if you recall, New Year's Day was spring. Along with many others, I spent part of that balmy afternoon at Swallow Falls, and remembered colder picnics there in August. Then spring disappears under ten feet of snow, more or less. Now it is perhaps returning, or at least making a brief, coy reappearance.

This insight came to me a sunny, clear day last week when I stopped at a farm in Pleasant Valley. Granted, it wasn't exactly warm, but something felt different.

Two little girls, a dog, a cat, and a hen were playing together in the barnyard. It's the kind of activity not unusual in such a setting, except that the hen was placidly letting herself be led on a leash.

The farmer and I stood in the sun beside the house as we talked. A few crocuses were at our feet and a large washing was lapping on the clothes line. Backbone Mountain looked close enough to touch, and the sun felt warm through my parka.

The setting, the youngsters, the animals, the docile hen, the clothes on the line, all suggested that spring is near, even if winter makes a curtain call.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I was appalled to read in last week's paper about the negative decision of the Garrett County Board of Education regarding a request by Chris Kepple for a day off school to attend a legislative session of the Maryland General Assembly for the purpose of testifying before one of their committees.

I simply cannot understand this method of thinking, nor do I feel assured that it is representative of a responsible adult's independent decision.

I hope the Board will understand that the organized educational system is to provide the background for future endeavors in life. To deny that being present in a legislative session is not educational surely defies the right of this country's citizens to experience the democratic process.

A decision such as this reminds me of a society without the basic freedoms given us through our Declaration of Independence and our Bill of Rights.

It should be our priority to encourage this type of extra-curricular participation to further the educational experience of each and every student. Just think how much better our society would be if we had more people who thought enough of government to participate actively instead of being just a part of the silent majority.

The Board of Education is certainly appearing to me to be very narrow-minded and failing to take into account the whole educational process needed to produce active, participating adults in society.

This same negative attitude has also been brought to my attention earlier this year when I discovered the actual policies in place for students using "Personal Day" absence excuses. I found out that even when a student doing well enough in school to be a part of the "Gifted & Talented" program is absent for a day to perform needed fall farm work necessary prior to inclement weather, a legal excuse was denied simply because a parent did not call the school prior to 8:45. What makes the difference when the school is notified—the same day or the next day? An insistence for applying small technicalities like this simply does not make good sense. I want my children to know "right" from "wrong." I do not want to teach them to lie (even about sick excuses) just to conform to the "system." I think we should modify the system to be flexible enough to allow good judgment to enter into this type of decision.

If we teach the children and students of today to tell "white lies" about absences just for a legal excuse, we should not be surprised a few years later when they are picked up for drug offenses, intoxication or theft. It's our fault if the system isn't changed.

To the Editor:

On March 18 a friend and I happened to be in a position to see three men stealing commodities from the storage building at Community Action. Two of these men we knew to be guardsmen, because they had placed the cases in the cab of the guard truck. The other man was dressed in blue jeans so we thought he must be an employer of Community Action (By the way, we are not emnployees of Community Action).

After seeing this we went into town and contacted Chief Sines. We followed him back to Community Action and showed him where the one man had hid his cases beside the storage building under some boards. He also found four cases in the cab of the guard truck.

Chief Sines contacted Community Action personnel, and one of the guardsmen and showed them what he had found. Very shortly, Sgt. Don Weeks showed up and went inside Community Action. Chief Sines came out and told us the two guards confessed and said they might be kicked out of the National Guard. At this time, he asked a description of the other man and went back inside. He then came back and motioned for us to follow him. Up the road a ways, he signaled for us to pull over. At this time he was pleased that we reported the incident and said all three men had confessed.

We thought we had done a service for Garrett County until we read in The Republican the kind of punishment these three thieves were getting.

The two guardsmen being reprimanded and the Community Action employee being placed under the supervision of his supervisor is like slapping their fingers and saying "don't get caught next time."

Why did Community Action not press charges? Is it because these men could open a can of worms that they would rather keep closed?

If they caught me stealing a case of cheese I would be arrested and my name would be smeared in the headlines of the paper. It would be the same for an old man caught with a can of snuff, or some young person with a candy bar.

These men had six cases of commodities that we saw them take.

Chief Sines did his job, The Republican reported the story, and we did our job by reporting what we saw. But, Community Action didn't do what was right.

My friend and I feel we wasted our morning for nothing and I for one wouldn't report a bank robbery if I saw one tomorrow. Why bother?

P.S. Low income family, if you got short changed on your butter or cheese now you know where it's at. Somebody took it before it got to the distribution points.

To the Editor:

This past weekend was an eventful one for music lovers in Garrett County. The Garrett Choral Society concerts, with visiting and resident soloists, were warmly received by audiences appreciative of all the talented individuals involved.

The Bach Festival at St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church in Accident featured a choir that took up one third of the main sanctuary, instrumentalists, and the movie The Joy of Bach. This was a fitting tribute to the man who, in spite of a life-long series of tragedies and difficulties, poured out a veritable flood of music expressing his joy in living and his praise of God.

Our thanks to Dr. Charles Springman and all who participated in this celebration of the 300th anniversary of the birth of Johann Sebastian Bach, "a regular guy, a husband, a father, a schoolteacher, a Lutheran, and a genius."

And out thanks to Nancy Learey, the Choral Society, and all the very special musicians who shared their talents with the public. Garrett County was fortunate to have these opportunities.

Sincerely,
Dorthy B. Leighton

To the Editor:

Enclosedis a copy of the April 1 bill from the Bloomington Improvement Association which I received March 29, 1985. (See paid ad on page eight.)

Please note at the top of the bill it says "To be Paid by 3/30, $15.00 Turn-On Fee," and at the bottom of the bill it says: "Bill is past due after the twentieth day . . ."

I received the bill 3/29 in Arlington, Virginia. I wonder how they expect me to pay it by 3/30. This is a threat by Louise Warnick to turn my water off.*

Again, note: "Present Reading 16,000; Previous Reading 16,000; Consumed 0" and there was consumption.

I paid the $16.50 (the 2,000-gallon rate) for the March 1 bill.

It is my understanding that Edgar Harman, Environmental Health Officer, Oakland, has found that the water is contaminated and they don't know what the pollutant is or the source of the pollutant. They have switched the Bloomington Improvement Association system over on Westernport's system. The residual of the pollutant could remain in the Association's distribution system and the water users' water pipes and septic tanks forever depending on the life span of the pollutant and the changing nature of the pollutants that can make them more toxic with time.

The people in the Town of Bloomington have not been advised of this situation by the Association. The only communications they have with users is to bill for money.

This is also evidence of the lack of technical, as well as mangerial, ability on the part of officers of the Association.

Sincerely yours,
Mona F. Beard

P.S. As of noon Wednesday, the water was turned off.

To the Editor:

It was announced this week that Dennis Fearnow, of Garrett Community College, would not be given a new contract. At first I had to wonder if this was just another April Fool's joke.

Mr. Dennis Fearnow has been at GCC since the beginning and in my opinion helped make the college what it is today.

Coach Fearnow has been basketball coach, baseball coach, Athletic Director and instructor at GCC. As a student and as a player of his, I found him to be honest, hard-working, conscientous and, of utmost importance, he did everything in his power to make GCC students feel at home.

Coach Fearnow is the type of man who any one of his students or players would have been proud to call "Dad," because he attempted to understand their problems.

I have been following some of the recent happenings at the college and I believe this is the final straw.

I urge the Board of Trustees to do all in its power to change the decision made by GCC administration in the best interest of preserving GCC.

To the Editor:

There was a time when crime, violence and vandalism were only topics on the six-o'clock national news. However, recent incidents have alerted citizens that these are not only urban issues. At this time, we have the advantage. We can deal with the matter before it becomes a problem and profit from the solutions already implemented by communities before us.

Much too often, we have nurtured the attitude that crime management is the job of the police department. Perhaps we even ignored incidents in hopes that they were only isolated occurences. Some people just don't want to get involved due to fears of retaliation or being ineffective. Yet, past experience has shown that law enforcement officials can do little without the support of caring, rational and concerned citizens.

Statistics show that we, as citizens, can improve the situation. Throughout the country, communities have banded together for this common goal. They have implemented various types of neighborhood watch programs. Each emphasizes a "neighbor cares for neighbor" approach. Citizens report to the proper authorities any suspicious occurences. It does not, however, advocate any vigilante type of action where one must take the law into his own hands. Instead, the solution is involvement of the community as a whole.

Concerned Friendsville residents are urging the participation of all people in a community-focused approach of dealing with the town's crime situation. At our last meeting, the number of people attending was disappointing compared to the concerns voiced throughout the town. Friendsville needs the ideas of all residents, merchants and even citizens in outlying areas, in order to implement a successful means of crime management. We invite all to attend our next meeting, Monday, April 15, to help formulate ideas. But if the Friendsville citizenry continues their indifference, they need not complain about the present, or future, situation.

Very earnestly,
Valerie A. Frazee

To the Editor:

This letter concerns the people who do not feel it is necessary to use their turn signals.

When I first moved here, I was surprised at the number of people who don't bother with signaling. It really annoyed me a lot, but I was told by friends to "get used to it." Well, eventually I did to a certain degree. But when a school bus loaded with elementary school children makes a total of four turns and uses a turn signal only once, I think it's time someone said something.

Not only is this an extremely rude thing to do to the drivers or anyone else around you (to say the very least), it is more importantly a very dangerous practice. I also don't think that a bus driver has the right to put a bus load of kids in jeopardy because of his carelessness.

I don't have any children of my own yet, but when I do, I certainly hope that their bus driver is a lot more considerate and cautious then the one I followed home from work today. I hope all vehicle operators will think twice before they whip around the next corner without a signal light.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Joy Harvey

Regulations

years. "That's what we're trying to look at in drafting these regulations," he said, "because if we don't do something about it, don't address it now, the time is going to come when we're going to have a dead lake. It's going to be commercially dead, and it's going to be biologically dead. That's my very strong belief," said Watson.

Several concerns seemed to be uppermost in the minds of those attending. One of those concerns was the lack of speed limits on the lake. Several property owners commented on whether or not a specific speed limit would work. According to Commissioner Gregg, there was some concern within the committee structure about the lack of lake speed limits. They were convinced, however, that it was futile to try and control speed alone. One reason was that marine speedometers are not accurate. Another reason was that speed itself is not so much a factor, if the vessel is being operated in an unsafe manner.

Some landowners were afraid that the buffer strip use permit they held would not be issued to the person they might sell their property to in the future.

The proposed regulation reads that the permit may not be issued to a landowner unless that person held or was eligible to hold a valid dock permit before the imposition of the moratorium on August 12, 1983, or owns at least 150 feet of land fronting on the buffer strip.

It was suggested that the regulation be changed to say "that person, or that person's successor in title". The explanation was given that the use of the buffer strip is not a "right" but a privilege granted by Pennelec, and as long as any one person has the privilege to use the buffer strip, all will have the same privilege, and any new owner will be as eligible as the previous owner was.

Another topic of discussion concerned tying docks or boats to trees on the buffer strip. The regulation reads, "A person may not attach any manner of rope or cable to or around tree or shrub on the buffer strip." In answer to questions of "what then would we tie the docks to?", Gregory explained that landowners would be permitted to insert six to eight foot stakes into the ground to tie docks to.

Other regulations which prompted discussion included:

Power boats longer than 25 feet would not be permitted on the lake, while pontoon boats could not be longer than 28 feet.

Ed Scofield, speaking for the Marine Operators on Deep Creek Lake, stated that the overall length be changed to 26 feet to stay consistent with manufacturers' building sizes. He also said that the limit on pontoon boats would make several top lines nonconforming and no longer available for sale on Deep Creek Lake.

A single family private landowner shall be limited to one dock for swimming or boating, or both, with slip space for not more than three boats, for each single family residence regardless of the amount of lake frontage owned.

"Frontage" in this case refers to adjacent property on the buffer strip of the lake. Gregory said this would be done in order to maintain a limit on the amount of shore line taken up by docks.

No private land owner would be permitted more than three boats per use permit, and no more than two power boats. The exception is boats that weigh under 500 pounds, which could be beached in front of the land owner's property.

One speaker asked if six people owned a condominium, what would happen when all six wanted to dock their boats on the lake.

A Deep Creek Lake hearing Board of Appeals would be created. The board would review decisions of the lake management office and make recommendations to the secretary of the DNR, Dr. Torrey Brown, regarding any appeals.

This Board would consist of the members of the Deep Creek Lake Management Committee. Many of the people present seemed to agree with McHenry resident, Donald H. Carstens, who said, "I don't want Torrey Brown to have the last say in any appeal I make."

No boat would be operated with more than one engine, not to exceed manufacturer's recommended horsepower ratio, excepting that auxiliary engines up to 25 horsepower be allowed.

To this regulation, Scofield, for the Marine Operators, stated: "We feel the regulations and restrictions set down by the United States Coast Guard and the Boating Industry Association have established what constitutes a safe horsepower limit for boats and that the recommended horsepower established by these organizations be the legal horsepower without limiting the number of engines on a boat.

No parasails or hang gliders would be permitted to be used on the buffer strip or water of the lake.

No houseboats would be allowed on the waters of the lake.

Fishermen would be required to obtain written permission from adjacent landowners prior to fishing from the buffer strip.

Picnicking, camping, beaching of boats, swimming, and driving of vehicles on the buffer strip area would be prohibited by the general public, except in designated areas.

A new classification system of permits would be created, including: Development permits for land developers establishing "common use" or group dock facilities; buffer strip use permits for placement of docks; special use permits for any other use, alteration, modification, improvement, or other activity that takes place on the buffer strip.

All factions present, DNR, Deep Creek Management Committee representatives, and landowners and business representatives, felt that the public hearing was quite constructive. Other comments will still be accepted by DNR until April 22, and Gregory emphasized that they would be taken into account in the further drafting of regulations.

Among those also attending the hearing were: Del. George Edwards, Senator Bambacus's representative Mona Smith, and all three Garrett County Commissioners.

Odor Instigates Shutdown Of Bloomington's New Water System

The odor of an undetermined contaminate has caused the shutdown of Bloomington's new water system this week, according to local health department officials.

The new water system, developed by the Bloomington Improvement Association, had been in operation for approximately one week prior to last Wednesday when the operator detected an odor from the water and shut down the system.

The town previously purchased all its water from Westernport, and when the odor developed, the system was switched back to the old line which brings water from the Savage River Dam to the town of Westernport.

Local health department officials have conducted tests and sent samples to the health lab in Baltimore, however, no results have been received at this time. These results will help determine what the contaminate is and help officials find the cause of the problem.

Until the problem is resolved and corrected, Bloomington will continue, once again, to purchase its water supply from Westernport. The people can be assured, therefore that the water they are using is safe, stated a health department official.

Our Turn

Engraved On The Heart
by Pam Ashby

She was always self-assured, knowing what she wanted from life. She gave of herself with no strings attached. She loved to talk about her family and enjoyed hearing about mine. She had more friends than most people ever hope to have. She died of cancer Friday and, at first, I thought something precious had been taken from me. I was hurt and angry.

What I didn't realize was that she is still with me. I can still hear her saying, "It scares the hell out of me, but I'm going to fight this thing and God will do the rest." It was quite a fight and there is no doubt in my mind that she won.

If I remember nothing else about her, I'll always recall her unbroken spirit until the end of her life on this earth.

I'll hold dear the solicited, no-nonsense advice she gave me on everything and anything.

I'll cherish the smile, the laughter, the hugs, the pain and the tears we shared.

When I'm at my wit's end, I'll cling to her belief that "everything will work out."

She nurtured and nourished everyone she knew. She was an inspiration to everyone's life she touched. It's no wonder all the neighborhood kids used to gather around her kitchen table to "rap." She took time to listen and always said what was on her mind without preaching.

Her job as an alcoholic counselor called her out at all hours of the day and night and was sometimes dangerous, but she didn't complain. She knew she had a job to do and that someone needed her. She thrived on being needed.

I can't hug her anymore, but I will certainly embrace her life and use her knowledge and understanding to enrich my own life.

Goodbye, Lois.

Juvenile Cases To Be Transferred To District Court

Two Garrett County juveniles charged with a rash of thefts in the Oakland area will be tried as adults in the Garrett County District Court, court officials reported Wednesday after Chief Judge Fred A. Thayer held a hearing on the cases.

The judge ordered that the cases be waived to District Court because the youths, one from Mountain Lake Park and one from Deer Park, were nearly 18 years old, because of the seriousness of the charges, because of public safety considerations and because of the lack of juvenile facilities available to adequately treat the youths.

Both youths are charged with breaking and entering and stealing from five Oakland businesses while the Deer Park youth is charged with two additional theft charges.

The cases involve the following establishments: Oakland Clothing Wear-House on January 29; Flowers By Weber on January 29, which also involves a malicious destruction of property; Helbig's Jewelry Store on February 21, which also involves a theft over $300; the Garrett Community College Oakland Center on February 20, which also involves charges of theft under $300 and a wilful and malicious destruction of property; and Glotfelty Enterprises on January 31, which involves a charge of wilful and malicious destruction of property and a charge of breaking and entering with intent to steal. An adult has also been charged in the Glotfelty Enterprise case.

The Deer Park youth has been charged with burglary, theft under $300 and wilful malicious destruction of property for a February 20 incident at St. Peter's Catholic Church. The youth has also been charged with breaking, entering and stealing and theft of over $300 for the December 2, 1984 theft of a three-wheeler from a garage owned by Adrian Spiker, Oakland.

In other juvenile court proceedings, Larry F. Schenk, 37, Deer Park, was convicted of causing a juvenile to be brought within the jurisdiction of the court as a child in need of supervision. The judge ordered a presentence investigation and set his bail at $1,000 pending sentencing.

Reportedly, Schenk allowed a 15-year-old girl who did not wish to remain in foster care to live with him on his farm.

Chief Judge Thayer found three boys to be delinquent after being charged with storehouse breaking and entering and wilful and malicious destruction of property. The youths, all from Grantsville, were found to be delinquent on the destruction of property charge only. Two of the youths are 14 years old while the third is 15.

Charges stemmed from two incidents, one on January 30 and one on February 1, when a trailer, near Amish Road and belonging to Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas Oakley, Silver Spring, was destroyed. Damage was estimated at $30,000.

Disposition proceedings will be held within the next 30 days.

A 15-year-old male, Mountain Lake Park, was found to be delinquent on a charge of theft under $300. The youth was charged with stealing a woman's purse from her car in Loch Lynn on February 21. Chief Judge Thayer placed the youth on supervised probation with the Department of Juvenile Services.

DWI Among Charges Against Oakland Man

An Oakland man has been charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol, failure to keep right of center and operating a vehicle in violation of a license restriction.

John E. Denison, 25, was charged by Sgt. Roger Lewis of the Oakland City Police following a mishap on Bradley Lane last night.

The accident occurred when Denison, operating a 1966 Oldsmobile, crossed the center lane, knocked out two guard posts and came to rest on the Oakland Golf Course. When he attempted to leave the scene, one-foot deep ruts were left on the golf course by the spinning tires.

Denison was still incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail at press time awaiting a bond hearing.

Annual Activities Planned By Farm Bureau Women

The Garrett County Farm Bureau Women's Committee held a luncheon meeting Tuesday, March 26, at Will O'the Wisp dining room overlooking Deep Creek Lake. Donna Glotfelty, chairman, presided.

Criss Kepple, 1984 Garrett County Farm Queen, and her mother, Bernice Kepple, were guests. Criss reported on her experiences at the December Maryland Farm Bureau Convention in Hagerstown, and her recent trip to Hawaii when she represented Maryland in the National Young Farmers' Discussion Meet, held there in conjunction with the American Farm Bureau Federation's Convention.

Others from Garrett County who went to Hawaii were Donna Glotfelty, and her mother, Ida Reckner. Pictures they had taken while there, as well as the committee's scrapbooks for 1984 and '85 were on display.

Reporting on the state convention was Ruby Margroff, county women's committee delegate. The 1985 Maryland Farm Bureau Convention is scheduled to be held at the Carousel in Ocean City, December 8 - 11, and will begin with a Sunday evening Vesper Service.

Karmen Carey was appointed secretary for the group, and led in reading the collect in unison. Plans were made to conduct a Farm/City Week activity, with Lorene Dodge and Elsie Harsh serving as chairman and co-chairman. Farm/City Week is designed to further acquaint non-farm people with the field of agriculture.

Committee chairmen appointed were: Kathleen Fratz, international relations; Lorene Dodge, education; and Karmen Carey, Grantsville Days Parade. The group decided to assemble a float using the Maryland Farm Bureau Convention banner, which was designed by a former Garrett County Farm Queen, Vicki Teets Plevyak.

Glotfelty distributed letter-writing forms, and addresses of local representatives in Washington. She requested that Women's Committee members re-contact their legislators urging them to co-sponsor H.R. 11, the tax deduction for cost of health insurance, and to urge them to support the amendment to balance the federal budget. She also urged Farm Bureau members to make reservations immediately for the Washington Drive-In, April 10-11. Those attending will discuss issues with the legislators, hear excellent speakers on timely subjects, and enjoy the cherry blossoms, plus fine food and good entertainment aboard the Dandy on a Potomac cruise, according to Glotfelty.

Phone numbers were assigned each Women's Committee director so that all County Farm Bureau members can be contacted when the need arises.

Plans were made to again conduct the annual Garrett County Farm Queen Contest, August 11, in conjunction with the Garrett County Fair. Each director was asked to be looking for eligible contestants, who must be between the ages of 16 and 20, single, residing on a farm, and her parents must be members of Farm Bureau who are actively engaged in the production of agricultural products.

Dot Leuba will again be assisting the committee with arrangements, and the 1984 Maryland Farm Queen, Karen Quidas, will be invited to attend.

Other directors attending Tuesday's meeting were Debbie Stemple, Accident; Garna Enlow, Friendsville; Rhoda Hummel, Grantsville; Violet Bowser, Oakland; and Jean Wright, Swanton.

ALFALFA'S RESPONSE TO FURADAN

Since 1979, Dr. Les Vough, Agronomist at the University of Maryland has researched the effects of Furadan applied to Alfalfa. Last July, I visited the University's Agronomy Farm and was amazed at the visible positive results of the response of alfalfa to Furadan. Dr. Vough results were based on plant population and dry weight of the plants over a five year period.

Some of the conclusions are as follows:

1. Furadan applied at 2 lbs. of active ingredient per acre had a significant greater number of plants over-winter compared to check.
2. Furadan significantly increased yields in both the first and second cuttings.
3. Furadan + phosphorus on fall seedings reduced plant mortality over the winter.
4. Furadan significantly increased the longevity and vigor of the alfalfa plant.

Furadan 15G applied at 10 lbs./A (1.5 lbs. of active ingredient) will return you a greater return than the cost of the material providing that the other factors such as fertility are at proper levels.

CASE HISTORY: PESTICIDE POISONING

Please take a moment and read this article:

Joe's mouth tasted like floor wax. The 6-day stretch of good weather had helped him get most of his corn into the ground. It had also left Joe hot, dusty and tired.

"This fill should do it," he muttered to himself, as he topped off the seed in his planter's central hopper. Joe's head and back ached as he reached for an envelope of seed protectant powder. He ripped open the top of the package, and began to empty its contents into the seed hopper. How many times had he done this over the past week? Joe had lost count by now, but the pink powder on his hands said, "plenty."

A sudden gust of wind blew a cloud of insecticide back into Joe's face. As he coughed and spat out the minute quantities of the wretched-tasting material that had entered his mouth, Joe was overcome with nausea and dizziness. He scraped his shin as he slipped off of the planter and sank to the ground.

After a few minutes, he began to regain his senses. Slowly, Joe pulled himself to his feet and trudged toward the tractor. He really felt beat, but figured he could finish planting the last three acres of the field.

"Whew! This is weird," thought Joe, as he turned the tractor to make a last pass with the planter. "It must be 80 degrees out here in the field, yet I'm shivering. I'd better head straight for the house when I finish up here."

Doris was taken aback by her husband's ashen appearance. It wasn't like him to head right for the good couch in his dusty, grease-streaked coveralls. She was about to say something when she noticed that he was shivering uncontrollably. Joe seemed almost unaware of Doris' presence. He mumbled, "just need to rest for a few minutes."

Doris knew that something was terribly wrong. Somehow, she managed to help Joe to the car, and made good time in arriving at the local hospital's emergency entrance.

Fortunately, the young physician in emergency was familiar with the symptoms of pesticide poisoning. His questioning of Doris helped confirm the diagnosis of excessive exposure to organophosphate insecticide.

Joe remained weak after the emergency treatment, but was back to normal within a couple of days. Repeated exposure to the toxic seed dressing over several days had caused his illness. Joe was lucky that he hadn't been working with an extremely toxic compound (such as a rootworm insecticide)!

All pesticides are poisonous. Information on product labels specifies the degree of toxicity. Joe could have avoided his misfortunes by wearing a chemical cartridge respirator and protective gloves while handling the insecticide. Such precautions do take a little extra time, but nothing compared with the time required to recuperate from excessive pesticide exposure!

To the Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to let the people in Bloomington, Maryland, know how I am being bilked by the Bloomington Improvement Association. I suggest that all water customers review their billings and see what is happening to them.

Louise Warnick has billed water users in Bloomington for many years. From January 1 to November 1, 1982, she overestimated my water bills and I was overcharged accordingly. When my lawyer tried to get an explanation, the Association refused to answer his letter. I had to pay the bill for the overcharges in order to have water.

I have been on the new water system since January 1984 and have used 15,050 gallons as of February 24, 1985 (14 months). This is an average of 1,075 gallons a month. Since the billings are made at the rate of $16.50 for 2,000 gallons a month—I am paying $16.50 for about 1,000 gallons of water each month.

I have travelled across the country and discussed this water rate. No where else in the United States are citizens paying $16.50 a month for 2,000 gallons of water.

On March 1, 1984, Louise Warnick billed me for 2,000 gallons of water for the month of February which was incorrect. The bill indicated the meter reading was 3,000 gallons and 2,000 gallons was consumed. (I read my meter March 3—two months after I went on the system, and three days after the billing date—the meter read 2,060 gallons so you know my reading the end of February was not 3,000 gallons.

I called her March 4, 1984, and she told me she did the billing. She said she estimated it based on the last month's reading—this was not true. Then she told me she estimated it for January since the engineer had told them not to read the meters when it was cold. I asked her why the bill didn't show "estimated" and she hung up the telephone on me.

The following describes my latest experience with Louise Warnick and the Bloomington Improvement Association.

On January 1, 1985, the present reading on the bill was 11,000 gallons, previous reading—9,000 gallons, with 2,000 gallons consumed. I paid $16.50.

On February 1, 1985, the present reading was 11,000 gallons (note the same as January 1, 1985), previous reading 11,000 gallons, with zero gallons consumed. This was incorrect since there was consumption. I did pay $16.50.

On March 1, 1985, the present reading was 16,000 gallons, previous reading 11,000 gallons, with 5,000 gallons consumed. The billing totals $25.50.

When I called Louise Warnick, March 6, 1985, she said the bill dated February 1 (for January) was estimated. I told her it wasn't marked "estimated". As she had done March 4, 1984, again, March 6, 1985, she hung the phone up on me.

When the Columbia Gas Company estimates your bills the amount you pay during the estimated month is deducted from your actual billing for the month the bill is issued. You pay for actual consumption. Therefore, two months consumption would not be billed on the present billing as Louise Warnick has done. (I had already paid for 2,000 gallons in the $16.50 paid in February).

You are also being bilked by the Association when they don't use actual consumption but round off the meter readings to the next thousand gallons. With my reading February 24 of 15,050 gallons, the Association rounded that figure off to 16,000 and this was shown on the bill. I was charged for 1,000 gallons not 50 gallons. Why aren't the actual figures being used on the bills?

Another method they are using is that of not having a uniform billing cycle. You will recall some time ago the Association published in the newspaper that meters would be read on a certain day of the month. Have you noticed when your meters have been read lately? I have observed this—some times they come earlier in the month and some times they come later in the month. For elderly people on fixed incomes who are conservative and watch their usage, the different time of the month readings can throw the reading over the 2,000 gallons. When they read your meter early one month and later the next month, the next month's water bill will be higher.

I believe everyone in Bloomington had better check on the mismanagement of the Association's operations. How many people are being paid for reading meters, incorrect billings, treating the water, etc. Why aren't the officers of the Association published in the paper? Why isn't a financial report published on a yearly basis—this is supposed to be a non-profit citizens association—where is the money going? An FmHA representative told me that under the new system we were to be billed on actual consumption—not on estimated amounts as in the past. Under an actual consumption billing, you are not billed for zero consumption one month and pay a minimum fee and then receive a bill the following month for 2 months' consumption.

It is important that the meters be read accurately and that you be billed correctly. When the sewerage system is installed, it is my understanding you will be billed for sewerage based on your water consumption. If the meters are read haphazardly and Louise Warnick bills you the way she is billing me, you will be paying more than the estimated $163.50 a year for sewerage.

I don't know what we can do to get this mismanagement corrected. Perhaps it is time some of the supporting officals step in and try to get justice for the users instead of allowing Louise Warnick to continue her inefficient billing operations and hanging up the telephone while the costs of operating the system continue to escalate.

We as taxpayers contributed to the $500,000 federal and $60,000 state grants that were given free to the Association for construction, as well as the $200,000 loan from FmHA, for this inefficient operation. With the minimum rate of $11.00 for 2,000 gallons and $3.00 rate for each additional thousand, plus the $5.50 surcharge, we are paying more than our fair share for this inefficiently run system.

Sincerely yours,
Mona F. Beard

With four starters back from last season's 8-10 squad, the Northern High varsity baseball team is approaching the 1985 season with cautious optimism.

Coach Jack Settle's squad opened the campaign Friday with a 3-0 win over the Bruce Bulldogs in Westernport, but then fell to Valley Wednesday, 12-1, in Lonaconing.

Gone from the 1984 team are Phil Carr, the MVP who is now playing for the Garrett Community College Lakers; Dwight Emory, last season's Golden Glove winner; and Greg Diehl, who set a school season record of eight home runs. However, quality athletes like Steve Zumpano, Brent Beachy, Charlie Beiler, and Bill Murray should form a strong nucleus for this year.

Zumpano, who led the team in hitting with a .396 average, coupled with a .946 fielding effectiveness, will anchor the shortstop position when he is not pitching. "Steve was our most productive player last year," stated Settle, noting that he had 24 RBIs and seven home-runs.

Beachy, who had the lowest ERA on the mound for the Huskies last year, also batted .380. He will play centerfield when not on the mound.

Beiler, who is the starting catcher, brings a .333 batting average into this season, along with a .966 fielding mark.

Murray, who serves at first base and as a designated hitter, recorded a .290 average last season.

Settle believes that the team's strengths lie in the talent of his four returning starters and his veteran pitching staff.

"Our returning starters should provide a strong nucleus and leadership for the entire team," Settle said. "Defensively, we should be strong up the middle, as our catcher, pitchers, second baseman, shortstop, and centerfielder are all experienced."

Other members of the pitching crew include Sines, Roger Bittinger, Tabor, and Tim Brady.

At Bruce on Friday, it was Terry Beal who sparked the Huskies to the 3-0 win, as he smacked three singles, drove in one run, and then scored the other two. Beachy went the distance for the win over Bobby Hanna.

The Huskies recorded five hits, compared to four for the Bulldogs.

It was almost a one-man show against Valley, as Greg Ritchie provided an outstanding performance, offensively and defensively, for the Black Knights.

Ritchie rapped three doubles good for five RBIs and also pitched a three-hitter. He fanned seven batters and yielded no walks.

Zumpano's triple in the top of the fifth resulted in the Huskies' only score on the afternoon.

It was the second win in as many starts for Valley.

The Huskies will pit their 1-1 record against Meyersdale this afternoon at the Cove and will host Southern next Wednesday.

Lakers Upended By Allegany Before Rebounding At Montgomery-Rockville

The Garrett Community College Lakers dropped both ends of a doubleheader last Thursday afternoon to undefeated Allegany CC in Cumberland, 12-2 and 9-2, but then rallied for a pair of wins on Saturday over host Montgomery-Rockville, 5-4 and 10-1. The 9-3 Lakers are scheduled to face Beaver CC on Friday, Penn State Beaver Campus on Saturday, and Dundalk on Monday, all away. They will then host Ohio Valley on Tuesday. All contests will be doubleheaders.

In the opener against the ACC Trojans, starting pitcher Vaughn Yenich recorded two quick outs, but then yielded two hits and five walks before being relieved by Stacey Viands. The Trojans resumed the attack against Viands, however, recording three more singles and taking a 9-0 lead.

Benny Shreve tripled for Garrett in the third inning and then scored on Ted Sova's sacrifice fly to center. The Lakers final run was recorded in the fourth inning on a double play with the bases loaded and no outs.

ACC added three more runs in the fifth frame on a two-run blast by Rod Smith and a solo homer by Terry Bickle.

J.R. Perdew picked up the win on the mound.

Shreve, Tim Pavlic, and Bob Scavina paced Garrett with two hits each.

First inning difficulties continued for the Lakers in the nightcap as they committed three errors and gave up six runs. ACC picked up three more runs in the bottom of the fifth, while Garrett managed to record only five hits throughout the game.

Lynn Shook had two hits for the Lakers, while Rick Harasti smacked a solo homer.

"The key factor was our early mistakes in both games," stated Lawrence Nesselrodt, first-year coach at Garrett, "both pitching and on defense, which didn't allow our offense to get on track."

The Trojans, on the other hand, committed only one fielding error and gave up a single walk on the afternoon.

Against Rockville, the roles were reversed and Garrett was able to take advantage of the Knights' first inning mistakes. The Lakers were handed six walks and plated four runs in that frame to take a 4-0 lead.

The Knights fought back in their half of the first, however, and recorded three runs of their own.

An RBI single by Bowman in Rockville's half of the third inning knotted the score at 4-4.

Garrett's Tim Pavlic iced the win in the fifth frame when he tripled home Scavina who had led off with a walk.

Chris Huyett scattered eight hits and struck out four as he went the distance enroute to his second win of the season.

Pavlic, Brian Cueva, and Sova each finished with a pair of hits in the first game.

A two-run homer by Pavlic in the nightcap highlighted a six-run fourth inning, from which the Knights never recovered.

The Lakers plated one run in the first inning, which was answered by the Knights in their half of the first. Garrett added one more run in the third before breaking the game wide open in the fourth.

Phil Carr, a former standout at Northern High School, added an RBI double in the fourth and the Lakers closed out the scoring in the sixth with a pair of runs on Jim Keller's triple. Keller plated Shreve, who reached base on a single, and Cueva, who walked.

Denzil Evans, who pitched six innings and gave up only one run on five hits, recorded his first collegiate victory.

"I thought the sweep of Rockville was very important in bouncing back from the losses to ACC," Nesselrodt said. "Huyett and Evans both pitched excellent games and the defense played exceptionally well, not committing an error all afternoon." He said "a team effort from each individual" has been the key to the Lakers' success so far this season.

Lady Huskies Tagged A Pre-Season Favorite Throughout Region I

The 1985 Lady Husky softball season will get underway this afternoon at home against Meyersdale and, according to head coach, Vonda Yunker, at least on paper it appears that the Huskies will have another rewarding year.

With nine returning lettermen, who recorded an 11-2 record last season, the Huskies are expected to be one of the toughest teams in District I this year. They are looking forward to a return trip to the district playotts, where they fell to Boonsboro in the first round last year.

"You don't win games on paper, though," Coach Yunker said, "but rather on the field through determination, desire, and execution of skills."

Assistant Coach Bob Yunker stated, "We feel that our pitching and defense have improved from last year. Our fans may see the same personnel, but at different positions this year. We have been experimenting with a lot of people in a lot of positions to find the strongest combinations."

Leadership will fall on the shoulders of the eight returning seniors on the team. Liz Sisler, one of the top players in the district, will hold down left field and do some pitching. Kim Buckel, a starter on last season's team, will return to the mound, but will also be used as a designated hitter. Scheree Savage is expected to anchor the shortstop position again, while utility player, Kris Speicher, is making a strong bid for the third base slot along with Ronda Sisler.

Lori Sisler, last season's leading hitter with a .49 average, will see action in right field and first base. Junior Julie Robeson will play first base, pitch, and play some outfield. Missy Durst, the lead-off batter, will be at second base. Georgia Thomas is a strong candidate for catcher.

Sophomore Bev McCarty, one of the quickest players in the district, will solidify a strong Husky outfield. Shelly Murray and Janie Friend have also been making steady improvement and are expected to see action.

Two of the five freshmen on the squad, Suzie Bowser and Regina VanSickle, are being groomed as future pitchers. Kim McClintock has a shot at the starting catcher position, while Vicki Yoder is gaining strength on defense.

"We started with 45 girls in tryouts and had to make some tough decisions narrowing the team down to 19," Coach Yunker stated. "We've developed the program to the point that it is obviously one of the most popular sports programs in our school.

"We have also upgraded our schedule," she said, noting the addition of Clear Spring and Maria Goretti, which she said have "excellent female athletic programs."

Yunker, who is in her seventh year as head coach, has compiled an overall record of 58-30 for a 66% winning percentage. She has taken Husky teams to the district playoffs in five out of the past six seasons, including a trip to the state tournament in 1982.

Prior to coaching at Northern, she spent three summers coaching a ladies' softball team in the tough Cumberland area Sugar and Spice League. She spearheaded the effort to make girls' varsity softball a part of the Garrett County school athletic program.

Rams Blow 7-2 Lead In 11-10 Loss To Keyser

The Southern Rams let a 7-2 lead slip away Tuesday afternoon at Keyser as they fell to the Golden Tornado, 11-10, making their record 1-1 on the season.

The Rams took advantage of four Keyser errors in the second inning to take that 7-2 advantage, but Keyser came back with five runs in the bottom of the third to knot the score.

The score was tied at 10 apiece when in the bottom of the sixth frame, Craig Rotruck plated Kevin Kessecker with a double for what was to be the winning run. Rotruck also smacked a two-run single earlier in the game as Kessecker took the win on the mound.

Dave McLaughlin, Danny Holler, and Scott Stem each finished with two singles in the Rams' nine-hit performance, while Keyser collected 10 hits.

The Rams will travel to Northern next Wednesday afternoon.

Judge Orders Evaluation For Hewitt

Garrett County Chief Judge Fred A. Thayer has ordered a psychological evaluation for Lynn D. Hewitt, 31, Oakland, who faces charges of theft and uttering a forged check in two separate cases.

Hewitt's attorney, public defender John Toston, entered the request and submitted a plea that Hewitt was not responsible for the violations for which he is charged because of his state of mind at the time of the incident.

Hewitt has been charged with the August 31, 1984 theft of weapons, ammunition and other items from Guy Lewis Tuel, Jr., with a total value of $3,155.22

Hewitt was also charged with writing a check for $1,375 against the account of Guy L. and I. Mary Tuel.

Mrs. Tuel, who is Hewitt's adoptive mother, stated this week that she and her husband, Hewitt's stepfather, have requested State's Attorney James Sherbin to drop the charges against Hewitt, but he has refused. She added that all items taken were restored and money repaid soon after the incident.

Mrs. Tuel indicated she and her husband viewed the incident as a family affair and emphasized they had not pressed charges against Hewitt. The charges were filed against Hewitt by Tfc. Gary Berkebile, of the Maryland State Police.

When questioned about the case, Sherbin said he did not believe a comment from him was appropriate at this time.

No trial date has been set for Hewitt. He had been scheduled for a court hearing on Feb. 14, but failed to appear. Chief Judge Thayer issued a bench warrant for Hewitt who was found about a week later and was placed in the Garrett County Jail without bail to await trial.

Hewitt has been residing with the Tuels as a condition of parole set by a Florida parole board. Hewitt is on parole for an armed robbery charge.

Youth May Still Apply For GYAC

An extension has been granted to Garrett County youth who would like to apply for the Governor's Youth Advisory Council (GYAC). The new cut-off date is April 30.

The purpose of the GYAC is to communicate the concerns of Maryland youth regarding state programs, policies, and legislation to the governor through the Office for Children and Youth.

The GYAC takes actions already underway which are impacting upon Maryland youth, and makes proposals for new state action to meet the special needs of youth. Headed by the officers and area caucus coordinators, the concerns of the state of Maryland's youth are voiced.

Youth between the ages of 13 and 22 are invited to apply by contacting Garrett County's GYAC Delegate Spencer Schlosnagle at 746-5864 on or before April 30.

construction loan category are renovation of three cabins at Herrington Manor State Park and of three cabins at New Germany State Park; the purchase of two stoves for a building at New Germany State Park to provide a warming hut for cross-country skiers; construction of chemical oil storage buildings for Potomac and Garrett State Forests; $25,000 for design of renovations to water and sewage systems at Herrington Manor State Park; $5,000 for design of remedial measures for the Herrington Manor dam; $220,000 for construction of a bathhouse at New Germany; and approximately $100,000 for a new sewage line when the U.S. Rt. 219 bridge is reconstructed.

Edwards noted that an item that is in the Senate budget version, but not in the House version, is money for repairs to the Piney Mountain Reservoir which is located in Garrett County but is a water source for Frostburg.

Edwards Reports On Legislation

Del. Edwards reported Wednesday that among issues included in the Joint Chairman's annual report is a stipulation for the use of Program Open Space funds in Garrett County.

Edwards said the report recommends that the Department of Natural Resources not use any part of the state's share of fiscal year 1986 P.O.S. funds to acquire land in Garrett County in excess of the total amount of land acquired by the state as of June 1, 1983. The report authorizes DNR to exchange land, provided that the total amount acquired by the state does not exceed its land holdings as of June 1, 1983.

Edwards reported that his bill allowing snowmobiles to cross state roads in Garrett County at a 90 degree angle has passed the House and is now in the Senate.

The House has passed Edwards' bill which alters the maximum gross weight limitation for a vehicle with four or more axles. He noted the bill, HB 1062, has been amended to apply only in Western Maryland.

Edwards' bill, HB 650, which was designed to help protect Western Maryland's growing black bear population was enacted and sent to the governor by the Senate on March 27.

Bambacus Does Not Receive Appointment

Sen. Bambacus reported Wednesday that he has not been appointed to the conference committee for legislation providing aid to fire and emergency services. Bambacus, who hoped for appointment to the committee since he was an original bill sponsor, said none of the bill sponsors were appointed which was a highly unusual procedure.

The House and Senate versions of the bill differ in the appropriation of the $4.2 million aid program. The Senate version proposed the money to be disbursed to the municipalities while the House version of the bill calls for the money to be given to the counties for distribution to the volunteer companies.

Bambacus has said the Senate version, which provides aid to both volunteer and paid companies, strays from the intent of the bill which was to provide aid to volunteer fire companies only.

Additional Funds For Medevac Denied

Attempts to provide money for 24-hour coverage by Medevac in Western Maryland in the fiscal year 1986 have failed in the House of Representatives.

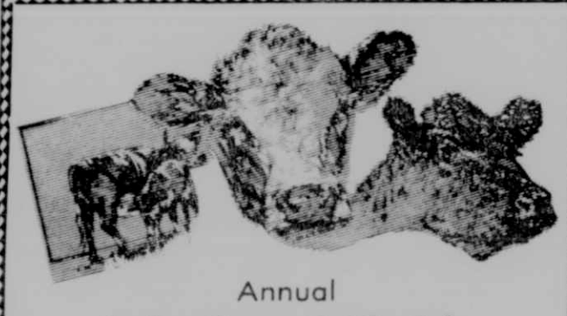

In a letter to Del. Edwards, Gov. Harry Hughes stated that perhaps money will become available in future years for the 24-hour serice, but additional staff for the service "must be examined in relation to state police needs throughout the state."

In other legislative news, the House and Senate have passed their own versions of a bill to provide a $4 million increase in state funding for community colleges. Differences in the two bills are to be reconciled in a conference committee.

PAUL McINTYRE, HIGHWAY MAINTENANCE SUPERVISOR, shown above, displays nearly 250 blades used for the huge S.H.A. snowblowers. The blades must be kept clean and sharp for maximum performance during winter storms. Daniel Upole, supervisor of road maintenance at the Oakland garage, shown below, seems mighty small compared to the blade mechanism on the Blanchet blower that greatly aided S.H.A. crews in snow removal this past winter.

Harry Hughes stated, "It has been brought to my attention by Delegate George C. Edwards of District 1-A that employees of the department of the State Highway Administration did an outstanding job of providing assistance to citizens in need during the recent spell of severe weather in Garrett County. Please let them know that the long hours they spent . . . in adverse weather conditions did not go unrecognized or unappreciated. Their efforts serve as an inspiration to all of us in public service."

In a letter to T.W. Beaulieu, district engineer of S.H.A. in LaVale, Senator John N. Bambacus from District 1 stated, "I know what a challenge it must have been, considering the personal risks faced by your staff in working out of doors in sub-zero temperatures. Please extend my expression of commendation and appreciation to your crews for their exceptional efforts in the emergency."

Many county residents echo the sentiments of Governor Hughes and Senator Bambacus.

No-Confidence

Fearnow said he had no idea what GCC intended to do about the Health and Physical Education department he has headed for 14 years.

"Since my contract was not renewed, is GCC not going to have intercollegiate or intramural sports, or any of the other on going Health and Physical Education activities? If they are, why are my functions being taken away?" questioned Fearnow.

He also questioned the validity of his being dismissed because of present and projected enrollment.

"Was the same criteria by which I was dismissed applied to the evaluation of other faculty for dismissal or reappointment? What is that criteria? It is my understanding that faculty evaluations are not even completed," stated Fearnow.

Another of his concerns was how the college could attract students and keep faculty if they were going to dismiss tenured faculty.

"It would seem to me in a time of entrenchment that you would want your most qualified and flexible faculty to be retained," he said.

Carstens said he felt he had been a loyal employee of GCC and had instituted many new courses for vocational students. He also stated that suddenly this past year his work load had been reduced from five to three courses which would have a definite bearing on his enrollment figures.

He contended that the administration was "cutting out full-time instructors to let adjunct instructors do the teaching."

He also alleged that he has attempted to communicate with Learey and Mike Logsdon, academic chairperson for sciences, about program evaluations as well as his work load, but that neither one responded to his memos and reports.

"This is a vindictive plan. I'm a victim of the fact that I just don't agree with dictatorial policies. The faculty is left out of policy-making procedures. I feel that 11 years of service at GCC should entitle me to a little more respect" Carstens said.

One tenured faculty member stated, "I think this should be thoroughly investigated by professionals outside of GCC and a decision rendered. If they find the administration acted with gross impropriety, the Board of Trustees should take appropriate action."

Deal, who has headed the Vet Tech program until recently, said, although he received an official letter a few days ago regarding his non-renewal, he was originally summoned by Logsdon to meet with him at a specified time late in February. He said Logsdon refused to tell him what the meeting was about. Deal said when he arrived at the meeting, Logsdon, Harman and Leary were present and "quite simply and quite rudely, I was told I was no longer needed with no reasons given."

"I had told the administration all along if they didn't need my services, and had a qualified replacement, that I would step down any time, so I wrote a letter to Logsdon asking for direction. The direction I received was the summons from Logsdon," said Deal.

When contacted for comment, Learey said all he could say since this "is a personnel matter" was that all procedures were followed in regard to the three non-renewals. He also stated, "The instructors' contracts spell out that by April 1, intentions of contract renewals will be issued."

Harman stated that, because of enrollment trends, the administration was responsible to be financially prudent and that they had to reduce some personnel numbers.

When asked if the college intended to replace the instructors whose contracts were not renewed, Harman replied, "No. We have an excellent adjunct faculty that can provide the needed education services."

SAFETY NOTICE
Patz Silo Unloader
ATTENTION: Owners of Patz Silo Unloader Models 61, 66 and 98 manufactured from 1960 to 1971 (14 to 25 years old). All models involved were originally green.

State of the art guarding at the time of manufacture may not fully cover the area of the gathering chain. Although the unloader should not be operated with persons in the silo, serious injuries caused by the gathering chain while ignoring this safety practice have been reported. To help prevent accidents that may result in injury or death, Patz offers owners of unloaders involved, three options that provide improved gathering chain guarding.

Option 1. For unloaders already converted to the big (30") drive wheels, Patz will provide improved guarding for the gathering chain at no cost to the user.

Option 2. For unloaders having original small (18") drive wheels, Patz will provide improved guarding at no cost, but it will require the purchase and installation of the big (30") drive wheel kit, which will improve traction, and flotation. The improved guarding will not work with the small (18") drive wheels.

Option 3. Patz will pay U.S.$400 directly to the owner who buys a new Patz Silo Unloader with its new up-to-date features. Owners can keep their present unloader's motor, electrical joint and electric cable. This further reduces the price, making the new Patz Unloader more affordable. Patz will send payment when verification of installation is furnished and old unloader is returned to Patz.

If you presently own a Patz Unloader Model 61, 66 or 98, manufactured from 1960-1971, for your protection contact us today.

CAUTION: Silos may contain poisonous gases. Proper precaution should be taken before entering. Entering the silo without locking out the electrical power could result in serious injury or death if power is turned on while anyone is in the silo.

GCC To Offer History Course On Garrett County

"Rivers, Roads, and Railroads - A Living History of Garrett County" will be offered by Garrett Community College on Tuesday evenings, beginning April 23. The course will involve participation of many community members as guest speakers and resourse persons, according to Joan B. Crawford, coordinator of Extended Learning.

The two-credit course will present the history of Garrett County as it was first settled, then later developed, in the context of early explorations and travel - first along rivers, then by trails, and finally by roads and railroads. It will include the study of period and contemporary documents, guest speakers with specialized knowledge of some period or region, slide and other visual presentations, taped recollections, and field trips.

Mary I. Love, who has gained wide recognition for her research and writing about local history, will instruct the course.

Guest speakers who will contribute their knowledge and historical memorabilia are Mrs. Mary Jones, Mrs. Mary Strauss, Ivan Miller, Robert J. Ruckert, Gerald Sword, Thomas Jones, and Martin Heise.

Most of the class sessions will be held at the McHenry campus of Garrett Community College, but some sessions will meet at other locations in the county including the Log Church, the Oakland Center, the Mercy Chapel, the Accident School, and the Casselman, so the class can visit sites of historical significance. The class will meet for 13 sessions, omitting the weeks of Memorial Day and the Fourth of July.

Students may take the course for credit, or they may audit it by paying the same tuition. The cost of the course is $24. Tuition will be waived for persons 60 or older. Students may register for the course at the Registrar's Office of the McHenry campus during business hours on weekdays, 9 a.m. - 4 p.m.

Anyone desiring more information about the course may call the Extended Learning Office of the college at 387-6666.

The representatives were accompanied by Advisor Miss Mildred V. Wucik. They attended sessions concerning lobbying from a distance, lobbying the Board of Education, networking, lobbying for conservation of environmental issues and general lobbying techniques. They also attended sessions where some of the processes of the Maryland Legislature were discussed. This legislative session was sponsored by the Chesapeake Regional Area of Student Councils. Pictured left to right are: Michele Clutter, student council treasurer; Michele Glotfelty, student council secretary; Miranda Hicks, junior representative; and Autumn Frazee, student council president.

Public Hearings On Aging Plan Are Scheduled

Two public hearings have been scheduled on the proposed Garrett County Area Agency on Aging Plan of services for senior citizens.

According to the Area Agency on Aging officials, the first hearing will be held on Wednesday, April 10, at 2:00 p.m., in the Oakland Senior Center in the Garrett Community College Building on Center Street. The second hearing is scheduled in Grantsville on Thursday, April 11, at 1:00 p.m., in the Grantsville United Church of Christ Sunday School room.

Margo Van Diver, director of the Area Agency on Aging, stated that the plan will describe the proposed goals and objectives of the Area Agency on Aging for the 1985-86 fiscal year. She said the final plan must be submitted to the Maryland Office on Aging by May 15.

Further information may be obtained by contacting the Area Agency on Aging at 360 W. Liberty Street, Oakland: telephone 334-3990.

Cancer Crusade Scheduled For Month Of April

Nancy Barr, president of the American Cancer Society, Garrett County Unit, announced plans this week for the 1985 ACS Crusade in Garrett County.

April is Cancer Control Month, and volunteers will be going door-to-door collecting funds and distributing information about cancer.

Chairperson for the Southern Garrett area is Mrs. Patsy Stewart, while Mrs. Barbara Speicher will serve as the Accident-McHenry chairperson.

"Close to one in every two patients diagnosed with cancer today will be alive after treatment," said Barr. "Less than one in five cancer patients survived in the 1930's. That is a dramatic improvement in the last 50 years."

The money raised from the drive will be used to support programs for prevention, early detection and treatment of cancer and to provide assistance to cancer patients.

The 1985 Cancer Crusade in Garrett County is part of a statewide and national effort involving more than two million volunteers.

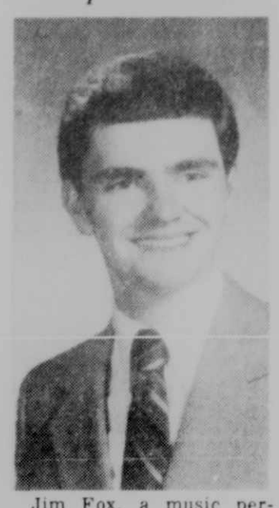

Daffodil Day

Due to the demise of the flowers on the original Daffodil Day, new flowers have been reordered by the Garrett County Unit for Daffodil Day, Part II and will be distributed April 11.

Barr said she was grateful to everyone for their positive attitude and their flexibility.

For further information, interested persons may contact the American Cancer Society in Cumberland.

Aurora Man Arrested, Cited For Shoplifting

An Aurora, W. Va. man was arrested for shoplifting Friday by Chief John K. Sines of the Oakland City Police Department.

Naylor's Hardware, Inc. in Oakland pressed charges against James Franklin Adams who was reportedly seen by two employees taking a bottle of rust remover from the store without paying for it. The value of the rust remover was set at $9.95.

Adams was taken to the Garrett County Jail where the arrest was made and released on $50 bond.

New Signs

Chief Sines announced this week that two additional large "25 mph" speed signs have been placed at the corner of Sixth and Poplar Streets and at the corner of Seventh and Poplar Streets.

Sines said the action was taken to curtail traffic problems at those particular intersections.

Largest, Heaviest Test Set Is Made And Shipped By AmHV

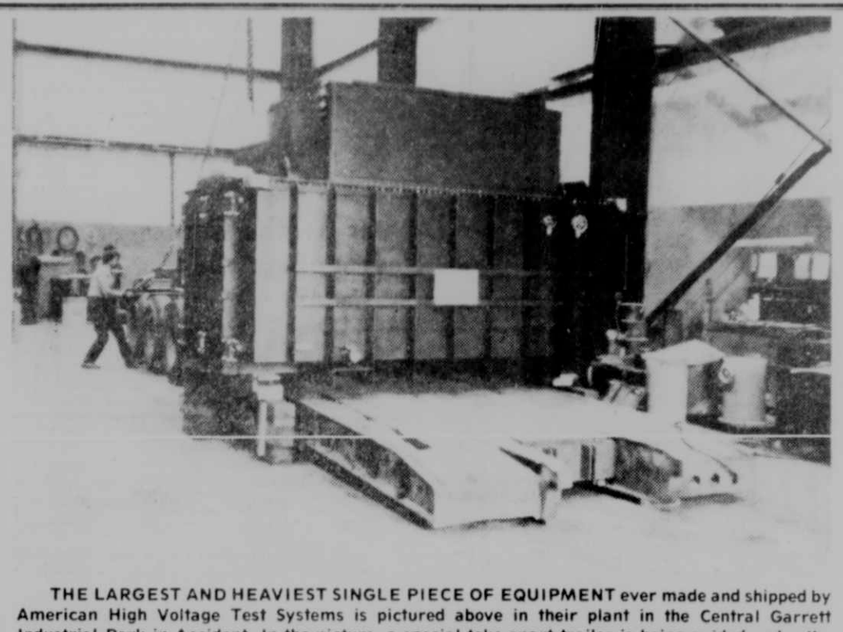

American High Voltage Test Systems, located in Accident's Central Garrett Industrial Park, recently shipped the largest and heaviest single piece of equipment it has ever manufactured.

The piece of equipment was preceded in shipment by several tons of ancillary equipment which will be assembled on site in Bradenton, Fla., by American HV factory technicians. Other components are being shipped in from England and Switzerland to complete the system known as a Transformer Test Set.

The customer for the project is Siemens Allis, who is building a new transformer manufacturing and repair facility in Bradenton and will use the test set to test their products.

According to James F. DeCarlo, Jr., company vice president, American HV engineers were posed with quite a number of problems during design and construction of the test set in their plant; two which were related to shipment were the size and weight of the piece of equipment.

Customer specifications called for a five million volt–ampere power capacity which put the size much too large to be loaded and transported easily. Removable cooling units (radiators) are included in the design so that removing them brings shipping width down to 11 feet, nine inches. This allowed the unit to be taken through American HV's loading door which is exactly 12 feet wide.

THE LARGEST AND HEAVIEST SINGLE PIECE OF EQUIPMENT ever made and shipped by American High Voltage Test Systems is pictured above in their plant in the Central Garrett Industrial Park in Accident. In the picture, a special take-apart trailer is being guided under the 65,000 pound transformer test set built for Siemens-Allis in Florida. After the unit was stripped of any removable parts, it fit through American HV's loading door with only three inches total clearance. The unit was hauled by KMX Transport of Wyomissing, Pa.

The total weight of the piece was then approximately 34 tons. Since American HV has only 20 tons of lifting capability, the unit was final-assembled on blocks high enough to allow a special take-apart trailer to be pulled under it. After the trailer bed was in place, it was reconnected to its own hydraulic lift to lift the piece off the blocks and allow it to rest on the trailer for transport.

KMX Transport of Wyomissing, Pa., which specializes in hauling heavy and oversize loads, handled the moving. They have been hauling for American HV since 1977, said DeCarlo.

As mentioned, this was the largest and heaviest single piece of equipment for American HV. DeCarlo explains that the largest unit ever produced stands 40 feet tall and was erected two years ago by AmHV engineers in Gumi, South Korea for Gold Star Cable. The unit which previously was the heaviest assembled unit is a "portable" unit transported all over British Columbia, Canada, by four special trailers and is owned by British Columbia Hydro-Electric Authority.

American HV employs approximately 50 people in Accident and will celebrate its tenth anniversary this fall.

4-H Achievement Dinner Planned

The annual 4-H Achievement Dinner and Program will be held Saturday, April 13, at the Grantsville Fire Hall. The covered dish dinner will begin at 6:45 p.m., with the program beginning at 8 p.m.

Alice E. Hevner, extension agent for 4-H and youth, explains that the achievement dinner and program is a time when members are recognized for project completion, leaders for years of service, and members and clubs for their accomplishments during the past year, plus meeting friends and enjoying good food.

The theme of this year's program is "Keep The Torch Burning With 4-H," and centerpieces, made by Garrett Co. 4-H clubs, will be given as door prizes.

All members, leaders, their families and friends are invited to attend, said Hevner, and reservations can still be made by calling the Garrett Co. Extension Office at 334-2145.

Extension Office Slates Session On Gardening

A vegetable gardening program to help the homeowner plan for his or her 1985 garden is scheduled for Wednesday, April 17, at 10 a.m. and 7:00 p.m. at the Cooperative Extension Office in Oakland. The office is located in the Courthouse, directly across from Southern Office Supply, Third Street.

The program will include information on planning a garden; seed and plant selection; fertilizer and lime requirement; weed, insect, and disease control; and other general information.

Bulletins will be available on vegetable gardening and time will be allotted for questions.

First Aid Course Slated For May

A Red Cross First Aid course will be held in the Oakland area beginning May 14 at a location to be announced later.

Classes will be held every Tuesday and Thursday from 6 to 9 p.m. for seven weeks. The instructor will be David Bardsley.

Persons may register for the course now by contacting Ken Paugh at 334-9159.

William Freyman, patrol leader of the Wisp Ski Patrol, noted that this class will be an opportunity for persons wishing to become members of the ski patrol to receive their first aid training.

Aurora School News

The Honor Roll for the fourth six-week period has been released by Gary Henline, principal of Aurora Jr. High. Listed in the Seventh Grade are: Jackie Adams, Shannon Eskridge, Debbie Gank, Traci Hartsell, Bobby Orr, Brenda Ready and Jennifer Whitehair. Those listed for the Eighth Grade are Julie Beckman, Cheryl Cummings, Julie Lewis, Faith Steele, Nathan Teets and LaVerne Waybright.

The Aurora School PTO resumed its monthly meetings on March 12. Preceding the meeting, the sixth grade band and Jr. High band presented a program of music.

During the meeting, it was reported that the yearbook has been turned into the printers. There are still 30 books available to be ordered.

As a result of the tour of the school following the November meeting, a need for improvement of the water system, repair of the PA system and a new roof for the band room were indicated as needing action.

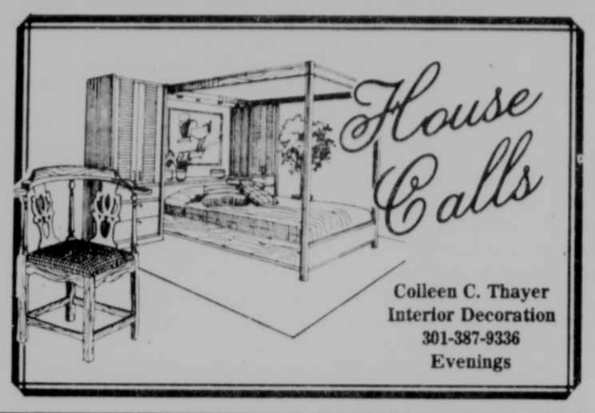

Ed Utterback, president, sent letters to Elmer Pritt, superintendent, and to Mr. Williams, building and grounds supervisor, requesting that these repairs be made, if possible. He also asked that privacy walls be built for the boys' restrooms.

C&P Charging For Assistance

Customers who find it easier to call Directory Assistance than to look a number up in the telephone directory should now be prepared to see charges for Directory Assistance appear on their monthly telephone bills.

According to C&P spokesman Frank Just, effective April 1, C&P began charging 25¢ apiece for calls above certain limits to Directory Assistance. "Each residential customer will be allowed 12 calls a month per line without additional charge, and business customers will be allowed three calls a month per line," Just explained, "but calls in excess of that will be billed."

Exemptions to C&P's plan include persons with severe reading disabilities and persons with other visual or physical disabilities that make them unable to use a C&P-provided telephone book. Other exceptions are calls placed from C&P-provided coin-operated telephones, Charge-A-Call phones and from hospital patient telephones.

Although telephone users have often considered calls to Directory Assistance a "free" service, recent C&P publicity, advertising and bill inserts have claimed that this has never been the case. "In 1984" said Just, "it cost C&P of Maryland $30.0 million to provide the service. That cost is included in each customer's monthly bill for basic telephone service, which means that all customers really pay for Directory Assistance, whether or not they use the service.

"We feel it is much more equitable to charge customers for the services which they use," continued Just. Calling pattern studies done by C&P indicate that 94 percent of all residential customers make fewer than 12 calls to Directory Assistance in any given month. Similarly, ⅔ of all business customers make fewer than three calls a month to Directory Assistance. "In fact, a mere six percent of our residential customers made half of all calls to Directory Assistance in 1983," explained Just. "With the new plan customers who use the service excesively will pay according to their usage."

State Police Probe Thefts Of Area Homes

The Maryland State Police is currently investigating several cases of breaking and entering and theft which occurred in the county over the past few weeks.

Daniel C. Negola, Gaithersburg, reported that someone had broken into and entered the garage of his summer home in Thousand Acres sometime between February 17 and March 16 and removed goods totaling $3,727.

Cpl. G.A. Berkebile is investigating and stated that among items removed from the garage were motors, water skis and equipment, batteries, tools, fishing gear, sailboat sail, firewood, and a snowmobile trailer.

Cpl. J.C. Ralston is investigating another breaking and entering and theft which was reported by Robert Skipper, Oakland.

Skipper said that someone entered his home on the Mayhew Inn Road sometime between March 10 and March 15 and removed five guns, several musical instruments, a stereo and approximately 50 records, tools, liquor and a knife. Loss is estimated at over $4,000.

Cpl. Ralston is also investigating a report filed by Donna Ray Oester, Grantsville, who stated that while she was in the process of moving from one residence to another on the Bear Hill Road, someone entered her former home and removed various household items having a value of $1,245.

Among the items reported stolen were a wood stove, several heaters, household appliances and goods, and some furniture.

Reader's Corner

CHRIST IS THE CENTER AND HEART OF ALL

God Himself became a Man, to give mankind a concrete, definite, tangible idea of what kind of Person to think of when we think of God. God is like Jesus. Jesus was God incarnate in human force.

His appearance on the earth is the Central Event of all history. The Old Testament sets the stage for it. The New Testament describes it, yet there is no mention of Him in our public school system.

As a Man, He lived the most strangely Beautiful Life ever known. He was the Kindest, Tenderest, Gentlest, most Patient, most Sympathetic man that ever lived. He loved people. He hated to see people in trouble. He loved to Forgive. He loved to Help. He wrought marvelous miracles to feed hungry people. For relieving the suffering He forgot to take food for himself. Multitudes, weary, pain-ridden, and heartsick, came to Him, and found healing and relief. It is said of Him, and of no other, that if all the deeds of Kindness that He did were written, the work would not contain the books. That is the kind of man Jesus was. That is the kind of Person God is.

Christ, the Center and Heart of the Bible, the Center and Heart of History, is the Center and Heart of Our Lives. Out Eternal Destiny is in His hand. Our Acceptance, or Rejection, of Him, determines, for each of us, Eternal Glory, or Eternal Ruin; Heaven or Hell:

It is a Glorious thing to be a Christian, the Most Exalted privilege of mankind. To accept Chist as Savior, Lord, and Master, and to strive Sincerely and Devotedly to Follow in the Way of Life which He taught, is, certainly, and by far, the most reasonable, and most satisfactory way to live. It means Peace, Peace of Mind, Contentment of Heart, Forgiveness, Happiness, Hope of Life, Life Here and Now, Life Abundant, LIFE THAT SHALL NEVER END.

How can anyone be so blind, or so dumb, as to go through life, and face Death, without the Christian Hope? Apart from Christ, what is there, what can there be, either for this World, or the Next, to make life worthwhile? We All have to Die. Why try to laugh it off? It seems like Every Human Being would Welcome Christ with Open Arms, and consider it the Proudest Privilage of his life to wear the Christian Name.

CHOICE - VARIABLE OR FIXED LOAN

If you plan to buy a home in the near future, should you select a variable or a fixed loan? Actually, this should be a last-minute decision, not made until a home is actually selected.

The financing market changes often enough so that the best financing mode one month may not be the best the next month. Most experts consider the length of time the mortgage will be in effect as the primary input when choosing between a fixed and variable mortgage.

If you expect to live in the house for a long time and you feel that interest rates will increase, you may lean toward a fixed rate. An equally sound case can be made for accepting the lower initial interest rates offered on variable rate mortgages. If you don't expect to live in the home for a very long time, the variable rate mortgage would be the answer.

Also, since the variable rate mortgage carries a lower initial rate, thus lowering the income qualification for a loan, this may be the only alternative for certain buyers.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone one of our offices.

Local Students Assist Residents Of Nursing Home

Three language arts classes from Southern Middle School taught by Mrs. Sarah Ramsey recently became involved with several projects to assist the Activities Department and residents of Cuppett and Weeks Nursing Home, Oakland.

During the Christmas season, Mrs. Ramsey's students made 150 Christmas cards for the residents to give away. A poster contest sponsored by the Activities Department was held during the holidays. Every student created a Christmas poster. These were judged by the residents and prizes were awarded to: Maria Rhodes, Missy DiSimone, Monica Miller, Tammy Friend, Shawn Foley, Pat Hanline, Robin Rohrbaugh, Buddy Herner and Harry Hebb.

Mrs. Ramsey's pupils begun a pen pal program around this time also. Since then they have been writing to the residents and some encourage them to write back. Stated Activities assistant Lisa Frazee, "You wouldn't believe what big smiles I get when I take around the daily mail, and somebody who normally gets no mail receives a letter. They feel honored to know someone is thinking about them, and cares enough to write a letter. The response is great!"

For Valentine's Day the students made valentine posters which were displayed throughout the nursing home. They also handmade 150 valentines for the residents.

The students will be writing poems for display in the future. An Adopt-a-Grandparent program between the residents will also get under way soon.

Sheila Hauser, activities director, stated, "The residents are very excited about the students, and they really look forward to their letters. On behalf of the residents, we say thanks for caring and thanks for sharing. It means so much!"

Women Offered BPW Scholarship

The Garrett County Business and Professional Women's Club has announced a scholarship available to women, according to Mildred Wucik, scholarship chairman.

The local club will award up to $300 to a woman at least 30 years of age who wants to further her education, and who declares financial need.

This scholarship program was established to encourage women who need further training to advance to a more responsible position, enter a more promising career field, or reenter the job market, according to Wucik. Any vocational, technical or academic school or college is acceptable.

To apply for the scholarship, persons may contact Wucik at 826-8434, any BPW member, or Garrett Community College for information or an application. Deadline for applications for attending a summer or fall term is April 15.

"This scholarship exemplifies the club's objectives, to elevate the standards for women in business and the professions, and to extend opportunities for business and professional women through education," Wucik stated.

Accepted AT PSC

Michael P. Whitmer, Oakland, has been accepted for admission to Potomac State College for the academic year 1985-86 beginning August 22.

Potomac State College is the only junior college branch of West Virginia University and is located in Keyser, W.Va.

Associate in Applied Science degrees are awarded in seven career areas and there are several options within each degree area.

Whitmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert B. Whitmer, Jr., is a senior at Southern High School.

Resume Writing Workshop Slated

"Resume Writing" is the topic of a special workshop to be held by the New Horizons Program of Garrett Community College on Wednesday, April 10, from 10 a.m. to noon at the Oakland Center of GCC in Room 603.

"The resume is the first and oftentimes most critical item in determining whether or not a person gets a job," stated a New Horizons spokesman. "The resume is important because it is a person's calling card or door opener. A good resume will instill enough interest on the part of a prospective employer that an interview may result."

To pre-register for this free workshop, persons may contact the New Horizons Program at 334-9184 from 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. weekdays.

Something To Think About

R. Mark Durst

DIRECTOR

BEFORE SELECTING A CEMETERY

In choosing a cemetery, there are some important considerations you should keep in mind. First of all, it is important that a cemetery have a favorable reputation in the community. It should be well maintained and well managed.

Of paramount importance is the manner in which its care funds are being handled. Is money being set aside on a regular basis for care? Does your purchase agreement stipulate that money is being set aside, and how much? Is the care fund being run by well-known and trusted citizens of the community, or a well-known and trusted banking or investment organization?

This is not being snoopy or picky. The interest generated by these funds is necessary for the purpose of keeping grass cut and shrubbery well cared for. Nothing is quite so disappointing and sad as visiting a cemetery that has gone to seed.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO GO TO GREAT LENGTHS TO ENJOY THE COMFORT OF A GAS FURNACE.

Good news...you can have gas heat without a lot of expensive home alterations.

That's because some of the new high-efficiency gas furnaces vent through the wall, and don't need a chimney. So they can be installed easily – and in so little time, you can have it done on a cold winter day and never feel a chill.

Sound good? It gets better. A new high-efficiency model uses as much as 30% less energy – even as it keeps your home warm and cozy. Check with a heating dealer on availability of these new side wall-venting units. You may find there's a welcome shortcut to having the comfort, efficiency and dependability of gas heat in your home.

WHAT IS YOUR PAIN QUOTIENT?

Pain, your body's signal to you that something is wrong is not tolerated equally by the sexes. It is far more painful for women than for men. Also more painful for the young and for orientals than for the blacks and whites. A recent experiment in pain tolerance found that sex was the most important factor in determining how well a person can stand pain. Even the oldest men withstood pain better than the youngest women.

Fortunately, pain relief can be equally appreciated by everyone and in our prescription department we regularly stock thousands of medicines whose sole purpose is to alleviate pain.

Since the first Easter, the Cross has remained the one great and enduring symbol of Christianity because it best expresses the meaning of faith. Like a precious jewel, the Cross shines with many facets of truth.

The Cross signifies the hope of faith. It reveals God's love for us in the sacrifice of His Son. It is our assurance of His promise of salvation.

The Cross signifies the challenge of faith. It reveals God's love for all people which we must share. It is the motivation of Christian action.

The Cross signifies the victory of faith. It is the pledge of God's loving purpose in saving the world. It is the source of peace.

What does the Cross mean to you? On Easter—this greatest festival of our Faith, will you come to Church and discover its message?

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

LIFE: BEFORE AND AFTER DEATH

April 7, 1985

Background Scripture:
John 20:1-23.

Devotional Reading:
John 20:19-23.

Michael B. Sabom is a medical doctor. In his Recollections of Death (Simon & Schuster, 1982) he says, "Although I had been raised in a churchgoing family, I had always tried to keep religious and scientific doctrines separate. ..Unscientific--that I would never be."

Challenged to participate in a program on Dr. Raymond B. Moody's book, Life After Life, for a local Methodist church, Dr. Sabom tried to bow out, indicating that he was highly dubious of Dr. Moody's claims that patients with "near-death" experiences "came back" with convictions that they had encountered a life beyond death.

In order to prove Moody wrong, Dr. Sabom decided to conduct his own investigation with his own "near-death" patients under scientific controls which would stand up under critical scrutiny. But Sabom's findings were quite different from what he expected them to be: his own patients seemed to confirm Dr. Moody's findings. He ended up writing of his experience and conclusions and his book, Recollections of Death, is a convincing chronicle of evidence that seems to indicate support for the belief in a life after death.

LIFE-CHANGING

One of the things he found in his study--and this confirmed what Dr. Moody and others had found--was that these experiences of "near-death" (actually, the patients were "clinically dead" and resuscitated) usually have a profound effect upon their lives. Almost always they are "life-changing" experiences. Assured that there is a life beyond this one on earth seems to make all the difference in the way they return to live in the here and now.

Actually, that is also the most important thing about the Easter faith in Jesus Christ. It is, of course, wonderful and marvelous that Christ rose from the dead. But that, by itself, would be nothing more than an item in Ripley's "Believe It or Not" if it were not for the fact that the resurrection of Christ has something of the utmost of importance to say about how and why we live before death.

I HAVE SEEN THE LORD!

When at last the disciples of Jesus finally grasped that he was risen from the tomb, it was a recognition that utterly transformed their lives. By raising Jesus from the dead, God had shown once and for all that He is in charge of this world and our lives. Evil people had done their very worst to defeat Jesus, but God vindicated him when he demonstrated that death does not have the last word.

The disciples of Jesus realized that, even if the enemies of God killed them for preaching the gospel, neither they nor the gospel would be snuffed-out by such an act of violence. Their assurance of a life after death, radically transformed the meaning and impact of their lives before death.

That is why the Easter message is the most important good news of all time.

Local Teen Center Becomes Reality

THEY COULD HAVE DANCED all night and still have begged for more at the Teen Center's Beach Party I held at Whitacre's Dance Hall on Route 135 near Deer Park on March 16. Beach party II is planned for Saturday, April 6, from 7 p.m. to midnight. Perhaps Asa McCain, who designed the scenery for Beach Party I, will create something even more unique for Beach Party II. The Teen Center is becoming quite a success as more and more students between the ages of 13 and 19 enjoy having a center they can call their own. Some 85 students attended the last dance at the center.

by Pam Ashby

A dream of several students from Northern and Southern High Schools has finally been realized with the success of the Teen Center, now located at the Whitacre Dance Hall in Deer Park.

Lori Cooley and Kendra O'Brien thought for a long time of ways to open a teen center for students, and finally with the efforts of Dave and Darlene Terlizzi, Carol Fox and Lowell Leitzel, a small idea has become a big reality.

Dreams take work, though, and Lori and Kendra, along with Task Force members, Stacey Rodeheaver, Autumn Frazee, Rick McFetridge, Duane Liller, Brian Fowler, and Brent Beachy, initiated a meeting at Garrett Community College last fall and produced the right formula for a successful teen center.

Recent new members added to the task force include Shelli Terlizzi, Lisa Briggs, and Scott Werdebaugh.

There have been several dances at the Teen Center with the most recent one being held March 16. The dance was titled Beach Party I. The next dance is scheduled for April 6, from 7 p.m. to midnight, and is titled Beach Party II. Beach attire is welcome at the dance. The center is also planning to have a toga party this spring.

This writer, the mother of three children, attended the Beach Party and was quite impressed with the caliber of students and chaperones at the dance.

Comments from the students at the dance speak for themselves and should convince parents that the Teen Center is quite possibly the best thing that's happened to Garrett County in a while.

"It's fun. Some parents just need to know it's a nice place for nice kids."

"It's great, but I wish it were more centralized so kids from all over the county could enjoy it more."

"It's a place where you can have fun without getting drunk or stoned."

"I love it. I can go there to get away from it all."

"Fantastic! I got tired of going to the movies all the time."

" I wish we would have had it earlier."

"It's a really nice place and it helps keep kids out of trouble."

"It's good to get kids from Southern and Northern together in mutual territory with no competition."

If one needs more convincing about the merits of the Teen Center, the fact should be known that every member must have a registration card and be between the ages of 13-19. Members must put their signature on a sign-in/sign-out sheet and there is absolutely no alcohol allowed on the premises. Each member is allowed one guest but he is responsible for his guest's behavior.

The efforts of the staff of the Teen Center have even been recognized by Senator John N. Bambacus, District 1. A recent official citation from the senator read, "Sincerest congratulations are offered to the members of the Operation Teen steering committee in recognition of turning thought into deed, bringing hopes to reality, and making a community concern a community asset in establishing the Garrett County Teen Center."

Besides the dancing and socializing, the center gives away prizes donated by local businesses. The center is also getting into videos—ones the kids make themselves.

The Teen Center recently employed the talents of local Dee-Jay Pat Gregg, who will be spinning the discs at the next dance. The center also hopes to find some bands to play at their dances in the future.

So far, the center has been self-supporting with the admission fee of $2.50 per person or $4.50 per couple. Terlizzi says they are managing to pay their bills and the rent of the dance hall, but he also has dreams of having a real Teen Center some day.

Although Terlizzi puts many hours into organizing and generally being in charge of the Teen Center, he is actually a full-time employee at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. All the other adults who donate their time are also employed at full-time jobs.

Terlizzi said, "We hope to get more and more people involved in the Teen Center. I do it because I love the kids. There is a bunch of good kids here, and good kids need something to do, too."

Anyone interested in helping with the Teen Center in any way is welcome to call Dave Terlizzi at 334-9398.

Students wishing to obtain a membership card can call Terlizzi or get one from any Task Force member. They may also be obtained at the door at any of the dances.

Child safety seats for automobiles have been mandated by all states and the District of Columbia. They've been widely accepted. Indeed, some hospitals will not release new babies to a car that is not properly equipped.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration has noted that some child safety seats in some 1984-model cars tend to loosen even though they've been attached properly to vehicles with rear center seat belts that are manually adjusted.

If you've got a 1984 car, here's how to check the car seat's safety: first, install the safety seat, following manufacturer's directions, in the extra-safe rear center position.

Now, to simulate crash conditions, push, pull, and tilt the safety seat forward and to either side, forcefully. If the webbing slips, unbuckle the belt and tighten it. Then, before re-buckling the belt, put a twist in the webbing by rotating the adjustable end 180 degrees.

Test it again, pushing and pulling hard, to see if the problem is solved. If not, move the seat to another position, preferably in the rear.

Auto safety, for children and adults, is a prime concern of ours. Talk over your auto insurance coverage with us at

HEALTHY MOTHERS/ HEALTHY BABIES

The following article was submitted through the Garrett County Health Department by the local Women, Infants and Children (WIC) Program.

EATING FOR TWO

Food plays an important part all through life in promoting a healthier you. But when you are pregnant, nutrition has an even greater importance to your health and your baby's health. Eating wisely means choosing foods that give you and your baby the protein vitamins, minerals, and other essential nutrients you both need. Adequate amounts of calories and essential nutrients help you maintain your own good health and are necessary for growth of the baby, beginning the moment you become pregnant.

Everyone needs a well-balanced diet. But now that you are eating for two, your reasons for eating right have doubled. A mother who eats nourishing foods is more likely than a mother who does not to have a trouble-free pregnancy and a healthy baby.

Ideally, the job of nourishing your unborn baby begins before you become pregnant, because very shortly after you do, the tiny life within you begins to take on nutrients that are stored in your body. That's why it pays to think about good eating habits when you begin to think about becoming pregnant. You'll want to be prepared in every way you can.

During pregnancy, your baby eats what you eat. If you're getting all the nutrients you need, the chances are good that your baby is getting all that it needs for healthy growth and development. At some point, probably during the second and third trimesters, your doctor may recommend an iron supplement and maybe a vitamin supplement, too, just to make sure that you and the baby are getting enough of these essential nutrients. Follow the doctor's instructions to the letter, and continue to pay attention to your diet. The very best sources of nutrients during pregnancy, or at any time, are the foods you eat.

The best way to get all the nutrients that you and your baby need is to eat a wide variety of foods. One good way to make certain that your menus have that necessary variety is to follow a meal plan that has been prepared for the pregnant woman. Your doctor or the nutritionist at the clinic will be happy to give you a meal plan and plenty of good advice on diet and weight gain during pregnancy.

If you qualify, there are programs in your community that can help you buy the food you need. The WIC Program (Supplemental Food Program for Women, Infants and Children) provides slected foods for pregnant or breast feeding mothers and preschool children. Someone at your clinic or your county Health Department can assist you.

Good nutrition during pregnancy is not nearly as complex a subject as it may seem at first, but it does require some thought and effort on your part and perhaps a willingness to change or to temporarily put aside some habits that may not be in your baby's best interests or yours. So, take the time to learn about sound nutritional practices and make the effort to follow them. Your reward will be a more comfortable pregnancy and a healthier, happier baby.

State Seeking 14,502 Owners Of Unclaimed Funds

"We are seeking a record 14,502 'lost' Marylanders," says State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein. "It's all part of an effort to solve the mystery of who owns the more than $6.5 million worth of bank accounts and other financial instruments recently reported to the state as unclaimed.

"We're trying to reach the largest number of individuals at one time since the unclaimed property law was enacted in 1966. Newspaper ads will be appearing throughout Maryland over the next two weeks," he said.

The Republican will publish the ads the weeks of April 1 and 8.

Goldstein says that Maryland law requires financial institutions and other corporations to report accounts, wages, security deposits and other money which has been unclaimed or inactive for the past five years to the State Comptroller's Office.

"If an address is available for the apparent rightful owner, a notice is sent by mail advising the person of the existence of the account. In addition, the names are also advertised in the newspaper in the county of the person's last known address," he said.

The notice advises the apparent owners whom to contact. "But if you spot your name or the name of someone you know in the ads, contact the Abandoned Property Section of our office and we will tell you how to file your claim," the comptroller said.

Examples of the types of accounts being advertised are a savings account established on the birth of a child, which remained inactive; or the remaining dollars in an old checking account; or the contents of a safe deposit box. Goldstein noted that Maryland's law is custodial, meaning there is no time limit under which the item or monetary equivalent must be claimed. The owner or legitimate heirs may claim the funds at any time.

"It's a good idea to carefully check your mail and keep an eye on the ad pages of the newspaper during the next two weeks because you may find some good financial news coming your way," Goldstein said.

Spelling Events Are Announced

Oil Spray Beats Ornamental Pests

Right now is the time to be protecting ornamental bushes and trees with a dormant-season oil spray. This will clear out eggs and inactive forms of mites, scale, aphids and other small, sucking pests.

John A. Davidson, Extension entomologist at the University of Maryland, says that horticultural oil spray kills insects by suffocation. It should soak the bark of twigs, branches and trunk until the oil runs off.

Before buds open, oil can be applied at a rate of three gallons of oil to 100 gallons of dilute oil. Tender new leaves should not be sprayed.

A second spray during the growing season will kill actively feeding insects and new eggs. Growing season sprays are especially effective against spider mites, according to Dr. Davidson, and also seem to prevent reinfestation.

The summer spray is best applied between June and August at a rate of two to 100. Foliage should be soaked to run off. Davidson says that plants should be checked every week or two, and sprayed while pests are immature and localized.

Dr. Davidson has tested summer oil sprays on over 45 species of ornamentals in Maryland with good results. However, he says that, as with all pesticides, there are important precautions that must be observed to avoid possible damage to foliage. Labels should be carefully read, and instructions followed carefully.

Fertilize to encourage sturdy growth

Although you may not have considered it in the past, that handy lawn sprayer on your storage shelf can do double duty as an applicator for liquid fertilizer.

This convenient sprayer is a natural since the nozzle promotes even distribution of fertilizer and can easily be attached to your garden hose. These devices automatically monitor the pressurized water flow while diluting the fertilizer.

Holds 15 gallons

Ortho, for example, has the Orthomatic Lawn Sprayer with a capacity of up to 15 gallons that can be used to apply soil insecticides and fertilizers.

The lawn sprayer is a perfect accessory for fertilizing a flower bed because it provides even distribution for an area often composed of a variety of plants of various heights and sizes.

More spacious gardens and flower beds include taller annuals and perennials as background plantings and lower-growing plants in the forefront.

Attractive blend

To decrease the need for continual replanting, annuals are often planted among shrubs and other perennials to create an attractive blend of horticultural elements.

Even though many flower beds manage to flourish without fertilization, the addition of nutrients can help produce healthier plants and flowers. It is best to apply the liquid fertilizer to damp soil rather than dry, according to lawn care specialists.

Most plants fare well with one application per growing season. However, if that single application is diluted and distributed over two or three feedings, it may promote more even disbursement over the growing season.

One perennial that is frequently used as a border plant is the astilbe. This plant is frequently used in flower beds and can usually flourish in any type of soil with moderate fertilization.

The gardener can choose from two types of fertilizer, either organic or chemical. Fish emulsion, manure, cottonseed meal, blood meal, bone meal and activated sludge are included in the list of organic fertilizers. Chemical fertilizers tend to be more expensive, but usually last longer and add important components to the soil.

Check labels

Home gardeners should carefully check package labels to be sure the fertilizer contains nutrients the plants need to flourish. Some products may have to be combined with others in order to produce a healthy flower bed. Nearly all fertilizers list the percentage of nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium or potash that is included. These three elements are found in nearly all plant fertilizers. Those with a ratio of 1-1-1, 1-2-1, and 1-2-2 are usually the best for annuals, which often are the basic components of flower beds.

Nitrogen usually stimulates leaf and stem development, while phosphorus and potash contribute to growth of annuals, flowering plants and fruits, and increase root development.

Plants usually lack one of the three essential nutrients if any of the following occurs:

- Nitrogen deficiency—Plants are dwarfed and older leaves turn from green to yellow, then brown. Few new leaves develop.
- Phosphorus deficiency—Entire plant has diminished. Leaves are a dark, dull green. Loss of lower leaves occurs.
- Potassium deficiency—Lower leaves turn yellow, drop from plant, and growth is usually stunted.

USING A LAWN SPRAYER to fertilize a flower bed is a quick and easy way to get the job done. Hose-end sprayers like Ortho's Orthomatic Lawn Sprayer can be used with any commercially available liquid or soluble fertilizer to make plants like these astilbe flourish.

Cold Winters Damage Woody Ornamentals

The cold winters of the last few years have meant some changes in the way we landscape our homes. Many woody ornamentals once suited to the Maryland climate are fighting a losing battle with the cold.

Leo R. LaSota, assistant professor of ornamental horticulture at the University of Maryland in College Park, says that a plant's ability to withstand cold is called its hardiness. As winters get colder, the less hardy plants are stunted or killed by the harsher conditions.

Dr. LaSota says that camellias and hedge plants like ligustrum japonica have suffered serious damage in recent years, and they are dying off in some areas where they once flourished. He says that homeowners will have to adapt to the new conditions by changing what and where they plant.

The first step is to find out which plants have been damaged. Injury usually won't show until after bud break. Then ask nursery operators what the new hardiness requirements are for the area, and what ornamentals are suited for the new local climate. Plants with borderline cold tolerance can be protected by situating them close to buildings and out of the wind. For exposed areas, choose varieties that can handle much lower temperatures than once thought common in your area.

Seaweed for Mulching

For the gardener looking to lighten his or her work load, a mulch of seaweed is nothing less than a miracle.

Believe it or not, that slimy seaweed we all try desperately to avoid at the beach is a great mulch. According to Ortho's "Easy Maintenance Gardening," it contains an excellent source of minerals and nutrients which benefit both the plant and the soil.

By shredding the seaweed, this mulch can even be used as a layer around the most attractive plants.

Killing with kindness...

Don't let your plants drink too much

Lots of gardeners kill their plants with kindness—and too much water. Soggy soil leads to poor drainage and forces roots to stand in water where they can suffocate and rot. When roots of a plant are unable to carry ample oxygen to the rest of the plant, foliage wilts and dies.

Too many gardeners think more water is the answer to most plant problems. So when a favorite green friend looks sickly, a concerned gardener immediately gives it another drink of water. This can be precisely the wrong treatment if your plant is suffering from an ailment other than thirst.

Different plant species have different moisture needs which were developed centuries ago when the plants first appeared in their natural environments. The environment you provide for your plant today—light, temperature, humidity—also will affect its need for moisture.

For example, the size and type of container which holds your plant will influence water needs. If the pot is small, moisture will be absorbed quickly, so you will need to water more often.

Water needs are also influenced by your plant's "time of life." If it is in a growth period, it will need more water than it does when it is resting. While all these factors are important, how do you actually determine if you are watering correctly?

The good old-fashioned "touch test" is the best way to find out if your plant needs water. Just poke your finger in the soil and you'll feel the degree of moisture present.

To get a better fix on the moisture content, rub a bit of soil between your thumb and index finger. There are three general categories of moisture and, with a bit of experience, you'll be able to determine which of the three best suits this particular plant.

The first category is evenly moist soil. Here, the dirt is moist throughout, but it is not soggy—when you put your finger in the soil, it will get damp but not muddy. Ferns, gardenias and African violets love this type of soil.

The second category is slightly damp soil. In this case, the dirt looks dry on the surface but there is low moisture just below the surface. Soil is cool and damp to the touch but will not get your finger wet.

Plants that thrive in this type of soil are coleus, monstera and philodendrons.

Finally, the third category is moderately dry soil; soil which feels dry to the touch and is dry to the depth of one inch. If the soil is dry deeper than an inch, it's time to get out the watering can. Peperomia, dieffenbachia, dracaena and geraniums grow well in this moderately dry soil.

ONE OF THE MOST COMMON MISTAKES made during plant care is not watering properly. Gardeners tend to under- or over-water because they do not know the correct water requirements of their plants. A good guide, like Ortho's "Gardening Techniques," will help you learn the water needs of your plants.

Ortho's new book, "Gardening Techniques," includes an extensive gallery of houseplants and offers a section which outlines water requirements for dozens of species.

When you do water, it's a good idea to water thoroughly, since all plants need a thorough soak. It is the frequency of watering that varies. Water each plant until the soil is saturated, and wait a minute or two to allow the water to drain. If it drains too fast, it means that the water is simply running down between the root ball and the pot and is not soaking into the roots.

A good dousing will also help flush out fertilizer salts, which can build up and damage a plant. This harmful build-up can be caused by overfeeding a plant and then by watering too sparsely. You'll recognize this condition by a white deposit on clay pots or by salt burns on the edges of the plant's leaves.

You may want to give your plant a thorough watering repeatedly to leach out the salt build-up. Here's how to do it. First, place the plant in the sink, tub or a pail of water. Water it thoroughly several times and, each time, let the water drain through, carrying the harmful deposits with it. If one treatment is not enough, repeat the process once a week for several weeks.

Water temperature is also important—plants don't really enjoy an ice-cold drink. Tropical plants are most sensitive to chilly water, but all your plants will shiver if cold water is applied to the foliage or the roots. So use tepid water for all watering and, occasionally, give your plants a trip to the shower.

A gentle, moderately warm shower will clean the leaves and provide a thorough watering, all at one time.

How to solve seven houseplant problems

People have grown plants in their homes for thousands of years. The intrigue and appeal of bringing nature indoors continues today, as millions of people in this country are certified houseplant "nuts."

Along with the improvements in modern medicine has come an increased sophistication in diagnosing and solving plant problems. Indoor gardeners should inspect their plants each time they water to detect any problems, pests or diseases before they do extensive damage.

The following seven common houseplant problems and solutions are from the new book, "Ortho's Complete Guide to Successful Houseplants."

Problem 1

Lack of Light: This problem is indicated by weak and spindly new growth with large gaps between the leaves. Plants bending their stems and leaves in the direction of available light is another sign of lack of light.

Solution: Gradually move the plants to a brighter location, keeping them well watered. If a brighter location is not available, provide artificial light.

Problem 2

Sunburn or Bleaching: Dead tan or brown patches on leaves exposed to direct sunlight is a sign of sunburn. Sometimes the plants will remain green, but the growth is stunted.

Solution: Move the plants that cannot tolerate direct sun to a shaded area, or reduce the light intensity with curtains or window shades when direct sun shines on the plants. Trim damaged leaves and keep plants watered.

Problem 3

Too Little Water: With this problem, leaves are small and may dry and become brittle. Growth of the plants may be stunted. Bleached areas may occur between the veins.

Solution: Water plants immediately and thoroughly. If the soil is completely dry, add a bit of wetting agent (which you can buy at garden centers) or soak the entire pot in water for a couple of hours.

Problem 4

Too Much Water: Plants fail to grow and leaves may wilt, lose their glossiness, and become light green or yellow. The roots are brown and mushy without white tips.

Solution: If the plants are severely wilted without white root tips, discard them. Less severely affected plants should not be watered until the soil is barely moist. Provide good drainage to prevent this problem by using light soil mixes.

Problem 5

Nitrogen Deficiency: With this problem, the oldest leaves—usually the lowest ones—turn yellow and may drop. Growth is slow, new leaves are small, and the whole plant may be stunted.

Solution: For a quick response, apply a foliar fertilizer, such as RA-PID-GRO Plant Food. Fertilize houseplants with a 5-10-5 fertilizer, added at regular intervals.

Problem 6

Aphids: Aphids, tiny, non-winged, green, soft-bodied insects, cluster in the buds, young stems, and leaves. Leaves curl, are discolored, reduced in size, and may be coated by a shiny or sticky substance.

Solution: Use an indoor plant insect spray containing Orthene, resmethrin, or pyrethrins.

Problem 7

Fungus Gnats: These small, slender, dark insects will fly around when plants are disturbed. They frequently run across the foliage and soil and may also be found on windows. Roots may be damaged, and seedlings may die.

Solution: Spray with a household insect spray containing Diazinon? Repeated applications may be necessary.

Transplanting Annuals

One surefire way to have a showy flower garden this year is to buy annuals for transplanting. With a little attention to detail, anyone can have a green thumb this year.

Leo R. LaSota, assistant professor of ornamental horticulture at the University of Maryland in College Park, says that success begins at the nursery. While annuals usually are offered for sale when in full bloom, it is better to sacrifice immediate appeal for vigor and beauty later in the season.

LaSota recommends that flowers be cut off before the plant is put out. This will reduce the danger of shock after transplanting and encourage the plant to branch. Branching results in a more vigorous plant and more flowers.

Soil should be dry enough to work thoroughly before the plants are set out.

If transplanting in peat pots, LaSota warns that the pot must be completely buried. If the rim of the pot is exposed, it will act as a wick, drawing moisture away from the roots and stunting growth. Soaking the pot in water, and tearing off the rim will help prevent this.

Dr. LaSota says that the layout of the garden is important for good results. If all the flowers in one part of the garden bloom at the same time, there will be a solid mass of leaves there later in the season. If the foliage is uninteresting, the garden will be, too.

By mixing in other kinds of flowers that will bloom later, or carefully choosing the foliage, interest can be maintained all summer. Some annuals, like the dusty miller and the coleus, are prized for their unusually colored leaves.

Because annuals die each winter, they are forgiving to the beginner. That corner full of clashing colors, or the expanse of boring green can be corrected next year. So why not give it a try?

Testing Seeds for Viablity

Perhaps you have seeds left over from last year's gardening—or the year before—that you are hesitant to use, not knowing if your efforts will be futile. If so, don't throw the seeds away until you read further. There is a possibility that you can still sow them with good results.

The average storage life of seeds varies greatly and depends on the type of seeds stored, says Pamela B. King, urban gardening agent in Baltimore with the University of Maryland's Cooperative Extension Service.

For example: Short-lived seeds (1-2 years)—corn, onion, parsnip. Intermediate (3-4 years)—bean, carrot, leek, pea. Long-lived seeds (5 years)—beet, chard, turnip, cucumber, eggplant, lettuce, cantaloupe, pepper, squash-radish, cantaloupe, pepper, squash-pumpkin group, tomato, watermelon, and the cabbage family—broccoli, brussels sprouts and cauliflower.

offers a procedure of judging whether or not old seeds will sprout—a seed doll. Details follow:

Materials: drinking glass or cup, paper towel, about 20 seeds and rubber band.

To make the doll: Take a damp, folded paper towel and place five seeds in a row, one inch from the edge. Roll the seeds into the paper towel and place a second row of seeds next to the roll. Continue this sequence until all the seeds are rolled inside the paper towel and the roll is complete. Place rubber band over the roll to hold it together.

Place roll in drinking glass or cup with one inch of water in bottom of container. Add water every few days, as needed, to keep the roll moist.

Leave roll in the water for approximately one week. Then open the roll and count the number of seeds that have germinated.

To determine the percentage of germination, divide the number of germinated seeds by the total number of seeds used in the test and multiply by 100. For example is you used 20 seeds in the test and 15 seeds germinated, then your germination rate would be 75 percent. This is satisfactory for sowing.

Using seed with a germination rate of under 75 percent may result in only a few plants that are strong enough to reach maturity. Seed with a germination rate of less than 50 percent should be discarded. In that event, purchase new seed for planting this year.

If you want to use seed with a less-than-75-percent germination percentage, King suggests that you double your seeding rate and thin the excess plants, if necessary, after they have sprouted.

The year Joan dearest went on for her daughter

By Kimberly Redmond

In the film "Mommie Dearest," Diana Scarwid, the actress who portrayed Christina Crawford, was supposedly an actress on a soap opera. I'd like to know if Miss Crawford was really on a soap, or if that was just part of the movie script. — V.W., Levittown, Pa.

In real-life, Miss Crawford appeared as Joan Borman, a gold-digger type of character on the now defunct soap, "The Secret Storm." When Christina took ill in 1968, her dearest mommie Joan Crawford, replaced her for two days, even though the legendary star was 30 years older than the soap's character.

I have a $20 bet with my friend, who says that the actress who portrays Terry Brock on "General Hospital" never appeared on the nighttime TV show "Happy Days." I think she played Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham's niece, K.C. Who's right? — J.M., Colonia, N.J.

Sorry, J.M., but your friend wins. "GH" star Robyn Bernard has never appeared on "Happy Days." Miss Bernard's only other professional television role was a one-shot on the nighttime series, "The Facts of Life," on which she played the teen actress, Hedda Hart.

Is Todd Curtis, the actor who portrays Jordy Clegg on the CBS soap "Capitol," related to film actor Tony Curtis? They look so much alike. — N.B., Newton, N.C.

Role of real-life hero stretches Chamberlain

By Marc Minnelli

Richard Chamberlain is quick to admit his ignorance. "I never heard of Raoul Wallenberg until NBC offered me the miniseries," the 50-year-old actor says about the character he plays in "Raoul Wallenberg: A Hero's Story," airing Monday, April 8 and Tuesday, April 9 on NBC.

"But after reading the script, I realized Raoul had the mystique I'd been looking for all my life. He fascinated me; the situation he was in — pulling Jews off Hitler's death trains by day and dining with (Nazi Col.) Adolf Eichmann at night — overwhelmed me. I knew the script needed work — lots of work — but I was willing to take the gamble. After all," Chamberlain adds, "the story of a man who made a difference is a story always worth telling."

In many ways, Wallenberg's life is shrouded in mystery. The Swedish diplomat faked government passes and bribed, threatened and coerced Nazi officials into saving the lives of more than 120,000 Hungarian Jews during the final months of World War II. Wallenberg mysteriously disappeared on Jan. 17, 1945, and though Soviet officials have been claiming that he died in a Moscow prison in 1947, there are reports the hero is still alive.

Chamberlain spent weeks researching Wallenberg's life. "I read several books and spoke to his half-sister Nina, who remembers Raoul as an enigma," recalls the actor. "I also spoke with people who Wallenberg plucked from death trains." Chamberlain's voice becomes hushed. His gaze seems faraway. "The stories they told me were hair-raising, and it took every ounce of strength I had to keep my composure. But after awhile," he adds, "I broke down and cried."

Richard Chamberlain

The actor feels his role in "Wallenberg" is one of his best. "I'm finally able to take risks," he confesses, "because I've found the courage to say, 'I just don't want to get by.' This miniseries stretches me further than I've ever gone. And I don't think my fans will be disappointed. I'm not as good an actor as Robert Duvall, but I'm getting better. Like a tortoise," he smiles, "my career grows — slowly, surely and steadily."

Melanie Mayron, playing Hungarian Jew Sonja Kahn, pleads for the life of her son Josef, played by Yugoslavian orphan Bogdan, in "Wallenberg: A Hero's Story." The miniseries, airing Monday, April 8 and Tuesday, April 9, tells the story of Swedish diplomat Raoul Wallenberg.

'Hee Haw' producer sees cast as a happy 'family'

By Marta Tarbell

Sam Lovullo

No one ever told Sam Lovullo he'd wind up living in Nashville, Tenn. But then again, no one ever told the opera buff from Buffalo, N.Y. that he'd wind up producing a country-Western variety show either.

"I graduated from UCLA with a major in finance," says the 58-year-old producer of the syndicated series "Hee Haw," starring Roy Clark and Buck Owens. And 14 years ago, when CBS executives pulled the plug on the down-home variety show that had been compared to a country-Western "Laugh-In," Lovullo's experience with financial facts and figures convinced him it was time to give show biz a try.

He opted for independent production, and relocated the "Hee Haw" cast and crew to Nashville. In studios next-door to the sound stage country music fans know and love as the Grand Ole Opry, Lovullo presides over the biannual "Hee Haw" tapings — each one amasses a total of 40 videotape miles — as well as the editing and assembling of the weekly one-hour show, which airs on 217 independent stations nationwide.

"We have a good family feeling," says Lovullo. "No one jockeys for position here; we don't even have private dressing rooms." The show's stars car pool, in un-glamorous rental cars, to make it to work by 8 a.m. for a turn in the makeup chair. It's Lovullo's decision to keep things casual. "The star treatment — champagne, flowers, limos — would frighten some of these people," he adds.

It's also his decision to shoot scenes virtually unrehearsed. "In our second year," he recalls, "Junior Samples was so embarrassed when his 8-year-old daughter read his lines better than he could, that we stopped handing out the scripts ahead of time. It also keeps things," he adds with a smile, "fresh and believable."

And while "Hee Haw" regulars don't expect the perks that are part of the Hollywood star treatment, they do have their standards. "Irlene Mandrell was recently in my office," Lovullo says. "And she told me, 'Barbara thinks those push-up bras you're making us wear are just terrible.'"

But Lovullo is immune to the criticism. "If we covered the girls up, we'd get bushels of letters," he says. "Just the other day, a woman wrote and said: 'The girls have been too dressed up. Please show them off again. It's the one thing that turns my husband on every week.'"

"Sara" star is not obsessive about fitness

By Renee Ross

Geena Davis

"Sara" star Geena Davis says that her life does not imitate art. "My character jogs every morning," Miss Davis, 27, says, "but I never jog or do aerobics. But I run a lot — to catch planes!"

The actress, a former model who plays San Francisco attorney Sara McKenna on the NBC sitcom, combines exercise with the demands of her busy career in an unusual way. "I like to sleep," she says, "so I get up just in time to make it to work without being late."

Miss Davis considered herself a gawky child. "Growing up," she recalls, "I always wanted to be athletic, but I was one of those really tall, uncoordinated types. They always wanted me on the basketball team, but I wasn't too good. Track was my thing — I did high jumps and hurdles on the girls' team. But it was hopeless if you were taller than everybody else." Miss Davis adds with a slight grin, "I had one date in high school.

"I lied about my height when I started modeling because, believe it or not, you can be considered too tall. I would wear high heels on job interviews so they wouldn't know my actual height. I said I was 5-foot-10, but I'm actually 6 feet tall," adds the 140-pound actress.

After a busy day on the "Sara" set, Miss Davis prefers a low-key lifestyle. "I often go home, study, eat a little and pass out with my script on my face," she says.

Though she grew up near the beautiful beaches of Cape Cod, Mass. and now lives outside Los Angeles, Miss Davis rarely soaks up the sun. "I almost never have a tan," she says. "I'd rather go to a park with grass and trees than be on a beach."

When it comes to nutrition, the actress shuns extremes. "I don't have a big paranoia about foods," she explains, "though I don't eat much red meat. I never cook because with my schedule, I don't have hours to devote to preparing meals.

"Health has got to have something to do with your attitude," she says. "If you have a healthy attitude and eat what you want, who's to say that it's not as healthy as being paranoid about every morsel that goes into your mouth? I just try," she adds, "not to be obsessive."

ASK ME ABOUT TV

By Val Carew

I love Lucy and cannot get enough of the classic "I Love Lucy" shows. Can you tell me about everyone's favorite redhead, Lucille Ball? — L.L., Russell, Pa.

The legendary comedian was born on Aug. 6, 1911, in Jamestown, N.Y. Miss Ball, who took acting classes with Bette Davis, made her first (un-billed) film appearance in the 1933 movie "Broadway Through a Keyhole." A little more than a year later, she was a "star" at Columbia — earning $75 a week. She was soon fired, and shuttled between RKO and MGM, where she made many good and many bad films.

Lucille Ball

In 1951, Miss Ball, her husband, Desi Arnaz Sr., and the show, "I Love Lucy," made history. The CBS series ended its run in 1961, but Miss Ball can still be seen in "Lucy" reruns throughout the world. Married to producer Gary Morton, Miss Ball and Mr. Arnaz have two children, Lucie Arnaz (currently starring in her CBS sitcom) and Desi Arnaz Jr. She lives in Beverly Hills, Calif., and does occasional TV specials.

Pernell Roberts

Can you tell me where I can write to "Trapper John, M.D." star Pernell Roberts? — R.T.P., Greenville, Tenn.

Address your letters to the actor c/o "Trapper John, M.D." CBS, 7800 Beverly Blvd., Los Angeles, CA 90036.

(Do you have a question about TV? Write Val Carew at 200 Park Ave., Room 602, New York, NY 10166. Questions cannot be answered personally but those of general interest will be answered in future columns.)

Richard Chamberlain stars as Raoul Wallenberg, the real-life Swedish diplomat responsible for saving the lives of more than 120,000 Hungarian Jews during the final months of World War II, in "Raoul Wallenberg: A Hero's Story." The two-part miniseries airs Monday, April 8 and Tuesday, April 9 on NBC.

CREATING NEW PLANTS from existing ones can be easily done by a method called "propagating."

One of the joys of gardening indoors or outdoors is the fact that you can create vibrant new plants from old plants. It's called "propagating," and it's much easier than it sounds.

There are many techniques for creating new plants but the simplest and most popular is that of using a stem cutting to produce a new plant.

Here is how it works.

First, get a supply of a good rooting medium which holds a lot of water and is coarse enough to allow for good air circulation. Some of the best rooting mediums are vermiculite, perlite, milled sphagnum moss or 10 parts perlite to one part peat moss.

(Experts who contributed to the new book, "Ortho's Complete Guide to Successful Houseplants," advise against using potting soil as a rooting medium since the mixture is too rich for the delicate roots of new plants.)

Next, place the rooting medium in a container. Plastic pots are better for this than clay pots since they hold moisture longer. If you plan to start several new plants, a plastic bread box or shoe box works fine. Just use a heated ice pick to punch ventilation holes in the top and add two inches of the rooting mixture to the bottom, and you have a perfect miniature greenhouse.

Now, you are ready to take a cutting from the old plant. Take a sharp knife or a razor blade and cut off a healthy piece of stem about four to six inches in length. Make your cut at an angle just below a node—the spot on the plant where new leaves and new roots emerge.

Remove any buds on your cutting and remove the bottom leaves so no leaf will touch the rooting mixture. Dust the end of your cutting with hormone powder (available at your garden center), and use your finger or a pencil to make a hole in the rooting medium. Insert the cutting and tap it firmly into place.

Enclose the container in a plastic bag, using a stake or loop of wire to support the plastic, keeping it clear of the cutting. Put it in a bright, warm place but out of direct sunlight, and watch it become a healthy new plant.

Experts say that gardeners sometimes make the mistake of cutting the slip from the mother plant before they are ready to plant it. Delayed planting causes the root to dry out and makes successful rooting much more difficult. So, once you've made the cut, move quickly and get your fledgling plant safely into the rooting mixture.

It will take about one to six weeks for the baby plants to become rooted, and that all depends on the species. You will know successful rooting is taking place when the small plant produces new growth. If you tug gently on the plant, it will not pull out of the soil, indicating that it is securely anchored.

Once the rooting process is under way, remove the plastic cover for an hour or two each day. Gradually increase the hours of exposure until, finally, you can discard the plastic covering altogether. Now, your plant is healthy and happy and can be moved to its permanent growing position.

Easter Potted Plants Bring Spring Indoors

Flowering shrubs are one of the colorful traditions of the Easter season. With careful selection and proper care, they can bring the beauty and new life of spring indoors for weeks.

William E. Healy, Extension floriculture specialist at the University of Maryland in College Park, recommends careful shopping to get the most enjoyment from potted plants. Along with general health and vigor, he says that the stage of bud development is important.

The classic Easter flower, the lily, should have at least one flower open. The rest of the buds will open within days, and they will last for up to a week.

Dr. Healy suggests that hyacinths have all of their buds tightly closed, while azaleas are best bought when several flowers are fully open. Chrysanthemums need to be fully open with flat petals, while tulips should have green buds, slightly pale at the edges of each petal.

Once the plants are home, Healy says that they are easy to care for. They need more water while in bloom—a good soak twice a week or more. No fertilizer or insecticide is needed; and since the blossoms have already been forced, they can thrive in dark areas.

The only other important thing to remember, according to Dr. Healy, is to keep the plants away from heat. Radiators, hot-air vents, and appliances like refrigerators or televisions can overheat flowering plants and shorten the life of the blossoms considerably.

A good tactic is to move the plants to an enclosed porch or other unheated room at night, or when the home is empty. As long as the temperature remains above 40 degrees F., the blossoms will be further prolonged.

The story is far from over when the petals finally wilt and fall. Healy says that with the exception of the azalea and chrysanthemum, these potted flowers can be planted in the garden after the risk of frost is past. If lilies are transplanted soon after their blossoms drop, they may bloom again in late summer. summer.

The first step is to put the plants out in their pots until the blossoms are fully dried. Then they can be transplanted wherever desired. Healy suggests that similar species be planted together so that they will form a mass of blooms next year.

Get Your Soil In Shape For Spring Gardening

Whether or not you laid careful plans during cold winter months, the time has come to get out in your garden and start digging. Our first planting dates are at hand, and there is plenty to do.

—Take a soil test. Kits are available for $4 per sample at your local Cooperative Extension Service Office. The test results will let you know how much fertilizer and limestone to add to your soil. Results take 10 days to two weeks to come back from the laboratory; so take your soil samples as soon as possible.

—Turn the soil to a depth of at least six inches, removing weeds and grass. Start digging as soon as the soil is dry enough. For the dryness test, squeeze a handful of soil. If it crumbles easily when you open your hand, the soil should be safe to work. But if it sticks together like a mudball, wait—or you risk compacting the soil so it dries in hard lumps that will be difficult to handle.

—Add organic matter, like compost, in large amounts to loosen up clay soils. Organic matter holds mositure and fertilization while improving drainage. It also improves nutrient and moisture-holding capacity of sandy soils.

—Apply limestone according to your test results so that the soil chemistry is right for plant growth. If you did not take a soil test, add five pounds of a dolomitic limestone per 100 square feet of garden area.

—Spread fertilizer in line with your test results so that plants will get the nutrients they need to grow well. Organic matter usually will not supply enough nutrients by itself, unless organic fertilization is planned carefully. If you did not take a soil test, apply three pounds of 5-10-5 fertilizer per 100 square feet.

—Rake, but don't overdo it. Make your seedbeds smooth. Leave stones and lumps between the rows to discourage weeds.

Warm Weather Means Cool Season

With longer days and softer breezes, this hardly feels like the cool season. But for gardeners, that is the name for early spring.

Charles A. McClurg, Extension vegetables specialist at the University of Maryland in College Park, says that cool-season vegetables are able to withstand light frost without injury. They can be planted as soon as the soil has thawed and is dry enough to work.

Cool-season vegetables are usually planted in March on the Eastern Shore and during May in western Maryland.

One type of cool-season vegetable is the cabbage group. This includes broccoli, cauliflower, collards, kale, spinach, and of course, cabbage. Potatoes and salad vegetables such as lettuce, carrots, radishes, onions and peas round out the cool-season planting.

Dr. McClurg says that it is best to transplant the cabbage group and onions. The other salad vegetables can be started outside from seed. Potatoes are grown from sections of special seed potatoes.

When the soil is dry enough to be worked, it should first be thoroughly worked with a rototiller, plow or spade. Organic matter from the compost heap is then worked in. Lime and fertilizer should be added at this stage, as needed.

After the soil is thoroughly worked, the surface should be raked level. McClurg says that small rocks and roots need not be removed.

Gardeners should be careful not to plant seeds too deep, following directions on the seed packets. After the seeds have sprouted, thinning will promote higher yields. McClurg says that thinning is especially important for radishes, carrots and lettuce.

Transplants should be set slightly deeper than in the starting tray, with particular care taken to cover all roots. After planting, they should be thoroughly watered.

McClurg recommends including soluble fertilizer in the water to lessen the chance of transplant shock.

Caring for your lawn — you decide the balance

Caring for your lawn should provide pleasure, not pain and, while some people want to work on their grass every day, others may not have the time or the inclination.

The key to success, no matter what your maintenance approach, is to have a balanced program of lawn care.

For example, a lawn that is watered and fertilized regularly will have fewer problems with weeds and disease. However, it also will grow faster and require more frequent mowing. So, if you don't want to mow a lot, cut down on watering and fertilizing.

Watering

Lawns need to be watered when the soil begins to dry out. The signs of this are when the grass has a blue-green or smoky tinge and footmarks stay instead of disappearing right away.

The best time to water is early morning. The soil should be moistened to a depth of six to eight inches.

To test the effectiveness of watering, wait 12 hours after you water and then poke a screwdriver into the ground. If it goes down about six inches without much resistance, then the lawn is probably wet enough.

Mowing

How often a lawn should be cut depends on the type of grass, your watering and fertilization routine, and the time of year.

During very hot weather, lawns can go as long as three weeks without mowing. In the spring and fall, weekly cuttings are probably needed in most areas of the country.

Fertilizing

Most everyone knows that lawns should be fertilized in the spring, but it's equally important to fertilize them in the fall. In most cases, fertilizer should not be used during midsummer.

Fertilizing provides lawns with many required nutrients. The best bet is to select a so-called "complete" fertilizer which contains the three primary nutrients—nitrogen, phosphate and potassium.

Bags of fertilizer display the percentages they contain of the elements, as in 24-4-8. The first listing is nitrogen, followed by phosphate and potassium in that order.

For most lawns, the first number should be three times higher than the second, and the third should be double the second. However, local climate, soil conditions and other factors may call for different ratios.

Insects

While proper watering, mowing and fertilizing will help curb most weed problems in lawns, insects are another matter and may require the use of an insecticide.

Among the treatments available for insect infestation of lawns is Ortho's Diazinon® Soil & Turf Insect Control, which controls ants, grubs, web worms, crickets and other listed insects.

It can be applied with a fertilizer spreader, according to the settings listed on the bag. Ortho Diazinon® should be applied when the grass is dry, followed by a light watering of the lawn. Two pounds will cover 1,000 square feet for most lawns.

Spring Dangerous For Houseplants

Spring means life, and life more abundantly. But it can mean death to houseplants. Some of that life out there is looking for a green meal; and if it gets indoors, that means trouble.

John A. Davidson, Extension entomologist at the University of Maryland in College park, says that spider mites are a particular hazard for houseplants. A home that has been free of mites through the winter risks infestation in spring by mites brought in on clothes or plants purchased for transplanting.

Dr. Davidson says that gardeners should examine plants carefully for signs of mite damage before bringing them into the house.

Mites feed on the green chlorphyll in leaves, and leave small white dots where they puncture the surface. As they feed, the mites apparently inject poisons into the leaves, which eventually turn yellow, then brown.

The mites themselves can sometimes be seen as small, orange dots on the undersides of leaves. If a plant is highly infested, fine spiderweb-like coverings can be found on leaves and stems.

Davidson says that the most certain way to avoid mite infestation from transplants is to start all garden plants from seed.

Spider mites can be controlled in the home with any of the premixed aerosol or pump spary pesticides labeled for spider mites, red spiders or clover mites.

Most of these contain Kelthane. To control mites without using pesticides, plants can be washed weekly with a hard spray of water in the sink until the mites no longer appear. Pay particular attention to the undersides of the leaves. Delicate plants can be sprayed with a solution of mild detergent or "Safers soap" and water—1 tsp. of detergent or soap to a gallon of water.

Make your yard evergreen

With a little money and a lot of energy, you can bring year-round beauty to your property by planting evergreens, the trees which are always awake and alive. The young trees you buy at your local nursery or garden center will probably be balled and burlapped. This means the roots are balled and then wrapped in burlap. Savvy gardeners call these young trees "B&B" plants.

When selecting your new trees, remember smaller plants can be planted more successfully and with much less work than larger ones. One reason is the fact that youngsters "have comparatively more roots to supply the tree with water and nutrients," according to the new Ortho book, "All About Evergreens." The smaller trees are also easier to handle and to plant.

The old warning, "handle with care," applies to the trees to be planted or transplanted. Never carry the plant by the trunk and, when you are moving heavy plants, always support the root ball by rigging a sling of canvas or burlap.

If you drop a bagged and burlapped plant, the root ball will break into a million soil pieces and, unhappily, each bit of earth scattered around will contain a piece of broken root.

In transplanting an existing evergreen or planting a new tree, dig a hole to the depth of the plant's root ball and make it twice as wide as the root ball. Be sure the soil at the bottom of the hole is smooth and undisturbed for, if the soil is rough, the root ball will settle, which can lower the tree to a dangerous level.

The crown of your tree—where the trunk meets the roots—should never be below soil level. If it is, the soil will gradually fill in the depression and bring on a fatal disease, crown rot.

When the hole is the proper size, set the tree in place and pack soil around the base and sides to hold it upright. Once your tree is securely in place, remove the rope or nails holding the burlap and fold the material back and under the root ball so it will be totally buried when the hole is filled. Natural burlap will disintegrate into the soil with time and weather.

If your new tree is wrapped in a synthetic material, it will not disintegrate, so unwrap the root ball completely and discard the synthetic wrapping.

The next step is to add the backfill soil until the hole is filled. Once you've completed this job, make a raised rim of soil about four inches high around the plant to create a natural watering basin.

Fill the basin with water and don't bother to tamp the soil—the natural settling of wet dirt will fill air pockets and stabilize the plant.

If your tree settles a little bit, you can raise it by gently rocking it back and forth or by applying a little upward pressure with a shovel and letting the water and soggy soil fill in the space under the root ball. The rocking or lifting of the root ball can be repeated on opposite sides until the plant is at the level you want and perfectly straight.

Finally, remove rocks and big clods of soil and give the basin its final contours.

EVERGREENS are among one of the loveliest trees to have in your garden because their beauty can be enjoyed all year. If you are thinking of planting evergreens, the authors of Ortho's new book "All About Evergreens," suggest that small trees be used because they have more roots to supply the tree with water, are easier to handle, and are less expensive.

Warm-Season Planting Not Far Away

After all danger of frost has passed, it is time for gardeners to plant their warm-season fruits and vegetables. Warm season planting begins in April on the Eastern Shore and runs into May in the western Maryland mountains.

Charles A. McClurg, Extension vegetables specialist at the University of Maryland in College Park, says that slow-growing plants like tomatoes, peppers and eggplants are best transplanted.

Fast starters like sweet corn, green beans, squash and pumpkins can be started from seed. Cucumbers can be started from seed, or transplanted if early crops are desired.

Transplants should be chosen carefully. McClurg says to check for a healthy, green color. Reject any plants showing signs of insect damage or infestation. They should be of medium size (tomatoes from 8-10 inches). He says that watering is especially important when transplanting in warm weather.

Dr. McClurg says that by choosing several varieties of tomatoes, harvest can be spread out over the season. Planting green beans consecutively, 2-3 weeks apart, will accomplish the same thing.

Fire Destroys Two Structures In Lake Area

Two Garrett County structures located near Deep Creek Lake were destroyed by fire during the past week, the causes of which have been ruled as accidental by Guy Carola, fire investigator for Garrett and Allegany counties.

A trailer located along Hoyes Run Road, one mile off Sang Run Road, caught fire sometime during the day Thursday, but was not discovered until 11:50 p.m. by a neighbor, Trudy Savage. The owner of the 1965 Frontier trailer, Catherine Dillsworth, her mother, and four children were not home at the time, having left at 6 a.m. that day to visit her son in Clarksburg, W. Va.

According to Carola, the structure was fully involved in flame when fire fighters from Deep Creek and Accident fire departments arrived on the scene.

Carola determined that the blaze originated in a recliner, possibly from a burning cigarette. The chair was located between the living room and kitchen. He said it appears that the fire had smouldered for some time before it was discovered.

The bedroom area of the trailer, which also included an addition, sustained the least damage in the blaze, however heat and smoke destroyed the contents.

Firemen remained on the scene until 1:43 a.m. Friday. Also responding was the equipment truck from the Southern

STRUTTIN' HER STUFF — It seems as though Oakland has a new resident. Chick E. Cluck, Henville, mysteriously appeared in town one day last week and has set up housekeeping in the shrubbery at the Garrett National Bank's drive-in building. It is not known whether she is married, but she has built a nest and there are three eggs in it. For the most part, Ms. Cluck just keeps to herself, but she did fly into a pedestrian's face this morning causing him much bewilderment. The Mayor and Town Council and the Garrett County Zoning Board will probably be forced to call special meetings regarding Oakland's newest citizen. Word on the street is that Chick E. has retained a local attorney. "I have my rights," she clucked. Photo by Craig Phillips

Jenny Hillen Signs With WVU

Jenny Hillen, who holds the basketball scoring record at Southern High School and who is undoubtedly the most talented female athlete ever to attend Southern, has signed a national letter of intent to attend West Virginia University. Hillen is the first athlete in the history of the school to receive a major college athletic scholarship.

Hillen was signed yesterday by WVU along with the West Virginia Player of the Year, Judy Eaton, of Parkersburg Catholic High School.

Other major universities attempting to sign Hillen included Maryland, Georgetown, and James Madison. The four-year starter for the Rams, and team leader in two trips to the Maryland State playoffs, said she had narrowed her choices to James Madison and WVU before signing with the Mountaineers.

Kitty Blakemore, co-head coach of the Mountaineers, stated that the members of the coaching staff "are thrilled to have Jenny and Judy in Mountaineer uniforms. They are both great players and fine young ladies who we feel will make a strong contribution to our program. Jenny is an exceptional

Columbia Gas Seeks Reduction In Monthly Rates

A $5 million reduction in the cost of gas purchases will be provided to Columbia Gas of Maryland customers under a two-year agreement being submitted last week for federal approval.

Marvin E. White, chairman of Columbia, said the reduction will represent an average saving of about $5.25 a month, or $126 over the two-year period, for Columbia residential customers. The monthly savings are based on 10,000 cubic feet; greater usage would result in a larger savings.

White said Columbia of Maryland will pay $5 million less for the gas it buys from Columbia Gas Transmission Corp., and this reduction will be reflected, dollar-for-dollar, in customers' bills.

While the agreement is for two years, White said, "Columbia of Maryland will continue to have flexibility to obtain the least-cost gas we can purchase, whatever the source. This will assure that we will maintain very competitive rates on into the future."

Columbia Gas of Maryland and other gas distributors negotiated an agreement with Columbia Transmission to resolve long-standing disputes over the pipeline company's gas purchasing practices, White said.

The price reduction agreement was filed with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission and approval is expected in a few weeks.

"Our 28,500 residential, industrial and commercial customers will all benefit from these lower gas costs," White said.

Sanitary Commission Considers Upper Yough Improvement Project

The Garrett County Sanitary Commission met, April 2, with the main item of consideration the engineering proposal of the Upper Yough improvement project, which includes the Trout Run treatment plant, the Bausch and Lomb interceptor line, and sewering the Shady Acres area.

The sanitary commission received proposals from five engineering firms. According to Wendell Beitzel, sanitary district administrator, each firm submitting a proposal was given an opportunity to give a presentation regarding the proposal.

The five firms are: Greenhorne and O'Mara, Inc., represented by Henry Doyle, engineer; Franklin Associates, Inc., represented by Morgan France; Potomac Engineering and Surveying, represented by Judy Kahl and Jim Culler; Western Maryland Associates, represented by Danny Bainbridge; and John McNair and Associates, represented by John McNair.

Beitzel explained that this project is in a critical service area, servicing Mtn. Lake Park and Loch Lynn, an area that is currently under a moratorium. He went on to explain that the Trout Run facility was not initally designed to handle infiltration and inflow, that at the time of construction, granting agencies would not consider or fund infiltration and inflow.

Because of problems over the years, and because of questions concerning the costs and the ability of the facility to meet the communities' needs, there has been considerable differences of opinion between the sanitary commission and the communities involved.

To minimize the possibility of conflict in the communities the sanitary commission is entering into the project cautiously and will keep the communities appraised of the progress of the project.

Beitzel said that, "before the actual construction begins, the commission hopes to have a clear understanding with the communities, including a municipal agreement as to how the system will be managed. Therefore, the sanitary commission wants to make sure they have a competent engineering firm preparing the plans."

He stated that the sanitary commission was very much impressed by the presentation of all five engineering firms, and their desire to do the work. "It will be difficult to select a firm," Beitzel said. The commission will be considering the proposals and will make some

Born March 22, 1882, in Terra Alta, W. Va., he was a son of the late Edward O'Donnell and Margaret (Hoban) O'Donnell. He was a railway postal clerk who retired at the age of 70 ir 1952.

He was a member of St. Peter's Catholic Church, a lifelong member of the Knights of Columbus, and a charter member of Oakland Council No. 1771 Knights of Columbus. He was preceded in death by his wife, Frances Virginia O'Donnell in 1970.

Surviving are two sons, Horace P. O'Donnell, Uncasville, Conn., and John C. O'Donnell, Marietta, Ga.; one daughter, Mrs. Charles Mueller, Egg Harbor, N. J.; eight grandchildren, and four great-grandchildren.

Sisler Honored By University Of Maryland

Hugh D. Sisler, a native of Garrett County, was recently honored by the College of Agriculture Alumni Chapter of the University of Maryland in being presented the 1985 Excellence in Research Award.

Sisler, son of Mrs. Ida Sisler, Friendsville, and the late Daniel Sisler, has served as a teacher and administrator in the Department of Botany at the University for many years. For over three decades he has also been involved in research which has brought him national and international recognition. Considered the top scientist in his field in the world, Sisler has presented the results of his research in over 20 national and international symposia. He has published over 60 referred articles in top scientific journals. Many of his Ph.D students have been placed in top positions in universities and industries.

The study and development of fungicides is his main area of research. He has determined the mode of action of a number of fungicides. Over 20 sterol inhibition compounds have been developed as a result of his pioneering work. He has worked with a class of antipathogenic agents which some believe will revolutionize chemical disease control.

Noting that Sisler's work has laid the foundation for fundamentally sound pest management practices, a University spokesman stated, "Dr. Sisler is a productive, dedicated scientist who has contributed greatly to the agriculture industry."

Kitzmiller Man Dies From Fatal Gunshot Wound

A fatal shooting in the Kitzmiller area Tuesday night continues to be investigated by the Maryland State Police.

Andrew Stephen Bruckey, 36, died of a gunshot wound to the head at about 9:50 p.m., according to Cpl. Gary Berkebile who is heading the investigation. He said a .38 caliber handgun was used in the shooting.

Berkebile said the shooting occurred on an enclosed porch of the victim's home in Shallmar and that two of Bruckey's friends, Joseph Ray and Pamela Duskin, Elk Garden, were with him at the time of the shooting.

The Southern Rescue Squad was dispatched to the scene by Garrett County Emergency Management. Bruckey was pronounced dead at the scene by Medical Examiner Dr. James H. Feaster.

Police said the body has been taken to the State Medical Examiner's Office in Baltimore for an autopsy and that lab work is still being completed.

Circumstances surrounding the death have not yet been determined, although First Sgt. William Graham said police were initially told that the shooting was accidental.

Born at Shallmar, Mr. Bruckey was a son of Frank Bruckey and Fannie (Brady) Bruckey, Shallmar.

He was employed as a supervisor by Bausch and Lomb and was a U.S. Army veteran of the Vietnam War.

Surviving besides his parents are his wife, the former Deborah A. Ervin; one daughter, Julie Ann Bruckey, at

General Assembly Session Hailed As The Year For Garrett County

The 1985 General Assembly session could be hailed as the year for Garrett County. At least local legislators Del. George Edwards and Sen. John Bambacus believe so.

"This was our year," Sen. Bambacus said Wednesday. "Garrett County received more money for capital projects than Prince George's County and almost as much as Monigomery County."

Both Bambacus and Edwards pointed to the $4.5 million for the Northern High School renovation project as the highlight of the session, but were also happy over the funds the county will receive for volunteer fire and rescue companies, state park improvement projects, Garrett Community College and the Garrett County Board of Education. The exact amounts for most of these projects are not yet available.

Both legislators noted much of their key legislation passed, although much of it still awaits Gov. Harry Hughes' signature. (Details of monies to come to the county and the fate of bills proposed by Bambacus and Edwards will appear in future issues of The Republican.)

In discussing the session in general, Bambacus commented, "Overall, I felt it was not the thriller as last year, but it was a productive session."

Edwards also felt the issues handled this year were not of the magnitude of last year's wrangling with the Civiletti Commission report, changes in the state pension system and plans for the Chesapeake Bay. "In the long haul," said Edwards, "we accomplished as much, if not more."

Major Issues Settled

Among the major issues settled in this year's session was approval to open full-service banking privileges in Maryland to Citicorp, the New York-based banking giant, in July, 1986. In return, Citicorp is to create 750 jobs at a new credit-card processing plant in Hagerstown.

Additionally, the legislature voted to permit Maryland banks to participate in a phased-in reciprocal banking agreement with 15 Southeastern and mid-Atlantic states.

In health legislation, the General Assembly enacted seven healthcare cost-containment bills and approved a $21 million grant for a new shock-trauma center in Baltimore.

The legislature rejected a bill to end contested elections for Circuit Court judges.

Among bills passed to benefit children was one allowing abused children to testify on closed-circuit TV. The legislature increased foster-care subsidies by 20 percent and added 500 subsidized daycare slots for poor children. However, a bill requiring criminal-record check for childcare workers and teachers was rejected.

Disappointments Noted

Even though the legislators

Certain Bulk Items Again Accepted At Round Glade's New Rubble Fill

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners announced Tuesday that bulk items are now being accepted at the Round Glade Landfill since the State Department of Mental Health and Hygiene granted permission to develop a rubble fill.

"The rubble fill is now ready for use due largely to the efforts and planning of Alan Lewis, assistant administrator of the Garrett County Roads Department", said Commissioner Ernest Gregg Jr.

The commissioners all agreed that resolving the dilemma at the landfill has been an arduous task compounded by state regulations that are often times conflicting.

Although the rubble fill was completed nearly 60 days ahead of schedule and some additional time has been bought for the existing landfill, the commissioners are still faced with the prospect of finding a new landfill site.

The temporary authorization to use the rubble fill is subject to a total of 22 conditions including soil specifications, pollution controls and classes of waste. The following waste materials are not acceptable at the site: controlled hazardous substances, liquid waste, sludges, industrial waste, commercial waste, domestic refuse, certain construction waste, septage or sewage scavenger waste, automobiles, tires, friable asbestos, pathological waste, drums or tanks, petroleum waste, spill clean up material and dead animals.

The commissioners said anyone with questions about bulk items being accepted at the rub-

Oakland Man Receives Four Years In Jail

A 26-year-old Oakland man has been sentenced to three years with the Maryland Department of Corrections by Chief Judge Fred Thayer for distribution of cocaine and to an additional one year term for distribution of marijuana.

Donald Ray Filsinger, who entered a plea of guilty to the charges in the Garrett County Circuit Court on February 7, is currently serving the sentence in the Garrett County Jail. The sentence was set to commence as of November 10, 1984.

The one-year jail term on the distribution of marijuana charge is to be served consecutively with the three year term.

In the first case, Filsinger had been charged with selling cocaine to a police officer on four separate occasions. In the second case, he was charged with one sale of marijuana to a police officer. The offenses occurred in 1983 and 1984.

Public defender John Toston represented Filsinger.

Dr. Tschechtelin Will Speak At GCC Exercises

Dr. James Tschechtelin, executive director of the Maryland State Board for Community Colleges, will address the Commencement Exercises at Garrett Community College on May 18 at the college's McHenry campus.

Prior to his appointment as executive director of the SBCC in 1983, Tschecthelin served as Director of Instructional Programming and Director of Planning and Research for that body.

He was awarded a doctorate of education from George Washington University in 1977. He received his master of arts degree in the field of human relations from Ohio University in 1967, following his graduation from the University of Kansas with a bachelor of arts degree in mathematics in 1965.

Tschechtelin has been employed in the education field for the past 15 years at a variety of educational institutions, including the University of Maryland, George Washington University, the National Public Services Research Institute, Harford Communtiy College, and the Human Resources Research Organization.

BUSYBODY, a comedy mystery by Jack Popplewell, will be presented by the threatre arts class of Northern High School for the public on Friday, April 19, at 7:30 p.m. in the school cafetorium. Members of the cast include, left to right, seated, Miranda Hicks, Shari Broom, and Ralph Klotzbaugh. Standing, same order, are Richie McFetridge, LuAnn Hartley, Mark Robeson, and Brent Beachy. Not present for the photo was Michelle Clutter. Director of the production is Gerry Snelson.

AN APRIL SCENE? — Most of us thought the days of plowing snow and skidding automobiles were behind us, however Old Man Winter gave us still another blast early this week, forcing a delay in school on Tuesday and causing state and county crews to remove their plows once again from summer storage. Keysers Ridge reported eight inches of snow in the storm, which began on Monday and continued throughout most of Tuesday. Although the official low as recorded by the weather station at Webers was three degrees above zero, a number of area thermometers dropped to two below zero. In fact, the lowest temperature in the nation that day was allegedly in Elkins, W.Va., at three degrees. Tuesday morning's official reading was 77 degrees lower than Friday's record high of 80. The above scene was along U. S. Rt. 219, south of Oakland. Photos by Craig Phillips

Youth Employment Effort With Targeted Jobs Tax Credit Underway

The local offices of the Western Maryland Consortium (JTPA Office), the Garrett County Board of Education (Youth Employability Office), and the Department of Employment and Training (DET-Job Service), announce they are joining forces to help disadvantaged youth find jobs with Garrett County employers through the Targeted Jobs Tax Credit Program.

Spokesman for these agencies said they are hoping to match disadvantaged youth and employers for a mutual benefit. The youth will earn money and receive work experience, and the employer will help the youth receive a tax credit for participating.

An employer who hires a 16 or 17-year-old disadvantaged youth will receive an 85% tax credit for the first 90 days of employment between May 1, 1985 and September 15, 1985. The maximum tax credit for each youth hired is $2,550.

For the employer who hires disadvantaged youths ages 18 to 24, a tax credit of 50% of the wage for the first year and 25% of the wage for the second year is available. The credit is limited to the first $6,000 of annual earnings.

Youths and parents are advised to pick up information about the Targeted Job Tax Credit at the Western Maryland Consortium Office, the Job Service Office, and the guidance offices of Northern and Southern high schools. Forms for the tax credit will be available at the Ruth Enlow Library and at all the branch offices of the library.

Garrett County employers are urged by the agencies to hire disadvantaged youths this summer, and if additional information is needed, they may call the local Job Service Office at 334-3972.

Commissioners Meet With Loch Lynn Officials

The Garrett County Commissioners were present at the April 1 Loch Lynn Town Council meeting and spoke about a tax differential, according to Town Clerk Virginia Eichorn.

The board of commissioners have met with the mayors and town councils of six municipalities in the county so far, Loch Lynn being the most recent. The municipalities are required by law to take a position to seek or not to seek a tax differential.

Of the six town council meetings held with the commissioners so far, none, including Loch Lynn, have indicated that they would seek a tax differential. The commissioners also discussed important county matters and received public input from the mayor and council of Loch Lynn.

Other business discussed at the April 1 meeting included needed street work. Plans are being made to have potholes repaired and clean culverts which have become clogged from the winter's accumulation of dirt and debris.

GCC Participating In Sponsorship Of Symposium

The business department at Garrett Community College will join four other colleges in sponsoring a management symposium April 24 on the campus of Frostburg State College.

Entitled "Tomorrow-mindedness in our Economic Society," the symposium will present topics for anyone having or who will have responsibility for utilization of company resources.

According to Dr. D. James Day, a coordinator of the symposium at Frostburg State College, "tomorrow-mindedness" must be instilled in the mind of the public. "It must be popular to talk about tomorrow, in terms of the changing investment community, women in business, liberal arts and business, and the ingredients of good management," Day said.

"The management symposium will be informative for administrators, managers, professionals and tomorrow's knowledge workers. I hope that business people from Allegany and neighboring counties will have the chance to join us for this symposium," he added.

Allegany Community College, Hagerstown Junior College, Frederick Community College and Frostburg State College are the other sponsors of the event.

The one-day symposium will include the following topics and professionals—"The Changing Role in the Investment Community," by Larry Boggs of Butcher and Singer; "Women in Business for Tomorrow," by Rasalie Tydings of Allied Sales Corporation; "Liberal Arts for Tomorrow's Managers," by Thomas Dwyer of Hagerstown Junior College; and "The Ingredients of Good Management for Tomorrwo." by Charles Collis, president of Fairchild Industries Foundation.

In addition, Joe Batten, chairman of the Board of Batten, Batten, Hudson and Swab, Inc., Des Moines, Iowa, a 27-year-old human resource firm engaged in creative management research, consulting, film production and educational services will be the keynote luncheon speaker. Mr. Batten will speak on "Building Excellence in Management."

Day said registration for the management symposium is open to the public, and the five colleges sponsoring this event are promoting enrollment throughout western Maryland and the region.

For further information and/or to register for the management symposium, please contact D. James Day at 689-4189 or 689-4297.

Women's Refuge Support Group Now Forming

Women's Refuge Inc. is planning a support group for victims of rape and sexual assault. Evening sessions with limited openings will soon be available in the Cumberland area.

Studies show that out of every 1,000 reported rapes, only 133 convictions are made.

According to a spokesman from Women's Refuge, most people who are victims of such assaults are led to ask, "Why Me?" Many victims are in a temporary state of helplessness and emotional regression.

"The victim's personality, family structure and previous problems will all influence her reactions in various ways. This depends on the survivor's personality, the support and assistance she receives and the degree of brutality of the assault. Some of these reactions can become permanently disabling in varying degrees if not properly attended to," said the spokesman.

Additional information about the rape and sexual assault support group may be obtained by calling 334-9701 or 759-9244. All calls are kept confidential.

Michael Whitmer Achieves Rank Of Eagle Scout

Michael P. Whitmer is the latest area youth to achieve the rank of Eagle Scout as announced recently by the national office of the Boy Scouts of America. The son of Albert and Shirley Whitmer of the Oak-Park area of Oakland, Mike is a member of Troop 31 and a senior at Southern High School.

As part of his efforts to achieve scouting's highest honor, Whitmer organized and carried out a major service project involving the clean-up and repair of the playground at the Oakland Center of Garrett Community College. The project, already involving over forty hours of work and numerous volunteers, will be completed this spring as weather permits.

In addition to the project, Mike was required to earn over 21 individual awards for proficiency in subjects such as citizenship, camping, and first aid. During his six years with Troop 31, he has served as Senior Patrol Leader for the troop, as a Vice Chief for the Order of the Arrow Lodge, and on the staff of the Potomac Council's scout camp.

Presentation of the Eagle Scout Award has been scheduled for May 5.

ON THE HUNT for lots of Easter eggs Saturday morning were numerous Friendsville youth who participated in an egg hunt sponsored by the Friendsville Head Start program. Although the weather was not the greatest for such an activity, the children were undaunted in their efforts. Below, although his basket does not overfloweth, this youngster seems delighted that he has found at least one of the colorful ovals under an evergreen tree.

Brown Receives Jail Term From District Court Judge

Garrett County District Court Judge Jack Turney on April 3 sentenced a 22-year-old Oakland-Sang Run Road man to one year in jail for his part in the December 23, 1984 theft at Manor Builders, Mountain Lake Park.

Sincle Allen Brown received a $50 fine and an order from Judge Turney to pay $83.33 in restitution to the business.

The judge suspended nine months of Brown's sentence and awarded him 68 days for time awaiting trial. The judge also placed Brown on two years of supervised probation.

Brown was convicted on a theft charge in the District Court on February 13 for the Manor Builders theft in which $3,389.03 in guns and other weapons were stolen. Most items have been recovered.

Brown's attorney was Thomas Dabney, Oakland.

The judge granted probation before judgment for John Maule, 50, Crellin Underwood Road, who was charged with trespassing and disorderly conduct by Gladys Pifer, Oakland.

Maule received $40 in fines and six months of unsupervised probation in the case which stemmed from a February 15 incident.

Attorney for Maule was Daun Weiers, Oakland.

The judge dismissed cases against three persons charged with possession of marijuana because their right to a speedy trial was violated because lab analysis on the evidence had not been completed.

The three, charged by Garrett County Deputy Charles Nolan, were James William Butler, 22, Terra Alta, W. Va., Edward W. Myers, 21, Thornton, W. Va., and Mark Kendall Corby, 28, Oakland.

According to court documents, police observed the three at Porky's Place, near Deep Creek Lake, on January 4 allegedly smoking a joint of marijuana.

Michael Morrissette, an Oakland attorney, represented Butler and Myers, while John Toston, public defender, represented Corby.

A theft charge against Anita Gail Strobel, 45, Oakland, was not prosecuted by the state because a charge of felony theft is to be brought against her. Strobel was charged with the December 21, 1984, theft from the William Whitmer residence.

Strobel's attorney was public defender John Toston.

Charges of negligent driving and speed greater than reasonable against Sandra Dillsworth, Oakland, were not prosecuted because complainant Eric Sanders failed to appear for the hearing.

Cases placed on the stet docket included: three bad check charges against Nora McCauley, 25, Mountain Lake Park, filed by Susan Livengood, vice president of Ralph's Richfood, and a charge of unlawful use of the telephone filed against Patricia Darlene Armstrong, 29, Kitzmiller, by Richard B. Orr, Oakland.

In a court case on April 4, Judge Turney granted a motion to revise a sentence on a theft charge for Gerald D. Frazee, Jr., 18, Friendsville. Frazee had been sentenced to three years in jail, with 189 days credit, to be served consecutively to an 18-month sentence Frazee was serving on a previous battery charge.

The judge agreed to reduce the three-year sentence to an 18-month sentence because a sister of Frazee's was willing to provide him a home upon completion of his sentence.

Liquor Control Board Negates License Request

The Garrett County Liquor Control Board did not approve a liquor license for Mrs. Edith B. Nicklosis of Oakland. Nicklosis wished to open an establishment called "The Back Door" in the rear of the property formerly known as Jan Florists on Alder Street in Oakland.

According to Joseph Wolf, administrative officer for the liquor board, the license was negated because the town of Oakland's zoning laws do not permit such an establishment within the town limits. He explained that the liquor board cannot issue any license against zoning laws, either municipal or county.

Michael R. Morrissette, attorney for Nicklosis, has filed an appeal to the circuit court. No date for a hearing has been set yet.

According to Wolf, the board recently approved the transfer of three different special class D licenses. The first was to transfer Resh's Sportmans Bar, Inc. on Main St. in Grantsville, to William Davis and Robert Yutzy, who will use the trade name of "Billy Bob's."

Fannie H. Johnson, the personal representative of the estate of H. Ward Hinebaugh of Ward's Package Liquors on Second St. in Oakland, received a license transfer to Fannie H. Johnson as an individual.

A lincese has been transferred from Midway Discount Liquors of East Oak Street in Oakland, R. W. J., Inc., to Midway Discount Beverages, Inc. with Roger L. Ruff, president.

Wolf stated that license renewals have all been mailed out and must be returned by May 15 for the new year. "There are 84 liquor licenses issued in Garrett County at the present time," said Wolf.

Real Estate

Deep Creek Realty

TIMING IS EVERYTHING

"Timing is Everything". Whoever said it couldn't have been more on target . . . especially when it comes to buying or selling real estate.

The late seventies and early eighties were tough years for most segments of the economy. The primary reason was high interest rates. As the cost of borrowing increased, the number of real estate buyers decreased. The window was closed on many who wanted to buy (or sell) real estate.

The last few years have shown improvement. The window opened and we all hope it will remain open. However, some economists are concerned that if the huge federal deficit is not reduced, the amount of money Washington will be forced to borrow will cause interest rates to rise again. At what point the window would close again (if ever) is a matter of speculation. Experts agree, however, that now is a favorable time to buy or sell real estate. Can you buy or sell when rates are higher? Sure you can, but it's less complicated and less expensive to do it now.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone one of our offices.

Tough, But Working . . .

A public hearing was held last night at Garrett Community College by Board of Education supervisory personnel concerning the newly established discipline policy for middle and high school students in the county. The policy has been in effect since the beginning of this school year and, after a final review by the Board of Education, is expected to be made permanent.

The attendance at the meeting was sparse, although there were at least two parents there who registered strong complaints against the policy, claiming that it was too harsh and inflexible. Their children were among those who had been, or were on the verge of being, expelled for misbehavior.

There is no question that the policy is a tough one. Activities such as fighting and the use of tobacco and alcohol now bring serious consequences for guilty students. The days of repeated warnings and numerous suspensions, with expulsion as a last resort, are gone.

Although there may be some items in the policy that need minor revision, we strongly support the forcefulness of it and the concept which led to its formation.

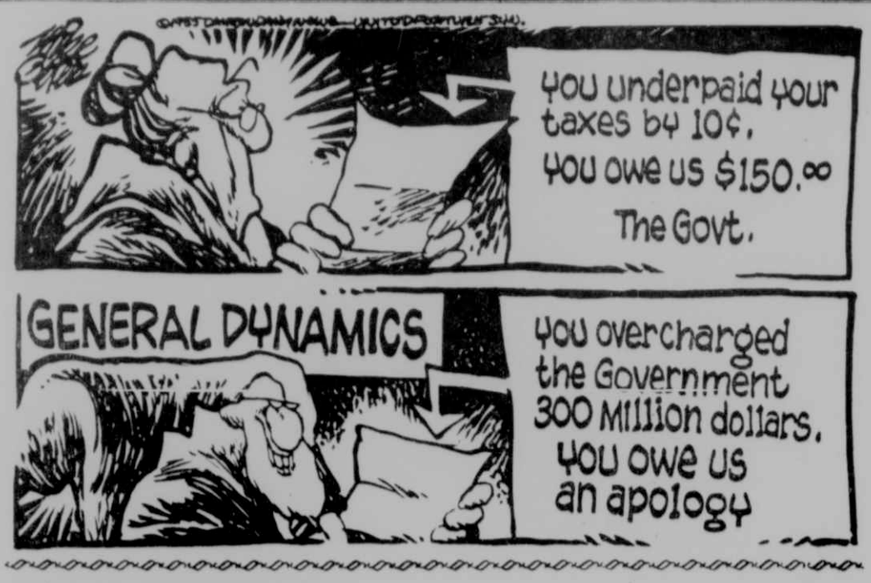

Although every youngster in this country is guaranteed by law a free education, if he or she decides not to obey the rules for proper behavior, then that right is forfeited. Teachers and educators cannot be expected to carry out the responsibilities of parents who have failed in one or more aspects of parenting. Their primary responsibility is to teach the subject matter at hand, not to rear children. Also, misbehavior by one student often infringes on the rights of other students.

The school system does provide counseling, and for the most part good counseling, to students who are having emotional and/or behavioral problems. However, not only are counselors faced with a child whose deviant behavior patterns are ingrained, but whatever headway they may achieve is often destroyed over a weekend when the student goes home to the same environment that created the problems in the first place. Too many parents, who have themselves lost control of their child's situation and behavior, blame the school system for the problem. They complain, but rarely do they go to the school and attempt to become a part of the counseling effort.

Two weeks ago, parent conference night was held in the schools. Many teachers who have some of the students with severe problems had not a single parent conference. The parents simply didn't show up.

The statistics are also there to back up this new Garrett County policy. Incidents of misbehavior are down drastically from last year in both county middle schools and in the high schools. For example, at Southern Middle School last year at this time there had been nearly 180 fights among students. So far this year there have been 60.

The students know the rules, and they know what the consequences will be if they break those rules. Teachers and principals do them no favors if they let them off the hook repeatedly for misbehavior. Once they are out of school, by graduation or otherwise, they quickly learn that in all other aspects of life, they must face certain consequences for their behavior.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

The Bittinger community has an annual Easter Sunrise Service at the Bittinger Fire Department, followed by breakfast. This year, as before, we were having our early morning service and were near the completion of the worship service, when at about 7:00 a.m. something unusual took place. The fire alarm echoed out the call for the volunteer firemen to respond to a fire.

Out of the congregation of over 100 persons, about a dozen men were up and into the fire trucks before I was sure what was taking place. Their response in their Sunday suits and without breakfast says something to me of the dedication to our community and to other similar communities of our county.

Perhaps because of the fact that it was Easter Sunday morning when as an inter-denominational group we were celebrating life, that they put faith into shoe leather and sought to respond to the needs of persons, that it made such an impression upon me and others in the congregation. Certainly our Christian faith teaches us that, although we cannot earn salvation by good works, we will do good works because of our faith.

Hats off to the men of the Bittinger Volunteer Fire Department and to many other similar units who are ready to respond when the calls come. Your dedication is appreciated.

Sincerely,
Kenneth Zehr, Pastor
Glade Mennonite Church

To the Editor:

There is a sign at McHenry which reads Maryland's Best Kept Secret - Deep Creek Lake. Now I wonder if it should have been worded that way after I saw Portrait of America on television the other day, which featured the state of Maryland.

Hosted by Hal Holbrook, the program began with films of the Eastern Shore and then worked its way west, including an interview with Senator John Bambacus at Hagerstown. There were also some aerial photos of Cumberland and Luke. The interviewers got as far as Grantsville, where they conversed with some Yoder ladies, but that is as far west as they made it. There was no mention of Deep Creek Lake, Maryland's Best Kept Secret.

I would think that our coal industry here, perhaps the Wisp Ski Area, and certainly Deep Creek Lake would have been at least mentioned.

Well, that's the way it always goes. Garrett was once again left out in the cold. Better luck next time maybe.

Sincerely,
Melvin L. Callis

To the Editor:

In answer to your letter from Karen Spiker in the April 4th issue, (she was appalled by the Garrett County Board of Education and their policy for being absent from school), I was appalled by her negative attitude. She should have checked her source of information more closely.

If Ms. Spiker has school age children she would have received in the fall of '84, a booklet from the Board of Education spelling out clearly the school rules. If the parent reads the booklet, (which was the purpose—to let the rules be known) both parents and students would realize the Board of Education has bent over backwards for the students to give them every possible way of being excused legally from school. This is their freedom Ms. Spiker claims they are deprived.

The students have ten (10) code "08" for extra-curricular activities, co-curricular activities and field trips. They receive 5 code "20" for vacation if their parents go to Florida or the Bahamas or whatever. They are also given 3 code "21"; this includes deer hunting and many more privileges—not needing "little white lies" to cover for them. The student is allowed to make up school work missed, (if they desire. Some do not care). I do not call this being narrow-minded. The state requires that students must have 132 hours in order to receive credit for a year course.

Miss Kepple is president of Southern High School Student Council and should know these rules. One student is not any better than another. They all must make a choice. Which priority comes first?

When you work for the public you do not receive so much free time from your job. If you requested all of this time off for your privileges you would soon be among the unemployed.

Rules are set up to teach children the right way and the wrong way. These same children are going to be our future leaders. Let them learn now that life is not always a "bowl of cherries."

Sincerely,
Parent and Teacher's Aide

Grantsville Youth Is "Stable" After Saturday Mishap

A Grantsville youth remains in "stable" condition at Memorial Hospital in Cumberland after being involved in a two-vehicle accident Saturday night, according to a hospital spokesman.

Gregory T. Diehl, 16, Grantsville, was injured when the vehicle he was operating was struck head on by a pickup operated by George P. Gross III, 35, McHenry.

Diehl was reportedly southbound on U.S. Route 219 near McHenry when he saw the Gross vehicle, which was traveling north on U.S. Route 219, cross the center line. Diehl attempted to elude the pickup by entering the southbound lane when the pickup veered back into the southbound lane resulting in the collision.

Mark C. Diehl, 22, a passenger in the Diehl vehicle was also injured in the 8:50 p.m. mishap and was transported to Memorial Hospital but has since been released.

Tfc. R.J. Resh of the Maryland State Police investigated the accident and charged Gross with driving while under the influence of alcohol and negligent driving.

Garrett County Emergency Management dispatched the Southern Rescue Squad and the Medevac helicopter to the scene.

Another Saturday evening accident sent two persons to Memorial Hospital where they were treated and released.

The 9:45 mishap occurred when the 1985 Mazda, operated by Thomas L. Layhue, 26, North Huntingdon, Pa., skidded across Route 40 near Grantsville, struck an embankment and overturned.

Passengers in the Layhue vehicle were Tina Verba, 19, Portview, Pa. and Leroy DiLuca, Elizabeth, Pa.

Tfc. G.R. Chaney investigated the mishap and charged Layhue with driving while under the influence of alcohol.

Northern Rescue Squad transported the injured.

A Corinth, W. Va. man was charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol, negligent driving, driving an uninsured vehicle, driving an unregistered vehicle and displaying improper registration last Thursday morning.

Clinton Andrew Friend, 70, was charged after the 1975 Cadillac he was operating struck a parked vehicle at the Farmers' Market parking lot in Oakland belonging to Carolyn S. Ball, St. George, W. Va.

Tfc. D.G. Riggleman investigated the 10:10 a.m. mishap.

Two persons were transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital Thursday evening by the Southern Rescue Squad following a three-wheeler accident. The driver of the vehicle was treated and released. The passenger was treated and later transferred to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland where she is being treated for back injuries.

Steven W. Lichty, 24, Oakland, the driver of the three-wheeler, and a passenger, Karen E. Beitzel, 15, Bittinger, were traveling in an isolated area south of Route 50 near Table Rock Road when the accident occurred.

Lichty reportedly attempted to climb a steep grade with the vehicle when it stopped and rolled over backwards.

Tfc. R.J. Resh investigated and charged Lichty with negligent driving.

Session Hailed

were pleased with the outcome of this session, there were a few disappointments.

Sen. Bambacus said he was disappointed with the final version of the bill providing financial aid to fire and rescue companies. In a conference committee, composed of Senate and House members, lawmakers embraced the Senate version which included paid companies as recipients of the $4.2 million in aid. The Senate version proposed the money to be disbursed to the municipalities while the House version of the bill called for the money to be given to the counties.

Another disappointment was the rejection of a $1 million bond bill for repairs to the Piney Mountain Reservoir which would have increased the amount of water supply for Frostburg and would have provided one million gallons per day to eastern Garrett County residents.

Bambacus noted that the bill proposal survived all budget cuts except the last in a conference committee. He plans to prefile the bond bill for the 1986 session.

Some of the bills proposed by Del. Edwards which received unfavorable reports still made a mark in state government. Edwards noted that some of the ideas in his bills were incorporated into other bills, such as his bill to permit an individual to qualify for a private detective license without having attended the state police academy. Edwards said provisions in this bill were amended into a Senate bill.

Edwards' bill to establish an advisory Commission on Energy Matters in the Department of Natural Resources received an unfavorable report because department officials said they could establish such a committee without legislation. The officials indicated they will establish the committee.

Edwards noted the legislators intended to enact the bill in a subsequent session if DNR does not establish the committee.

One bill which did not pass the Senate, primarily because the legislators ran out of time in this session, was Edwards' proposal to alter maximum gross weight limitation for a vehicle with four or more axles.

Edwards said that one major accomplishment was that the bill did pass the House, a feat not repeated in previous sessions. Edwards plans to introduce the bill next year in hopes it will pass both houses. It has passed the Senate in past years.

Governor Signs Bills

Among the 100 bills signed by Gov. Harry Hughes Tuesday, was Del. Edwards' proposal allowing a personal property tax exemption on leased farming implements. Two more bill-signing sessions have been scheduled for May 21 and May 28.

Legislators are uncertain but hopeful Hughes will sign one of two bills enacted by the legislature which repeals a ban on steepslope strip mining. Del. Edwards noted that Hughes said the bill was a good candidate for a veto before legislators amended the bill to provide certain environmental safeguards.

Three Area Men Charged With Theft, B And E

Three area men were arrested Saturday as the result of an investigation conducted by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department and the Oakland City Police.

Ronald Samuel Friend, 20, Oakland; Michael Allen Crosby, 19, Deer Park; and Gary Fay Fazenbaker, 19 Swanton, were arrested in connection with the breaking and entering and theft at the Garrett County Community Action building which occurred on the night of October 26, 1984.

All the typewriters and nearly all of the computers that had been stolen have been recovered by police. The total value of the stolen property exceeded $3,000.

Friend and Fazenbaker have been released from the Garrett County Jail in lieu of $2,500 each. Crosby is still being held in the jail on $2,500.

Chief John Sines of the Oakland City Police and Deputy Richard Kutchman of the Garrett County Sheriff's Department said certain information about the theft was received through Crime Solvers.

athlete with good basketball skills."

Hillen netted 1,812 points in her high school career, surpassing Steve Liller's school record during her junior year. She averaged 23 points per game this season and led the team with 5.8 steals and 3.7 assists per contest. The 5-7 guard hit 48 percent from the floor and 82 percent at the free throw line. In her junior year she averaged 28 points per game.

"Teams did a lot of things to try to stop her," stated Southern Coach Don Stemple. "But she seemed to come through in tough situations with 25 or 30 points when we needed her. I'm sure she will do well at West Virginia because she will work hard."

WVU, which went 20-11 this past season including a seventh place finish in the NIT, will be losing five players to graduation. They finished second in the Atlantic Ten Conference.

Hillen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Shockey, Oakland. She plans to major in physical education at WVU.

Beitzel stated that the commission won't move swiftly on that decision because one condition of the grant is that nothing can be done, as far as design work is concerned until the rehabilitation of the existing facilities is completed, which will stall the project until August or September.

The commissioners have arranged a meeting with the Secretary of Health and Mental Hygiene, Adele Wilzack, and Assistant Secretary for Environmental Programs, William Eichbaum, in Annapolis on April 17.

Commissioner Elwood Groves, II, said the purpose of the meeting is to discuss inconsistencies that the board has had to deal with concerning the landfill and the Southern Garrett County Industrial Park, as well as sewerage moratoriums on the county's municipalities.

"There has been a multitude of discrepancies and conflicting instructions from the State Department of Mental Health and Hygiene and it has been a major deterrent to economic development in our county," said Commissioner Gregg.

The commissioners will also be asking for financial assistance from the state for the development of a new landfill based on increased costs due to the state's excessive requirements at the landfill.

Our Turn

Answers To Parents' Questions
by Susan Alvarez

Question: Why don't Marlin Perkins and Jacques Cousteau ever have little kids along with them on their expeditions?

Answer: Because Marlin and Jacques both tried taking the kids on their first expeditions and found that the next morning the tackle boxes had been spread all over the campground, the two-week water supply had been poured out in a game of "let's make the ants a swimming pool," and they had been awakened at 2 a.m. by little faces leaning over them saying, "Is is time to go fishing yet?"

Question: What is the name, address and phone number of the person who first decided to put the candy counter next to the check-out counter in the grocery stores?

Answer: This person has decided to go into permanent hiding and remain anonymous, lest a single parent discover his whereabouts and report it to the angry mobs of parents and the American Dental Association.

Question: Why is it kids never argue about politics or religion, but they'll fight to the finish over who gets the blue cup and who gets the red one?

Answer: Unlike adults, who fight over trivial issues such as who will win the next election or who has the best religion, kids learn early to assert themselves over important issues, such as who will be the lucky one to drink from the blue cup or who gets the last Hostess Twinkie.

Question: How come the kid who absolutely, positively did not have to use the bathroom ten minutes ago at the highway rest stop suddenly "has to go" as soon as you get back on the highway?

Answer: This is a very common occurrence. It doesn't seem to matter if the trip is two hours long, or two days long, children simply prefer to wait and announce their intentions as soon as the car is back in motion. They get a feeling of power over their parents.

Question: How come the baby wakes crying in the last fifteen minutes of the last episode of a twelve-hour mini-series on television that you have faithfully been watching all week?

Answer: This is quite simple. You see, they heard you and your friends talking about how good the series is, and how you can't wait to see the ending, so they simply want to get up and watch it with you.

Contract Awards, Fee Structure Announced By County Commissioners

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners at a press conference Tuesday announced that they had acted on the recommendations of the Garrett County Roads Department and awarded contracts for stone, culvert pipe, fuel and liquid asphalt.

Those companies receiving contracts for crusher run were Browning's Deep Creek Quarry Inc., Keystone Lime Co., and Fairfax Stone Co. Receiving contracts for No. 7 stone were Gaylord-Fuel Stone Division, Keystone Lime Co., Browning's Deep Creek Quarry, and Fairfax Stone Co. For No. 4 stone, contracts were awarded to Keystone Lime Co., Browning's Deep Creek Quarry, and Fairfax Stone Co.

The commissioners awarded contracts to Appalachian Culvert for noncoated culvert pipe and to Republic Steel for coated culvert pipe.

Bruceton Farm Service Inc. was awarded contracts for regular and diesel fuel as well as for kerosene. Service Fuel Co. got the contract for unleaded fuel.

The contract for liquid asphalt was awarded to the Chevron Company.

Administrative Fee

Also Tuesday, the commissioners said they had approved the establishment of an administrative fee for evaluating road inspections.

County Clerk Robert Fousek said that county policy has been that when an individual requests consideration for a roadway to be taken into the county system, the roads department would provide the petitioner with an estimated cost to bring the road up to county standards. He said the administrative fee would help offset the time and labor involved in providing the service.

The commissioners set the fee structure at $25 per mile of roadway and that any increment over a mile would be considered a full mile.

Program Open Space

The commissioners announced that they are submitting a list of proposed projects for Program Open Space for Fiscal Year 1986 to William Krebbs, State Program Open Space director, for consideration. The county Open Space Program is directed by John Nelson.

Commissioner Ernest Gregg, Jr. said one problem Garrett County has with Program Open Space is that legislation mandates that 50% be used for land acquisition and 50% for development of the land. "Garrett County has reached and exceeded acquisition, based on population and acreage. We need to be released from that formula to use our share for development. It would be greatly beneficial for the county to use the money for development," he said.

Nelson said that Garrett County is the only county in the state that has already met its 50% acquisition.

Bloomington Dam

Also Tuesday, the commissioners said they have formally endorsed the efforts being made by the Tri-Towns Chamber of Commerce to have recreational facilities developed on the Maryland banks of Bloomington Lake and to provide convenient access to the lake for Maryland residents and visitors.

"The board recognizes that Bloomington Lake with its improved fisheries and natural scenic beauty is an important resource for the recreational industry," stated the letter of endorsement.

John Nelson is the Garrett County representative for the Tri-Towns Chamber of Commerce.

Grant Request

State's Attorney James Sherbin and Child Support Investigator Christina Pratt presented their grant request for submission to the State of Maryland for the Cooperative Reimbursement Program.

The program provides state funding for the operation and salaries of Cooperative Reimbursement.

The request for Fiscal Year 1985-86, based on the figures presented by Sherbin and Pratt, could mean a net gain of approximately $6,000 for the county.

Citicorp

With full House and Senate approval and the governor's signature, Citicorp will now have full banking privileges in Maryland.

Citicorp has agreed to build and invest at least $25 million in a credit card processing center in Hagerstown and hire 1,000 new employees in return for being granted interstate banking privileges starting July 1, 1986.

The commissioners had voiced their disapproval of the bill to permit Citicop full banking privileges in Maryland because they felt it would hurt the county's local banks.

Commissioner Gregg said, "We took our stand and we hope the state knows what they're doing. We feel they sold the State of Maryland for the 1,000 jobs and that could prove to be a negative number in the total employment picture.

Appointment

The commissioners announced the reappointment of Joyce Bishoff to the Garrett County Planning Commission. Bishoff will now begin serving her second full five-year term.

Garrett County Planning Administrator Anna McNallie said she was happy about the reappointment of Bishoff because "she always thinks very carefully before making a decision."

Harold Hunter To Be Speaker For GOP Event

Speaker for the 1985 Lincoln Day dinner will be Harold V. Hunter, administrator of the Rural Electrification Administration of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, and a farmer--rancher-businessman from Oklahoma. The dinner is scheduled to begin at 6:30 p.m. Saturday, April 27, at the Grantsville Fire Hall, according to William E. Crawford, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee.

Hunter, who was nominated to his present position in 1981 by President Reagan, heads the agency that lends money and guarantees loans for rural electric and telephone facilities. He is responsible for a program which, during fiscal year 1983, loaned or guaranteed more than 4.7 billion to over 2,100 rural cooperatives and companies.

Before joining the Department of Agriculture, Hunter had served as Oklahoma state executive director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. His performance in this office was recognized when he received the first "Administrator's Award of Excellence" ever given to a state ASCS director.

Hunter has also had eight years of Congressional experience, having been elected to four consecutive terms as a Republican member of the House of Representatives. For two of these years he served as assistant minority leader of the House.

He owns and operates, along with his family, HVH Farms near Enid, Oklahoma, a 1,780 farm specializing in alfalfa, wheat, and polled Herefords. Hunter and his family have been named "Farm Family of the Year" for their contributions and service to agriculture and rural life.

Master of Ceremonies for the Lincoln Day dinner will be the Honorable Lewis Jones, former judge of District Court. Tickets for the dinner may be purchased from members of the Central Committee: Cora Bowser, Paul Frantz, Paul George, Wayne Wilt, and Crawford.

Rock And Roll Event Slated At Cuppett, Weeks

Some people jump rope, run miles, swim laps, or roller skate to raise money for charities. Nursing home residents, however, have developed a fund-raising style of their own.

The fourth annual Rock and Roll at Cuppett and Weeks Nursing Home, Oakland, will be held April 27 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. The event involves rocking in rocking chairs and rolling in wheelchairs by the residents of the home.

The national Rock and Roll effort originated in 1977 upon a suggestion by the American Health Care Association that nursing home residents raise money for health research and education. The first attempt netted $154,000 nationwide.

White elephant sales, bake sales, and other activities have been added to the activities.

The first year that residents of Cuppett and Weeks participated, they raised $900, which was donated to the American Heart Association. The second year, they raised $1,400 for the American Diabetes Association and the 1984 event netted $850 for the American Cancer Society. The proceeds from the 1985 Rock and Roll will be donated to the Alzheimer's Association. The goal is $1,000.

Persons interested in sponsoring a resident or volunteer may contact Sheila Hauser, activities director at Cuppett and Weeks, at 334-2319 between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

"In addition to the money raised for research, the Rock and Roll Jamboree also helps in other ways, such as bringing the nursing home and community together," Ms. Hauser said. "The staff becomes involved by sponsoring their favorite residents, families are thrilled to see mom and dad active, and the residents continue to see themselves as worthwhile individuals who can still make a significant contribution to society. Also, persons from outside the nursing home facility learn something about the positive side of life there."

Pat Gonder, assistant activities director, said, "We are doing something important, and that makes us all feel good inside."

GETTNG READY to rock and roll, in rocking chairs and wheel chairs, that is, are the residents of the Cuppett and Weeks Nursing Home, Oakland, as they prepare to participate in the fourth annual Rock and Roll Jamboree. The beneficiary of this fund-raising event this year is the Alzheimer's Association. The goal is $1,000 and is met as sponsors pledge money to residents of the home who then complete so many minutes or hours of rocking and rolling. In the photo above, left to right, seated, are residents Ida Stahl and Pat Gonder, chairpersons for the event. Standing, same order, are Sheila Hauser, activities director at Cuppett and Weeks, and Lisa Frazee, assistant activities director. Below, residents Casper Kean and Margaret Wilkins prepare to participate in the event.

To keep grafted veins from becoming obstructed after coronary bypass operations, doctors at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minnesota, are prescribing a combination dose of dypyridamole and aspirin. Regimen proved effective in a controlled test.

Stroke is followed by depreision in as many as 40 to 60 percent of patients. Psychiatrist and neurologist at Johns Hopkins School of Medicine recommends nortriptyline for post-stroke depression; most patients get almost complete relief.

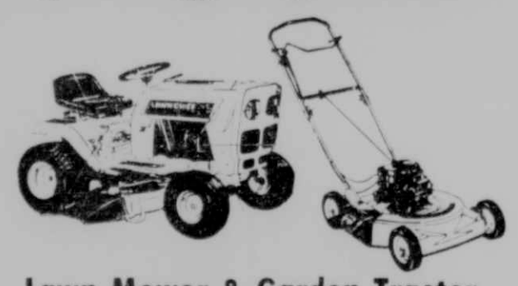

Now being tested: antihistamines that DON'T cause drowsiness. Terfenadine is expected to be approved soon by the FDA.

New regulations will extend to your debit card some of the same protection you have in regard to your credit cards. There are said to be about 6 million debit cards in circulation.

Unlike credit cards, the money you spend on a debit card is withdrawn immediately from your account. Most of these debit cards are used to withdraw cash from an automated teller machine; in addition, some stores are set up with computer terminals to utilize them.

In many cases, your liability for unauthorized use of the card is limited to $50 if you notify the company within two business days, $500 if you wait longer. The $50 limit is similar to that for credit cards.

Starting this week, there will be further protection. If you claim any amount was deducted in error, and the company is unable to clear up the problem within 20 days, they must provisionally credit your account for that amount. Disputes and errors must be resolved in 90 days.

Though liability limits for credit and debit cards are as low as $50, many people—especially those with multiple cards—choose to carry insurance to pay these charges.

For credit card insurance—for ALL your insurance needs—see the experts at

Lakers Split Doubleheader With Dundalk, To Face Rockville Today

The Garrett Community College Lakers split a doubleheader with Dundalk Community College in Baltimore Monday afternoon to put their season record at 10-4. Garrett dropped the first contest, 9-5, and won the nightcap, 6-3.

A solo home run by Benney Shreve in the first inning of the opener, his second of the season, put the Lakers on top 1-0. However, Dundalk answered with five runs on four hits off GCC starter Denzil Evans in the bottom of the first.

Garrett bounced back with two runs in the top of the second as Bob Scavina and Lynn Shook scored on RBI singles by Rick Harasti and Tim Pavlic.

Dundalk chased Evans in the third and fourth innings, scoring three more runs before Evans was relieved by Vaughn Yenich.

Marty Harvey led off the Lakers' fourth frame with a solo blast.

Dundalk picked up a final run in the fifth inning and Garrett closed its scoring in the sixth when Ted Sova plated Pavlic on a single.

Shreve and Sova led the Lakers' hitting with two apiece, as both teams finished with nine hits.

Bill Liller recorded his third win of the season in the nightcap as he went the distance and gave up only four hits. He struck out four batters.

Shreve, Pavlic, and Sova opened the game with singles for the Lakers, with Sova's hit scoring Pavlic, giving Garrett a 1-0 lead.

There was no further scoring until the top of the fifth when the Lakers added another run, which was answered by a solo shot by Dundalk's Willie Graham in the bottom of the fifth.

Kent Freeman and Harvey singled to lead off the sixth frame, followed by an RBI single by Ron Bosley, which scored Freeman.

The home team knotted the score at 3-3 in the bottom of the sixth.

Then in the seventh frame, Shreve led off with a single, Sova reached on a fielder's choice, and former Southern High standout Kevin Winters singled home Shreve for what would prove to be the winning run.

Sova and pinch runner Steve Coss then scored on Kent Freeman's two-run single to complete the scoring.

Leading the 11-hit Laker attack was Shreve with three. Pavlic and Freeman each finished with two hits.

"After three doubleheaders being rained out and going nine days since our last game, I was pleased to gain a split with Dundalk," stated Coach Lawrence Nesselrodt. "After playing 12 of our first 14 games on the road, I'm anxious to open our 14-game home stand."

The Lakers are slated to host Rockville today, CCAC Boyce on Saturday, and Beaver Community College on Sunday.

Leading the Laker hitting so far this season is Shreve with a .444 average. He also leads in hits with 24 and 19 runs scored. Sova follows with a .416 and 21 RBIs. Shook, Freeman, and Scavina all have .379 averages with 11 hits each. Pavlic and Jim Keller each hold .340 marks with 16 hits, while Brian Cueva checks in with a .319 average.

Liller leads the pitching staff with a 3-1 mark and a 1.95 ERA. Ed Frizzell is 2-0 with a 0.50 ERA, striking out 18 batters in 14 innings. Chris Huyett is also 2-0, while Evans, Luscko, and Yenich each have a victory.

Walleye Fishing Contest Slated, $1000 Top Prize

The Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council will sponsor a "$1,000 Walleye" Fishing Contest at Deep Creek Lake from April 15 through September 30, 1985, according to Cindy Kutchman, executive director.

All fishermen are invited to register their walleye at Deep Creek Outfitters or Johnny's Bait House at the lake during those 5½ months to be eligible for the contest.

Deep Creek Lake has become an increasingly popular lake for walleye fishing. According to Johnny Marple from Johnny's Bait House, "Within the next year, Deep Creek Lake will become the walleye capital of Maryland because of the number of walleye that are being caught. They're also reproducing extremely well."

He also reports that the walleye will start hitting well in mid-April when the water temperature reaches 50 degrees.

The average size being pulled from the lake is between 16 to 18 inches with the largest walleye reported this year at 25 inches in length.

The $1,000 prize will be awarded in October for the largest walleye caught during the contest period.

For more information on this fishing contest or any other event in Garrett County, persons may contact the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council, Courthouse, Oakland, Md. 21550; telephone (301) 334-3888.

Rabbit Season To Open Nov. 1

Avid rabbit hunters will have a shot at the season earlier this year, Del. George Edwards (R-Garrett, Allegany) reported Wednesday.

Several area hunters requested Edwards seek a change in the rabbit season to allow some hunting before heavy snowfalls. Previously, the season began on November 15 and extended to January 30 of the following year.

Edwards said the state Forest, Parks and Wildlife Service has agreed to begin rabbit hunting season on November 1, beginning this year, to allow hunters some time before heavy snows begin to fall. The new date will be effective in Garrett County only.

Phil Caruso brought to Garrett who was drafted by the major leagues. Mike Nagle was drafted by the Atlanta Braves after two years at Garrett. The other players drafted were Tim McLoughlin by the San Diego Padres and Ernie Young by the Baltimore Orioles.

"I'm plased that so many of my former players have done well in four-year schools. It was the philosophy of the program to be a success for life, not just a game. A prime example of this philosophy was my first shortstop, Lawrence Nesselrodt", stated former Laker Coach Phil Caruso. Nesselrodt is the current GCC Coach.

Health Education Series Being Planned For 1986

The following article, provided by the Garrett County Health Department and Garrett County Memorial Hospital, concerns a new health education series being planned for Garrett County.

"You, the individual, can do more for your own health and well-being than any other doctor, any hospital, any drug, any exotic medical device." These are the words of former U.S. Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, Joseph A. Califano.

Most people do not realize what current research shows; your lifestyle and behavior affect your chances of having cancer, heart disease, stroke and serious accidents. The choices you make every day, like smoking a cigarette or eating high cholesterol food, affect your resistance to diseases that cost you your health, your money, and your life.

To provide current information from health professionals, to screen for diseases, and to support the pursuit of a healthier lifestyle are the aims of a health education series being planned for 1986 by the Garrett County Memorial Hospital and the Garrett County Health Department.

Why is this important to you? Think of the questions that concern you most about your health. Are you pregnant and wondering if your diet is adequate? Are you middle-aged and hoping you can avoid osteoporosis? Are you overweight and wondering how much greater is your risk of heart disease? Do you want to know how to detect signs of cancer in your body?

The United States is finally leaving the era of battling infectious diseases because people have been taught how to detect them, people and animals have been immunized, and water and sewer systems have been improved. Now we can learn how to try to prevent the contemporary killers (cancer, stroke, heart disease and serious accidents), instead of just dreading the possibility that they could happen to us and then going down the costly road of treating them.

This does not mean that people now coping with these diseases are at fault for their illnesses, or that if you do all that the experts say you should, you will have some guarantee against becoming ill. It means that we now have the opportunity to learn how we can change the way we eat, work, drive and exercise to help ourselves feel better and be stronger against illness.

Health care writer, Jonas Morris ("Searching for a Cure: National Health Policy Considered"), urges that the same $2.6 million spent on publicity for the recent artificial heart transplant operation of William Schroeder be spent on spreading information on how people can change their lifestyles to preserve and improve their health.

"In a generation, we could have a much healthier society. With that, health care costs would drop as the demand for health care dropped. Let's abandon our fixation on living as long as absolutely possible and get on with the task of building a better and healthier life . . ."

You can help with the development of the new health education series being planned for Garrett County. Please complete the "Rate Your Health Concerns" questionnaire on this page and drop it by the Garrett County Health Department, 253 North Fourth Street, Oakland, Maryland 21550. You may also leave your survey in the special shoe box at your local pharmacy. Please have each member of your family respond to the questionnaire on additional sheets of paper. More copies of the questionnaire will be mailed to you upon request if you call Mikal Moomau at 334-2155 (Monday, Wednesday, or Friday) or Elizabeth Gilbert at 334-8111 (Monday through Friday).

Support of this project by all Garrett Countians will ensure a year's worth of monthly seminars in 1986 that aim to serve your special needs. If you will write your name and mailing address on the survey, a calendar will be sent for you to use. Then you will be able to plan your participation in screenings, lectures, cooking demonstrations, and support groups on topics like, "Reducing Your Risk of Cancer," and "Maintaining a Diet and Exercise Program for Your Family." Take the first important step to helping yourself and complete your questionnaire today.

MILLER HONORED — As part of an Arbor Day observance at Camp Hickory last week, Charley Miller, Friendsville, was honored by being named the recipient of the Maryland Tree Farmer of the Year Award. Presenting a plaque to Miller in the photo below is Jeffrey Bracken, a Westvaco forester, who is vice chairman of the Maryland Tree Farm Committee. Miller also received a chain saw. Another portion of the observance involved the presentation of tree seedlings to elementary school children in the county. Above, left to right, Amy Whitacre, Robie Elliott, Heather Lipscomb, and Barbie Nelson, all students at Kitzmiller Elementary School, receive their seedlings from Miller. Unfortunately, the rainy weather that day forced the ceremony indoors and delayed the traditional tree planting on Arbor Day.

Accident Town Council Sets Spring Clean-Up

Spring clean-up day, relocation of the American Legion memorial, the town park, and a new postal facility were all topics of the April 8 meeting of the Accident Mayor and Town Council.

Town Park

Restroom facilities in the Accident Community Park-West will open for the season on May 1. The park is located adjacent to Town View Village and the entrance is from Deakin Street. Reservations are being accepted for use of the pavilion, which could be used for family reunions, birthday celebrations, and group picnics, such as organizations, clubs, and churches. The pavilion contains tables for seating about 60 people. For reservations, telephone Marjorie Fratz, town clerk, at 826-8149.

The town is in the process of preparing an application to the state for phase II development of its parklands through Program Open Space funding. In connection with this application, the council met with Larry Brenneman, representing the Central Garrett Little League. They discussed design plans for a field layout on the former elementary school playground on South Street.

Relocation of Memorial

The council approved a request from the American Legion Post 208 to relocate the memorial from the old Accident Elementary School grounds to a suitable site at the Accident Community Park-West. The relocation of the monument, including the flag pole, is being coordinated with the town and the Community Action agency, the present owners of the old school property. With the town's recent acquisition and development of public parks, the members of the local post felt the relocation of the monument, along with some needed repairs, would be appropriate.

Water and Sewer Rates

The council reviewed the final draft of the water and sewer rate study. Following a careful analysis of the consultant's recommendations, a number of revisions were incorporated and the study was accepted. A new rate schedule will be established effective July 15. The date of the public information hearing to review the revised water and sewer rates will be announced later.

New Postal Facility

In connection with the construction of the new U. S. Post Office at the corner of Accident-Bittinger Road and South Street, an agreement granting a right-of-way to the Potomac Edison Company was executed.

Mayor Wayne Fratz reported that the water and sewer service connections to the new postal facility have been completed.

Town Maintenance

Certificates were received from the state for Vaughn W. Sweitzer granting a temporary certification as a class three wastewater treatment plant operator and class one water treatment plant operator for the town of Accident facilities. During the Monday night meeting, the council took action to convert Sweitzer's employment status from temporary to permanent. He was also commended for the outstanding manner in which he has performed the various duties of his job. Sweitzer has been employed by the town for over one year and is responsible for all general town maintenance as well as operation of the public water and wastewater systems. The Maryland Environmental Service provides supervision in the operation of the water and wastewater plants.

Spring Clean-Up Day

Friday, May 3, has been designated "Spring Clean-Up Day." Residents of the town are asked to gather debris and trash and place it along the street for pickup no later than 2 p.m. The usual household garbage will also be collected on this day. In case of rain on May 3, an alternate date of May 10 was set.

Richter Couple Celebrates 50th

A surprise 50th wedding anniversary was celebrated Sunday, March 31, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Albert F. Richter at their home in the Cove. A covered dish dinner was served followed by cake and ice cream.

Those attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hart, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Richter, Miss Andrea Houyouse, Mrs. Debbie Mohn, Mrs. Gene Mohn, all of Minerva, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Oester and family, Grantsville; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Richter, Middletown; Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Richter and sons, Deer Park; and Mr. and Mrs. Roger Lewis and son, Oakland.

Something To Think About

R. Mark Durst DIRECTOR

SHOULD CHILD ATTEND THE FUNERAL?

The funeral is a sad, but important event in the life of the family. Generally speaking, there is little justification for not permitting a child to participate. It allows him to express his own love and devotion. Keeping him away may damage his sense of belonging and deprive him of the opportunity to share his emotions.

On the other hand, the child should never be forced to attend the funeral—no matter how therapeutic one thinks it might be. At the same time, try not to make him feel any shame or guilt for wanting to stay home. Instead, you might suggest that sometime later, when he feels like it, you could visit the cemetery together.

If the child is to attend, then it is important that you explain the details of the funeral service in advance. Being well-prepared and understanding what is going on will do much to relieve unnecessary distress.

In Memory of Arthur Devine
Who Passed Away April 9, 1983

We do not think of our loved one as dead. For death is only a stepping stone to a beautiful life we have never known. A place where God promised man he would be eternally happy and safe and free. A wonderful land where we live anew when our journey on earth is over and through. For when death's angel comes to call, God is so great and we're so small. And there is nothing to fear for faith in God makes all things clear.

We love and miss you

Cystic Fibrosis Walkathon Set In Grantsville

Grantsville will host a "Walk For Breath" on April 27 to benefit children with Cystic fibrosis, according to Marian Borch, chairman for the event.

"Cystic fibrosis is the number one inherited killer of children in this country," Mrs. Borch said. "The disease occurs when a child receives a cystic fibrosis gene from each parent. Generally these parents don't know they are carriers unless they have already had a child with cystic fibrosis. Each time two carriers have a child there is a 25% chance the child will have CF, a 50% chance their child will be a carrier and a 25% chance their child will neither carry the gene or have the disease. Because carriers are symptomless and because of the odds, many times cystic fibrosis is carried through generations of unsuspecting families before it surfaces in a child."

The money raised in the "Walk For Breath" will pay for research to find a cure for this disease.

"The Walk For Breath will involve participants of all ages who acquire sponsors for the number of kilometers that they walk over a prescribed course", said Mrs. Borch. "It's both fun for the participants, and a way to raise money for research into cystic fibrosis."

The "Walk For Breath" is scheduled to be held starting from St. Ann's Church located on the corner of Old U.S. Rt. 40 and New Germany Road. It will begin at 9 a.m. Refreshments will be provided and all participants will receive prizes from local merchants. Three local winners will get a free dinner at Penn Alps, a gift certificate from Flowers and Things, or a gift certificate from Sport-About Unlimited which is reopening in the old school building on Main Street. In addition, T-shirts will be given to every participant who turns in at least $30.00 and sun visors will be given to those turning in at least $75.00. Back-packs will be awarded to those raising $150 or more.

Sponsor sheets are available now at Beachy's Pharmacy or by calling Mrs. Borch at 895-3291.

Kendra Martin To Be Contestant In State Pageant

Kendra Beth Martin, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth R. Martin, Thurmont, has been selected to compete in the Maryland Miss T.E.E.N. Pageant to be held at the Ocean City Convention Hall, Ocean City, April 12-14.

This pageant is the official statewide finals for the Miss T.E.E.N. National Pageant to be held in December of 1985.

The Maryland Miss T.E.E.N. will receive a $1,000 cash scholarship, self-improvement scholarship to Barbizon School of Modeling and an expense paid trip to represent the state of Maryland at the National Pageant in Albuquerque, New Mexico.

Contestants will be judged on scholastic achievement, volunteer service achievement, appearance, poise, personality, personal interview, speech or talent and formal presentation.

Miss Martin is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth R. Martin, Mountain Lake Park, and of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard B. Wilson, Smithfield, Pa.

Among those sponsoring Miss Martin are Urner & Helfenstein Insurance and Roy Rogers of Frederick.

Miss Martin attends Gov. Thomas Johnson Sr. High School, Frederick, where she is vice-president of her freshman class, a member of Youth and Government and swims on the high school swim team. She is a member of the Trinity United Methodist Church, Frederick, where she is a member of the youth choir, youth fellowship and coordinator of the acolyte program. She is also a member of the Monocacy Aquatic Club swim team in Frederick.

SHS Students Win Mock Trial Competition

A team of Southern High School students earned a seat in the regional meet in the Maryland Mock Trial Competition by defeating Allegany High School last night in the Allegany Circuit Court.

The team won a suppression of evidence case heard before Judge Frederick Sharer in which the students argued as the defense.

The team was the victor in a similar case against Fort Hill High School when it argued on the side of the complainant before Garrett County District Court Judge Jack Turney.

By winning two trials, the team has earned the right to compete in the regional competitions which are held in Frederick and which begin April 17. The team that wins the regional competition goes to the state and the winner there goes on to a national competition.

The students, all juniors, on the team are: Kim Simpson, Lorie Damon, Erica Carlson, Jim Bartholomew, Jim Comfort, Daina Savage, Susan Fedde and Betsy Thayer.

Coaches for the team are teachers Louis Newcomb and Shirley Spiker. Team coordinator is teacher Bob Boal.

Northern High Theatre Class To Present Play

Northern High School's production of Jack Popplewell's "Busy Body" will be presented April 18 and 19 beginning at 9 a.m. for the students and faculty of Northern and April 19 at 7:30 p.m. for the public. The presentation is a result of efforts by the threatre arts class.

The play centers around a murder which takes place in the Marshall Developments Limited offices. The staff members of the office are considered prime suspects, each of whom have motives for committing the crime.

There is Marian Selby, the prim and proper secretary who is in love with her employer, Mr. Marshall. Marshall is a man who lets nothing stand in the way of his business and is hated by everyone. Claire, his elegant wife, escapes from her troubled marriage in the company of her secret lover, who eventually becomes the focal point of everyone's attention.

Employed by Marshall is Robert Westerby, a handsome and cultured accountant who charms the ladies, particularly Vicki Reynolds, who constantly has her mind on the opposite sex and spends her leisure time as a typist.

Mrs. Piper, a cleaning lady, insists upon playing detective, gathering evidence and hiding suspects, much to the consternation of her old acquaintance, Superintendent Harry Baxter. The superintendent would prefer to forget their "early days" and solve the murder single-handedly. He is helped by Detective Jeremy Goddard, whose attention quickly shifts from the murder case to the beauty and wit of young Vicki.

Characters and respective cast members are as follows: Mrs. Piper, LuAnn Hartley; Richard Marshall, Brent Beachy; Detective Goddard, Richie McFetridge; Baxter, Mark Robeson; Claire Marshall, Shari Broom; Marian Selby, Michele Clutter; Robert Westerby, Ralph Klotzbaugh; and Vicki Reynolds, Miranda Hicks.

Others involved with the production are: Gerry Snelson, director; Autumn Frazee, stage manager; Melody Taylor and Renee Cowan, make-up and props; Steve Williams and Chris Garlitz, set and technical work; Angie Bender and Stacey Rodeheaver, publicity.

First Female Trooper Assigned To Garrett County

Garrett County now has its first female trooper, according to the Maryland State Police, McHenry Detachment.

Tfc. Cynthia R. Smith, 26, has been transferred to the county as an assigned road trooper.

A native of Montgomery County, Smith is a June 1982 graduate of the State Police Academy in Pikesville. She was promoted to the rank of trooper first class in January.

Garrett County is Smith's fourth assignment since entering the state police. She has been assigned to Forestville in Prince George's County for five months; Frederick, 18 months; and Hagerstown until her appointment in the county two weeks ago.

Smith said she was happy to be assigned to Garrett County since she lives in the Grantsville area where she owns property. Her mother, Helen Hirich, also resides in Garrett County.

Tfc. C.C. Thomas Jr. who had been assigned to the county has been transferred to LaVale.

Correction Noted

In last week's issue of The Republican in a story concerning a Garrett County history course to be offered by Garrett Community College, it was reported incorrectly that the tuition for the class would be $24. It should have stated that the tuition for the course was $24 per credit hour. Because it is a two-hour course, tuition will be $48 rather than $24.

Persons desiring more information may contact the Extended Learning Office of the college at 387-6666.

County Jurors Convict Bandola In Traffic Case

A Garrett County jury has convicted a Pittsburgh man of driving while under the influence of drugs and/or alcohol and of failure to keep right of center. The case was heard in the Garrett County Circuit Court April 4 with Chief Judge Fred Thayer presiding.

The jury found Bandola not guilty of a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Joseph Nicholas Bandola, Pittsburgh, 54, had prayed for a jury to hear three charges against him filed by Tfc. Dale Williams, of the Maryland State Police, after arresting him on September 23, 1984.

According to court documents, Williams was driving southbound on US 219 when he came behind Bandola whose car was weaving over the road. Williams stopped Bandola who refused tests for his alcohol level.

Judge Thayer fined Bandola $250 on the charge of driving while under the influence and $50 on the charge of failure to keep right of center.

Bandola was represented by attorney W. Bryan Hall, Cumberland. State's Attorney James Sherbin represented the state.

Fire

Rescue Squad. There were no injuries reported.

A fire Sunday morning resulted in the destruction of a one-story lakefront structure located along Rock Lodge Road.

Owned by Charles McIntyre, Baltimore, the house was being rented by Larry Niklow and Larry Chambers. According to Carola, Niklow was the only one home at the time of the blaze. He told Carola that he had returned home at 2 a.m., fed the dog, and went to the basement apartment. At about 7 a.m. he heard the dog barking. He attempted to go upstairs, but discovered the fire and then escaped through sliding glass doors in the basement apartment. Once outside he saw fire coming from all of the first floor windows.

The call to Garrett Emergency Management for assistance apparently came from several area residents, some as far away as the Wisp Ski Area, who saw the house burning from across the lake.

Deep Creek and Bittinger fire fighters were sent to the scene at 7:06 a.m. and discovered the structure fully involved upon their arrival. Only the block foundation and chimney now remain. Firemen remained on the scene until 10:57 a.m.

Grantsville firemen were called to stand by for Bittinger.

Carola said Niklow and Chambers lost all of their possessions in the fire, including shotguns, rifles, a coin collection, and apparently the dog also perished in the fire.

He stated that McIntyre was planning to retire to the house and that he had insurance on the structure. Niklow and Chambers had no insurance on their possessions, however.

Several Garrett County fire departments were kept busy throughout the past week responding to flue, vehicle, and brush fires, all of which resulted in little or no damage.

GCC Course Guiding Local Mother In Writing Book About Son's Life

by Joan Sussman

He skis
He skis in the clouds
He skis in white clothes
He does not ski alone

An Accident woman is turning her work in a Creative Writing course at Garrett Community College into a book she hopes to have published some day. Sally Schwing's nearly-completed book, "Do You Think It Snows in Heaven?" is the story of the life of her son, Christopher, who died of a brain tumor in 1983.

"It's about Christopher's life," said Mrs. Schwing. "It starts when I got the news that I was pregnant, then tells about his whole life—how he was spoiled by his brothers, how he changed as the tumor, which we were unaware of at the time, developed, and how we related as a family both before and during his illness, and after his death.

"I'm writing this book for Chris, not for myself. He knew I was planning it and was very excited by the idea," she said.

When Mrs. Schwing came to GCC last fall to enroll in a computer course, she was told by a student there how much she had enjoyed her class in Creative Writing. She talked to Joan Crawford, the Creative Writing instructor, who encouraged her to work on the book as part of her work in the course.

She used the creative writing assignments, such as descriptive writing, narration, fiction, and poetry writing, structuring the book in journal form, with poems used as transitions between entries and chapters.

The book's title comes from a remark that Christopher, an avid skier, made about six months before his death. He asked his mother if she thought it snows in heaven, and when she said she didn't think so, he said, "I hope you're wrong, because I'm looking forward to teaching my grandpa and brother to ski."

WRITING BOOK AT GCC — Mrs. Sally Schwing, pictured left, Accident, is finalizing the details of the manuscript of a book about the life of her son which she hopes to have published. The book, "Do You Think It Snows In Heaven?" is the story of Christopher Schwing, who died of a brain tumor in 1983. Mrs. Schwing did most of the work on the book as part of her work in Creative Writing class at Garrett Community College and as an independent study student in the Directed Studies program at GCC. She was taught and supervised by Joan Crawford, pictured right, who heads Directed Studies at the college.

Mrs. Schwing said she had several reasons for writing the book. The first was to show that problem behavior in children can have physical causes, and to prevent suicide attempts brought about by misunderstood behavior. "I hope it will get people to say 'I love you' before it is too late," she said. She also hopes the book will encourage acceptance of the hospice concept of death in the caring environment of the patient's home.

When the fall semester ended, Mrs. Schwing re-enrolled in Directed Studies Creative Writing as an independent study student. She meets with Mrs. Crawford on a weekly basis to go over work completed.

"It's a very exciting project. She has done a very thorough job and the book has great potential. I think she should be able to get it published," Mrs. Crawford commented. "The subject matter is a sure thing in terms of reader impact and interest. It could be very helpful to other people in the same situation."

Mrs. Schwing is enthusiastic about the help she has received from Mrs. Crawford through her Creative Writing course work. "I think God sent me to Mrs. Crawford," she said.

Mrs. Crawford, who heads the Directed Studies area at the college, is equally enthusiastic. "We need to do more of this kind of thing. Other students have had similar interests. This kind of individualized program can serve the needs of a lot of people."

The Directed Studies area at GCC includes independent study courses for people who cannot attend regular classes for any of a variety of reasons. It also includes specially structured courses not usually offered by the college, tailored to individual students' needs.

A dance to benefit the Friendsville Fire Company will be held by the Yough Valley Indians 4-H Club on Friday, April 19, at the fire hall. The dance will be from 8 - 11:30 p.m. with music provided by "Violent Rose."

The cost will be $2, single, and $3 a couple. The proceeds will be given to the fire company by the Yough Valley Indians in appreciation for being able to hold their 4-H meetings in the fire hall.

Diabetes Group To Meet Monday

The next meeting of the Garrett County Diabetes Association will be held Monday, April 15, at St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Oakland, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

A film entitled "Adult Diabetes - Part III" will be shown, followed by a discussion period. Blood sugar testing will be available, along with a variety of pamphlets and information about diabetes.

Habitat Group Schedules Annual Business Meeting

The Garrett County Habitat for Humanity, Inc., will hold its first annual business meeting on Tuesday, April 16, at the Garrett Community College, McHenry, in Room 360 beginning at 7:00 p.m.

The agenda for this meeting will include the election of the 1985 Board of Directors, presentation and discussion of the 1985 goals, unveiling of the new Garrett County Habitat's slide presentation, and general input from the membership.

The Business Meeting is for the members of the Habitat. The membership rolls, however, will be open and a payment of the $1 annual dues will enroll any new members.

Physical Therapy Student Finishes Study At GCMH

Michael Blondell, a physical therapy student from the University of Maryland at Baltimore, will complete a six-week training session this week in the Physical Therapy Department of Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Through the program students work under the supervision of Ann Devine-King and Theresa Hannibal, Garrett Memorial physical therapists, to receive clinical experience with a variety of patient conditions and problems.

Blondell spoke highly of the experience, stating that Devine-King and Hannibal "helped me to grow professionally by giving me the opportunities to treat many different types of patients. I will highly recommend this hospital to my peers as an affiliation in which most of their professional goals may be attained."

Blondell also became involved in church and community activities during his stay in Oakland, as he joined the adult choir of St. Mark's Lutheran Church and also sang with the Garrett Choral Society in its recent Easter concert. "The friendly people here who I have had the pleasure of meeting have shown a sincere interest in what I am doing, and that made me feel very welcome," he said.

ENERGY TIP: If you use night lights, use clear bulbs that take only 4-watts instead of the 7-watt version. They last longer and since night lights are left on for long periods, they save electricity.

CHOOSING CHICKEN

Chicken is versatile and adaptable to every type of meal, from the low cost to the most elegant. Whether fried, roasted, broiled, stewed or barbecued, chicken is welcomed at any table because it is delicious, low in calories and fat, and is an excellent source of protein.

When purchasing a chicken, keep the following in mind:

*Select a chicken with short legs and a plump body. This indicates a meaty bird.

*Check to see that the skin is free from pinfeathers, bruises and discoloration. U.S. Grade A is the top quality, although not all chickens are graded—grading is voluntary. All poultry is inspected, though, indicating the wholesomeness of the bird. Wholesomeness indicates a healthy bird that was processed under sanitary conditions.

*Chicken may be purchased whole, cut up or by parts. In general, the whole bird costs less per pound. Buying the whole bird, however, will not save you money if your family does not like all the parts or if your need is for one particular cut.

*When you get the chicken home, loosen the tight wrapping and cover lightly to allow air to circulate. Plan to use within a day or two.

*Chicken which will not be used within two days should be frozen. Before freezing, rinse with cold water and drain. Then wrap the bird in a moisture/vapor-proof material or place in an air-proof freezing container. When stored at 0° F., a chicken will retain quality for up to a year. Be sure to label the package.

*Thaw cut-up fryers in the refrigerator until pieces can be separated easily.

*Roasting chicken should be thawed in one of the following three ways: (1) unwrapped, in the refrigerator, (2) in cold water or (3) in a closed paper bag on the countertop. Never defrost at room temperature.

With the next chicken you purchase, try this winning recipe from the 1984 Delmarva Chicken Cooking Contest. I think you will enjoy it!

STUFFED CHICKEN QUARTERS

1 broiler-fryer chicken, quartered, wing tips removed
2 tablespoons margarine, softened
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
Stuffing recipe follows.

With fingers, loosen skin from meat on each quarter, leaving skin attached on one side. Place ¼ of stuffing in each of prepared pockets, pushing stuffing back from edges. Close openings with wooden picks. In shallow baking pan, place chicken, skin side up, in single layer. Spread ½ tablespoon margarine over each chicken quarter. Bake, uncovered, in 400° F. oven about 40 minutes. Sprinkle chicken with salt and pepper. Bake about 10 minutes longer or until chicken is fork tender. To serve, remove wooden picks. Makes 4 servings.

Stuffing: In bowl, mix together 3 tablespoons minced onion, 3 tablespoons minced celery, 1 can (4½ ounces) deviled ham, ½ cup dry breadcrumbs and ¼ cup finely diced sharp Cheddar cheese.

WIC Program To Be Reorganized

A recently completed study of the State's WIC (Women, Infants and Children) supplemental nutrition program will provide "an excellent tool" for a comprehensive reorganization of that program, Thomas Krajewski, M.D., Assistant Secretary for Health, said this week.

"This study in essence confirms our own assessment of the program," Dr. Krajewski said.

Upon his appointment as Assistant Secretary of Health last fall, Dr. Thomas Krajewski launched a review of this program, which provides essential nutrition and education to the women, infants and children in the program.

An expert consultant firm was commissioned to assess WIC and the management and delivery of its services. Based on the firm's findings, Dr. Krajewski developed a plan to address the consultant's recommendations.

The first step in that plan was the placement of the WIC program directly under his supervision, a move that occurred March 1, 1985.

The creation of a WIC program director at a level appropriate for this twenty million dollar program followed. Steps have also been taken to improve communications between local project officials, including regular statewide meetings beginning in May, and the establishment of a newsletter.

Work groups have been formed and are assessing several areas, among them management and administrative expenditures.

Proposed changes in the WIC program include reorganization of its staff and the revamping of the current data system.

"The Department is confident this plan will improve the WIC program, not only in accountability, but also in providing better utilization of federal funds to feed women, infants, and children in the state of Maryland," Dr. Krajewski said.

Tressler Named GCMH Employee Of The Month

Janet Tressler, accounts payable clerk, was recently named Employee of the Month for April at the Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Tressler first came to Garrett Memorial in 1963 after her graduation from high school. She worked in the Admissions Office until 1971, with a one-year break in 1965. She left the hospital in 1971 and returned in 1978 to the Medical Records Department. Since that time she has worked in Nursing, Plant Operations, Personnel, Purchasing, and currently Accounts Payable. She is also a former officer of the hospital's Employee Committee.

A native of Garrett County, Mrs. Tressler resides in Loch Lynn with her husband, Parke.

She stated that she enjoys her work at the hospital, but sometimes misses the contact she has with patients while working in the Admissions Department, as well as her co-workers in the other departments. She said she was "proud to have served on the Employee Committee as vice president."

Ben Rosenthal, associate administrator, stated, "Janet's enthusiasm, cheerfulness, dedication, and energy make it a pleasure to work with her. She is also one of those employees who is a 'jack of all trades' who competently assists many different departments in a variety of tasks."

Garrett County's Wye Oak Seedling Is Growing Well

Garrett County's two-year-old Wye Oak seedling is growing and doing well, according to Ruth Calderwood, president of the Garrett County 350th Committee.

The seedling is a descendant of the Wye Oak on Maryland's Eastern Shore, which is estimated to be more than 400 years old. The Wye Oak is believed to have been a thriving tree when Maryland was founded in 1634.

The seedling from the Wye Oak was furnished by the Maryland Forests, Parks and Wildlife Service. Lawrence M. Beck, administrator of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital, provided a prominent site for the setting of the tree on the hospital grounds and officiated at the planting ceremony, assisted by members of the County 350th Committee.

"Arbor Day 1984 was a rainy, disagreeable day," according to Calderwood, "but the group defied the elements and carried out the ceremony, using umbrellas. National Arbor Day, April 3, 1985, was the anniversary of the planting of Garrett County's seedling, which has grown well during the past year and should have a good start for the future."

Arbor Day was established in 1874 by the Nebraska State Board of Agriculture as a time for setting out young trees b school children. The custom ha been extended quite generall throughout the United State and is now considered a suitabl tree planting day for everyon according to Calderwood.

Potomac Edison Cautions About Underground Lines

As underground electrical service becomes more prevelent in the Potomac Edison territory, homeowners, builders and contractors are reminded by PE to check for underground lines before digging.

Underground electrical cables frequently share the same trenches with telephone and/or cable TV wires. "For personal safety, as well as to avoid unnecessary repair costs or interruption of service to other customers, it's important to check with the proper authorities," stated a PE official. "It's also state law."

In Maryland and Virginia, anyone planning excavation work of any type can call collect to "Miss Utility," 301-559-0100 to request the path of underground lines in their work area to be marked. The "Miss Utility" program was established in 1972 to provide an underground cable locating service in all of Maryland west of the Chesapeake Bay, Washington, D.C. and northern Virginia to the Rappahannock River via one convenient telephone number. A network of more than 30 utility companies participate in the program.

Calls placed to "Miss Utility" will be answered by personnel equipped with information provided by the participating utilities regarding location of their underground service. "The time to call for underground location is when your job—no matter how big or small—is in the planning stage, and at least 48 hours before actual work begins," the spokesman said.

Several factors indicate the presence of underground service:

- "In residential areas, it's a sure sign there are underground facilities if no overhead wires are visible.

- "If you spot a utility pole with a riser, you'll know underground service begins at that point. A riser is a piece of conduit that takes overhead electrical service down the pole and into the ground.

- "Warning tape. Yellow tape buried approximately one foot above underground cable should alert you that you're digging close to underground cable.

- "Underground vault. This vault contains either transformers or electrical switchgear. The only part of the vault that is visible is a solid or grated cover.

- "Above ground enclosure. An enclosed metal box that contains either electrical switchgear or a transformer supplying electricity to a group of homes or businesses. The area around the enclosures may sometimes be landscaped to blend in with the surrounding area."

Federal Support Of Local Guard Unit Announced

Federal support of the Maryland Army National Guard (MDARNG) in Garrett County amounted to $684,132 in the fiscal year that ended September 30, 1984, according to figures compiled by the Guard's finance office.

This amount is four percent higher than last year's figure of $658,727.

Seventy-two percent of the federal dollars covered the salaries paid the part-and-full-time Guard members in Oakland's Company C, 121st Engineer Battalion (Combat Corps).

At the end of FY '84, 149 individuals belonged to this MDARNG unit, which is located on 8th and High Streets. Company C, which has authorized 131 members, stood at over 113.7 percent personnel strength at the end of the 1984 fiscal year.

Captain Dwight C. Metcalf, who lives in Cresaptown, is company commander.

In the four Western Maryland counties of Garrett, Allegany, Washington and Frederick, the federal government spent $3,163,418 in support of the Maryland Army National Guard. This figure represents 6½ percent of the nearly $48.5 million spent by the federal government in fiscal year 1984 to support the MDARNG.

Along with Oakland, the cities of Cumberland, Hagerstown, Highfield and Frederick are sites of Maryland Guard units in Western Maryland.

Federal and state expeditures in FY '84 for the Maryland National Guard totaled $81,489,954. The state provided $4,657,452 to the Maryland National Guard, mainly for the upkeep of armories and the salaries of 204 state employees.

The Maryland Army National Guard's 61 units are in all but the four counties of Caroline, Dorchester, St. Mary's and Worcester. The Maryland Air National Guard is based at Glenn L. Martin State Airport in Middle River in Baltimore County.

In FY '83, state and federal expenditures amounted to $75.2 million for the Maryland National Guard; the federal government provided nearly 94 percent of this figure.

Performance Test For St. Colleges Proposed By Board

The Board of Trustees of the State Universities and Colleges is recommending that all undergraduate students in Maryland be tested to determine the quality of their education.

Under the proposal the board recently approved, students would be tested as incoming freshmen and then again as outgoing seniors. The proposal has been forwarded to the State Board of Higher Education.

According to Jean E. Spencer, executive director of the board, the purpose of the liberal arts test would be to evaluate the institution, not the students. The board of trustees oversees Bowie, Coppin, Frostburg, Salisbury, and Towson state colleges and the University of Baltimore.

Dr. Spencer said it is likely the State Board of Higher Education would turn the proposal over to a citizens' commission on excellence in higher education that is expected to be created this year by the General Assembly.

The commission would have 18 months, beginning July 1, to make recommendations on how to improve state-funded colleges and universities.

The proposal reads that the same liberal arts test would be given to every student at all colleges and universities in Maryland, even private ones, because they all receive some state funding.

McHenry Man Charged With D.W.I., D.O.P.

A McHenry man was arrested and charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol and destruction of property.

Edward Albert Boehm was arrested last Wednesday after refusing to stop for a traffic violation. While eluding police, he reportedly ran his Jeep through a pasture owned by Herman Steiding, located on the Steiding Church Road, and destroyed $100 worth of barbed wire fence and posts.

Deputy P.J. Pratt was the arresting officer.

The Sheriff's Department is also investigating a theft which occurred sometime between March 1 and April 6 on Lake Shore Drive.

Robert Lohr, Broadford Road, reported that someone had stolen a stereo system with two speakers from his boat which was parked under a carport at his summer residence. Value of the stereo is set at $300.

Deputy P.K. Buckel is investigating the theft.

Volunteer Riders Needed For Bike-A-Thon, April 27

Friendsville residents are asked to join in the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital "Wheels For Life" Bike-a-thon slated for April 27, at Water Street and Riverside Drive, Friendsville, according to Spencer Schlosnagle, Bike-a-thon chairman.

Schlosnagle said this ride honors Jaime, a leukemia patient at St. Jude. "With every turn of the wheel, riders become spokesmen for all the kids with cancer, like Jaime, who want to know they aren't in this battle alone," Schlosnagle said. He went on to say, "People willing to give time to create more time to children crying for help stimulates a better event and raises more money for the hospital. Riders are really needed. They make or break a Bike-a-thon."

Sponsors donating a sum for each mile completed are enlisted by riders. Those who raise $25 receive a St. Jude T-shirt. When $75 is raised, the rider receives a barrel tote bag and a T-shirt. Sponsor forms may be picked up at Humberson's Maxco, S & S Market, and Old Mill Grill Restaurant.

"The general plan is to have a good time while helping a wonderful group of children counting on our support," Schlosnagle said.

Bike-a-thon chairman Schlosnagle may be contacted by writing P.O. Box 235, 249 Maple Street, Friendsville, Md. 21531, or by calling 746-5864, for details on riding or sponsoring a rider.

Frank Accepted Into Architecture Program At WVU

Paul Frank III, a freshman at Garrett Community College, has been accepted into the Landscape Architecture program at West Virginia University as a participant in the Academic Common Market, a program that allows students from 13 states, including Maryland, to enroll in out-of-state colleges and universities at in-state tuition costs.

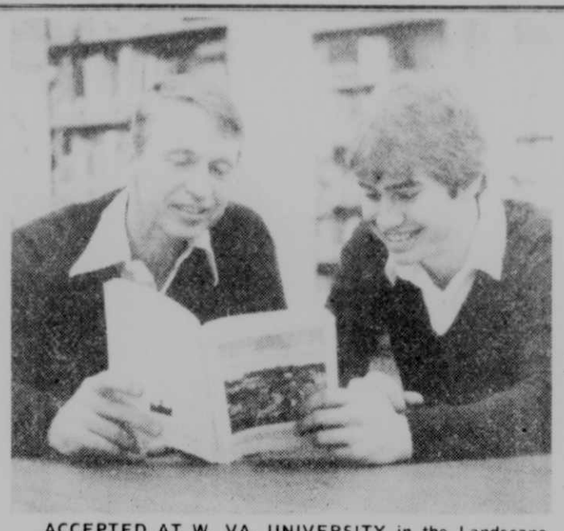

Frank, the son of Mrs. Nancy Frank, Accident, and Paul Frank Jr., Martinsburg, W. Va., was introduced to the Academic Common Market opportunity and assisted with the application process by Dr. George Dailey, transfer counselor at GCC.

"The Academic Common Market is a great opportunity for Maryland students to study out-of-state in a wide variety of degree programs that would otherwise be out of reach financially," Dr. Dailey said.

Eligible programs encompass a wide spectrum of areas of study, including such diverse undergraduate programs as Art History, Geological Engineering, Forestry and Wildlife, Travel Industry and Management, and a variety of other liberal arts, technical and health career programs. A similar range of graduate programs is included.

States participating in the program include Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and West Virginia.

Frank, who spent his year at GCC working on completion of his general education requirements, looks forward to his career as a landscape architect. He said, "I enjoy being in the outdoors and will be able to take advantage of that in landscape architecture instead of spending my time in an office."

ACCEPTED AT W. VA. UNIVERSITY in the Landscape Architecture program was Paul Frank, III, a student at Garrett Community College and a graduate of Northern High School. Frank is participating in the Academic Common Market program, which grants in-state tuition rates to participating students who enroll in eligible programs at colleges and universities in thirteen states. Pictured with Frank, left, is Dr. George Dailey, transfer counselor at GCC. The transfer office at GCC offers assistance and counseling to GCC students and others in need of advice or help in applying or transferring to other educational institutions.

Patient Tabby

Swaying on a limb outside my kitchen, a bird flapped his sleek black wings and curved his throat in a burst of pure beauty.

"Watch out!" I wanted to cry. For over by the woodpile Tabby crouched, carved in predatory silence. Stone-like she stared, as the bird warbled, and even after the songster flashed off in a streak, she sat impassively.

How like our Tabby we humans sometimes are. Caught in the frenzy of making a living, stalemated with problems, we look indifferently at our world. Forgetting that God reveals Himself in simple ways, we overlook the laughter of a child, the smile of a stranger, and the flaming colors of our landscape.

Your church can show you how to find joy in life again. Within its fellowship you can learn the happiness which comes from loving God and serving Him.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THOMAS THE COURAGEOUS
April 14, 1985

Background Scripture:
John 20:24 through 21:25.

Devotional Reading:
John 21:1-14.

I think the Apostle Thomas has had to take a bum rap from fellow Christians across the years. Although I have known of a few churches named St. Thomas, he is much more widely known as "Doubting Thomas." Whenever his name comes up, Christians are apt to respond with a dismissing smile or self-righteous disdain. If he is held up as an example, it is almost always as a negative one.

Everyone remembers that he refused to accept the testimony of his fellow apostles, saying: "Unless I see in his hands the print of the nails, and place my finger in the mark of the nails, and place my hand in his side, I will not believe." Some Christians also remember that, when Jesus proposed to go up to Jerusalem after the death of Lazarus, Thomas was pessimistic about the outcome (John 11:16). They may also recall that when Jesus said to his disciples, "And you know the way where I am going," Thomas protested, "Lord, we do not know where you are going; how can we know the way?" (14:5).

LET'S GO!

What we may forget is that, even though he was fearful of the outcome of going to Jerusalem, it was Thomas who said, "Let us also go, that we may die with him." And in John 14, it was Thomas' challenge to Jesus that occasioned Jesus immortal words: "I am the way, and the truth, and the life; no one comes to the Father, but by me" (14:6). And, when the Resurrected Christ appears to him in John 20, it is Thomas' response that is the most ringing of all commitments: "My Lord and my God!" (20:28).

I think that, on these grounds, this much-maligned apostle is just as deserving of the title, "Courageous Thomas," as he is "Doubting Thomas." To me it is not so important that he entertained skeptical questions in his mind, but that he overcame his skepticism and put his life on the line in a manner that served as an example for those who found it easier to say "Christ is Lord," than to act as if it were so.

FAITH AT WORK

Some of the other apostles found it relatively easy to put their faith into words, but Thomas is exceptional because he turned his questions into positive actions that should speak louder than his words. Actually, I wouldn't call Thomas a "Doubter" as much as I would a "Questioner" and that could very well make him the patron saint of our age. Today, with the advent of science and high technology, people have more, not fewer questions. Just as the Gospels do not tell us that Jesus ever rebuked Thomas' questions, so I would not chastise those who have the courage to ask the hard questions that must be asked. Hard questions generally produce better answers.

Lots of people have "all the right answers," but live as if they are untrue. I'll take the Thomases of this world who ask hard questions, and live courageous answers.

A PRESCRIPTION IS A MEDICAL TREATMENT IN PRODUCT FORM

Not too long ago, medicines with very few exceptions couldn't cure anything—they merely relieved symptoms. But, today many drugs actually kill disease organisms and can control or change the way your body operates. Your doctor knows what drug treatment is best for you. He is not just treating symptoms, he is treating the disease that caused them.

Home remedies will sometimes offer temporary relief of symptoms. But, most likely they could be masking a more serious problem. The key to most all medical treatment is to find the cause of the illness and to start treating it early.

Sorry CBS, but Lucie wants a 'Dynasty' cameo

By Marc Minnelli

Even before the interview officially begins, Lucie Arnaz is eager to talk. Not about her new series, mind you, but about different shows on rival networks. A CBS representative, on hand to make sure the interview goes smoothly, is not amused.

"Did you see 'Dynasty' last night?" Miss Arnaz asks effusively. "I cannot live without watching that show!" The actress/comedian then switches the subject to "The Cosby Show."

"I watch Bill's show religiously," Miss Arnaz says, "because it's brilliant. Every week, I fall on the floor laughing." The exasperated CBS staffer, noting Miss Arnaz's eagerness to continue, finally interrupts. "Lucie," she says icily, "we're here to discuss your show." The actress, as if awoken from a dream, nods lazily. She finally gives in.

"I fought with the producers because I didn't want to do a series," confesses Miss Arnaz, 33, as she breast-feeds her 3-month-old daughter Katharine Desiree Luckinbill. (The actress is married to actor Larry Luckinbill.) "I didn't want to be caught in a silly sitcom. And I certainly didn't want to be a facsimile of (her mother) Lucille Ball. But after reading the script, I fell in love with its tempo and intelligence. The show has good intentions; I hope it makes people feel good."

In her sitcom, based on the acclaimed English series "Agony," Miss Arnaz plays Dr. Jane Lucas, a radio psychoanalyst whom the actress modeled after her close friend, radio personality Dr. Judith Kuriansky. Dr. Kuriansky offered Miss Arnaz off-the-record advice and suggestions for each segment. "CBS promised me Judy could be the technical adviser on the show if it gets picked up next year," Miss Arnaz says.

Would she like the series to continue past its six-week run? Miss Arnaz ponders the question. She adjusts Katharine, now asleep in her blue baby bunting. "We have a funny show," she says, "even though we deal with subjects that aren't funny, like wife-beating. I don't wake up with a new hairdo every morning, this show isn't 'Dynasty.' It's about real-life, and if it falls into the toilet, at least I can say I tried."

Miss Arnaz spies the CBS staffer, who smiles serenely at her comments. Then the actress voice grows into a whisper: "But I'd still love to do a cameo on 'Dynasty!'"

'Space' adviser draws on real-life experiences

By Marta Tarbell

Does Richard Gordon miss his days as an astronaut?

"Yes and no," says the 55-year-old father of six, who walked in space in September 1966, during the flight of the Gemini 11, and went up again as Lunar Module Commander on the Apollo 12. "It's obviously difficult to leave all that excitement. But I don't miss the long hard hours, or all of the time I had to spend away from home."

Although it's been 13 years since he last left the earth's atmosphere, Gordon went back into orbit, in a manner of speaking, after being hired as the technical adviser for "Space," the epic miniseries based on James A. Michener's best-selling novel about the people who run the U.S. space program. The 13-hour opus airs Sunday, April 14 through Thursday, April 18 on CBS.

What was the hardest part of Gordon's new job? "Recreating the zero-gravity space-flight situation," he says. But Gordon was well-prepared for the problems. "We'd had a lot of trouble duplicating it during the Gemini Program as well," he recalls. What Gordon learned in the early days of his career came in handy when it was time to advise "Space" actors on how to move realistically as astronauts experiencing zero-gravity.

"During the Gemini Program, we found out that the best training preparation for zero-gravity was underwater work — getting in a tank with the suit on, the hardware on, with everything submerged — and then swimming against the water," Gordon explains. "It simulates the actual zero-gravity situation fairly well." That was precisely the regimen Gordon prescribed for actor-astronauts Harry Hamlin and Beau Bridges.

Richard Gordon

Gordon also appraised the series' two directors of what goes on at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in real life. "I made some dialogue suggestions, so that it would correspond to how we really talked back and forth with each other. The hardest thing for the actors to do was communicate without saying many words." And Gordon helped the actors learn to act naturally in the decidedly unnatural interior of a space craft.

Gordon made his debut as an actor in the series as well, appearing in a scene shot at Houston's Mission Control.

How was it? "A lot of fun," says Gordon, a smile crossing his usually stern features. "Next, I'd like to do a sitcom."

Gordon may get his wish: "He's a natural," says "Space" director Joe Sargent.

Forget Pepper Anderson. Jamie Rose plays an incorruptible and unconventional policewoman in "Lady Blue," a new action/adventure film airing Monday, April 15 on ABC.

Shackelford rows his way to good health

By Renee Ross

Ted Shackelford doesn't even have to leave the "Knots Landing" set to stay in shape. "I keep barbells in my dressing room," explains Shackelford, 38, who plays Gary Ewing on the CBS series. "To me, exercise is a necessary evil. I hate doing it," the actor adds, "but I like the results. I feel great when it's over."

He began pumping iron at an early age. "I worked out at a gym when I was a kid," Shackelford recalls. "I also played football and wrestled. It's important to get a good athletic basis when you're young because it's tough for people who never used their muscles to start exercise when they're adults.

"Some people don't work out at all and look fabulous. That's genetic. But if you have a basis for muscle tone," Shackelford adds, "it'll follow you for the rest of your life."

When he's away from the "Knots Landing" soundstage, Shackelford turns to a gym workout with free weights. "I also like to swim," he explains, "and I bought a rowing machine that's great for my arms. Any time you use your arm muscles a lot, it's giving your heart a workout, too. Maybe that's why orchestra conductors often live to a ripe old age — they're up there flailing their arms around for two hours a night!" laughs the 175-pound, 6-foot-1 actor.

Ted Shackelford

Shackelford has no beef about hearty eating. "I was raised in Oklahoma where we ate a lot of meat," he remembers. "And though I try not to have too much red meat, I do love it. Recently, I've started eating more whole grains. But sometimes I eat atrociously — especially when I get started on ice cream.

"Compared to some people, I don't worry about my weight," adds the actor. "I eat a bit more when I'm exercising because I like to keep up my muscle bulk.

"I believe you should take everything a day at a time, whether it's diet or exercise or anything else. It's a wonderful principle to live by. I just wish I could stick to it myself!" he laughs.

'Loving' fan wants to know about soap star

By Kimberly Redmond

I'm a fan of Lauren-Marie Taylor, the actress who plays Stacey Donovan on the ABC soap "Loving." Can you give me information about her? — N.S., Elizabeth, N.J.

Miss Taylor, who grew up in the Bronx, N.Y. and graduated from Loyola School in Manhattan, has done television commercials and appeared in the fright flick, "Friday, the 13th — Part II." She studied at New York's prestigious Circle-in-the-Square Theater School, which led to her role in John Belushi's last film, "Neighbors." The actress has also appeared in several theatrical productions, including "Album," "Godspell" and "The Mikado." Miss Taylor is an accomplished competitor in long-distance runs, including the 1981 and 1982 New York City Marathon, which she completed both years. She's married to actor-songwriter John Didrichsen.

My mother and I have a running argument about whether or not the actor who portrays Mason on "Santa Barbara" is the same actor who portrayed Maggie's doctor on "Days of Our Lives" about two years ago. I say he is. What's your expert opinion? — S.S., Campbellsberg, Ill.

You win! Lane Davies, who portrays Mason Capwell on "Santa Barbara," did portray Dr. Evan Wheyland on "Days." The devious Dr. Wheyland was killed in a car crash several months after the birth of Maggie's daughter, Sarah, who was fathered by Wheyland via artificial insemination.

Lauren-Marie Taylor

Can you tell me whether the actor who plays Zach on "All My Children" is the man who has been appearing in the Wrangler Jeans TV commercials? — A.H., Newburg, Mo.

No. Robert Lupone is the actor who portrays Zach Grayson on "AMC." Sam Behrens, who portrays Jake Meyer on "General Hospital," is the actor appearing in the clothes commercials, which are patterned after the adventure films, "Raiders of the Lost Ark" and "Indiana Jones and the Temple of Doom."

Harry Hamlin (l.) and Beau Bridges travel to the moon in "Space," the 13-hour miniseries based on James Michener's best-selling saga. Part one of the star-studded five-part series airs Sunday, April 14 on CBS.

FRIDAY

Jay Baker and David Packer cruise the girls in "The Best Times," a lighthearted drama that tackles such topics as how to deal with the pressures of high-school. The series premieres Friday, April 19 on NBC.

York takes on a trio of accents for 'Space'

By Gregory Garver

HOLLYWOOD — The difference between a run-of-the-mill actor and a class actor — like Michael York — can be measured by small details, such as accents.

This week, York stars with Harry Hamlin, Blair Brown, James Garner, Bruce Dern and Beau Bridges in the epic miniseries "Space." In the 13-hour opus, airing Sunday, April 14 through Thursday, April 18 on CBS, York plays Dieter Kolff, a German scientist who comes to the United States to help lift off the American space program.

Most actors would take a simple shot at the German accent. But not York. He uses three different German accents during the course of "Space."

The 43-year-old actor says that, in the early scenes, when the Germans are talking amongst themselves and presumably in German, he takes on just a slight accent, to give a hint of a foreign language.

When he begins talking to American people, struggling with the English language, York uses a thick accent. Finally, when he arrives in America and learns to speak fluent English, there is a more moderate accent. This is the English actor at work, concerned with every nuance, every detail of his performance.

But York won't be classified as an English actor for very long. He's about to move to the United States after being, he claims, an official resident of Monaco for the past ten years.

"I now believe," he says, "that the time has come for me to become an American. I have an American wife, and I've had a home here for a long time, which I used to live in when I came here to work. It will now become my permanent headquarters."

York hopes that he will be considered for non-period projects. He considers "Space" a period piece and says that, for some reason, he's very frequently cast in productions that require him to be in costume. He believes he has a face that lends itself to period work.

"But," he explains, "I actually prefer contemporary roles. My production company, in which I play a very active role, is now working on a contemporary comedy. If it works, I will be co-starring with Sally Kellerman."

York does not rule out the possibility of doing a series. If he does a series, one thing will be certain: He'll be a resident of Southern California, where series-making is king.

Disorder in the court as Shelley Hack is sued

By Cindy Adams

NEW YORK — Model/actress Shelley Hack is also defendant Shelley Marie Hack of Walton, N.Y. Photographer Steen Svenson, her ex-beau and ex-roommate, is suing Miss Hack in a property partition action.

Shelley Hack

From 1971-77, the actress and the photographer lived like two peas in a Greenwich Village pod. They also bought real estate. Over the years, the property (in upstate New York) and Miss Hack's career appreciated. But the relationship didn't. Court papers labeled it "nasty." The division of their holdings is deadlocked.

In examination before trial, Svenson, now married, states: "(Ours) was not a loving relationship. It was practical from her point of view — free rent, free room and board and a convenient place to stay." He calls Miss Hack "an opportunist...who took advantage of me."

The Hack-Svenson case is heading for the Supreme Court.

Diane Keaton nixed doing a 1986 ABC television series. She has too many other plans. ... Jack Lemmon, who plays a mean piano, is being romanced to consider recording a talking-singing album of torch songs. ... "Tonight" show producer Freddy De Cordova pocketed six figures from Simon & Schuster for "Johnny Come Lately," a carefully tweezed story of his years with Johnny Carson. ... In July, Rawson Associates publishes "Laughing on the Outside, Crying on the Inside," by Judy Carne, the Sock-It-to-Me girl from "Laugh-In," who also was known as Mrs. Burt Reynolds. ... Julie Andrews' third kiddie book, "Babe," will soon be published by Harper & Row.

What does a man who has everything buy himself? An $88,000 studio on West 58th Street. At least that's what Bob Fosse did.

ASK ME ABOUT TV

By Val Carew

F. Murray Abraham, the actor who won an Oscar for his role as Antonio Salieri in "Amadeus," looks familiar. I think I've seen him on TV. Can you tell me about him? — M.H., Lawton, Okla.

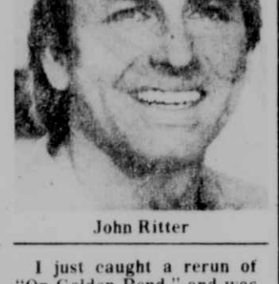

Abraham, who grew up in El Paso, Texas, is the son of a Syrian father and an Italian mother. He and his wife Kate have been married since 1962, and they are the parents of a 14-year-old girl and a 12-year-old boy. You might remember him from when he played a leaf in a Fruit of the Loom TV commercial. Abraham has made many other commercials and has also been seen on "Kojak." He's been in the films "The Ritz," "The Big Fix" and the recent Al Pacino film "Scarface."

Abraham as Salieri

Val, I promised myself I would never write to a columnist, but I can't hold back any longer. Help! I'm in love with John Ritter, the zany — and talented — star of "Three's a Crowd." Can I have his address? — B.D.S, White Salmon, Wash.

Hold on, B.D.S.! It's OK to give in to your desires once in a while. You can send Ritter your letters c/o 11777 San Vincente Blvd., Suite 600, Los Angeles, CA. 90049.

John Ritter

I just caught a rerun of "On Golden Pond," and was amazed at how I'm still touched by the film. The tears wouldn't stop. My favorite in the cast is Jane Fonda. Do you think I can have an address for her? I'd love to send her an original screenplay I have written. — S.C., La Crescenta, Calif.

Letters (and screenplays) can be sent to Miss Fonda at 369 S. Robertson Blvd., Beverly Hills, CA. 90211. Good luck!

Goldstein Offers Last Minute State Tax Tips

"State income tax refunds are now averaging $249.00. But an unusually large number of taxpayers are waiting until the last minute to file their returns, setting the stage for the biggest last-minute rush we've ever seen," Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced.

About 30% of the expected 1.8 million Maryland income tax returns have yet to be filed. "This is a concern to us because it reverses the trend in most recent years of taxpayers filing their returns earlier, not waiting until the last minute," Goldstein said. "Unfortunately, many of the returns we'll receive at the last minute this year will be due refunds, and it will take much longer to process those checks because of the large volume of mail we'll be receiving."

Error rates generally rise on returns filed at the last minute, the comptroller noted. He advised taxpayers to set their returns aside for an hour after they are completed, then to double-check all calculations, be sure the return in signed and all attachments and checks are enclosed.

"If you think you'll still be working on your income taxes up until the last minute of the April 15th filing deadline, you'll be happy to know that our state tax experts will be on duty to help you from 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday until April 12th, and even some extra hours on April 13th and April 15th," the comptroller said.

All 15 Maryland income tax offices will offer free taxpayer assistance on Saturday, April 13, from 9:00 a.m. until 1:00 p.m. In addition, the offices will remain open on the filing deadline, Monday, April 15, from 8:30 a.m. until 9:00 p.m. to help last-minute filers.

"Our state experts will be happy to answer any questions, provide the necessary forms, and double-check your calculations. They'll even complete your Maryland income tax return free of charge, as long as you bring a completed copy of your federal return and all W-2 statements," the comptroller said.

Goldstein also explained what to do if you do not have all of the documents necessary to meet the April 15th filing deadline.

"If you're forced to wait for records, for example, you can request an extension of up to four months to file your return. To do so, get a copy of federal form 4868, and fill it out for the I.R.S. Next, send a copy of federal form 4868 to the Maryland Income Tax Division, along with a check for the estimated amount of state tax due, by April 15th," Goldstein said.

"Remember, an extension of time to file does not mean an extension of time to pay. You must send the estimated amount of state tax due by April 15th.

"If you need help, remember: we're here to help you. Call or visit your nearest state income tax office for free, courteous assistance," Goldstein said.,

The addresses and telephone numbers of all 15 Maryland income tax offices are listed on the back of the state tax packet and in most local telephone directories. The statewide toll-free number for assistance is 1-800-MD TAXES.

Census Bureau Slates Survey

The Census Bureau will collect data on employment, unemployment and veteran status from Garrett County residents April 7 to 13, according to James F. Holmes, director of the census Bureau's Philadelphia Regional Office.

The local data will contribute to April's national employment and unemployment picture to be released May 3 by the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS). Data already collected for March will become available April 5.

The Census Bureau also will gather information on veterans from males 18 years and over for the BLS and Veterans Administration. Veterans will be asked questions to determine which theater of operations they served in, and to help evaluate to what extent they have used their entitlements.

Data collected in February showed that unemployment (including the military) dropped to 7.2 percent in January. The rate for civilian workers decreased to 7.3 from 7.4 in January.

Information supplied by individuals is kept confidential by law and only statistical totals are published, according to Holmes.

Citizens Reminded To Dispose Of Oil Properly

"With the arrival of spring, everyone's thoughts turn to getting cars, trucks and boats into good shape," noted Dr. Cliff R. Willey of the Maryland Environmental Service Technical Services section. "And that means an oil change." For motorists and boaters who do this chore themselves, MES points out that the old oil must be taken to a used oil collection center. "It must never be dumped on the ground, poured into a gutter or storm drain, nor can it legally be placed in the household trash," he said.

"Waste or used oil, unless properly collected and re-processed will find its way into ground water or a stream or river, and as little as one quart of oil to 250,000 gallons of water can cause taste and odor problems," Dr. Willey continued. "Also," he said, "every effort should be made to keep the oil from reaching and polluting the Bay."

For these reasons, the Maryland Environmental Service points out, the State has a Used Oil Recycling Law. Under that law, dumpers of used oil can be fined up to $250 for a violation.

MES officials point out that with nearly 800 collection facilities located throughout the State of Maryland, bringing used oil to an authorized location is easy and convenient for most people in the State.

MES maintains a toll-free telephone line which can be used from 9 to 4 during normal work days, to enable callers to locate collection stations closest to them. The number is 800-492-9188.

The following is a list of authorized collection facilities in Garrett County:

Casselman Motor Company and Grantsville Ford, both of Grantsville; Oakview Motors, Inc. and Shaffer Ford Sales, Inc., both of Oakland.

Senior Citizens Tour Westvaco

Thirty-five senior citizens recently toured the Westvaco Paper Mill in Luke. The tour was arranged by the Area Agency on Aging.

Afterward the seniors shared lunch at Warner's Restaurant and from there went to the Country Club Mall for a shopping excursion.

Because the response to the trip was so enthusiastic, Agency officials stated they hope to plan another trip in the near future.

School Officials Plan Procedures For NHS Project

In the aftermath of the allocation of funds for the Northern High School renovation project, Garrett County school officials have been scurrying to insure that the project, now one month behind schedule, will not experience more delays.

Up until the Maryland Board of Public Works denied funding for the project this year in January, the school board had been working to keep the project on track. With little prospect of gaining the funds this year, planning for the project slowed down, school officials noted.

Also, the construction management firm Stuart-Mellon, Pittsburgh, could not proceed with its schedule for soliciting bids on the project.

As part of the revived operation, the Garrett County Board of Education April 11 approved a recommendation by Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, county school superintendent, which clarifies a little more the way Northern High School and Northern Middle School students will share Northern Middle School next year while the high school undergoes renovation.

In a letter to the school board, Ryscavage notes that he called a special meeting of school officials on April 9, one day after the General Assembly approved the NHS funds, to determine certain specifics of how the two schools will be operated.

His recommendation to the board was that the Northern Middle School students use the school in the morning shift and the Northern High School students attend the school in the afternoon shift. The morning shift hours will be from 7:30 a.m.to 12:30 p.m. while the afternoon shift will be 12:35 p.m. to 5:30 p.m.

James Lupis, assistant superintendent of administrative services, stated that although the project is one month behind schedule, certain deadlines will still be met by Stuart-Mellon, such as the November 15 completion date for the vocational educational area and the August 1986 completion date for the entire project. Construction is not anticipated to begin until July 15.

In explaining his recommendation to the board, Dr. Ryscavage pointed out the middle school students were selected for the morning shift because the administrators felt the early morning hours and noon hours

A CULTURAL EXCHANGE — Fascination is perhaps what these two German-speaking young ladies experienced as they were introduced to each other last week at the Swan Meadow School. At right is Anja Mohrmann, of Sulingen, West Germany, conversing with an unidentified Amish youngster at Swan Meadow. Ms. Mohrmann was one of 21 German students who arrived in the Oakland area on March 22 for a three-week stay with Southern High School students. They returned home last Friday and will in turn host a group of Southern students at their homes in Germany this summer. The German students and their chaperones discovered that they were easily understood by the Amish children, but that they found it difficult to understand the German dialect of the children. Swan Meadow School was one of several stops for the students during a tour of southern Garrett County April 9. See more photos on page seven.

Two Persons In ICU As Result Of Vehicle Crash

Two persons were taken to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland early this morning by the Medevac helicopter following a one-vehicle accident on the Deer Park Hotel Road last night.

Listed in "stable" condition in the Intensive Care Unit at Memorial Hospital are Michael W. Upole, 24, and Rebecca R. Sines, 19, who were both passengers in the 1977 Dodge Aspen, operated by Allen A. Upole, 27. Allen Upole was treated and released at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Although details were sketchy at presstime, a spokesman from the Maryland State Police did say the accident occurred at 11:57 p.m. when the Aspen left the right side of the roadway, hit a telephone pole, and impacted with a large tree.

Tfc. G.R. Chaney investigated the accident. Garrett County Emergency Management also dispatched the Southern Rescue Squad, the Deer Park Volunteer Fire Department, and C and P Telephone Company to the scene.

Sines was reportedly pinned in the vehicle when emergency crews arrived on the scene.

School Board Adopts Budget: Employee Contracts Ratified

The Garrett County Board of Education April 11 approved the superintendent's fiscal year 1986 budget request which is $1,382,085 higher than last year. The board's action came even though the members were aware that contract negotiations with an employee group were at impasse and that another group was in the midst of voting on its contract.

The action seemed not to concern members of the Garrett County Association of Educational Support Personnel who ratified their contract this week. Voting on the contract began last week and the final count Tuesday revealed that 95 percent of those voting favored the contract.

School administrators and organization leaders pointed out the historic nature of the contract because it is the first contract ever negotiated with this employee group. In the past, this group has received salary and wage increases in line with teachers' salary increases, but has had little say in other benefits and personnel policies.

The board entered into negotiations with employee groups besides the teachers' association because of a legislative mandate passed during the 1983 General Assembly session.

The board is at impasse in negotiations with the classified supervisory personnel, a group represented by the American Federation of Teachers and including head custodians and cafeteria managers.

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, county school superintendent, in recommending passage of the budget request noted that even though the AFT may feel the action is presumptuous, provisions had been included in the budget for that employee group which were similar to increased salaries and benefits for the other employee groups. He added that the budget would have to be altered if the outcome of the contract negotiations is vastly different than anticipated.

In the budget, the county board will request $660,000 more from the county fiscal authorities. Part of that increase has been attributed to the increased salaries and wages for employees.

Both contracts which have been ratified to date—one with the Garrett County Teachers' Association and the other with the support personnel group—call for a 6% salary and wage increase. School administrators have projected an increase in salary and wage expenditures in the next fiscal year of $830,000.

Although school administrators anticipate an increase in funding from the state, they say they cannot use that money for salaries for support personnel.

The school system will receive $701,793 more this year than last through Civiletti funding, a program of increased aid to school jurisdictions adopted in the 1984 General Assembly session. Part of this money can be used for increased salaries for teachers only, stated James Lupis, assistant superintendent of administrative services and chief bargaining agent for the school board with the employee groups.

The school board and school administrators have a meeting scheduled to present the FY

County's Share Of State Aid To Be $84,000

Garrett County volunteer fire, rescue and ambulance companies will have $84,000 to divide as a result of a bill enacted during the 1985 General Assembly session, Senator John Bambacus (R-Allegany, Garrett) has announced.

Bambacus was unhappy with the final version of the bill because it allows both paid and volunteer companies to receive some of the $4.2 million allocated by the General Assembly rather than just volunteer companies which was the original intent of the legislation, Bambacus noted.

However, Bambacus said Garrett County's fire and rescue companies will not be affected by the bill version because there are no paid companies in the county. Bambacus, who served on the governor's Task Force on State Support for volunteer Fire, Rescue and Ambulance Services last year, was an original co-sponsor of the bill.

The bill provides that municipalities will not receive direct funding from the state but will receive a guaranteed share of funds distributed to the counties. Each county will receive at least two percent of the total state funds appropriated. The fund will be administered by the Secretary of Public Safety and Correctional Services.

The distribution formula in the bill provides that a qualified municipality (one expending $25,000 or more for fire protection) will receive no less that 50 percent of its total proportion of the combined fire protection expenses in the county. Thus, for example, if a municipalities'

Commissioners Urge Signing Of Steep Slope Bill

The following letter was mailed to Governor Harry Hughes in Annapolis by Garrett County Commissioners Elwood L. Groves II, John G. Braskey, and Ernest J. Gregg Jr, concerning the Steep Slope Bill which was passed by both the House and Senate and is now awaiting the Governor's signiture.

"The Board of Garrett County Commissioners respectfully request that you act favorably by concurring with Senate Bill No. 230 and House Bill No. 466 as amended; this would enable restrictive surface mining on slopes of greater than 20 degrees.

"This legislation is a very integral part of Garrett County's economic future and survival. Garrett County generates the largest percent of surface mined coal tonnage in the state; plus it has the largest percentage of proven coal reserves. A favorable action by you would allow the coal industry to survive in Maryland and be competitive with our neighboring states. This survival will allow the industry to continue providing our citizenry with gainful employment. It will also provide our county with the much needed tax revenues and our incorporated town with revenues that they utilize for road maintenance.

"The Board of County Commissioners recognize the concerns of the various environmental entities, but feels that the legislation, as amended, addresses those issues and adequately protects the environment. Tourism, as you know, has been and will continue to be one of our county's largest assets. If we thought that the coal industry of Garrett County was not responsible or that the legislation was either weak or not environmentally safe, we would not have endorsed legislation that could adversely affect the tourism industry.

"In closing, we sincerely hope that this critical issue to Garrett County will have your favorable approval by being en-

Area Man Resists Arrest, Charged With Six Counts

An Oakland man is presently incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail after being arrested and charged with escape, fleeing and eluding a police officer, resisting arrest, destruction of property, and two counts of assault and battery.

Donald A. Warren, 29, was apprehended at his home last Thursday by Deputies Larry Gnegy and Donald W. Tucker after his bond had been revoked on a previous theft charge. After his arrest, Warren allegedly attempted to escape the officers' custody on foot. He was captured and led to the patrol car by the officers when he allegedly became disorderly and destroyed a radio antenna, attempted to kick out a rear window, and inflicted damage on the trunk of the vehicle.

Warren reportedly also fought with both officers and they were treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital for minor injuries.

Warren's bond has been set at $200,000.

Ruth Warren was also apprehended for bond revocation without incident.

Sierra Club Sues State Agencies; Claims Local Firm Violating Laws

The Sierra Club has filed suit against officials of two Maryland agencies claiming they have failed to enforce permit and licensing requirements for a peat harvesting company in Garrett County.

The case, in which the club seeks a court order for the agencies to enforce regulations, has been filed in the Garrett County Circuit Court and a U.S. District Court in Baltimore.

Named as defendants in the case are Torrey Brown, secretary of the Department of Natural Resources; James W. Peck, director of the Water Resources Administration; Adele Wilzack, secretary of the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, and William Eichbaum, assistant secretary for Environmental Programs.

The Sierra Club asserts that the Garrett County Processing and Packaging Corporation has been excavating peat in The Glades, which the environmentalist group calls an "ecologically unique wetland," without obtaining permits required by Maryland's Environmental Health Code, Natural Resources Code and Surface Mining Act.

The club claims the company must apply for any permits and licenses, must halt further activities at the Glades until and unless such permits are granted, and must restore the Glades to its natural condition until the permits are acquired.

In its suit, the group further alleges the company is discharging pollutants in state waters and is dredging and filling wetlands.

There are three counts in the 17-page suit charging the defendants with failing to enforce requirements.

The natural peat bog is located northeast of Deep Creek Lake State Park in the Bittinger area and drains into Cherry Creek and the Casselman River.

GCPPC Concerns Noted

A spokesperson for GCPPC called the claims exaggerated and ridiculous, pointing out that most of the board of directors and employees in the business are Bittinger residents and would do nothing they felt would harm the ecological balance of the Glades. He noted several members of the board are environmentalists.

The Sierra Club notified the GCPPC and federal and state regulatory agencies on January 2 of their intentions to file suit to force compliance with necessary laws. Since then, agents from almost every regulatory agency imaginable has visited the company to observe its operation, the spokesperson noted.

The company has cooperated with all the agencies, the spokesperson said, and has obtained a grading permit as suggested by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Even through they are not convinced they need one, the company is in the process of obtaining a permit, called an NPDES, to discharge pollutants into state waters.

"We do not discharge or use pollutants in our operation," the spokesperson stated.

The spokesperson stated there is a water diversion ditch around the peat bog, but that it has been there for the entire 22 years the company has been in operation. GCPPC members are skeptical where the Sierra Club obtained its information

"Pay One Price" Policy Adopted By Fair Board

"Pay one price" will be the policy used at this year's Garrett County Fair at McHenry. "Pay one price" means that a ticket purchased at the gate will cost $3 for each person from age 1 to 100. Covered by this one fee will be all fair activities such as the tractor pull and the horse pull. All the entertainment on the stage will be covered by this one fee also.

Amusement rides will also be covered by this one fee. A ticket holder may ride all day and evening on the same ticket. Weekly passes will be sold for $9 for those who would like one, however, any pass holder will need to pay an additional $2 if they want to ride amusements. It will be very essential to hold onto the ticket purchased. If lost, a new ticket will be required to ride and see activities.

The new "pay one price" policy was decided during a special meeting of the Garrett County fair exective board and board members and David Daugherty of Gambill Amusements. This year's Garrett County Fair will be held August 11 through 17.

County Spring Choral Festival Slated Tonight

An All-County Spring Choral Festival will be held at Garrett Community College in the auditorium, tonight at 7:30 p.m.

There will be approximately 120 students representing Northern High School, Northern Middle School, Southern High School and Southern Middle School participating in the concert. The students have been selected from their respective schools to participate in the concert.

Soloists include Karen Frank, soprano from Northern High School, and Cindy Eichorn, soprano from Southern High School. Traditional American music will be performed by both high schools.

A combined handbell group from Northern and Southern will accompany a choral number and will play music by J.S. Bach. The handbell group includes Kim Frank, Terri Bowser, Michael Glotfelty, Leigh Knotts, Tammie Hudnall, Lisa Lupis and Kristiann Wilt.

Three songs, "The Happy Wanderer", "ilie Lovlei", and "Songs My Mother Taught Me", will be sung in German by the middle schools and a group from Southern.

A medley of songs from "The Sound of Music" will feature soloists, Nancy Alvarez, Ruth Evans, Lori White, Missy McCune and Tim Friend. "The Surrey With The Fringe On Top", will be performed by a group of boys, and the program will conclude with "An American Salute", sung by all 120 singers.

Mr. James Boord, choral and band director from Northern High School will be conducting the concert. Carolyn Lambert Wilt is the secondary choral director and will accompany the singers.

This is the first All-County Choral Concert to be held in Garrett County for 15 years. There is no admission charge and the public is welcome to attend.

TWO BIG HONORS were received by Southern High School senior Scott Colaw this past week, as he was not only named to the Maryland Big 33 All-Star Football Team, which will play against Pennsylvania's all-stars in July, but he was also signed to a four-year football scholarship to the University of Pennsylvania, an Ivy League University located in Philadelphia. Colaw is pictured being congratulated by Tom Woods, head football coach at Southern. Flanking them are his parents Dennis "Xie" and Betsy Colaw, Oakland. The scholarship is valued at nearly $65,000, since one year of undergraduate education at Penn is just over $16,000. See story on sports page.

IT'S BEEN 15 YEARS SINCE THE LAST ALL-COUNTY CHORAL FESTIVAL was held in Garrett County, but the public will be treated to this special event once more starting at 7:30 p.m., tonight. The concert is being held in the auditorium at Garrett Community College. Conductor for the concert is James Boord, choral director at Northen High School. Carolyn Lambert Wilt is the secondary choral director and accompanist for the event. Approximately 120 students from Northen and Southern High Schools and Northern Middle and Southern Middle Schools have been selected to perform in the festival. Traditional American music and a few German selections will be featured at the concert, along with a combined handbell group from Northern and Southern. The public is invited to attend this free choral festival.

Plans Being Finalized For Third Annual Mountain Lake Park Days

Plans are being finalized for the third annual Mountain Lake Park Days/The Mountain Chautauqua, according to Suzanne Sincell, co-chairman of the event, which is sponsored by the Friends of Mountain Lake Park.

The four-day celebration will be held July 10-13 and will feature such activities as a concert by nationally-known Appalachian musical ensemble, Trapezoid; a boarding house dinner at Cornish Manor, Oakland; a full stage performance by The Magical Mime Company; tours of Mtn. Lake Park Victorian homes; a large arts and crafts show, sale, and demonstration; a performance by "Where There's a Will", a professional actors ensemble which presents scenes from Shakespearian comedies and tragedies; plus a variety of performances and shows by a number of local organizations.

The Trapezoid concert is slated for Wednesday, July 10, in the Southern High School cafetorium. Tickets, which will be $5 per seat, will go on sale in the near future.

The boarding house dinner will be held Thursday, July 11, at Cornish Manor in two seatings, 5:30 and 7:30 p.m. Cost will be $12 per person. Reservations will be required by July 5 and may be made by contacting Joe Dumire, D Street, Mtn. Lake Park; telephone 334-2216 after 5 p.m. The meal will feature numerous items which were common entrees at most of the several boarding houses which operated in Mountain Lake Park at the turn of the century. Waitresses will be wearing period attire and the tables will be appropriately decorated.

Tours of various Mtn. Lake Park homes will be held on Friday, July 12, from 1 to 5 p.m. and possibly on Sunday afternoon, July 14. Final details, including ticket information, will be announced later.

The Magical Mime Company, a local organization which entertains with a combination of magic, mime, dance, juggling, and comedy, will perform on the Southern High School stage Friday, July 12, at 8 p.m. Ticket information will be released in the near future.

The arts and crafts show will be located on the picturesque grounds of the Mountain Lake Park Assembly Hall, situated along G Street. Over 120 artists and craftspersons have been invited to attend. Other persons interested in renting a space at the show and who have not received an invitation may contact Mrs. Sincell at 334-3650 to register. The show will open at 10 a.m.

Also slated for Saturday on the Assembly Hall grounds is recreation such as horseshoe pitching, croquet, and pony rides, plus the sale of food and beverages.

Throughout the afternoon in the Assembly Hall auditorium there will be performances by a variety of local musical and vocal groups, an historic presentation on Mountain Lake Park, a professional storyteller for children, and a puppet show. The day's activities will be capped by the Saturday evening performance, which will appeal to all ages, by "Where There's a Will" ensemble at 8 p.m. Ticket information will also be forthcoming on these events.

Mrs. Sincell stated that all proceeds from the Mountain Lake Park Days celebration will be used by the Friends of Mountain Lake Park for town preservation and improvement projects.

Also aiding in the sponsorship of this Mountain Chautauqua revival effort by way of the awarding of a matching grant to help defray expenses is the Garrett County Arts Council, a branch of the Maryland State Arts Council.

Mrs. Sincell stated that a meeting of the Friends of Mountain Lake Park to continue finalizing plans for Mountain Lake Park Days will be held on Monday, April 29, 7:30 p.m. at the Mountain Lake Park City Hall. All persons interested in the town of Mountain Lake Park, whether or not they are town residents, are invited to attend and participate in the organization's activities.

Persons desiring more information about Mountain Lake Park Days/The Mountain Chautauqua may contact Joe Dumire at 334-2216 or Mrs. Sincell at 334-3650.

Special Public Hearing Set For Mtn. Lake Park

The Mayor and Town Council of Mountain Lake Park will hold a special public hearing next Thursday, April 25, in order to receive opinions and input from citizens of the town regarding a proposal to purchase the Mtn. Lake Park railroad station and an adjoining large warehouse.

An effort to secure ownership of the station, and ultimately restore it, has been underway for several months, spearheaded by Dorothy Leighton, of the Garrett County Arts Council, assisted by Donald Sincell, president of the Friends of Mountain Lake Park.

Mrs. Leighton has been working for several months to obtain some matching funds from the Maryland Arts Council for the purpose of purchasing the railroad station. Presently at least $5,000 is available for the project and the amount may be as much as $25,000.

The Maryland Arts Council was one of eight recipients of grants totalling $2 million awarded by the National Endowment for the Arts. Maryland received $150,000, which has been matched with state monies totalling $154,500. The prime purpose of the program, called the NEA Local Test Program, is to involve county and local government funding for the arts. In order for the money to be awarded for the train station project, the town of Mountain Lake Park must hold title to the structure and allocate the required matching funds.

Sincell stated at a meeting of the Town Council last week that the Friends of Mountain Lake Park, a non-profit organization dedicated to the historic preservation and improvement of the town, will lead fund raising efforts to defray the required matching funds, so that city taxpayers' dollars used initially will eventually be repaid to the town.

Mayor Russell Alexander then proposed an idea that the town purchase the station and the adjoining warehouse in order to receive the grant money from the Arts Council, and then either sell the warehouse to recover the initial investment or convert the warehouse into a community center.

Mrs. Leighton stated that this is the first time in history that Arts Council monies can be used for the acquisition of property. In the past, the monies were allocated for art projects and programs only. She also noted that Maryland was one of only nine states to receive the federal grants and the Mountain Lake Park project is one of only ten subdivisions in the state to receive funds.

Although the mayor and the majority of the council seemed in favor of pursuing the project, they said they would appreciate hearing the opinions of town citizens on the matter, which is why they scheduled the special hearing. It will be held Thursday, April 25, at the Town Hall, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Southern High's Mock Trial Team Victorious Again

Southern High School's Mock Trial Team is now 4-0 following their most recent victory at the regional competition in Frederick yesterday.

Southern's team presented the State's case before Frederick County Circuit Court Judge William Wenner, and not only won the case but also the meet. Because of the point system, a team does have to win its case to win the meet, but Southern's team has won all their cases and all their meets, thus far.

Southern has presented two cases for the state and two cases for the defense.

The win last night was over North Carroll High School from Carroll County. The team will now travel to Annapolis for the State competition to be held May 1 and 2. A highlight of the State competition will be a luncheon with Governor Harry Hughes.

The team winning the State competition will go to New York City for National competition.

Team members include: Kim Simpson, Lorie Damon, Erica Carlson, Jim Bartholomew, Jim Comfort, Daina Savage, Susan Fedde and Betsy Thayer.

Coaches for the team are Shirley Spiker and Louis Newcomb. Team coordinator is Robert Boal. Consulting attorney for the team is Michael Morrisette.

No-Confidencc Vote Discussed By GCC Forum

The Faculty Forum of Garrett Community College held a meeting Monday morning to further discuss their previous vote of no-confidence in President Randall Harman and Dean of Academic Affairs Fred K. Learey.

The Forum decided to send a letter to each GCC Board of Trustees member explaining their rationale in the no-confidence vote.

Faculty representatives are hoping to meet with the board before the next board meeting, which is to be held April 30. The board was originally scheduled to meet April 16.

The Forum, according to a spokesman, is expecting a response to their letter by next Tuesday morning.

Cindy Kutchman To Resign From Promotion Council

Cindy Kutchman, executive director of the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council, has submitted her resignation from that position, effective sometime in July.

Mrs. Kutchman, a native of Cumberland, has served as executive director since 1978. She stated that her reasons for leaving the post are to raise a family and return to college to further her education.

According to the U.S. Travel Data Center, when Mrs. Kutchman assumed the position of executive director in 1978, approximately 15 and one-half million dollars were generated in Garrett County via tourism and travel. In 1983, that figure had jumped 245% to $38 million.

Under her direction, there were several major changes made to the annual Autumn Glory Festival, including the addition of 13 new events.

The number of copies of the county's Vacation Guide, prepared and published by the Promotion Council, increased from 50,000 to 75,000 from 1978 to 1985. Format changes included an increase in the size of the booklet, plus the addition of color photos on the inside of the publication. The advertising in the guide also contains color.

The general membership of the Promotion Council during Mrs. Kutchman's service increased from 160 in 1978 to 206 in 1985.

A major accomplishment of Mrs. Kutchman was her successful effort in securing the 1989 World Whitewater Championships on the Savage River in Garrett County.

"We have worked very hard to promote off-season (spring and fall) activities in Garrett County to make the area a year-round resort, not just a summer and winter resort," Mrs. Kutchman said.

In reference to the Whitewater Championships, she stated that she believes the event will be a "great boost" for the promotion of Garrett County. "Even though I will not be the director in 1989, I plan to take as active a role as possible in this event in 1989," she said. "I really want to be a part of it."

In reflecting upon the past seven years, Mrs. Kutchman said it is "very satisfying" to see tourism grow so much in the county. "It has also been a great opportunity to work with a lot of wonderful people and make so many good friends."

Mrs. Kutchman, and her husband, Rick, a Garrett County deputy, reside in Truesdell Heights, Oakland. They are expecting their first child in August.

The procedure for replacing Mrs. Kutchman will be undertaken soon by the Promotion Council board of directors. Announcement will be made as to when advertising for the position is underway.

Governor Signs Edwards' Bill

Del. George C. Edwards (R-Garrett, Allegany) says he is pleased that Gov. Harry Hughes has signed his bill to exempt leased farming implements from personal property tax.

"This bill is a bill that makes the tax system more fair to farmers who have to lease farm equipment because they cannot afford to buy a new piece of equipment which would be exempt from personal property tax," Edwards said after the governor signed his bill on April 9.

Previously, leased farming equipment was subject to the personal property tax while privately-owned equipment was not. This bill, Edwards noted, will also exempt leased equipment from the personal property tax.

The idea for the bill came from Jerry Moyer, former supervisor of assessments in Garrett County, who saw the inequity that existed in the previous law and felt it should be alleviated, Edwards pointed out.

"The law should be of help to the many farmers of Garrett and Allegany counties," Edwards said.

This bill was introduced in the 1984 General Assembly, but did not pass the Senate.

Grand Chief Of Pythian Sisters To Visit Oakland

Patricia Raines, Grand Chief of the Pythian Sisters of Maryland, will make her official visit to Garrett Temple #17 on Monday, April 22, at 7:30 p.m. Temple #17 meets at the Castle Hall on Third Street, Oakland.

Mrs. Raines, Gaithersburg, founded Forest Oak Temple #18 in Gaithersburg in April 1973. She was elected to the office of Guard in her temple the following year. She was secretary from 1975 through 1977, which made her a past chief of her temple. She was also Manager, ex-Senior.

In 1980 she was elected to the office of Most Excellent Chief and also filled the office of treasurer for two years.

At the Grant Temple Convention in 1979, held in Easton, she was elected to the office of Grand Guard, thus having served in every office of Grand Temple. She was elected Grand Chief of Maryland at the Grand Temple Convention in Annapolis last September for 1984-85.

During her term of office she will visit 16 Pythian temples throughout the state. Supporting the Maryland Sheriffs' Boys Ranch is what she has selected as her project for the year.

Other charities and causes supported by previous Grand Chiefs have been the American Cancer Society, the American Heart Association, the Maryland Salem Children's trust for abused and neglected children, and research on retinitis pigmentosa.

Visitors from other temples around the state are expected to attend Monday's meeting in Oakland. A program has been planned to honor Mrs. Raines and Patricia White, Most Excellent Chief of Temple #17. All local members are encouraged to attend.

Loren Bowser Wins Md. State VICA Contest

Loren Bowser won first place honors in the Cabinetmaking contest at the Maryland VICA Skills Olympics and Delegate Assembly held on March 29 and 30, at the West Side Skill Center in Baltimore.

Loren, a sophomore at Southern High School, is the son of Ed and Pat Bowser of Oakland.

Loren was required to build a working drawer and drawer-case assembly from a blueprint and a pile of wood in an allotted period of time. Loren pitted his skill against VICA Club members from vocational schools and high schools all over Maryland.

As a winner of the state contest, Loren will now proceed to the National Conference in Phoenix, Ariz. in June. There he will compete against state winners from fifty states and U.S. possessions.

Accompanying Loren to the National Conference will be John Fitzwater, building trades instructor at Southern High School.

Stanton Named Executive Head Of State Health Planning Commission

James R. Stanton, 37, Oakland, has been named executive director of the Maryland Health Resources Planning Commission (MHRPC).

He has been the executive director of Health Systems Agency of Western Maryland (HSAWM) for the past five years.

Stanton, who will assume his new duties in May, will be the first commission director to work with the health care cost containment package recently passed by the General Assembly.

He will recommend a HSAWM replacement Wednesday afternoon when that agency's governing body meets in Hagerstown.

Gov. Harry Hughes endorsed the state appointment which was decided by the 14-member commission last Tuesday.

Stanton, better known as "Smokey" around Oakland, is married to the former Sandra Herndon of Keyser, W. Va., and they are the parents of a three-year-old son, Michael.

The appointee is a Vietnam veteran of the U.S. Army and possesses a Master of Science degree in social work, administration and community organization from West Virginia University. He completed other degree work at WVU and Potomac State College. He served three terms on the Oakland City Council, is currently a member of the Oakland-Mt. Lake Park Lions Club, the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department, serves as a member of the Garrett County Board of Social Services and a member of the Western Maryland Hospital Board of Directors. He has had professional papers delivered at conferences and seminars.

He has been actively involved in the development of several health care cost containment bills and said he was happy that the General Assembly passed those measures.

Stanton said he has been pleased with the cooperation of the four county governments which support HSAWM and praised the agency's governing body and staff.

Oakland Man Cited For Theft, CDS Possession

An Oakland man has been charged with two counts of theft, possession of a controlled dangerous substance and daytime burglary by Deputy Charles Nolan of the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

David E. Liller, 24, allegedly broke into the home of Donald J. Kisner last Thursday and took several bottles of prescription drugs. An arrest warrant was issued and Liller was found at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Nolan serached Liller and found two additional bottles of drugs that were allegedly taken from the hospital. Liller was again searched at the Garrett County Jail by Correction Officer Mike Stem, who allegedly found another bottle of prescription drugs on the suspect.

Liller remains incarcerated in the jail in lieu of $2,000 full bond.

Another arrest was made this week by the Sheriff's Department after a complaint of battery was filed by Mrs. Dale Allen Moreland against her husband.

Moreland was apprehended by Deputies Charles Nolan and Richard Kutchman and charged with battery. He has since been released from the jail on his own recognizance.

Something's Rotten . . .

It seems that a local enterprise has suddenly found itself in front of the regulatory guns of the state and federal government, the motive for which seems suspicious.

For 22 years the harvest of natural peat has continued in The Glades area of Garrett County, near Bittinger. Garrett County Processing and Packaging Corporation, which is operated by local persons, is presently in charge of the operation.

For most of its history, the peat harvesting operation has been basically free of regulation and control, because it is a non-polluting, non-destructive activity. However, company owners received a telephone call the first of this year from a representative of the Nature Conservancy with a proposition to buy the peat bogs. The company owners stated they might be interested, but only if the Conservancy offered to buy the company along with the bogs, so the company owners would not suffer great financial losses. The Conservancy declined.

It was just one week later that the company was notified of the intentions of the Sierra Club to file suit against state officials seeking the enforcement of permit and licensing requirements at the peat mining operation. The suit calls not only for the permits and requirements, but also the halt of the peat operation until permits are granted and restoration of the bog area. The suit compares peat harvesting to that of strip mining, claiming that the peat "mining" activities will result in "the complete devastation of the bog, similar in scope to the damage that would be wrought by strip coal mining activities."

Such a comparison and allegation, in our opinion, is ludicrous. First of all, there is no water, soil, or air pollution from a peat harvesting operation like there is with coal mining. Secondly, there is strong evidence to suggest that the habitat of the bog area will be improved, rather than damaged, by the peat harvesting. Finally, these regulations have never been placed on the operation in the past.

The Nature Conservancy Board attempted to buy the bog area in the fall of 1983 and were quite upset when they were out-bidded by the local company. It will be interesting to see if the Conservancy Board and Sierra Club are working together in this suit.

Another important point is that the owners of the peat company are persons with education and experience in the areas of botany, biology, environment, and health. They are well aware, and appreciate the value, of natural habitat and wildlife. The Sierra Club has never even stopped by to observe the operation.

This is a case of huge, national organizations taking on tiny, free enterprise in Garrett County for what real reasons are anyone's guess. We sense, however, that we are talking about more decayed, rotted material than just peat.

Our Turn

Grandma Loves Arthur Itis
by Pam Ashby

It's amazing the things we learn from our parents and grandparents. They impart so much general knowledge about life. But the most wonderful things they dispense are the whimsical tales of their lives.

Hearing my mother tease my widowed grandmother about dating Arthur Itis, Ben Gay, and Charlie Horse, just tends to make these terrific relatives more human and lovable.

My mother's (as well as my father's) wit has fortunately been genetically transmitted to her children. At a recent family dinner, Mom must have mentioned and apologized for the ham being too salty at least ten times throughout the course of the meal. It wasn't surprising then, when she said, "Oh no! Why didn't someone tell me the potato salad was too tart?", that her six grown children chirped in unison, "Aw, Mom. We couldn't tell it was too tart because the ham was too salty." (Birds of a feather...)

My husband's mother is also a great one for spinning hilarious yarns. She claims we have nothing on her as far as ornery children go. Every time she tells the story of how her son suddenly disappeared in a posh department store, I crack up.

It seems as though the then five-year-old hid in the middle of a revolving clothes rack and seized the opportunity to kick a rather wealthy female shopper in the shins. She didn't know what hit her. Poor Mom. Dragging her four other youngsters along, she found her lost son by tracking down the lady's horrified shrieks. She offered to pay for the lady's torn silk stockings, but was haughtily answered with, "Can't you control that...that child?"

Isn't it marvelous how such a calamity can become a comedy years later. I wonder if the rich lady ever laughs about it.

Humor is ageless. My husband's grandmother is priceless. Her expressions and witticisms are to be cherished.

I'll never forget the day she walked into her daughter's house to find some visitors, at least 15 years her junior, and whispered to me, "Who are those old folks?" I could barely contain my hysteria 'till the "old folks" departed.

Seriously, though, Granny is the youngest person I know. She loves a good joke or prank as much as she loves her great-grandchildren.

I may disagree with or totally discard my parents' or grandparents' advice, but I'll always treasure the comedic legends they've created for me. I'll pass them on to the next generation and I trust the gaiety of life will endure for all time.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I was outraged at a statement made in your editorial, "Tough . . . But Working." Your statement, "Teachers and educators cannot be expected to carry out the responsibilities of parents who have failed in one or more aspects of parenting," is grossly unfair to parents. Such a broad catchall phrase insults the intelligence of this newspaper.

Children have minds of which they themselves control. Parents can try to instill good morals, manners and values, but cannot make a child accept these against their own will. They are free moral agents as everyone is. parents do have the responsibility to try to instill these qualities, but that is where the buck stops. After this, it is in God's hands. It is about time that children accept some of the responsibility for their own actions. The Bible states that, once a person knows right from wrong, he is held accountable for his own sins. It's time parents stopped assuming all the responsibilites for their child's actions.

Parenting is not a course that is taught, there are no lessons given on how to make an A grade. One must plunge through it and do the best they can.

Mrs. Norma J. Rodeheaver
Star Rt. 2, Box 151
Oakland, MD 21550

To the Editor:

I was very surprised and shocked to read April 4 paper and learn of the actions taken by the administrators at Garrett Community College.

During my years as a student at GCC I didn't know Dr. Deal, but I was fortunate enough to know Mr. Carstens as an instructor, and Mr. Fearnow as both an instructor and as director of intramural sports. After I graduated from GCC, I transferred to the University of Maryland, where I am currently enrolled in the Fire Protection Engineering program. It wasn't until I started at Maryland that I realized what a difference it makes to have instructors who take a genuine interest in both their teaching and getting to know their students as individuals well. I feel that Mr. Carstens and Mr. Fearnow both possess these qualities. As many students who transferred to larger schools will probably agree, these are the type of instructors preferred, but not so easily found in any college. This is why I was upset to find out that Mr. Carsten's and Mr. Fearnow's contracts were not renewed.

In writing this letter, I am asking the residents of Garrett County (especially the parents of present and future GCC students) to confront the Board and find out why such actions were taken. In my opinion, they are making a gross error by not renewing the contracts of two top quality instructors.

Thank you,
Ivan J. Humberson
College Park

To the Editor:

Several weeks ago I read a letter in this column from a person who was quite upset over the death of a military friend in a plane crash in Central America. In the same article the writer encouraged young men and women to think twice about joining the military, that it was not all it is advertised to be, obviously not speaking from experience.

I would like to start by thanking some of those young men from Garrett County and Mineral County, West Virginia, who served their country well in the past: Roger "Rocky" Smith, John W. McCloud, Roy McCloud, Jack L. Michaels, Jr., Vernon L. Schroyer, Bill Wilson, Emory Paugh, Bobby Fletcher, Jimmy D. Beeman, Bill Evans, John Bobo, John Paugh, Richard Pritts, John Ruble, Kenny Shillingburg and Dave Burdock, to mention a few. Special thanks and highest respect to two of my best high school friends who died in Viet Nam: Lawrence Dunithan and Robert Mayhew. They paid the highest price for America, their life.

The military is not a vacation, it is a job. National security is the objective. Assignments are to every corner of the world. You do have the opportunity to travel and see the world, but not every assignment is Honolulu, Hawaii; Tokyo, Japan; or the countries of Europe, nor is every assignment the jungles of Panama or Viet Nam. The needs of the military come first to meet the mission, however, chances are you will eventually receive an assignment of your choice.

The military, as in the civilian community, also has a set of laws and regulations it must abide by in addition to laws of the state, or country of assignment. It is called the Uniform Code of Military Justice. In the military you can be punished by Article 15 or court-martial for such things as being late for work, leaving your unit without permission (AWOL), and for disobeying lawful orders/regulations. Unlike the civilian community, if a military member goes AWOL, he or she knows they have broken a military law and will be punished. They learn this from day one in basic training.

Praise and respect should be given to all the young men and women who have served and those who died in the service of the United States; to keep it free so that American citizens can still have the freedom of speech to write articles complaining about the military and discouraging young men and women from serving their country. Think about it, where would America be without its strong military? I don't believe you have to think about it long. Young people, it's your choice.

Sincerely,
Alvin E. McCloud
Travis AFB, Calif.

To the Editor:

The recent verbal warfare between the county commissioners of Western Maryland over the Citicorp vote is something that should never have happened. Just because Garrett County will not get any direct rewards from Citicorp coming to Maryland and placing its Credit Card Plant in Washington County, are our commissioners so self serving to think that Citicorp will put our local banks out of business?

Garrett County is not the only county in Western Maryland that has locally owned and operated banking institutions. Besides, the people of Garrett County are loyal and steadfast in their ways and would probably not leave their current banks to go to a larger, impersonal corporation. It is doubtful that Citicorp would even want to expand into Garrett County since, to this date, none of the many major financial institutions in Maryland have expanded into this county. Even if Citicorp would come in, would not a little competition help the majority of constituents in the county? This is what has helped to build America to what it is, competition.

It is a noble thought to think that they voted only for the welfare of Garrett County. But this is only short-term thinking. A united front where all of Western Maryland is concerned would be a more practical stand. What if down the road Garrett County needs support from our fellow counties for some unforeseen matter. What would stop them from turning their backs on us, just as we have done to them?

Come on, commissioners, get your head out of the snow and come out of the woods. Garrett County and Western Maryland is a great place to live and work. With all the counties working together the future could be even better with even more chances of growth. This means more jobs and a larger tax base. Think about it.

To the Editor:

With regard to my letter published in the April 4, 1985, issue of The Republican, I have had a number of inquiries. People have said it was plain to see from the billings that the Bloomington Improvement Association had made errors. They have asked me if the situation has been corrected.

This is to advise that the Bloomington Improvement Association has made no attempt to correct their errors, and I have been without water since noon, April 3, 1985.

Sincerely yours,
Mona F. Beard

1986 budget to the Garrett County Commissioners at 2:30 p.m. on April 30 at the commissioners' meeting room in the county courthouse.

Contract Terms Outlined

At the school board's meeting April 11, members of the Garrett County Association of Education Support Personnel pledged to help the school board in its plea for more money from the county this year.

Jean Eberly, former president of the group and a member of the bargaining team, stated she believed the contract to be a good first contract and that both parties had negotiated in good faith.

Les McDaniel, consultant to the county support personnel group, stated Tuesday that although the group feels there are weak spots in the contract, they feel it is a "working contract."

This contract, which affects teachers' aides, secretaries, custodians and cooks, provides a variety of "firsts" for this employee group, McDaniel noted.

Contract provisions include the following:

—A 6% raise in salaries and wages;

—A grievance procedure;

—A procedure for reducing the workforce;

—A just cause provision which means that once an employee has passed a probationary period, he cannot be fired for an arbitrary or capricious reason;

—An unlimited accumulation of sick leave provision;

—Increases in disability protection, life insurance benefits, reimbursement for educational expenses; and —Credit pay for post secondary education.

GCTA Contract Ratified

Lupis stated that he believed the support personnel group's bargaining team negotiated in good faith as did the team for the Garrett County Teachers' Association.

The GCTA ratified its contract with the board a few weeks ago. James Raley, GCTA president, reported that 70 percent of the GCTA members voted and that the vote was 140-9 in favor of the contract.

Lupis stated that the GCTA contract is a two-year closed contract this year. Although the school board and GCTA have entered into multiple year contracts in the past, there has been an opportunity to renegotiate salary and benefit increases each year. In this contract, there can be no negotiation of salaries and benefits.

Lupis outlined other major changes in the GCTA contract as follows:

—A 6% salary increase in the first year of the contract and a 6½% increase in the second year.

—An increase in hospital insurance coverage for employees and their families and an increase in life insurance;

—An increase in salaries for extra duty positions, such as coaches and student group advisors. Also, two positions were opened for track coaches and two for ninth grade basketball coaches; and —A requirement that teachers attend one back-to-school night or similar P.T.A. function a year.

Lupis pointed out that both contracts which have been ratified are contingent on whether the school system can receive the amount of local funds the school officials will request from the county commissioners.

"We Are The World," A Hit Song That's Feeding Millions In Africa

by Bernice Kepple

"We Are The World," the superstar hit song for African famine relief, was heard on radio stations from coast-to-coast and around the world on Good Friday, this year.

It was "just a song on the radio," but it woke me up to a whole continent of starving children and the attempt of 45 popular recording artists to do something significant enough to really help.

"We Are The World" is the name of the song by USA for Africa (United Support of Artists for Africa), made up of 45 popular rock and country stars including Michael Jackson, Lionel Richie, Kenny Rogers, Stevie Wonder, Willie Nelson, and Cyndi Lauper.

Local radio station WXIE joined about 6,000 U.S. stations, the Voice of America, Armed Services Radio, 400 Canadian stations, and stations in Britain, France, Switzerland, Austria and West Germany that simultaneously broadcast the song on Good Friday.

After hearing the song, I began to wonder what was causing such a desperate situation in Africa. I found out that one of the causes was the modernization of Africa. People are now trying to balance between traditional tribal ways and 20th century technology.

Other causes were mismanagement of the land, a ruined ecology, and a growing population. There is one single cause that stands out above all the others, though. It may even be the cause of some of the other causes. It's the drought.

Have we ever had a drought here on the Mountain Top? Well, a dry week or two; the month of August, maybe. But imagine a 10, 12, or 16 year drought and what it could mean to a nation and its people, especially the children.

All that you can imagine is what has happened in Africa. In the country of Burkina-Faso, a severe drought began 16 years ago and is effecting 700,000 people, mostly women and children.

Chad is one of the world's poorest countries and has suffered 10 years of drought with as many as 1,000 people a month, mainly children, dying from a combination of malnutrition and disease.

In Ethiopia an estimated 300,000 people died in the last nine months of 1984 because of a decade of reduced rainfall and four years of outright drought.

Again, try to imagine your own children dying of starvation. What could you do? Where could you go when your whole country, your whole continent is suffering from the same crisis. Presently, the death rate among Africa's children totals 12,000 a day, 4.5 million a year.

Fortunately, most of us can't imagine living through a drought like the one in Africa. And when we do become aware of starving children in the world, we're saddened and want to help. But how? Oh, we can contribute through our church or organizations like UNICEF (United Nations Children's Fund), if we think of it, if we take the time to do it.

Without "We Are The World" maybe I wouldn't even be aware of the fate of Africa's children. Maybe most of us are like that, we need reminded, otherwise we just go on living our own lives and facing our own struggles, which are all real enough. I guess we need the perspective to make our own problems more bearable.

Those 45 or so popular recording artists found themselves in a position to help and they've also given us a way to help. The non-profit organization, founded by the singers, recorded the song which was written by Michael Jackson and Lionel Richie. All proceeds from the records, both the single and the album, along with T-shirts, sweat shirts, and other items has netted "very near the $16 million mark" for the USA for Africa relief fund, said a foundation spokeswoman.

Presently, USA for Africa has decided to split the donated money from the sale of records and other items as follows: The first 35 percent will go to Africa for immediate relief, with a heavy emphasis on medical care, medicine and vaccines. Another 35 percent will go to seeds, fertilizer, farm implements and the means to generate water supplies. Approximately 20 percent will be used to create, with local communities, long-term economic development programs. The final 10 percent will be used to help the hungry and homeless in the United States.

Now, since we all enjoy listening to music, we can just go out and buy the record and know that we are helping hungry people, too. But it's not that easy. Across the country the demand far exceeds the supply of records and albums available.

In Garrett County the song is as popular among children, teens and adults as it is elsewhere in the country. WXIE Disc Jocky Paul McCloud told us that 50 percent of the calls received at the station are requesting "We Are The World." On April 1, WXIE also featured cuts from the album throughout the evening.

Of the three Oakland stores which sell records, only Hecks has received a supply as of yet, and that supply sold out immediately. Englander's Pharmacy has the record ordered and hopes to get it in soon. LeRoy Parker of Radio Shack was asked if he had copies of the record. "I wish I did," he said, "we've ordered twice and I don't know what the problem is. We have two to three people a day, sometimes more, asking for it, and I sure wish we could get it."

A spokesman at Hecks told us that they've had as many copies as they could get. The record is very much in demand and their supply of 200 45rpm's sold right away. He also stated that he had 24 LP's which didn't last long at all. "Everyone's asking for cassettes, tapes, anything they can get," said the spokesman. He hopes to get a new supply of records and albums in any minute now.

It's a good song, it's a good cause and it brings tears to my eyes whenever I hear it and think about the reason it was written. Our teens have been accused of making rock stars into heroes. Maybe this time they are justified, the stars' performance and sales of the record are reaping millions to fight starvation, and all of us who have bought the record or plan to buy the record will be helping.

Just as the broadcast of the song on Good Friday brought the people of the world together for six minutes and 22 seconds (the length of the song), the profits from the song let the world's people provide help and hope to Africa's children.

This is the one record my kids want that I'll feel good buying, if I can get my hands on a copy. I'll even enjoy listening to it because I know it's worthwhile, and I hope it really, really helps.

Commission Looks At Deep Creek Regulations

The Garrett County Planning Commission held a special meeting April 10 to discuss the concerns some members have about the proposed Deep Creek Lake Regulations with Michael R. Gregory, manager of the lake area.

Gregory briefly explained the regulations and asked for questions or comments. A comment was made against the proposed requirement that fishermen who wish to fish along a section of the lake buffer strip must obtain written permission from adjacent landowner.

The buffer strip, a section of shoreline around Deep Creek Lake owned by Pennsylvania Electric Company which generates electricity from the lake, has been available for public use since the lake was built. In a lease agreement in 1980, Penelec granted the Maryland Department of Natural Resources the right to manage the use of the lake which led to the drafting of the regulations.

Anna McNallie, planning administrator, noted that the commission believed that requiring permission to fish along the buffer strip could limit public access to the lake and would allow landowners special privileges by putting them in control of the buffer strip.

Commission member George Brady stated that it was the duty of the DNR to look out for the rights of all the people, not just a few. He had previously noted that special privileges are not granted on other state-controlled property and should not be allowed along the buffer strip.

Gregory explained that the requirement was proposed by the Deep Creek Lake Advisory Board as a way to address problems lake landowners have had with some people who use the buffer strip and who trespass upon their property and their docks as well as litter their property.

Gregory reported that the DNR is in the process of developing three general public access areas around the lake. One of these is Deep Creek Lake State Park, which currently does provide that access, and also provides the only place for a boater who is not a landowner to legally launch a boat. Also under consideration is a 26-acre area near the breast of the dam plus another adjoining 13 acres the DNR would like to purchase if possible for development. The third area is a three-acre site at Green Glade, which would be accessible only from the water.

Gregory explained that Penelec had given the DNR $450,000 for the development of general public access areas, but that it is anticipated it will take twice that much to buy and develop the areas.

Another proposed regulation which greatly concerned those present reads that, "a buffer strip permit may not be issued to a landowner unless that person held or was eligible to hold a valid dock permit before the imposition of the moratorium on August 12, 1983, or owns at least 150 feet of land fronting on the buffer strip."

A good deal of discussion took place concerning the 150-foot frontage, with a suggestion made to make a comment that the regulation should read to require 100 feet of frontage instead of 150 feet.

A motion to make that written comment was made by commission member Merle Garletts. The motion was seconded and carried by the commission.

McNallie stated that a report of the meeting and all comments made would be forwarded to Gregory's office.

were a safer time for young children to travel on buses and because parents more than likely will be home in the morning to see their children off to school.

Ryscavage noted that one of the implications of his recommendation was that Northern High students will operate on a six-period day rather than the seven-period day while the middle school student will follow a seven-period day rather than their current eight-period day.

Lunches to the two groups will be served, but at 10 to 11:15 a.m. for the middle school and 3 - 4:15 p.m. for the high school.

In his letter to the board, Ryscavage had this to say about the bus scheduling: "The financial impact of routing buses to accomplish this plan will be severe. As you know, we have budgeted funds for this purpose over the past few years, but until Mr. Sines (transportation director) is able to complete the very substantial amount of work relative to re-routing of buses in the northern end we will not be able to determine the specific financial impact. Consequently, the budgeted funds for activity buses, mobile communication equipment, and computer equipment may be required to fund this plan."

County Sewer, Water Projects Discussion Topics

An April 2 meeting of the Garrett County Sanitary Commission was held with the commissioners discussing the Deep Creek Lake project, the Gorman Sewer project, and the Kitzmiller and Bloomington water projects.

Deep Creek Lake

Project engineer, Henry Doyle of Greenhorne and O'Mara, gave a report on the status of the Deep Creek Lake project.

Work has been restarted on the pipeline contract (11). Hinkle Mining and Construction anticipates that the work will be completed well within the contract time.

The pumping station contract (12) shows most work completed. The contractor will start restoration as soon as the weather permits, and hopes to be completed within the time frame of the contract.

The sanitary commission has been getting complaints from property owners in the expanded system about restoration of their property. The commission expressed that unless the contractor waits for better weather, the grounds would be damaged even more.

The sanitary commission hopes to have the Deep Creek Lake project entirely operational by the beginning of the summer tourist season and most property restored and back to normal, with a totally functioning sewer system.

According to Beitzel, the deadline for sewer connections in the basic system is June 30. In the expanded system, the customers will receive a notice which will most likely allow a 90-day connection period.

The sanitary commission discussed a letter from Rummel, Klepper & Kahl (RK&K) regarding design fees. The design phase is complete but there is an amount still owed RK&K by the commission and they are requesting payment. The sanitary commission is reviewing the entire project and is disputing an amount that the Environmental Protection Agency has not provided reimbursement for. The EPA indicated that they will audit the entire project and make a decision following the audit.

The sanitary commission determined that they would pay RK&K at the completion of the audit, however, RK&K has requested that their funds not be held that long. The commission made no decision regarding the matter.

Kitzmiller Water

Work has started back up on the Kitzmiller water project. The pipeline contractor is installing meters and house connections. The treatment system was shipped and has been received by the contractor. It appears that work on the water impoundment and treatment facility will be complete within the time frame of the contract.

Gorman Sewer

The sanitary commission received a request from engineer Frank Arnold to increase his design and engineering fees. The request made was based on what the engineer felt would be the change in scope of the work that resulted from a state mandated change in the disinfectant system, the sewage treatment plant site relocation, telemetry system, and negotiation with the railroad for easements.

The commission requested documentation from the engineer to substantiate actual costs associated with these apparent changes. The commission deferred action on a decision until the information is received from the contractor.

Bloomington Water

An agreement was prepared between the Garrett County Sanitary Commission and the Bloomington Improvement Association outlining the terms of the working perimeters of providing grant funds for the Improvement Association. The commission executed the agreement which will be forwarded to the Bloomington Improvement Association.

SOUTHERN MIDDLE SCHOOL TALENT SHOW—Southern Middle School will present its third annual talent show on Friday, April 19, at 7 p.m., in the school cafetorium. Students have been rehearsing a variety of acts which includes dance, vocal, and instrumental performances by individuals and groups. The public is invited to attend both performances free of cost. Pictured above are several unidentified students and their teacher-directors, Gary Thompson, Marge Clever, and Patti McLaughlin.

Hospice Planning First Road Rally

The Hospice Auxiliary of Garrett County, with the assistance of Charlotte Griffith, a planner of the Autumn Glory Festival Road Rally, will sponsor a road rally on Saturday, May 11, at 1 p.m.

A road rally is a competitive event, with the winner being the driver of the car which comes closest to the actual mileage of a given route. The starting point will be the lower parking lot of the Garrett County Health Department, Oakland. Participants will follow written clues to secret checkpoints and destinations. Prizes and souveniers will be awarded.

Persons wishing to participate in the event may pre-register at the Garrett County Health Department by calling 334-8111 or 895-5050. The entry fee will be $10 per car. After covering the expense of the rally, the remainder of the proceeds will be utilized by Hospice to continue its services to the terminally ill and their families in Garrett County.

Sierra Club

about the peat harvesting operations since no official member has ever visited and observed their work.

Also, the spokesperson stated that the company has always worked with the regulatory agencies and has not to this point been required to obtain a permit.

Although they do not consider their operation one which falls under mining regulations, even if it were considered to be one, its peat harvest is below the amounts considered necessary for regulation.

The spokesperson pointed out that the real concern by the Sierra Club, a national environmental group, is with parts of the Glades which will not be touched by the peat harvesting operation.

"We will be harvesting 80 acres at the most and the entire Glades involves about 450 acres," he said. He added that the GCPPC believes when its operation is complete, in about 30 years, it will leave a nicer habitat for wildlife.

The Sierra Club, in its suit, claims the GCPPC is expanding its operation and as a result will completely devastate the bog, "similar in scope to the damage that would be wrought by strip coal mining activities."

The spokesperson stated that the GCPPC does hope to expand its activities, but at a slow pace. "Certainly nothing drastic," he said.

Actually, the spokesperson noted, the GCPPC is harvesting less peat right now than in past years because it is bagging the peat rather than selling bulk quantities.

Motives Questioned

County officials as well as members of GCPPC have wondered at the real motive behind the Sierra Club actions. One thought is that it is seeking to create hassles and legal fees which could run the GCPPC out of business and cost several people their jobs.

The Garrett County Commissioners at their press conference Tuesday stated they believe that it is a sign of more encroachment by environmentalists and regulatory agencies on private property and private enterprise.

"The GCPPC has been locally owned and operated for the last two years," said Commissioner John Braskey. "The Sierra Club wants to close the door and put people out of work. We will stand by the owners."

The commissioners pledged to closely monitor the issue.

GCPPC members believe the Sierra Club may be interested in gaining control of the Glades.

The spokesperson noted that one week before they were notified of the club's intentions for legal action, they received an offer from the Nature Conservancy, a national group dedicated to preservation, for the purchase of the Glades. The agency would not accept the GCPPC terms that it also buy the peat company as a means for retribution for being put out of business through such a transaction.

The Sierra Club is being represented by the Washington, D.C. law firm, Hogan and Hartson, and by Donald S. Goldbloom, a Cumberland attorney. Attorney for the GCPPC, who is currently reviewing the legal claims, is William Walsh, a Cumberland attorney.

Rotarians Have Art Program

When the Terra Alta Rotary Club met April 4 at Alpine Lake, members were introduced to an art program presented by Charles Amos.

Amos, a guest of Clyde Snyder, is a newcomer to Preston County. He retired following 30 years with the railroad industry and its allied associations, but all his life he has been an artist. His paintings, mostly in charcoal, pastel and oil, have received a critical acclaim. In addition to landscapes and still life, the majority of his paintings depict railroad motives, principally steam engines. A part of his work was projected in slides which demonstrated his art talent. Some of his paintings are private possessions, others were commissioned by art connoisseurs and some are pieces from museums.

With Amos for this presentation was his son, Brook, an exmarine, who is currently a student at West Virginia University.

During a recent Board of Directors meeting, the contribution of the Club to Preston Memorial Hospital was discussed. Members of the Board will bring this matter to the general assembly for a vote for a proposal for a contribution from the club for the next three years.

The Rotary Club District Conference will be held at the Holiday Inn in Parkersburg beginning on April 19. Interested members are urged to make reservations.

GOH Schedules Ninth Annual Hike And Bike

The Garrett Organization for the Handicapped has announced plans for its Ninth Annual Hike and Bike. Co-chairpersons for the event are Dorothy (Dot) Leuba and Ruth Ryan.

The event is scheduled for May 4, 1:00 p.m., at Dennett Road School, Oakland, and May 5, 1:00 p.m. at St. Ann's Catholic Church, Grantsville.

A bicycle inspection will be held at each route one hour before the start of the event by VFW Post 10077 members. Vacationland CB Radio Club members will patrol the route and a Garrett County Deputy will lead the group of hikers and bikers.

Each participant will receive a gift. Cash prizes will be awarded for each route to the individual youth, adult, school, and organization turning in the largest amount of pledged money within two weeks after the event. Rain dates for the event are May 18 and 19.

To enter the event or to sponsor a participant, persons may call Mrs. Leuba or Mrs. Ryan.

GOH, a local volunteer advocate group for the handicapped, depends solely on its fund-raisers to support and provide services to the handicapped citizens of Garrett County. All funds raised are used here in the county for a variety of activities such as the annual GOH Games for all handicapped children and adults, the horseback riding program for the handicapped (free), an annual Christmas party for all handicapped persons and annual Valentine and Halloween dances for handicapped adults. The group has sponsored public meetings to provide information regarding services and programming available for the handicapped, legal rights of parents of handicapped persons, current state and federal legislation, and special education services to handicapped students. Self-contained special education classes in the local public schools each receive an annual cash donation.

In addition, GOH members provide architectural barrier surveys for public and private buildings and have served as advisors to the Board of Education and the Board of Election Supervisors regarding barrier-free facilities for the handicapped. The group is the Garrett County representative on the Governor's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped.

GOH is presently conducting a membership drive. All interested persons are invited to attend the groups' next meeting May 2, 7:00 p.m., at the Appalachian Center.

Colaw Selected To Big 33 Team; Signs Full Scholarship With Penn

Two enormous honors were received this past week by Scott Colaw, a senior at Southern High School, for his outstanding work on the football field, as well as in the classroom.

The 6-3, 232-pound senior was not only selected as one of Maryland's Big 33 All-Stars, but also signed a four-year full scholarship to the University of Pennsylvania of the Ivy League, located in Philadelphia.

Scott, a son of Dennis "Xie" and Betsy Colaw, Oakland, will be among the state's top 33 high school players who will face Pennsylvania's 33 all-stars in the annual Big 33 game July 20 at Hershey Park Stadium. This is the first year that Pennsylvania's Big 33 team has challenged Maryland.

Colaw, who has been a two-year starter both offensively and defensively for the Rams, was defensive captain this past season and led the team to a state semi-finals berth and a 10-1 regular season record. He was named to the first team All-Potomac Valley Conference, first team All-Highland Football Conference, and first team All-Area. He led the Rams in tackles this past season with 91.

Assistant Coach Ed Zubrow, who is in charge of recruiting in Pennsylvania and Maryland for the University of Pennsylvania, signed Colaw yesterday at Southern to a four-year scholarship. He was signed as an offensive tackle. Zubrow noted Colaw's physical strength and progress in the weight room, his coordination and unusual quickness for someone his size, and especially his outstanding academic standing, as qualities which led to the signing. Colaw is among the top three students in his class and may emerge as his class' salutatorian.

Noting that Scott is the first Southern student ever to receive a scholarship to an Ivy League school (where the cost of one year's education is over $16,000), Ram head coach Tom Woods, obviously delighted with Scott's honors, could not say enough about the young man as a person, player, and student.

"Scott was the heart of our defensive team," he said. "He was the player that the other ten looked to for leadership. While players like Steve Bennett were making the obvious open-field, exciting big plays, Scott was making countless big plays on the inside, short-yardage situations."

Southern's only regular season loss was to Northern in the final game, the only game Colaw missed because of injury. "We saw in that game just how valuable Scott was to us," Woods said. "He was not there for our backs to run behind and he was not there to slow down Northern's backfield."

Woods said Colaw's "leadership by example was evident every day during practice.

"Scott is the type of player that every coach would like to have. He has used his rare athletic ability to supplement rare academic ability, resulting in a four-year scholarship to a Division I AA university," he continued. "Academics have always come first for Scott, which is exactly the way it should be for every player. This is what makes me so proud of him."

The Universiy of Pennsylvania has won the Ivy League title for the past two seasons. They play their home games in Franklin Stadium in Philadelphia. Colaw will play on the freshmen team this fall, since an Ivy league rule prohibits freshmen from playing varsity.

Accompanying Colaw to the Big 33 game will be Coach Woods, who was selected as one of two coaches for the defensive unit of the squad, and Frank Custer, Oakland, Southern High trainer, who was named the trainer for the Maryland team.

Colaw and the other 32 players on the squad were selected by a panel of nine regional directors. Southern's J.R. Gibson, senior signal-caller for the Rams, was named a Big 33 alternate and may play in the contest if one of the other 33 players declines or is unable to participate.

"The fact that Scott Colaw was selected to the Big 33 speaks highly of our program at Southern," Woods said. "It is also a result of several years of hard work by former Southern team members." Although Woods was chosen as a coach for the game several weeks ago, he said he was not involved in the selection process.

Trainer Frank Custer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Custer, was graduated in December, summa cum laude, from West Virginia University with a B.S. degree in secondary education. He also completed the National Athletic Trainers Association approved undergraduate athletic trainers program, training with the WVU football teams his junior and senior years. He attended the Gator Bowl and Hall of Fame Bowl. He also served as trainer with the WVU baseball team. Locally, he has been trainer for Garrett Community College and Southern teams.

Practice for the Big 33 game will begin July 13 in Hershey, Pa., at Milton Hershey High School. Players will be housed at the Host Hotel near Harrisburg, Pa., a 300-room facility. The week before the game will include a tour of the Hershey Park facility, a golf tournament, and a banquet, with featured speakers Dan Marino and Tony Dorsett, former Pennsylvania Big 33 players. Each player will receive a wrist watch commemorating the game.

A total of $100,000 has been alloted for the July 20 contest. There will be televised coverage by several Pennsylvania stations, Maryland PBS stations, and possibly national coverage by WTBS, Atlanta, which is local cable channel 9.

Woods stated that the Host Hotel is offering its double-occupancy rooms for $48 per night to persons who plan to attend the Big 33 game. Regular cost is $101 per night. Persons interested in making reservations at the Host Hotel may call 717-939-7841.

A NEW SPORT at both county high schools this year is organized tennis for boys and girls. Above is the Northern High School tennis team, which just opened its season with a loss to Southern on Monday. The squad is coached by Grant Warnick, Jr. Pictured left to right, kneeling, are Jeff Rounds, Phil Rodeheavr, Chris Beitzel, Scott Wachter, Rob Mansfield, and Billy Bishoff. Standing, same order, are Coach Warnick, Jim Wiley, Steve Dyche, Gene Cutter, Jesse Brobst, and Blair Stoltzfus. Warnick said his team is showing progress and is working hard on the fundamentals of the sport. He said even though his players have little experience, they are "giving 100 percent and are producing a strong nucleus that should build successful teams in the coming years." Warnick also noted his appreciation to principal Edward Green and Don Douds, athletic director at Northern, for their support in the program.

Huskies' Streak Halted Yesterday By Indians, 12-4

The Northern Huskies saw their three-game winning streak come to an end and their season record slip to 4-2 as they were routed by Mt. Savage yesterday, 12-4, in the Cove.

Although the Huskies out-hit the Indians, 13-12, the visitors were able to capitalize repeatedly, while most of Northern's safeties were scattered.

Scott Williams and Allen Cook paced Mt. Savage as each finished with a double and a single, driving in two runs apiece. Mike Harden rapped two singles, recorded a pair of RBIs, and scored three times.

A two-run blast by Charlie Beiler in the first inning led the way to a 3-0 early lead for the Huskies, but the Indians came back with one run in the second and five more in the third to go ahead for good.

Brent Beachy and Steve Zumpano each hit a double and a single for Northern, while Kevin Sines picked up a pair of singles. Beachy took the loss on the mound, while Matt Logue was credited with the win.

It was the third straight w for the Indians.

Southern Tennis Teams Struggling With Inexperience

The Southern boys and girls tennis teams, formed for the first time this year, both took it on the chin this week in competition as the boys fell to Petersburg Tuesday afternoon on the West Virginians' court, 6-3, and the girls lost to the Vikings, 8-1. The Southern girls were also defeated yesterday by Fort Hill, 11-1, in Cumberland.

The Southern boys team won its first match of the season, however, by whipping Northern on Monday (details unavailable).

Eric Eiswert, Gordon Savage, and Scott Finch gained victories for the boys against Petersburg, while the doubles team of Mary Bolden and Julie Kitzmiller picked up the only girls' win in doubles competition.

It was the fifth win in six outings for the Petersburg girls, while the boys upped their record to 2-5.

The undefeated Fort Hill Sentinels proved to be far too powerful for the inexperienced Southern girls, who are coached by Linda Garris. The team of Kim DeBerry and Melissa Nazelrod picked up the lone Ram victory by topping Lori Shafer and Michelle Marker in doubles, 7-5, 6-4.

Rams Top Tucker County Behind Stem No-Hitter; Also Whip Beall

The Southern Rams improved their record to 4-1 on the season with three consecutive victories this past week, a doubleheader sweep over host Tucker County on Saturday, 11-0 and 5-0, and a single win at Beall, 6-2, yesterday afternoon.

The Rams, under Coach Jim Bosley, will face arch-rival Northern on Friday. The Huskies will also come into the game with a 4-1 season mark.

Scott Stem, apparently on cloud nine after having just been named the 1985 Cumberland Times/News Pepsi Cola Player of the Year in basketball, tossed a no-hitter against Tucker County in the opening game, struck out 13 batters, and collected a double and two singles for three RBIs.

As if that wasn't enough of a performance, Stem smacked a two-run homer in the fifth inning of the second contest and added a two-run double.

Scott Colaw, who also received good news this week in being named to the Maryland Big 33 team in football and being awarded a full scholarship to the University of Pennsylvania, added a two-run homer in the first inning of the opener. Danny Holler and J.R. Gibson also finished with two hits each.

Colaw combined with Gibson on the mound in the second game to yield only three hits. A run scored by Gibson in the first inning on Stem's double would prove to be the winning run, however the Rams added an assurance run in the third and three more in the fifth.

The Southern wins were tainted, however, as Tim Chapman was lost for the season. In a collision at first base, Chapman sustained a severely broken leg, as both bones below the knee were fractured. The sophomore, who was the second leading hitter on the Rams' team last season as a freshman with a .342 average, also had his season cut short last year when he sustained a broken arm in a game.

In junior varsity action on Saturday, Donnie Horner picked up the win on the mound for Southern over Tucker County, 13-1, and aided his own cause with three hits, including a two-run homer. Max Hill and Bruce Bosley each finished with a pair of hits.

The Rams started slowly yesterday afternoon at Beall, going scoreless until the fifth inning after being down 2-0.

Single runs in the fifth and sixth innings knotted the score at 2-2, however, and the Rams came alive for four runs in the top of the seventh frame for their fourth victory.

Gibson led off the seventh with a walk and moved to second on a sacrifice bunt by Jon Reneslacis. Stem then stepped up and smacked a triple to plate Gibson for the winning run.

Holler then walked, Colaw singled to score Stem, and Horner completed the scoring by driving in Holler and Colaw.

Stem, who came in to relieve John Nelson in the sixth inning, was credited with the win, his second of the year. Nelson and Stem gave up only three hits to the Mountaineers, whose record dropped to 2-1.

Colaw paced the Rams offensively, finishing with two of his team's seven hits.

Bob Cuthbertson went the distance for Beall.

The contest at Northern on Friday will get underway at 4 p.m.

Stem Becomes Second "Player Of The Year" Recipient At Southern

It is rare for a Garrett County athlete to be awarded the Cumberland Times/News Pepsi Cola Player of the Year Award. For such an honor to be bestowed upon not one, but two players from Southern High School in one school year is a first.

Scott Stem, the 6-4 senior who led the Rams to berth in the Maryland Class C Tournament this season, received the Player of the Year Award this past weekend after being named to the Times/News All-Area team.

A teammate, Steve Bennett, who was named to the second team All-Area, received the Player of the Year Award earlier for his efforts on the football field.

Joining Stem on the first team are Chuck Stephens of Allegany, Dave Unnone of Beall, Rob Spencer of Paw Paw, and Jay Courtney of Fort Hill.

Stem, who was a second team pick last season, led the area in scoring this year, hitting 53 percent from the floor (175 of 333) and netting 77 percent of his free throws (86 of 112). He also paced the Rams in rebounds with seven per game (162), dished out 39 assists and was credited with 37 steals.

"Scott Stem is the best player with all-round skills I have ever coached," stated his coach, Oren Yoder. "He can shoot well from the outside and also has power inside. He can rebound and he can handle the ball. He can do everything."

Yoder said Stem served as the leader for the other players. "They looked to him and when the game was on the line, he wanted the ball. He faced all kinds of defenses, but being from a family of 15 children, he doesn't get intimidated.

Scott, son of Clarence and Shirley Stem, Mtn. Lake Park, is the 14th of 15 children and joins several of his brothers in the ranks of outstanding athletes. His older brothers, Greg and Carl, were excellent baseball players for the Rams, while Mike's and Tom's specialty was basketball. Tom was a senior for the Ram squad when Scott broke into the starting line-up as a sophomore.

"Tom was kind of a late bloomer in high school and always playing against him and his older friends really helped me," Scott stated. "We play a lot of one-on-one and he's tough for me to beat."

Stem said he knew that he would have to face all kinds of defenses from teams attempting to stop him this season, but "I just had to go out and play my game," he said. "If I didn't get my shot I knew someone would be open and we had some other guys who could rebound."

As competent in the classroom as on the basketball court, Scott is a member of the National Honor Society and has received scholarship offers from the University of Maryland Baltimore County and Longwood (Va.) College and is also being recruited by several Division III colleges.

Presently he is among the standouts on the Southern baseball team, having tossed a no-hitter against Tucker County on Saturday and recording five hits and seven RBIs in that doubleheader (see separate story).

Defeat Of Nationally-Ranked Allegany Among Laker Victories

The Garrett Community College Lakers went 4-4 during the past week, however one of the four wins was a 13-9 defeat of nationally-ranked arch-rival Allegany Community College yesterday afternoon in McHenry. Coach Lawrence Nesselrodt's Lakers are now 14-8 on the season and will play again today at home against Montgomery CC of Germantown.

It was against Montgomery last Thursday afternoon that the Lakers dropped both ends of a doubleheader, 8-4 and 4-2.

Hambright smacked a two-run homer in the second inning to give Montgomery a 2-0 lead. A three-run blast by Newborn, followed immediately by solo homers by Cockrill and McGugar, put the game away although Garrett staged a three-run rally in the bottom of the seventh.

Rick Harasti homered for the Lakers, while Brian Cueva finished with two hits and Benny Shreves hit a double.

Shreves fourth-inning home-run in the second game, followed by a two-out single by Bob Scavina to score Ken Sova, gave the Lakers a temporary 2-1 lead, but Montgomery came back with three seventh inning scores to win the game.

Garrett came back on Saturday afternoon to sweep a doubleheader from visiting CCAC-Boyce Campus, 6-1 and 11-4.

The winning run in the opening contest was scored by Cueva who was chased home on a Kent Freeman single in the second inning. Cueva had reached base on a run-producing single, which scored Sova, and then stole second base.

Cueva finished with three singles, two RBIs, and scored twice.

In the nightcap, Stacey Viands tossed a two-hitter for the Lakers, while the Garrett offense exploded for six runs in the second inning to put the game away. The six-run effort was highlighted by a two-run single by Cueva which scored Shreve and Sova.

Viands did not allow a single hit until the final inning.

A seven-run seventh inning in the second game of a doubleheader was needed by the

Huskies Win Three Consecutive Games To Raise Record To 4-1

The Northern High varsity baseball team improved its record to 4-1 this past week by winning three straight contests, two at home and one on the road.

Coach Jack Settle's squad nipped Meyersdale on Friday at the Cove, 11-10, whipped home-standing Oldtown on Monday afternoon, 7-1, and crushed visiting Rockwood on Tuesday, 12-2.

The Huskies jumped out to a 4-0 advantage against Meyersdale in the first inning and then recorded six more runs in the third to take a 10-0 lead. However, the Pennsylvanians came roaring back in the top of the fourth with eight runs behind the hitting of Schroyer, who went three-for-four.

Northern added what proved to be the winning run in the bottom of the fifth and then stopped a rally by the visitors just in time in the seventh frame. The Huskies were out-hit, 12-9.

Brent Beachy, who picked up the win on the mound for Northern, was two-for-three and recorded three RBIs, while Steve Zumpano rapped a two-run double. Kevin Sines also earned an RBI in going two-for-four.

Zumpano came in to record a save for Beachy.

Zumpano led the offensive attack on Monday afternoon at Oldtown as the Husky football standout finished with three doubles and three RBIs on the afternoon.

Catcher Charlie Beiler smacked a double and a single, while Aaron Zumpano accounted for a pair of RBIs.

Sines, who earned the win on the mound, aided his own cause with a hit.

The Indians' lone run came in the second inning when Rich Dolly scored.

Steve Zumpano continued to provide the momentum for the Huskies' bats on Tuesday against Rockwood as he tossed a five-hitter, complete game, and rapped a three-run homer, a double, and a single, good for four RBIs.

Bill Murray added a solo blast for Northern, while teammate Beachy picked up a pair of RBIs on two doubles.

Northern had its winning streak broken yesterday afternoon with a loss to visiting Mt. Savage (see separate story).

District Judge Awards $5,000 To Lonaconing Man

A 43-year-old Lonaconing man has been awarded $5,001 by Garrett County District Court Judge Jack Turney who determined the man had been wrongly charged with theft in 1984.

Turney issued his decision April 15 after hearing Arlen Miller's civil case against the Grantsville branch of Southern States Cooperative, Inc.

Thomas Boggess, manager of the business, filed the theft charge against Miller after an apparent misunderstanding over eight tons of fertilizer.

Miller was acquitted of the theft charge in District Court on August 9, 1984.

Apparently, Miller picked up a 20-ton load of 50 pound bags of fertilizer for Southern States from the Baltimore office, but delivered 12 tons to the business. He testified he had been given authority to unload eight tons of the fertilizer from a Southern States employee with the agreement the charge would be added to his credit account.

However, Boggess did not believe Miller and told him to return the fertilizer or pay the $1,072 charge. Miller said he could not return the fertilizer because he had already spread it. Boggess then proceeded to press the theft charge.

In the civil suit, Miller's attorney Michael Morrissette, Oakland, pointed out that Boggess had not attempted to investigate whether any of his employees had authorized the credit purchase.

Judge Turney, in his opinion, said that criminal intent to commit theft could not be proven because Miller believed he had authorization to unload the fertilizer and that Boggess should not have initiated the criminal action against Miller.

The judge awarded Miller $1 in compensatory damages and $5,000 in punitive damages.

However, in a counterclaim, the judge awarded a $7,453.97 claim against Miller to Southern States.

Reportedly, Miller agreed he owed the business that amount from previous purchases. The judge allowed Miller to use his $5,001 award to offset the amount owed to Southern States.

Attorneys for Southern States in the case were Nicholas J. Monteleone, of the Cumberland law firm Hidey, Coyle, Skidmore and Getty; and James Braskey, of the Grantsville law firm Derrick and Braskey.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory on April 15, the birthday of our dear mother, grandmother, and great grandmother, Vesta I. Coddington, who passed away November 1, 1982. We do not need a special day to bring you to our minds. The days we do not think of you are very hard to find. If all this world were ours to give, we would give it, yes and more, to see your smiling face again, on this, your birthday morn.

What if a close friend or relative forgets to pay the electric bill?

Potomac Edison can let you know through their THIRD PARTY NOTIFICATION
Unfortunately, there are times when unpaid electric bills can result in disconnection of a customer's electric service. In such cases, Potomac Edison always sends a "final notice" before service is terminated to give the customer time to contact us to make payment arrangements.
Naturally, there could be a reason why a customer may not pay the bill . . . reasons such as sickness, absence from home, or simply, inability to pay. Because of these and other situations, Potomac Edison is offering a "Third Party Notification" service. This program enables the customer to designate another person whom we can contact before we disconnect electric service for non-payment of an electric bill.
The third party the customer designates could be a friend, relative, doctor, clergyman or even an agency. While the third party is under no obligation to pay the bill, it does provide an opportunity for some action to be taken.
Designation of a third party is entirely voluntary on your part. Whether or not it would serve a useful purpose under your circumstances is a matter which can best be determined by you.
If you do wish to designate a third party to receive a duplicate of any possible disconnect notice, please contact the Potomac Edison office serving your location.

Laker Victories

Lakers on Sunday in order to gain a split with visiting Beaver CC. The surge gave Garrett an 11-10 victory, after having dropped the opener, 6-5.

Shreve finished with four singles in the first game, while Sova smacked a solo homer for the Lakers. Teammates Marty Harvey and Jim Keller each had RBI hits.

But it was a solo homerun by Beaver's Ron Young in the ninth inning which gave the Pennsylvanians the win.

It appeared that Beaver would go home with a pair of wins, as they led 10-4 heading into the bottom of the seventh inning. The score was 5-4 in favor of Beaver when the seventh frame opened, and they added five more runs in that inning.

However, the Lakers' bats went to work and produced seven runs in that final frame for the one-point victory.

Ron Bosley led off with a walk and then scored on a homerun by Harvey. Kevin Winters then walked, Harasti doubled, and Shreve walked to load the bases. Sova stepped up to rap a two-run single, followed by a run-producing single by Cueva. Freeman then hit a sacrifice fly, but the ball was thrown away allowing Sova to score. Cueva then crossed the plate for the winning run.

A pair of homeruns by Freeman yesterday, coupled with solo blasts by Harvey and Keller, highlighted the Lakers opening win over the 12th ranked Allegany Trojans, who came into the contest with a 19-2 record.

Freeman's efforts resulted in six RBIs, as the Lakers won the game with a four-run sixth inning.

An RBI double in the first inning opened the scoring for the Lakers, followed by Harvey's solo homer in the second. Freeman's two-run shot came in the third frame and was immediately followed by Keller's roundtripper. Sova produced a two-run double in the sixth.

Terry Bickle gave ACC a 6-5 lead in the third inning with a grand slam home run. Dick Newman had a solo blast for ACC in the fourth.

In the second game, John Buehler tossed a five-hitter for the Trojans, while the ACC offense recorded 11 hits off Chris Huyett and Viands.

Jim Shultz, Jon Szynal, and Matt Thomas had ACC homers.

State To Begin Aerial Spraying For Gypsy Moth

Maryland will begin aerial spraying in late April or early May to try to slow the spread of the gypsy moth. The worst area in the state this year is expected to run from eastern Garrett County through Allegany and Washington Counties to Frederick County. About 75,000 acres will be sprayed in those four counties.

Other areas expected to be hit by the gypsy moth this year include 15,000 acres in the northern sections of Queen Annes, Kent and Caroline Counties, according to Robert H. Tichenor, an entomologist with the state Department of Agriculture.

In all, the department plans to spray about 120,000 acres in 15 counties where there are high concentrations of gypsy moth egg masses, Tichenor recently told the Board of Public Works.

The board approved three contracts for aerial spraying totaling $365,934.

The gypsy moth has been slowly spreading southward from New England for many years. It began to be a major problem in Maryland only in the last five years.

Adult gypsy moths deposit large clusters of egg masses. When the eggs hatch each spring, they produce equally large numbers of caterpillars, which eat huge quantities of leaves. The caterpillar has a special fondness for the leaves of oak, apple and beech trees.

In badly infested areas, the caterpillars can defoliate large stands of trees. While the trees don't necessarily die directly from the loss of leaves, they are left in a weakened condition and are more susceptible to disease.

The caterpillars also are a major nuisance in residential areas.

The worst infestations in Maryland last year were south of the Pennsylvania border from Carroll County to Cecil County.

According to Tichenor, those areas should get a reprieve this year because the gypsy moth follows a cycle. As the caterpillars eat all the available food in one area, they move on to another.

Tichenor said the state does not expect to stop the spread of the gypsy moth on its steady march to the south. He said the goal is to reduce the infestation and damage to forests as much as possible.

Farm Bureau Reps Visit Washington

The Maryland Farm Bureau sponsored its third annual "Washington Drive-In" April 10-11 at the Capital Quality Inn. There were 120 Farm Bureau members from around the state in attendance, including Clark Kolb and William "Billy" DeWitt of the Garrett County Farm Bureau.

The group met with members of Congress to discuss the 1985 Farm Bill, which Kolb said will affect all farmers, large and small. The bill was adopted by the American Farm Bureau Federation in March and also seems to have the support of the majority of Congress.

"We feel this is a good bill," Kolb stated. "We were told by the Congressmen to contact our representatives and urge them to support the Farm Bill (H.R. 1965).

"I believe this legislation is the best solution for farmers, consumers, and businessmen alike," he continued. "The only way our government leaders can know how we feel about the bill is to write to them."

Garrett County supporters of the bill may write to Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr., at Russell Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C., 20520; Senator Paul S. Sarbanes at Dirksen Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C., 20510; and Representative Beverly B. Byron at 1216 Longworth House Office Building, Washington, D.C., 20515.

Sweet corn processors in Maryland plan to contract for 11,000 acres of corn in 1985. These intentions represent a 23 percent increase from the actual acreage contracted for production last year.

Processors also plan to contract from 3,700 acres of tomatoes, also an increase of 23 percent from 1983.

Intentions and contracting of green peas are down 100 acres to 2,600 acres.

Johne's Disease

Each day we hear more about the disease called Johne's Disease. It is a wide spread disease, especially in cattle and goats. We have had Johne's Disease here in Garrett County. Once the disease is established in a herd it may take several years to eradicate. The economic losses of Johne's Disease to U.S. cattle producers alone has been estimated in excess of $1 billion annually. To date, no satisfactory treatment has been found to eliminate the infection in an animal, although a vaccine has been produced and approved for use. The organisms are found in the soil and in feces from infected animals. Deer are thought to be highly infected by Johne's Disease which our cattle can become infected by grazing in the same areas as the deer. The most obvious and persistent clinical sign of the disease is a moderate to severe diarrhea that seldom responds to therapy. Dr. Joe Manspeaker, Extension Veterinarian, has just published an up-to-date fact sheet on Johne's Disease. You may obtain a free copy by contacting my office. Ask for Fact Sheet 406 - Johne's Disease.

Too Late—Alfalfa Weed Control

For a lot of the alfalfa fields it is too late to spray for weed control with Sinbar, Sencor, or Lexone. Premerge may be used now for the control of Chickweed and Henbit. Premerge can be used on new seeding as well as alfalfa grass mixtures. Butyrac (2,4-DB) can be used for control of many small and large seeded broadleaf weeds. Will not control grasses. If you are caught in a bind now remember you will probably have to spray a herbicide after the first cutting.

Unemployment Down Statewide, Jumps In Garrett

Maryland's unemployment rate declined to 5.8 percent in February, down 0.3 percentage points from the 6.1 percent recorded in January. However, Garrett County jobless rate jumped from 15.1 percent to 17.0 percent in February.

Between January and February, Maryland's civilian labor force declined by an estimated 14,092 persons totaling 2,243,185. Employment was down by 7,252 persons at 2,119,583. Unemployment declined by 6,840 totaling 130,854. Since last February, the labor force has swelled by an estimated 59,717 persons with growth in employment of 64,303. Unemployment over the year declined by 4,586.

Layoffs were noted in the manufacturing industries of steel and apparel. Continued claims filed for unemployment insurance increased over the month particularly in agriculture, construction, and the manufacturing industries of apparel/textiles and stone/clay/glass products with the most in the construction category of special trade contracting. Large numbers of claims were also filed by laid off workers in construction, eating and drinking places, business services, health services, government, the manufacturing industries of food, apparel and texiles, and primary metals.

At the same time, substantial recalls were noted in higher education after semester breaks. Other hiring occurred in agrilculture, services, city and county government, eating and drinking places, and food stores. Initial claims filed for unemployment insurance were actually down over the month. Continued claims decreased from January filings in eating and drinking places and the manufacturing categories of food, chemicals, rubber and plastics, and primary metals.

This Feburary's unemployment rate, the lowest for a February since 1974, has fallen by 0.4 percentage points from the February 1984 rate of 6.2 percent. In January 38 states had higher unemployment rates than Maryland. As usual, Maryland's unemployment rate is significantly below the national level. The gap in February came to two full percentage points. The U.S. rate registered a similar decrease as Maryland's, falling from 8.0 percent in January to 7.8 percent in February, slighly lower than last February's rate of 8.4 percent.

Garrett County's jobless rate in February of last year was 16.6 percent.

Unemployment among black persons in Maryland came to 16.1 percent nationwide during February, up from 15.0 percent in January. Black unemployment is estimated at the state level annually. In 1984 Maryland's rate was 9.3 percent, a significant improvement over the 13.0 percent recorded for 1983.

In the Baltimore metropolitan area, the unemployment rate fell from 7.0 percent in January to 6.6 percent in February and in Baltimore City from 8.5 to 8.1 percent. In Queen Anne's County, now included in Baltimore metropolitan area estimates, the rate rose from 6.7 to 7.9 percent.

Maryland's suburbs of the Washington, D.C. metropolitan area experienced an unemployment rate decline from 3.7 to 3.3 percent.

In Western Maryland, the unemployment rate rose from 11.4 to 12.5 percent. Layoffs were noted in apparel manufacturing, construction and trade. Washington County's increased from 10.6 to 12.2 percent. Layoffs were scattered in Garrett County, but were concentrated in Washington County's apparel manufacturing and construction industries.

In the Balance of State, the unemployment rate shifted slightly from 10.5 percent in January up to 10.6 percent in February. Hiring was noted in higher education and at eating and drinking places. Unemployment rates increased especially in Cecil and Kent counties and decreased in St. Mary's and Worcester.

During February, Maryland's unemployment ranged from 2.6 percent in Montgomery County to 23.2 percent in Somerset. Rates exceeded 10 percent in all three Western Maryland counties of Allegany, Garrett and Washington as well as in the Eastern Shore counties of Caroline, Dorchester, Kent, Somerset and Worcester. Unemployment was less than 4 percent of the labor force in Howard, Charles, Montgomery and Prince George's counties.

Byron Bill Stops Record-Keeping Requirements

U.S. Representative Beverly Byron (MD 6th) announced that she recently co-sponsored legislation to repeal last year's Internal Revenue Service record-keeping requirements for automobiles and trucks. She said those requirements placed an undue strain on small businesses and farmers because of extensive gas mileage record keeping for these vehicles in order to qualify for tax credit.

"While I believe that compliance is a major problem of our tax code, I think that the measures enacted last year were counter-productive in the long run," Rep. Byron said.

Rep. Byron opposed the original legislation (HR 4170) which required the record-keeping provisions last year. However, the bill passed Congress last year and was signed by the President on July 18, 1984.

However legislation introduced this year in Congress, and co-sponsored by Byron, repeals that requirement as of July 1, 1985. That legislation (HR 531) recently passed Congress.

"The momentum was there to repeal these requirements which caused all sorts of headaches for small businessmen and farmers," Rep. Byron said.

On recent district tours in Western Maryland Rep. Byron heard numerous complaints from trucking company owners and farmers concerning the tax legislation. She advised constituents to keep records as required, until July 1, 1985. After that the restrictions are abolished.

As one constituent explained to Rep. Byron on tour, "My husband and I run a small trucking company business. And we are required to keep such detailed records that we would have to hire an extra person just for that task. We certainly aren't going to cheat the government, by using our crane for personal pleasure driving," the woman explained.

Attempted Jail Break Foiled By County Deputies

An attempted jail break was foiled Sunday by Garrett County Sheriff's Deputies.

Inmates Neil Ray Savage and Daniel Lee Smith were apprehended when they were allegedly found using a makeshift tool to remove a window from a prison cell.

Assisting in the apprehension were Deputies Charles Nolan, Richard Kutchman, P.J. Pratt, and Correction Officer Ken Kenner.

Savage and Smith were charged with attempted jail break and destruction of property.

Local Shrine Clowns To Host Clown-A-Rama

The Mid-Atlantic Shrine Clown Association will hold its 12th annual Clown-A-Rama at the Ali Ghan Temple just east of Cumberland April 26-28. The Association is composed of Shrine Clown Units from 19 Shrine Temples in seven Mid-Atlantic states and the District of Columbia.

These clown units, through their Temples, contribute to the fund raising which supports the 19 orthopedic hospitals and three burn institutes operated by the Shrine of North America. The services of the hospitals are available to all children under 18, regardless of race, color, religion, or ability to pay.

The Harige Clown Unit of Ali Ghan Temple, A.A.O.N.M.S., the members of which are all from Garrett County, is hosting the Clown-A-Rama because Noble Bernard Burns, Oakland, a member of that Temple, is the president of the Mid-Atlantic Association.

The highlight of the weekend and the events which are open to the public will be those of the clown competition on the Cumberland Downtown Mall on Saturday, April 27, beginning at 10 a.m. Over 100 clowns are expected to compete in four different make-up categories, including White Face, Tramp, Auguste, and Character. There will also be clown skit competition. Six judges from four states will determine the winners.

For the members of the M.A.S.C.A. there will be seminars on all facets of clown make-up, costumes, and performance. The seminars will be conducted by Noble Jack Anderson, Jacksonville, Fla., past president of the International Shrine Clown Association. Besides his activities as a Shrine clown, Anderson sells clown supplies and does professional performances.

On Friday evening members will participate in a hillbilly dinner and dance and there will be a banquet on Saturday evening at which competition trophies will be awarded. These events will be held at the Ali Ghan Temple.

Over 400 Nobles and their spouses are expected to participate in the weekend event.

J. Robert Smith, Potentate of the Ali Ghan Shrine Temple, and the other members are supporting the Harige Clown Unit in this effort. The organizers of the event stated they appreciated the support given them by the Downtown Cumberland Business Association and the Downtown Development Commission.

Royal Lichtenstein Circus To Perform At Frostburg State

The Royal Lichtenstein Circus, an innovative, California-based group, will perform on Thursday, April 25, at 8 p.m. in the Multi-Use room of the Lane College Center, Frostburg State College.

The event, sponsored by the FSC United Campus Ministry, is free and open to the community.

Now in its thirteenth annual national tour, the circus is currently presenting a brand new cast of performers through 25 states in a lightning-paced potpourri of wire walking, unicycling, juggling, comedy, magic, animal acts (including the world's smallest performing stallion), and two narrated mime fables.

The Lichtenstein Circus, dubbed as "a circus with as much for grown-ups as for children," has enjoyed excellent reviews. The Los Angeles Tidings called it "hilarious entertainment and wonder." Time Magazine said it is "an amiable blend of circus tricks and low-key morality plays." Yale Religious Ministry, Yale University viewed it as "a marvel: full of joy and good humor, raising just the right kind of gentle havoc. Such gentle fun and rare wit marry in one marvelous hour." The Cincinnati Post-Times Star comments that it is "ultra creative."

Although some seating will be available, persons attending are encouraged to bring blankets for seating.

Tri-State Coal Operators Earn Safety Award

The Tri-State Coal Operators Association, Inc., recently announced that two of its members received the "Pacesetter For Mine Safety" awards from the West Virginia State Council, Holmes Safety Association, at a meeting held recently at Sheraton Lakeview.

Tri-State members receiving awards for 1984 included Buffalo Coal Company, Inc., of Bayard, W.Va., for Wilson Strip #6 and Preston Energy, Inc., of Kingwood, W.Va., for its Sunshine Mine.

The Buffalo Coal Company, Inc., of which Carl DelSignore is president, received the special award for its Wilson Strip Mine #6 in the Strip and Auger Operations category, having logged 123,179 manhours with the lowest incident-injury rate—none for calendar year 1984, according to Ron Marrara, Mine Safety Inspector for the Mine Safety and Health Administration, District #3, a division of the U.S. Department of Labor, the Buffalo Coal Company won the honor while edging out the Rockville Mine Company of Albright (Joseph Elliott and Darwin Titchnell, owners), another Tri-State Coal Operators Association member, by only one man-hour.

Preston Energy, Inc., of which John R. Hardesty, Jr., is president, received the "Pacesetter" award for its Sunshine Mine in the Underground Mines with less than 50 employees category by logging 76,967 manhours with the lowest incident-injury rate (none) for calendar year 1984.

T&T Coals of Bruceton Mills (Paul and Lowell Thomas, owners), also a Tri-State Coal Operators Association member, received the "Pacesetter" award from the Holmes Safety Association in 1983 and the Guardian Safety Award from the West Virginia State Department of Mines in 1984.

Ron Keaton, district manager for the Mine Safety and Health Administration, in letters dated March 12, 1985, congratulated the owners, supervisors and miners of Buffalo Coal, Inc., and Preston Energy, Inc., for the accomplishment.

In a special interview at the MSHA District Office on April 9, Keaton said he was "real pleased" with the accomplishments of those who won the "Pacesetter" awards. "I hope they strive for the same goals in the upcoming year." Concerning MSHA District 3, he stated, "There are 100 mines in our area that did not have a lost-time accident last year. I feel that we are on the threshold of an era when a fatal accident in a coal mine will be a very rare experience. With the proper communication and cooperation of Associations like the Tri-State Coal Operators Association, Inc., we'll reach that goal quickly."

THE EASTER BUNNY ARRIVED at Cuppett and Weeks Nursing Home April 4, bearing 32 Easter lilies to be placed in the residents' rooms and throughout the facility. Actually, it was the Northern High School FFA under the instruction of Harold Laughlin. For several years they have donated Easter lilies to this facility to brighten the holiday, and bring smiles to the residents' faces. This year a portion of the flowers were given to the Dennett Road Manor residents so they, too, could enjoy them.

New Payment Page To Appear In C&P Bills

Beginning this month, the C&P Telephone Co. of Maryland will replace the familiar key-punched computer payment cards in customer bills with what the company calls a new, more cost-effective payment page.

The payment page will be the first page in the bill. It will be the same size, thickness and format as the other bill pages. As they did with the key-punched card, customers must return (with their payment) the payment page, with the company's return address appearing in the window of the return envelope.

The payment page can be "read" by computerized optical scanners, which record information such as the customer's account number, prior balance, and the total amount due from a multi-digit scan line on the payment page.

"Optical scanners are the state of the art in bill processing equipment," according to C&P Consumer Affairs Manager Nancy Perry. "They are far more accurate and efficient than the equipment used to record information from key-punched cards."

She pointed out that the new page is also easier to read than the key-punched card.

"The payment page contains some of the language and format changes C&P made earlier this year to simplify the other bill pages," she said. "The changes include shading in the Amount Due and Amount Paid boxes, and use of larger and varying type faces to emphasize important sections of the bill, such as the due date."

Perry added that C&P has also reduced its billing expenses by using nine digit zip codes for mailing most bills to customers. C&P receives a postage discount for using the longer zip codes because they enable the post office to use optical scanners, similar to C&P scanners, to scan the zip codes, and sort mail faster and more efficiently.

C&P also included the nine digit zip code in the company's return address on the payment page. The company began using the nine digit codes earlier this year.

"Both the nine digit zip code and the payment page are cost cutting measures that help C&P keep local rates down," she said.

The first bill customers receive with the new payment page will be accompanied by an insert explaining the change and how to read the payment page. Customers will begin receiving bills with payment pages about April 20.

C&P will also notify customers of the payment page with a message printed on the envelopes of the first two bills that contain the new page. The message, printed in red, will read, "New Payment Page Inside."

In a related billing matter, C&P customers who lease telephone equipment from AT&T Information Systems will no longer be billed for that equipment by C&P. Beginning in May, AT&T Information Systems will begin billing customers directly for leased telephone equipment. The first AT&T Information Systems customers will have a bill insert which explains explains the new billing procedure.

Customers with questions about phone bill changes may call the business office number listed on the page of the bill they are questioning.

VOLUNTEERS BREAK GROUND FOR WHITE CHURCH COMMUNITY CENTER — White Church residents brought out their tools and machinery two weeks ago to break ground for their new community center, a project first envisioned in the 1950's when the land was donated for such a use by the late Audley Riley. In recent years, the Ryan's Glade 4-H Club, White Church Homemaker's Club and the White Church United Methodist Women have conducted fund raisers for the building. With these projects and donations from community residents, the community now has enough money to put the 32' x 60' building under roof. To date, the foundation is laid and group volunteers hope to begin constructing walls this Saturday. For the past three years, community residents, who have set up a board of trustees and a treasurer for the project, have collected equipment and supplies to be used inside the building. The building will be completed as they raise more money with community fund raisers and donations.

BUYING WITH PROFIT MOTIVE

Most people buy a house to make it into a home. Others buy with the idea of turning it over in a year or two with a good profit. Here are some hints for those with the quick profit in mind.

Buy a home in need of upgrading. Modernize it and decorate it, then, hopeully, resell for a profit.

You could buy a new house or condo during the planning stage when prices are usually lower and sell it when the project development is completed.

You could buy a house in a less desirable area, but an area which you feel is on the way back to popularity.

You could buy a small, multi-unit property which has, or may have, rezoning or condominium conversion potential. Remember, it only takes two units to make a condominium.

You could buy an approved lot, build a home, and then, based on your involvement in the construction, retain some or all of the builder's profit margin. This margin generally falls in the range of 10%-15%.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone one of our offices.

Work to be performed under this contract includes, but is not limited to all work for the construction of the Upper Youghiogheny Sewerage System Rehabilitation Project.

Excavation, sheeting and shoring, dewatering, backfilling and paving and miscellaneous construction required to complete the rehabilitation project are also included.

The "Contract Time for Completion" shall be 90 calendar days. The Contractor shall employ the necessary crews and equipment required to meet "The Contract Time for Completion" assigned to the contract.

Drawings, specifications, and other contract documents may be examined at the Garrett County Sanitary District, 313 East Alder Street, Old Courthouse, Room 200, Oakland, Maryland 21550, and at the office of Franklin Associates, Inc., 203 South Third Street, Oakland, Maryland 21550, Monday through Friday, 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Copies may be obtained at the above mentioned addresses upon payment of forty (40) dollars, which is nonrefundable. Checks shall be made payable to: Garrett County Sanitary District, Inc.

Bidders shall examine the contract drawings and specifications carefully and shall make a personal examination of the location and nature of the proposed work. In case doubt shall arise as to the meaning or intent of anything in the contract drawings or comprised in the specifications, inquiry shall be made of the Owner in writing before the proposal is submitted. No verbal answers to inquiries will be given. The submission of a proposal shall indicate that the bidder thoroughly understands the contract drawings and the terms of the specifications.

To better insure fair competition and to permit a determination of the lowest bidder, unresponsive bids or bids obviously unbalanced, may be rejected by the Owner.

NON-DISCRIMINATION IN EMPLOYMENT

Bidders of this work will be required to comply with the President's Executive Order Number 11246. The requirements for bidders and constractors under this order are explained in the specifications.

All work on this project shall be performed in accordance with the requirements of the Davis-Bacon Act and Copeland Anti-Kickback Act.

Each proposal shall be accompanied by a certified check or satisfactory bid bond in the amount of five percent (5%) of the amount of the proposal but not less than $1,000 made payable to the Garrett County Sanitary District, Inc., and unless so accompanied will not be considered. The check or bid bond of the bidder to whom a contract is awarded will be forfeited to the Garrett County Sanitary District as liquidated damages in the event the contract and bonds are executed within ten (10) days after receiving the contract for execution. The form of bid bond is bound in the contract specifications.

All proposals must be submitted on the prepared forms, which must remain bound in the contract specifications. Proposals must be signed by the bidder with his name and address, corporate seal affixed, and enclosed in a sealed envelope marked "Proposal for Project C-240583-02, Upper Youghiogheny Sewerage System Rehabilitation Project."

Proposals made in pencil and/or any other than the prepared forms will not be considered. Changes in the phraseology of the proposal, additions or limiting provisions will render the proposal informal and may cause its rejection.

Bidders shall also complete the following forms which are bound in the contract specifications:

1. Minority Business Enterprises (MBE) Participation Documentation Form, Part I or Part II as applicable.
2. Attachment D, Certification of Nonsegregated Facilities. Proposals once submitted may not be withdrawn for a period of ninety (90) days after the date of opening of bids.

The successful bidder or bidders will be required to furnish individual performance and payment bonds to the Garrett County Sanitary District, each in a sum equal to one hundred percent (100%) of the amount of the proposal, similar to the form of bond hereto attached. The bonding company shall be licensed to do business in Maryland. The bonds will be subject to the approval of the Owner.

The right is reserved to waive informalities, to reject any or all proposals, to advertise for new bids, to proceed to do the work otherwise, or to defer to abandon the work, as the interests of the Owner may require.

Potomac Edison Boasts Excellent Safety Record

Potomac Edison employees own one of the best safety records in the electric utility industry, according to company statistics required by the federal government.

The company's incident rate for lost-workday injuries during 1984 shows that Potomac Edison employees accounted for 57 percent fewer accidents than the electric industry as a whole.

With an employee work force of 1,079, the company total of eight lost-workday injuries amounted to an incident rate of .73 per 200,000 employee-hours worked according to guidelines set by the federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration. Nationally, the electric industry rate numbered 1.70 injuries per 200,000 employee-hours worked.

"An ongoing, educational and innovative safety program at Potomac Edison contributes to the company's laudable record," according to Gerald E. Hoak, safety administrator.

"We're dealing with a very dangerous product. It's so important to constantly remind employees of the hazards of electricity and to review the safety rules, hold safety meetings and practice good work habits," he says.

"The key to our overall success is the employee involvement in safety committees and the intensive training our employees, and especially our linesmen, receive."

Medical treatment injuries in 1984 were down 10 percent over the previous year and the implementation of a new Safety Spectacle Program reduced the risk of serious eye injury to employees, the PE safety report indicates.

Vehicle accidents decreased 29 percent in 1984, with no personal injuries resulting from those accidents. Potomac Edison's incident rate of 4.1 per one million miles driven is well below the electric industry rate of 7.0 per million miles driven.

Potomac Edison's construction division celebrated 15 years without a lost-time injury this year. Martinsburg, Oakland, Power Station, General Storeroom, General Office and Garage employees also suffered no lost-time injuries in 1984.

Past Masters Night Slated By Oakland Masons

Oakland Lodge #192, Ancient, Free, and Accepted Masons, will hold its annual Past Masters Night on Tuesday, April 23, at the Paul B. Naylor Masonic Temple, Wilson Street.

Worshipful Master Tommy J. Ritchey stated that an eligible Fellow Craft member would be raised to the Third Degree that evening. Past Masters, under the direction of Past Master Lewis M. Marks, will assume the chairs and present the degree work.

Preceeding the Lodge communication there will be a ham dinner served to all attending Masons by members of Oakland Chapter #67, Order of the Eastern Star. Master Masons desiring to attend the dinner are asked to contact Ritchey at his business, telephone 334-2115, by April 19 to make reservations.

Lodge will convene at 7:30 p.m.

Friendsville Man Awaits Sentence

Garrett County District Court Judge Jack Turney ordered a pre-sentence investigation for a Friendsville man who pled guilty to a charge of subornation of perjury in the county Circuit Court April 11.

Clifford A. Schroyer, 43, faced two subornation charges and a perjury charge for false testimony given at his trial in Circuit Court on June 7, 1984. One subornation charge and the perjury charge were not prosecuted.

At the 1984 trial, Schroyer was convicted of driving while under the influence of alcohol and driving a motor vehicle in violation of a driver's license. He was sentenced to a two-month jail term for these charges.

Schroyer and two others, Christina Capel and Russell W. Hoover, were charged with perjury because they had testified in Schroyer's case that he had not been driving before police arrested him.

They testified that Hoover was driving the two home on February 19, 1984 and stopped at a point along Route 42, north of Friendsville. From that point, Hoover got out of the vehicle and left with another woman. Capel and Schroyer remained in the vehicle for five to 10 minutes before the police arrived.

Later, Hoover and Capel admitted that Schroyer had been driving the vehicle. Both Hoover and Capel are serving one-year jail terms on perjury charges.

Garrett County Chief Judge Fred Thayer agreed to a request by Schroyer's attorney, Ralph Burnett, Oakland, to disqualify himself from the case because he had heard the Capel and Hoover cases.

The subornation charge to which Schroyer pled guilty involved procuring Hoover to make a false oath in Schroyer's trial.

Greater Oakland Business Assoc. Holds Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Greater Oakland Business Association (formerly known as the Oakland Business Association) was held Tuesday, April 9 at P.C.'s Restaurant. There were 17 members in attendance.

President Jack Jones announced the addition of a new member, Allegany Speech and Hearing, represented by Pam Martin.

Duane Yoder, president of Habitat for Humanity, spoke to the group about providing assistance for that organization.

Other business discussed at the meeting included advertising and the groups next promotion in May, "Oakland's Memorial Week Sale."

The association will be meeting during the summer months at Cornish Manor.

FRIENDSHIP EVANGELISM
A SEMINAR ABOUT THE NATURAL WAY TO SHARE YOUR FAITH.
Art McPhee, author, radio commentator, seminary instructor, and former pastor, invites you to consider three sessions of insights into Jesus' pattern of evangelism.
Learn why:
- your deepest relationship is your greatest witness
- authentic evangelism is never manipulative
- most believers are won to Christ through the influence of a friend or relative.

"Evangelism is not a technique but a spontaneous expression of love," says McPhee. "People don't care how much you know until they know how much you care."

If you've got a boat that you use for family fun, it should be insured to protect you and it. HOW it is protected may depend on its size.

For insurance purposes, a boat under 23 to 25 feet is a boat. Anything larger may be considered a yacht. The bigger the boat or yacht, the more it costs to insure.

Like your auto insurance, a boat policy is written to cover any damage that happens to your boat, and then any damage that your boat causes to other people or property.

Your homeowner's policy may include liability protection for a small sailboat, though a special endorsement may be necessary. Larger sailboats usually have inboard engines, which increases the risk of fire. This makes them more expensive to insure.

Knowing how to handle your boat protects your life and your property. That's one reason that some insurers offer premium discounts for those who have earned a certificate from a sailing school or the Coast Guard.

Whether you're buying a yacht or a dinghy, you can count on us for all your insurance needs at

AVOIDING COMPLICATIONS

We live in a complex and rapidly changing world. Every day there is something new to think about, to worry about. Most people find it just about all they can do to deal with the normal home, family, business life without unnecessary and undue complications.

Hard as it is to keep on top of regular affairs, it is that much harder to deal with the extraordinary burden that can be left to a survivor in case of an unexpected and UNPLANNED loss. This can be particularly painful and difficult as the survivor may be in no frame of mind to handle all the decisions that have to be made.

Avoid these complications. A last will is an absolute necessity. Arranging for the handling of business and financial matters is considered prudent. Also, preplanning funeral arrangements can spare the survivor an immediate, and possibly distressing, responsibility.

If a lily was very difficult to grow, what would you be willing to pay for just one plant? It's snowy white flowers are often one of the first signs of spring. And that makes one wonder about the price of gold if it were plentiful.

Must a thing be rare to be valuable? Must it be something we can't afford before we want it? If we had a roomful of gold, wouldn't it be just as lovely as if we had only one gold ring? Wouldn't it be as malleable and ductile to make beautiful jewelry or ornaments or to use for trade?

Maybe we feel the same way about church. It is there and we can go anytime, but we don't. Yet it is in church that we can learn the true value of other people and learn about ourselves.

ONCE AGAIN IT'S SPRING

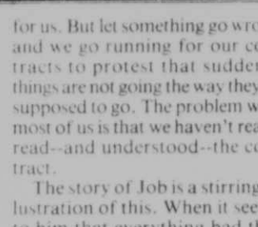

Virgil described Spring more than 2,000 years ago—"Now every field is clothed with grass and every tree with leaves; now the woods put forth their blessings and the year assumes its gay attire."

Well said! But, to many unfortunate folks an allergic reaction to spring grass and weeds brings misery and suffering. Tearing eyes, running noses will be common. Unlike Virgil's day, there is today a large variety of different drugs available that can provide relief. Your physician knows the one drug that is best for a specific allergy and we stock them in our prescription laboratory.

"A GREAT MANY PEOPLE ENTRUST US with their prescriptions, health needs and other pharmacy products. We consider this trust a privilege and a duty. May we be your personal family pharmacy?"

READ THE CONTRACT!
April 21, 1985

Background Scripture: Job 1 through 4.

Devotional Reading: Job 1:13-22.

One of the most pervasive ideas in the world today--even among people who profess not to be religious--is that we are born into this life clutching in our hands a divine contract that guarantees us freedom from suffering, tragedy and injustice. For, just as soon as we are confronted with any or all of those experiences in life we begin to complain loudly that God is unjust or, if we deny there is a God, that life is unfair. Nothing so gets in the way of intelligent religion than this expectation.

Where did we ever get this idea that God would impose justice among his creatures or that the world was ever conceived as fair? God desires justice for his children and calls us to be fair with one another, but he does not impose it upon the world--never has, and presumably never will. You and I will be judged for our injustices (and more), but he will not compel us to be just. That's the kind of world he created: with potential for either good or evil, dependent upon the exercise of our own free will.

IT HAS COME TO YOU

Everyone knows this is the way the world is and no one really questions the arrangement—so long as it seems to be working well for us. But let something go wrong and we go running for our contracts to protest that suddenly things are not going the way they're supposed to go. The problem with most of us is that we haven't really read--and understood--the contract.

The story of Job is a stirring illustration of this. When it seems to him that everything bad that can happen to him has, in fact, happened, he cries out: "Let the day perish wherein I was born..." (Job 3:3). Up until this point, Job has been a pillar of faith in the midst of his adversity, but now he's had enough, things have gone too far. His friend Eliphaz (with a friend like him, who needs an enemy?), chides him, "Behold, you have instructed many...But now it has come to you, and you are impatient" (4:3, 5). Job, just think about all that glib advice you've given to others when they've had troubles!

WHERE WE REAP

But Eliphaz goes on to assure Job that, if he is righteous, the suffering will be only for a little while. "Think now, who that as innocent ever perished?" (4:7). Furthermore, all those who are evil will eventually be punished: "As I have seen, those who plow iniquity and sow trouble reap the same" (4:8).

Job knows that that is not the way it is, however: there is no guarantee that being righteous will bring us through life without suffering. Nor is there a warranty that promises to make evil people suffer in this life. If we are to reap justice and fairness, it is in a realm of reality that transcends this earth.

It is high time we read the contract.

Introvision helps create fantastic reality on TV

By Marta Tarbell

Thomas Naud

Tom Naud is looking into the future. "If movies are going to survive," says Naud, president of Introvision, a Hollywood-based company that has developed a system to employ still photographs as backdrops for live action, "it will be because they finally gain control over their runaway costs."

Through a complex interplay of light, projectors and cameras, actors or photos of actors are "placed" within a still photograph or film frame. "Then the picture is bounced back to the source of projection," explains Naud. Without having to build an elaborate set or travel to exotic, expensive locations, actors working on a Hollywood sound stage can be made to appear as if they were anywhere — even being chased through the vast intergalactic landscape of "Outland," as Sean Connery was in the 1981 film.

Now, Introvision has come to TV. When Derek Jacobi's Adolf Hitler walked through the pre-1934 Reichs Chancellery in the 1982 ABC miniseries "Inside the Third Reich," it was because of Introvision. More recently, Introvision was used to put models in Wrangler Jeans in the middle of what looked like a lush jungle straight out of Indiana Jones territory.

In both instances, a simple photograph saved millions of dollars in production costs. Ironically, Naud is not mechanically inclined. "My wife has to turn on our television and electric appliances," laughs the 58-year-old father of six. "In high school, I got an F in science."

Naud believes Introvision is not a high-tech wave of the future, but an idea whose time has come. The Introvision studio, with only 16 employees to run its three stages and camera, art and model departments, takes up 40,000 square feet in Hollywood. Naud is proud of the fact that this is a case where less means more.

"We now possess a technology that means you no longer need to construct 14 huge sound stages if you want to shoot scenes with fantastic and realistic backgrounds," he says happily. "And we're not in the special effects business, either. Special effects are just that — special physical effects — like robots moving or explosions going off. We ere in the visual effects business. We create vistas and fantasy backgrounds," adds Naud, "and we make them look real."

STAR STYLE

Swimming keeps cheery actor Dan Hedaya fit

By Renee Ross

Dan Hedaya

It's unlikely you'll ever find Dan Hedaya huffing and puffing through a crowded aerobics exercise class. "I'm not a member of any health club because I don't like what seems to be a hysterical atmosphere with everybody leaping, jumping and running around," he says.

Instead, the actor turns to the more sedate sport of swimming to stay in shape. "I travel a great deal, and always try to swim somewhere," says Hedaya, who plays cuckolded husband Marty in the critically acclaimed film "Blood Simple." "After a half hour of swimming, I feel more physically toned than with any other kind of exercise."

Hedaya is also known to TV viewers as waitress Carla's eccentric ex-husband Nick on the NBC hit "Cheers" and as Joseph Keuhnelian on NBC's "St. Elsewhere." Hedaya is currently filming "Wise Guys," a comedy about the Mafia directed by Brian De Palma, and co-starring Danny DeVito and Joe Piscopo. "I love sports," Hedaya adds. "I was a baseball pitcher and shortstop as a kid and some of the happiest moments of my life were when I was playing ball."

A native New Yorker who's now based in California, Hedaya laments the West Coast obsession with cars. "Nobody in Los Angeles walks anywhere," he sighs. "It's tremendously appealing when I visit New York again and have a chance to walk 4 or 5 miles a day."

The battle of the bulge is no problem for the 158-pound, 5-foot-11 actor. "I don't believe in a totally rigid regimen, though I try to eat fresh vegetables and watch my cholesterol. But I haven't been caught up in the craze of weighing your food and putting it under a microscope before eating," he laughs. "Just don't go overboard. If you have rich food one day, for instance, it makes sense to stay away from it the next day.

"The important things in my life are my friendships, creativity, learning and trying to do some good in the world. If you ask me to list four guiding principles to live by, those would be mine."

ASK ME ABOUT TV

By Val Carew

I think Jennifer O'Neill, the star of "Cover Up," is great. Could you tell me about her? — D.L. Springfield, Mo.

Miss O'Neill, who stars as Danielle Reynolds on the CBS series, was born in Rio de Janeiro to an English mother and a Spanish-Irish father. She grew up in the United States, studied acting at New York City's prestigious Neighborhood Playhouse and made her film debut opposite John Wayne in the 1970 Western "Rio Lobo."

It was "Summer of '42," the actress's next film, that made her a star. In the 1971 flick, the actress played an older woman who gets romantically involved with an adolescent. Miss O'Neill made 19 films, before she moved to Europe. In 1979, the actress starred in famed Italian director Luchino Visconti's final film, "The Innocent." Miss O'Neill began appearing on television during the 1979-80 season; her first project was "Love's Savage Fury."

The actress also has formed her own production company, Point of View Productions. She has two children, has been married several times and lives in Southern California and in New York.

My husband and I enjoy the reruns of "The Honeymooners." Could you give us addresses for Jackie Gleason and Art Carney? — A.R.M., Mountain Lake Park, Md.

To the moon, Alice! You can write to Gleason c/o Inverrary, Lauderhill, Fla. 33319. Letters for Carney will reach him c/o ICM, 8899 Beverly Blvd., Los Angeles, CA 90048.

(Do you have a question about TV? Write Val Carew at 200 Park Ave., Room 602, New York, NY 10166. Questions cannot be answered personally but those of general interest will be answered in future columns.)

Batter up! New York Yankee greats Mickey Mantle (far r.) and Whitey Ford (far l.) offer Pierce Brosnan and Stephanie Zimbalist some baseball pointers in "Second Base Steele," the episode of "Remington Steele" airing Tuesday, April 23 on NBC.

THURSDAY

Ten years after the fall of Saigon, Walter Cronkite returns to Vietnam to reflect on the ways the war affected our lives in "CBS Reports: Honor, Duty and a War Called Vietnam," airing Thursday, April 25 on CBS.

(Stations reserve the right to make last-minute changes.)

FRIDAY

En garde! Malcolm McDowell stars as legendary King Arthur in "Arthur the King," a made-for-TV movie portraying the Arthurian saga, airing Friday, April 26 on CBS. Candice Bergen co-stars.

SOAP OPERA WEEK

Prime-time star made a splash on CBS soap

By Kimberly Redmond

I'm positive that the actress who portrays Danny on "Code Name: Foxfire" is the same actress who once starred on a soap. But I can't place her! Can you help me? — C.P., Seattle, Wash.

Your memory, though fuzzy, is correct. Robin Johnson, who plays Danny on the NBC nighttime series "Foxfire," once appeared on the CBS soap "The Guiding Light" in the short-term role of street gang member Darcy. She also appeared in the 1980 film "Times Square," which had a longer run on cable than it did in the movie theaters.

Robin Johnson

Kristina Malandro

I'd like some information on Kristina Malandro, the actress who portrays Felicia Cummings on "General Hospital." — K.D., Trenton, N.J.

Miss Malandro, who was born in Indianapolis, Ind., landed the role of Felicia after she won a nationwide talent search. The role marks her professional acting debut. The actress attended college in her hometown and performed in local theater and commercials before heading for California. Prior to winning her "GH" role, Miss Malandro auditioned for roles on "All My Children" and "Ryan's Hope."

Even though I have a hearing impediment, I swear that the actor who portrays Mike Donovan on "Loving" has a New England accent. Am I right? — F.G., Lewiston, Maine.

Yes. James Kiberd is a native of Providence, R.I. Before joining "Loving," the actor worked in theater and commercials. He also had short stints on "All My Children" and "As the World Turns."

(Have a question about soap operas? Write Kimberly Redmond at 200 Park Ave., Room 602, New York, NY 10166. Questions cannot be answered personally but those of general interest will be answered in future columns.)

CINDY SAYS

Burt Reynolds is still semi-tough about work

By Cindy Adams

NEW YORK — Forget those unappetizing rumors about Burt Reynolds' health. He's simply having dentistry done to correct some jaw problems. Other than that, Burt is alive and well and organizing his next project in California.

Burt is eagerly working on the first stages of "Life Its Ownself," a movie to be based on sportswriter Dan Jenkins' best-seller. The tome is a sequel to Jenkins' "Semi-Tough," which was the basis for the 1977 flick starring Burt and Kris Kristofferson. Burt will star in "Life," his good friend David Gershenson will produce and MGM/UA will distribute. Speaking of Burt, he already has the title of his autobiography picked out: "Hairpieces, Heroes and Has-beens."

Eddie Murphy and Prince want to star in the movie of rock-n-roller-turned-preacher Little Richard. ... Vic Damone, Artie Shaw and Rosemary Clooney have knitted themselves together to tour the United States, Canada and Japan. And yes, on Tuesdays they will tour Belgium. ... Pity poor Chaka Kahn. While the singer was in London recently, her hotel room was robbed. An hour later, while Chaka was in a pub, her purse was snatched. ... LaToya Jackson, the singing sister of you-know-who, is coming out with a line of clothes.

Susan Morris of Belle Harbor, N.J., renounces her title as the No. 1 Jeremy Irons fan. Seems Sue's car was broken into and everything in the auto — from her tape deck to cassettes by Bruce Springsteen, The Police and Lionel Richie to packages in the back seat — were left untouched. What was stolen? Only the cast recording of "The Real Thing," starring Jeremy Irons!

The entire festival has been coordinated by the Garrett County Choral instructor, Carolyn Lambert Wilt. The program will be conducted by James Boord, choral and band director at Northern High School.

In an interview with Ms. Wilt she commended principal, Jack Rickman; vice principal, Wilda Massi and art instructor, Marcette Danner, for their contribution to this worthwhile event.

Southern Middle School will present its Third Annual Talent Show on Friday, April 19. First and second place winners from SMS will represent their school in the County Council PTA's Fifth Annual Talent Show which will be held on Friday, April 26, at 7:30 p.m. in the Southern Middle School cafetorium. The public is invited to attend both performances, free of charge. Students will have an opportunity to attend the Talent Show this week during the school day.

During the week of March 25, 8B-1 students went to Camp Hickory.

During this time, students participated in a variety of different activities instructed by people from the community.

These activities included: calligraphy, Buck Trautwein and Ray Ursin; puppetry, Gerry Snelson; mime, Cherie Rettle; art, Ralph Miller; taxidermy, Gary Iden; carving, Carl Cathell; sumpkins, Darlene Terlizzi; and dance, Marge Clever and Diane Martin.

Along with these activities, students took a trip to the Cove, finished other assigned work and had an astronomy lesson.

On Wednesday, March 27, students participated in a "Parents Night" performance with a Japanese theme. There was also a mime and puppet presentation by individual groups.

The students who participated expressed sincere appreciation to members of the community for this informative experience and a special thanks to the Board of Education and Wes Lovelace.

The eleventh grade students at Southern High School have won two matches in the Maryland Mock Trial Competitions under the direction of Southern Middle School teachers, Louis Newcomb and Shirley Spiker.

Students competed against South High of Hagerstown on Monday afternoon at Allegany County Circuit Court in Cumberland, before Judge Gary Leasure.

The Star of the week in Southern Middle School's Girls' Physical Education Department is Monica Miller, a seventh grader. Monica won a first place trophy in the cross-country ski "Kick and Glide" race at Herrington Manor State Park on February 4, in the 10-11 age group. The PE department is proud of Monica and now displays her trophy in the trophy case at SMS.

Student Government members are busy preparing for their May 18 Spring Dance and eighth grade trip to the Inner Harbor. Memory books, candles and dance tickets will be on sale until May 1.

The county-wide Spelling Bee was held last Friday evening. Tara Wildesen, a seventh grade student of Southern Middle, placed fifth in the competition.

Due to the abundance of news this week there is no "featured teacher" article.

Grantsville Man "Critical" After Bus-Car Mishap

A young Grantsville man is listed in "critical, but stable" condition at Memorial Hospital in Cumberland following a car–school bus accident that occurred in dense fog on U.S. Route 40 on Big Savage Mountain yesterday.

Gary Wilhelm, 18, remains a patient in the hospital's Intensive Care Unit. He had been a passenger in the right front of a car that ran into the back of the school bus early yesterday morning.

Treated at Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland, and released following the accident were Allan G. Turner, 23, Lonaconing, the driver of the car, and Richard D. Wilhelm, 22, Grantsville, a passenger in the right rear of the car.

State Police said neither the driver of the bus, Everett B. Thompson, 62, Frostburg, nor the four passengers on the bus were injured.

According to Tfc. D.G. Buckalew, who investigated, the accident occurred at 8:10 a.m., while the fog on the mountain was quite heavy.

The school bus was eastbound on Route 40 and had stopped to load passengers. The bus was flashing red lights at the time. Reportedly, the car was also eastbound and due to the heavy fog failed to see the bus until the last minute, running into the back of it.

Allegany County Civil Defense dispatched Frostburg firemen, two Frostburg ambulances, the Northern Rescue Squad and Allegany Ambulance to the scene. Shaft fireman stood by.

Firemen used the Hurst tool to cut away the roof of the car in which one person was trapped for some 35 minutes. Traffic was interrupted for over an hour.

Tfc. Buckalew charged Turner with failure to reduce speed to avoid a collision.

A second school bus accident occurred at 7:45 a.m. yesterday on Route 495, just north of the Upper Green Glade Road. Reportedly, a total of 13 students were on the bus, however, none of them were injured. The driver of the car, Linda L. Fleming, 41, Swanton, was slightly injured, and was treated at Garrett County Memorial Hospital and released.

Tfc. C.R. Smith investigated and said Fleming had backed out of a driveway to go south on Route 495 when the southbound school bus, operated by Donald W. DeWitt, 31, Swanton, approached. Reportedly, the school bus skidded 161 feet before striking the Fleming vehicle, a 1977 Plymouth Fury. Fleming traveled 79 feet off the road and into a grassy area.

DeWitt was cited for failing to reduce speed to avoid a collision. According to police it was foggy at the time of the mishap.

4-H BROILER PROJECT "PEEPS" arrived yesterday at the Garrett County Extension office to be picked up by 4-H and FFA members. Southern States Cooperatives of Accident, Grantsville and Oakland provided 25 broiler type chicks to each participant to raise for eight weeks. A broiler show will be held on June 29, where the youth must exhibit three dressed birds and turn in their completed records or plan on refunding the cost of the chicks to Southern States. The youth need to furnish feed, housing, heat and tender loving care for the chicks. Pictured above is Jackie Stanley, a future 4-H member, holding one of the Cornish-White Rock Cross chicks and probably wishing that they would not grow to be Sunday dinners, but just stay this size forever.

Plans To Build Five Houses Outlined At Habitat Meeting

"Five in '85" is the goal announced by chairman Duane Yoder of the Garrett County Habitat for Humanity at the group's annual meeting last week at Garrett Community College. To build five houses this building season, the fund raising committee headed by Gordon "Sandy" Douglass, hopes to raise over $100,000 from individuals, businesses, religious and civic organizations.

Habitat for Humanity is a non-profit Christian ministry dedicated to helping low-income families improve the housing conditions in which they live. During its first year of existence in 1983, the Garrett County chapter built three houses for needy families at the approximate cost of $20,000 per house. These families are now making mortgage payments of $100 per month, interest free, to the chapter.

At the meeting, James Chisholm, chairman of the building committee, outlined plans for constructing the five additional houses this summer. In addition to onsight volunteer labor, shop students from Northern and Southern High Schools are building trusses and prefab shells and providing blueprints for the houses. To help control construction costs, the committee is taking competitive bids on materials.

Fran Otero, chairperson of the volunteer committee, announced the need for workers and phone volunteers. She stated that one person will be needed for each house to coordinate the work in progress.

Sister Catherine Arata gave the report of the work camp committee for chairperson Pat Easterday. The committee plans to have two weeks of workcamps this summer, from June 9-15, and from July 7-13. During each of these weeks, 28 volunteers from other areas will work on home repair and new home construction projects. Most of these volunteers are teenagers in high school and college who will be traveling to Garrett County with their church youth groups. They will be housed at the Eagle's Nest dormitory at Wisp Ski Resort.

The family selection committee, chaired by Mike Brandes, reported that they have identified seven eligible families from the 32 applications reviewed, and must now choose the five families to be served this year.

The finance committee reported a total of $9,120 donations received during the first quarter of 1985. Juris Renesclacis, chairman of the publicity committee, reported that a newsletter will be published quarterly to inform the community and members of Habitat of the work in progress. Before the meeting, the members present viewed a narrated slide telling the story of Habitat in Garrett County.

As a final order of business, eleven new members were elected to the Habitat Board of Directors. They were Gorman Beitzel, Mike Brandes, Jim Chisholm, Meg Ellis, Dorothy Morris, John Parsons, Juris Renesclacis, Richard Tepper and Duane Yoder.

ANOTHER SOUTHERN STAR SIGNS — The third signing of a Southern High School athlete to a college scholarship occurred this week when Kelly Bittinger, a starter on the SHS girls basketball team the past two seasons, signed a letter of intent with West Liberty State College. Miss Bittinger, 5-11, averaged ten points and nine rebounds per game for the Rams this past season. An honor roll student, she is the daughter of Douglas and Sue Bittinger, Smouse Road. Pictured with her above are, left to right, Coach Don Stemple; West Liberty assistant coach Lynn Ramage; and West Liberty head coach, Bo McConnaughy. See story on sports page.

On-Site Reviews Being Carried Out By DNR On Yough River

A field investigation of the Yough Corridor has recently been completed by the Department of Natural Resources. Legislation passed by the General Assembly last year required that such an investigation must be done. According to Keith Roberts, Western Maryland regional planner for DNR Land Planning Services, on-site reviews are now being done on a one to one personal basis with the property owners of the Yough Corridor. Roberts states that they are working to be done by a July 1 deadline.

Roberts explained that the DNR tried to do the field investigations in the broadest sense. They mapped what can be seen from the river in very general terms so that when an advisory board is formed, they can go over it and recommend improvements or simply approve the boundaries.

Most of the investigation was done by boat to have the least affect on private property, according to Roberts. Where they did need access, they asked the permission of the property owners. Letters were sent or phone calls made to 33 landowners, 30 of those favorable to the DNR's request.

The result of this field investigation was a proposed corridor boundary, which was sent to all landowners in the corridor.

The property owners are encouraged to meet with the DNR representatives and discuss the boundaries or ask questions about the boundaries. They will meet with property owners on a one to one personal basis, at home, on the property, or at the Deep Creek office.

Of the 86 landowners in the Yough Corridor, 31 have been in touch with Robert's office. Six of the 31 don't agree with the location of the boundary line, and DNR is working on an agreement of what can be seen from the river. Three of the landowners have convinced DNR that the line is not visible from the river and have been removed from the corridor. Of the remaining 55 landowners, only four have refused to accept the boundary and the project. Because the other 51 have not responded by now, the DNR assumes that they are satisfied. Roberts explained that his office will make follow up calls to these property owners in the near future.

Roberts stated that one common misconception is that the corridor boundaries will open the corridor up to the general public. Statute 15.02B states that, "boundaries do not open any private land within the scenic corridor to the public access without the consent of the landowner."

Roberts feels that the management plan should be used to designate what should be done and how the corridor should be regulated. He explained that by being designated a wild and scenic river, the Yough has become more popular with recreationists, and has formed the need for a management plan.

Roberts stated that before the maps of the boundaries came out, he wrote an article to "The Issue," the official newsletter of the river association, informing the membership how, when, and why the boundary field investigation was being done. Because of a lack of space in "The Issue," however, the article wasn't printed.

The river has not always been in the pristine condition that exists along the corridor today.

Timely Reminder

Area residents are reminded to "spring forward" to Daylight Savings Time which officially begins at 2:00 a.m. Sunday morning. Churchgoers won't be late if they remember to turn their clocks ahead one hour before retiring Saturday night.

Bloodmobile To Visit Grantsville

The Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross will sponsor a bloodmobile visit at the Grantsville Fire Hall on Tuesday, May 7, from noon until 6 p.m.

Mrs. Lela Bender, Blood Program Chairman for Northern Garrett County, said, "Although all types are needed, we have a special need for O positive and O negative blood. A single pint of donated blood can help as many as four patients. Our goal for this visit is 150 pints."

Mrs. Bender also explained, "The blood you donate could help persons in hospitals during surgery and those suffering from leukemia, anemia, kidney disease, or hemophilia."

Anyone from the age of 17 to 70 who weighs at least 110 pounds and is in generally good health can donate blood.

School Officials Believe Stricter Policy Successful

Garrett County school officials recently have been reviewing the effect of a stricter discipline policy instituted this school year and have found that it is, in the words of one official, making a "fantastic difference in the schools."

At a public meeting held April 10 to hear comments on the policy as well as other parts of the revised student handbook, those attending heard what a difference the policy has made.

Ed Green, principal at Northern High School, said the policy has made a good school even better by improving the academic climate, staff morale and the general school climate.

Since the policy was implemented, Green has experienced a drop in tardiness, general disruptions, confrontations and the incidence of drug and alcohol abuse at his school.

Green added that Arthur Refosco, principal at Southern High School, reported to him that the incidence of fighting has dropped by 70 percent.

Wilda Massey, assistant principal at Southern Middle School, told the group disciplinary situations have declined at SMS partially because students and parents are aware of what is acceptable behavior and what is not, and partially because more teachers are contacting parents about problems with their children before referring the problems to school administrators.

Massey presented a list of statistics to show the decrease in disciplinary matters at SMS. She said that last year there were 1,648 disciplinary referrals as opposed to 941 this year. There were 175 fights in the school last year and there were 19 this year.

Tobacco usage incidents dropped from 13 last year to nine this year while alcohol or drug abuse situations dropped from 23 last year to nine this year. Massey also noted that there were 589 disruptive incidents last year and 154 this year.

Massey acknowledged that the enforcement of the discipline policy has been a painful experience for some persons and has consumed a significant amount of administrators' time because of increased conferences with students and parents.

Ed Green said he believed strongly the discipline policy was needed, but pointed out the goal of the policy is to protect students and the academic climate and to keep schools relatively free of disturbances. The policy is not meant to kick kids out of school, Green stated.

However, the school system has experienced an increased number of student expulsions. Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, county school superintendent, stated there have been 15 student expulsions this year. Previously, the average of expulsions was about one or two. Besides those 15, five students have withdrawn from school while they were being considered for expulsion.

Three students who were con-

Maryland Board of Education Grants 2-Day Waiver For County

The Maryland State Board of Education Wednesday granted the Garrett County School System a two-day waiver from the 180-day required school year.

The amount granted is three days less than the Garrett County Board of Education had requested for a waiver, but is the amount Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, county school superintendent, had recommended when the school board grappled with the issue in March.

Although Dr. Ryscavage and James Raley, president of the Garrett County Teachers' Association, attended the state board's meeting, they were not requested to comment on the subject. Raley said the state board heard the county's request, heard the recommendation by the state superintendent and made its decision.

Raley stated that even though he is glad the state board granted at least a two-day waiver, he was unhappy the board did not allow time for people representing the county to discuss the issue.

The two-day waiver will mean that the county schools will make up 10 of this year's 12 snow days and the school year will end on Friday, June 14.

Some issues remain to be solved on the county level as a result of the two-day waiver, such as whether the teachers' 184-day contract will be shortened.

Commissioners Meet With State Health Officials; Tour Inner Harbor

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners met with State Secretary of Health Adele Wilzack and Assistant Secretary of Environmental Matters William Eichbaum last Wednesday afternoon in Baltimore to discuss state regulations and how they are affecting development in Garrett County. Also attending the meeting were Garrett County Clerk, Robert Fousek, Sanitary Commission Administrator Wendell Beitzel, Development Corporation Director Tom Jones, and Garrett County Roads Administrative Assistant Allen Lewis.

Commissioner Elwood Groves II said the board conveyed to Wilzack and Eichbaum their "continual frustration" of regulations and red tape surrounding the Trout Run Project, Bausch and Lomb packing plant and the Southern Garrett County Industrial Park.

Although state funds have been approved for such projects, conflicting state health regulations have prevented county officials from moving ahead with definite plans. Commissioner Ernest Gregg said, "We must keep everything moving or we'll lose our grant monies. It's use them or lose them."

The commissioners also explained to Wilzack the problems they have had with the Round Glade Landfill and how state regulations were "often times unreasonable and very expensive to achieve." Although the state recently permitted the county to open a temporary rubble pit at the landfill, they mandated that the county must, within 30 days, have acquired a new landfill site with the proper applications made to the State Department of Mental Health and Hygiene.

Lewis reported to Wilzack the problems he has encountered and expects to encounter in the future with a county landfill. Wilzack told the county officials she was sympathetic to their landfill problems and promised support in alleviating some of the pressure put on them by the conflicting regulations.

Beitzel presented a case for additional state funding for the Deep Creek Lake Sewage Project. He told Wilzack that because of the state demanding that the sewer line be relocated under the bridge, additional costs had been realized in the project. Wilzack assurred him that the state would cover at least some of the cost.

Jones gave an update on the Industrial Park and asked that the state make useable recommendations to ensure growth and development in Garrett County. Wilzack told the board she would be visiting the county in mid-summer to see first-hand the county's potential for development.

The commissioners agreed that the meeting had been a very productive one and that they felt they had made progress with some of the county's biggest problems.

Inner Harbor Tour

While in Baltimore, the commissioners were treated to a tour of the Inner Harbor by city officials, Mrs. Robert Bonnell, director of information for the Charles Center; Mark Wasserman, director of physical development for Baltimore; and Daniel Cunningham, administrative assistant for physical development.

The commissioners said the hospitality offered them by Baltimore officials was unequaled and they were impressed with the renewal of the formerly blighted section of the city.

The commissioners said Bonnell was aware of the opposition of development in Garrett County and expressed her dismay that some companies go outside the state for conventions when there is such great potential in this state.

The commissioners rounded out their trip by meeting with Baltimore City Mayor Schaeffer for a "mutual exchange of ideas." The mayor told the board he supports regional tourism and the linking of the eastern part of the state to the westernmost part of the state.

Before departing the city, the commissioners also met with Jay Schwartz, a lobbyist hired by the American Coal Association, concerning the controversial steep-slope mining bill. The commissioners voiced their continued support of that bill.

Judge Convicts West Virginian Of Ski Theft

A Fairmont, W. Va. man was fined $470 and sentenced to 60 days in the Garrett County Jail by Judge Miller Bowen in Garrett County District Court April 9 for the January 15 theft of skis and bindings belonging to Darin Eames.

The jail sentence for Brian Whitehouse, 21, was suspended and an 18-month supervised probation term imposed.

Garrett County Deputy Larry E. Gnegy charged Whitehouse with taking the items, valued at $470, while Eames was at the WISP Ski Resort. The skis and bindings were recovered.

Whitehouse was represented by John Toston, public defender.

In a sentencing hearing, Judge Bowen fined T. Warren Davis, 31, Concord, Va., $340 and sentenced him to six months in jail for the October 30, 1984 theft at Harold's Home Furnishings. The judge suspended the jail term and placed Davis on 18 months of probation.

Davis was convicted of the theft of 17 $20 bills and 21 personal checks in court on January 29.

Daun Weiers, an Oakland attorney, represented Davis.

Timothy A. Welch, 19, Mountain Lake Park, received a $50 fine and a 30-day jail sentence after his conviction of trespassing.

County Deputy P.J. Pratt filed the charge against Welch and said Welch was disruptive and refused to leave the Garrett County Sheriff's Department on January 24 at 11:45 p.m.

Roy A. Ahern, 20, Mountain Lake Park, received a 10-day jail sentence and 12 months of unsupervised probation after his conviction on a battery charge. The charge stemmed from a March 4, 1985 incident at the Pizza Hut.

Judge Bowen granted a request to revise the verdicts of Randy R. Charron, 21, Glen Burnie, and Rudolph Hosse, 68, Pasadena, who had received probation before judgment on a charge of theft.

The two were charged by Tfc. Charles Thomas, Maryland State Police, with taking a pine tree on December. 4, 1984 from the property of Elmer Upole, Jr., Grantsville.

In making the request, Leonard Eiswert, an Oakland attorney representing both Charron and Hosse, pointed out that no criminal intent could be proven in the case. Judge Bowen agreed and found the two men not guilty of the charge.

Charges of theft and bad check against Wayne Golliday, 22, Westminster, were not prosecuted.

A battery charge against Betty Stewart, 42, Deer Park, was not prosecuted because complainant Ricky Stewart chose not to testify.

Cases placed on the stet docket included charges of assault, wanton trespassing and disturbance of the peace brought against Melvin Bittinger, 44, Swanton, by Floyd C. Rounds, Swanton, and charges of battery, wanton trespassing, and destruction of property brought against Rounds by Bittinger.

In court cases on April 10 heard by Judge Jack Turney, Assistant State's Attorney Richard Green reported the state would not prosecute two charges of forgery and two charges of uttering filed against Carroll T. Ross, 33, Piedmont, W.Va. Green noted Ross would be charged with theft for allegedly forging and cashing checks, totalling $180, against a First United National Bank and Trust ccount.

County Social Worker Retires

Alice Frederick, a social worker with the Garrett County Department of Social Services, has retired.

Ms. Frederick, who worked 18 years at the department with the foster care program, began at that department in December 1966 after teaching at Southern High School from September 1961-June 1962. Her retirement was effective April 1.

The DSS held a retirement dinner in her honor at the Will O' the Wisp, Deep Creek Lake, on March 23 when she received a certificate for her service from Bob Shaffer, supervisor for the county DSS, who presented the commendation on behalf of Ruth Massinga, secretary of the Department of Human Resources.

During the dinner, she was recognized for her work in organizing the Volunteer Service Center, a center which distributed clothing and other items to needy families, and received a set of luggage as a gift from her co-workers. Forty-six persons attended the dinner.

Frederick has a bachelor's degree in art from Syracuse University, New York.

She has already executed some of her future plans by marrying Boyden Shaffer, Alabama, recently and moving to Alabama.

She has three sons, Kim, Donald and Brian.

Six Incumbents In Grantsville Election, May 14

All nominations that have been filed for the office of mayor or councilman in Grantsville have been filed by incumbents.

Fred Holliday has filed for the office of mayor while those filing for the office of councilman are: Gerald E. Beachy, Dr. R. Gillum, Joseph E. McRobie, James Wilburn, and Walter Younkin.

Persons eligible to vote in the May 14 election must be 18 years of age or older, a citizen of the United States, a resident of the state of Maryland for one year, and a resident of Grantsville for at least six months.

The mayor and council has contacted Maryland Environmental Services to arrange training for the wastewater treatment operator and upgrade the sewage treatment plant. William Hetrick was hired as the wastewater treatment operator by the town on April 8. The town hopes that these steps will help convince the state to lift the current moratorium.

The Grantsville sewer project is in its final stages and a smoke test will be conducted on April 24, 25, and 26. Notice of this test has been sent to all town residents.

County Commissioners Ernest Gregg and John Braskey, along with County Clerk Robert Fousek, met with the town council and discussed a tax differential. The mayor and council voted not to ask for a tax differential.

The next meeting of the Grantsville Mayor and Council will be May 7 at 7 p.m.

State Real Estate Tax Rate Held At 21¢ Per $100

For the fifth straight year, the Maryland Board of Public Works, consisting of Governor Harry Hughes, State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein, and State Treasurer William S. James, voted to hold the state real estate tax rate at 21¢ per $100 of assessed value. The tax rate, for the year beginning July 1, 1985, was established at the board meeting April 24, 1985.

In its report to the board, the Commission on State Debt, which includes Treasurer James and Comptroller Goldstein, noted that the State of Maryland continues to get itself out of general obligation debt. The state is reducing its general obligation debt by nearly $83 million during Fiscal Year 1985, the seventh straight year Maryland has actually reduced its general obligation debt.

The commission report estimates Maryland general obligation debt will total $2,231,295,000 on June 30, 1985. Of that debt, the largest amount (41%) are public school construction bonds, issued by the state to provide funds for local public school facilities.

"The state real estate tax rate we are setting is expected to raise $103.5 million, during Fiscal Year 1986. All revenue raised by the state property tax is used to help pay the principal and interest costs on Maryland's general obligation bonds," Goldstein said. The Board of Public Works must establish a state real estate tax rate by May 1 each year.

In setting the rate, the Board of Public Works took into account $113 million in general funds appropriated to the annuity bond fund, and approximately $5.7 million in other receipts which will also be used for debt service during Fiscal Year 1986.

"The 21¢ rate is actually the rate needed to raise the remaining revenue required for principal and interest payments on state general obligation bonds," Goldstein said. "The rate could be held to 21¢ because the Board of Public Works and the General Assembly have cooperated in limiting bond authorizations and issues. By limiting general obligation bond sales in recent years, the state has been able to hold down the cost of borrowing, as much as possible.

"Maryland is a leader in its Capital Debt Management Program, which has helped the state retain its triple A general obligation bond rating, the best you can get. This cooperation will permit the State of Maryland to avoid selling general obligation bonds until February, 1986, an important consideration in these days of relatively high interest rates. All of this means the state pays lower interest rates when it does sell bonds, and that helps to keep the state real estate tax rate low," Goldstein said.

First United Bank To Form Holding Company

Stockholders of First United National Bank & Trust voted overwhelmingly during their annual meeting held on Tuesday, April 16, to form a one-bank holding company. The company, to be named the First United Corporation, will own First United National Bank & Trust and can expand its operations into other bank related businesses that the bank had previously been restricted from entering.

The stockholders also voted to fix the number of directors at 15 for the coming year. The following were re-elected to the board: David J. Beachy, Ellsworth S. Boal, Donald M. Browning, John L. Conway, Clay E. Durrett, Gerald L. Glass, Alva G. Gortner, B.L. Grant, Andrew E. Mance, Robert A. Reinhard, Irvin R. Rudy, Jr., James F. Scarpelli, Sr., Richard G. Stanton, Courtney R. Tusing, Horace P. Whitworth, Jr.

Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., who was elected chairman of the meeting, called upon Tusing, bank president, and Stanton, executive vice president, for detailed financial summaries and projections. Conway, senior vice president, reported on the Cumberland Region. William B. Grant, vice president & trust officer, was called upon for a summary of Trust activities.

There were 271,517 shares of outstanding stock represented by proxy and in person at the meeting.

On Wednesday, April 17, the Board of Directors met in regular session for their annual reorganization meeting. The oath of office was administered, Earl J. Clark was renamed secretary to the Board, and committees were appointed for the coming year. Tusing was again elected chairman of the board and president of First United and all other officers were reappointed, including the promotion of William B. Grant to senior vice president in charge of the Trust Department and in-house attorney. George H. Littman was named honorary chairman of the Board and John E. Geare will serve one more year as an honorary director in keeping with the bank's retirement policy.

Whitworth was retained as general counsel for the bank. The law firms of Burnett, Eiswert, Crawford & Janes and Hidey, Coyle, Skidmore & Getty were also retained as counsel for the coming year.

Three Town Meetings Held In Friendsville During Month Of April

Three town meetings have been held in Friendsville during the month of April, the regular Town Council meeting, the Water and Sewer meeting, and a public hearing about the crime issue with the theme: "Let's Keep Friendsville A Safe Place To Live."

Town Council Meeting

Terri Thomas appeared before the town council on behalf of a new committee assigned to probe into the problem of increased crime in Friendsville. She asked for support from the town council in respect to a permanent poster to keep people aware of the situation. The poster will tell people to care about the town, to report crimes to the police, to impress safety upon their children, to monitor the neighborhood, to expand their interest in the town, and to keep Friendsville a good place to live.

Town Clerk Lisa Hetzel informed the council that she will be moving from Friendsville, and offered to resign her position. The town council asked her to retain her position unless a problem developed which would prevent her from serving the town of Friendsville.

The proposed budget for 1985-86 was presented to the council. They will review the budget and comment on it at the next town council meeting.

Water and Sewer Meeting

Concern was expressed at the water and sewer meeting about the fire hydrant on Walnut Street being used by the fire department for non-emergency reasons. A letter will be sent to the fire department asking them to rotate hydrants for filling tankers and so on.

Friendsville Water Plant Manager Mitchell Hetzel informed the council that he will be moving. The council is considering various avenues to solve this problem. First, they may contact the Sanitary Commission. Secondly, they may contact the Maryland Environmental Service, and third, they may retain Hetzel even though he will be living outside of Friendsville.

Public Meeting On Crime

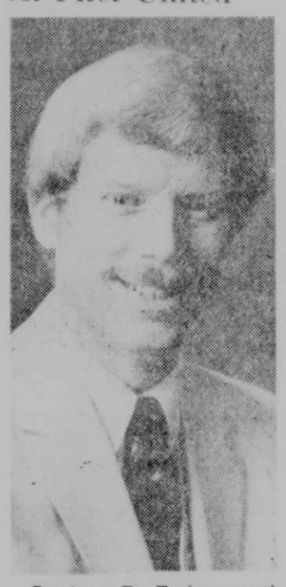

Approximately 19 citizens of Friendsville attended the public meeting held April 15 to delve into the crime problem the town is experiencing. Also attending the meeting, which lasted from 7:30 p.m. until 12:30 a.m., was Trooper William Rice of the Maryland State Police, Sergeant William Graham of the Maryland State Police, and Deputy Richard Kutchman of the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

Several suggestions made by committee chairperson, Terri Thomas, were to hire a town policeman, establish a neighborhood crime watch, use crime solvers, develop homes of refuge for children, and report all incidents to police.

The suggestion with the most support was neighborhood crime watch and to set up a block parent program, and Sergeant Graham offered to work with the committee to do that. He stressed that it would take participation of at least 50 percent of the townspeople, and urged the community to support the program.

A meeting will be held to continue this plan of action on May 21 at 7:30 p.m.

Grant Promoted To Senior V.P. At First United

Courtney R. Tusing, president and chairman of the board of First United National Bank & Trust, recently announced the promotion of William B. Grant to senior vice president and trust officer and in-house attorney.

Grant was reared in Oakland, and is a graduate of West Virginia Wesleyan College, the Duquesne University School of Law, and the National Graduate Trust School at Northwestern University. He joined the First United staff in 1978. He was admitted to the Pennsylvania and Maryland Bars in 1978 and 1979, respectively.

Grant is a member and lay leader of St. Paul's Methodist Church, and a member of the Oakland-Mt. Lake Park Lions Club. He and his wife, Laural, reside in Oakland with their two children, Jennifer and Andrew.

Various Town Matters Discussed By Mtn. Lake Mayor And Council

The mayor and town council of Mtn. Lake Park held their monthly meeting on April 11 with the main topics of discussion including letters to the council, appointments by the council, tax differential, and town matters.

A letter from Barbara Hawk, government consultant with Institute for Governmental Service was regarding the updating of the town's master plan. She is going to meet with the Mtn. Lake Park Planning Commission in May to review the proposed draft. Hopefully the plan will be completed no later than June.

A letter from Delegate George Edwards was read regarding HB1647. This letter was an answer to a letter Mayor Alexander had written to Edwards expressing his opposition to this bill. Edwards stated that he did not feel that the wording would allow the counties to do the things that the mayor felt they could do. He stated further that there was no need to worry because the bill had received an unfavorable report in the Ways and Means Committee. A letter from Delegate Timothy Finan from Allegany County regarding the same subject was read. Finan stated that he had been a strong supporter of tax differential legislation, and appreciated the support of Mtn. Lake Park and the other municipalities on this issue.

Mayor Alexander appointed Dayle Dabney and Brian Thayer to the Mtn. Lake Park Zoning Board of Appeals. They replaced Charlotte Griffith, who resigned in March, and Dan Elmlinger.

The mayor appointed Joseph Dumire to the Mtn. Lake Park Planning Commission.

Garbage pickup and sewer bills for the enclave area on old Route 135 was discussed. The council decided that since the assessment office had stated that these people are in the corporation, they will receive in town sewer rates and free garbage pickup.

Present at the council meeting were the Garrett County Commissioners John Braskey, Ernest Gregg and Elwood Groves. The mayor informed them that the town of Mtn. Lake Park will be asking for a tax differential of 20 cents per 100 dollars of assessed value. The commissioners were presented with a copy of the differential and they stated they would get back with the town after they reviewed it. Among other things discussed with the commissioners was police protection. The citizens of Mtn. Lake Park do not feel that the Sheriff Department is adequately policing the area. Speeding and off-road vehicles on town streets were of major concern.

The council discussed and approved having load limits posted on Youghiogheny Drive and N Street. Due to development in the area the town did not want the streets damaged with excessive loads. The load limit for these streets will be 10 tons.

Present at the meeting were Donald Sincell and Dorothy Leighton representing the "Friends of Mountain Lake Park". There was much discussion regarding the purchasing of the old B&O Railroad Station in Mtn. Lake Park to be used among other functions as a museum. Both Sincell and Leighton stressed the point that this station is a historical land mark and should be preserved. The town council decided to hold a public meeting on April 25 to hear remarks from the citizens of Mtn. Lake Park regarding their ideas about purchasing this property. The council felt it was very important to have public input on the purchase of this building. Some grant money will also be available for purchase and rehabilitation.

Mayor Alexander informed the council he had met with Morgan France of Franklin Associates, Frank Arnold Contractors, Carl Dochterman and Bob Langton of the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene for a pre-conference meeting. Also present were Robert Ridder, contractor for the Broadford Road Sewer line project, and Wendell Keaton, town administrator.

PRESENT PUBLICATION — The Garrett County League of Women Voters on April 16 presented the Board of Garrett County Commissioners their revised publication, "The Elected." The publication is a reference list of elected official's names, addresses and phone numbers. The booklet includes listings for President Ronald Reagan, U.S. senators and representatives, Gov. Hughes and state officials, Senator John Bambacus and Delegate George Edwards. Also listed are the names and phone numbers of most county elected officials, mayors, and county and state agencies. Facts for voters and voter registration are also included. First published in 1983, the league hopes to continue to update the manual biennially. Mrs. Cosette White is responsible for this year's revision. Copies of "The Elected" are being placed in county libraries, banks, and offices in the Garrett County Court House. "The League suggests you keep 'The Elected' near your phone book for handy reference," stated Brbara Flinn, president. The League is a non-partisan organization which promotes informed and active participation of all citizens in their government, and encourages all citizens to join its membership. Shown in the photo, left to right, are Commissioner John Braskey, Barbara Flinn, Cosette White, Commissioner Elwood Groves and Commissioner Ernest Gregg.

Md. State Police Probe Summer Home Burglaries

Two summer residents of Garrett County recently reported to the Maryland State Police that their summer cottages had been burglarized.

Peter D. Trooboff, Washington, D.C., told police Saturday that someone had entered his summer home located on the State Park Road and removed binoculars, a Swiss Army knife, a cassette stereo, and $4 in small change.

Total loss has been set at $209. Tfc. C.R. Smith is investigating.

John E. Krigger, Pittsburgh, Pa., reported Friday that his cottage, located on Paradise Point Road, had been entered and the culprits had taken a video cassette recorder, a cassette tape player and a battery recharger.

Tfc. R.M. Hershberger is handling the investigation.

Balloon Found One Full Year After Launching

Mrs. Carl Wakefield, who lives near Blooming Rose in the Friendsville area, found a balloon in the woods on the Wakefield farm when the family was fixing some fencing that was damaged by last winter's snow.

Many balloons are found in Garrett County that have drifted in from all directions. This finding is unusual because the balloon was launched on April 8, 1984, one full year ago.

The balloon was launched by Jothan Seely of Mill Run, Pa., on that date to celebrate "Lift Your Spirits Day" at the Vanderbilt Church of Christ.

Mrs. Wakefield plans to return the identification card from the balloon to Jothan and she thinks he will be surprised to hear about his balloon after all this time. She will also return the thought that was printed on the back of the card, "God Cares For You."

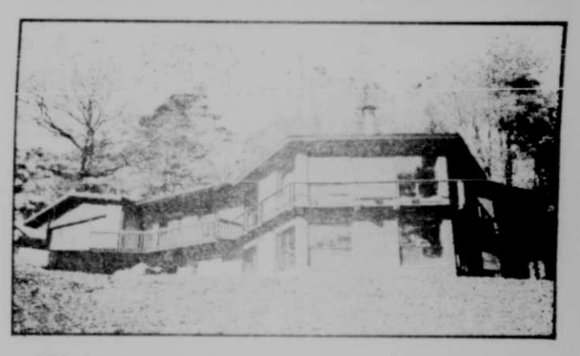

Library Corner

The Ruth Enlow Library is now taking requests for summer stops of the bookmobile throughout Garrett County. If you would like to have a stop in your area, please visit the main library or one of the branches and fill out a request form.

Railroad buffs will enjoy a slide show by Gus Johnson on Monday, April 29, at 7 p.m. at the Oakland branch. Gus will present slides of American steam railroads that were operating from the Civil War through the 1940's. Also shown will be slides of railroad museums and the special bicentennial train operated by the Chessie system.

Oakland Police Probe DOP At Masonic Temple

A complaint of destruction of property at the Paul B. Naylor Masonic Temple is currently being investigated by Officer Charles Warfield of the Oakland City Police Department.

It was reported to the department Saturday that unknown persons had thrown stones through the gold-lettered plate glass doors. A resident of that neighborhood said he heard loud noises at about 1:00 a.m. that morning, but didn't think to call police.

Warfield said replacement costs for the lettering and glass would amount to over $1,000. No trespassing notices are being run in this week's paper to discourage further vandalism.

Caring Kids . . .

The production of the record album "We Are The World" by about four dozen top recording artists for the purpose of raising money for starving Ethiopians is truly a wonderful gesture by these wealthy performers. But it doesn't hold a candle to a similar effort by thousands of inner-city New York City children, some of whom rarely have two nickels to rub together.

Details of the story were revealed in a special edition of ABC television's 20/20 program Wednesday night. By donating their extra pennies, making and selling valentines for five cents each, and holding a variety of other fund-raising activities, the children, many of whom are on welfare and reside in ghettos, raised $150,000 in their initial effort and have now raised another $250,000.

But they did not stop there. They wanted to make sure that all of the money was used for purchasing needed food and supplies, and that the goods arrived in Ethiopia as soon as possible. So they went out and purchased the grain directly and had it flown to Ethiopia, rather than transported by ship, which would have been less expensive, but would have taken much longer. It took just three weeks to purchase the grain and get it into the hands and mouths of the Ethiopian people.

The effort was initiated by a New York Congressman, who went to the 200-plus schools in the city with graphic films of the dying children of Ethiopia.

The 20/20 program was likewise graphic and emotionally moving, as it showed a ten-year-old girl dying of starvation and her life mercifully ended by her family by suffocation. It showed ABC's Tom Jarriel nearly sobbing as he frantically handed out his own money to starving people. Running behind the jeep in which Jarriel was riding were children, shouting "foreigner, foreigner . . . adopt me!" It showed that the people of Ethiopia are proud, hard-working, humble individuals, and not beggars. The children smiled, even though they were dying. The program concluded with the New York children singing "We Are The World."

Among the disheartening facts pointed out by Jarriel were that not a single airline in this country would donate one flight to Ethiopia to transport the children's grain and, still more shocking, that not one ounce of the grain pledged by the United States government has yet reached the Ethiopian people. Men, women, and particularly children are dying daily while our bureaucrats waste time with paperwork. The government has a lot to learn from the children of New York City.

Suddenly our worries of whether or not we will have enough money to paint the house, re-decorate a bathroom, or go on a vacation have turned into shameful guilt. Our complaints that we rarely go out for dinner or that we almost never have steak have become outrageous.

Let us all jump on the bandwagon created by the children of New York City and get involved in this business of caring, loving, and giving!

THIS IS ONLY A TEST.. IF THIS HAD BEEN AN ACTUAL EMERGENCY, WE WOULD'VE BEEN TAKEN OVER BY TED TURNER.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

As a graduate of Garrett Community College, I am appalled at the recent decision of board of directors, President Randall Harmon, and Dean Fred Leary to not renew the contracts of Dennis Fearnow and Donald Carstens. I was the second class to graduate from Garrett. There were times when I was the only student to enroll in a course. Many classes were taught with fewer than ten students enrolled. The quality of education did not suffer thanks to the teaching abilities of these men. There are other survivors of this past, like George Dailey and Joan Crawford, who had a strong influence on my education and life. These instructors could have located elsewhere and taught at larger colleges, but they chose to come and stay at Garrett. These people are more than educators, they were and still are, family.

Many people spent a lot of hours trying to start a college in our county. This community college allowed our local people, of all ages, to further their education locally instead of having to travel 50 miles or more for the same services. We were blessed with educators who cared more about their students than themselves. That tradition continued until the present college administration. If the present trend is allowed to continue, there will be no Garrett Community College. The original instructors are being forced out. When this unique group of individuals is gone it will be the students and the community who will lose.

Garrett County ranks among the top in unemployment in the State of Maryland. We lose a lot of high school graduates to the surrounding cities for employment and education purposes. The future of this county rests on the leadership of these people. If our college does not offer the quality educators and proper studies, our county will be forced to fall backwards.

The biggest sport at the college seems to be a game called "head hunting." Let's see who we can get rid of next. Perhaps the problem is that Fearnow, Carstens, Dailey and Crawford are respected by the students and the community and the Dean, President, and board of directors are not.

In the past, I have financially aided the sport programs at the college. I am discontinuing my contributions until the current administration and board resolves the current situation present at the school.

I encourage my friends to support the contract renewal of Dennis Fearnow and Donald Carstens and to protect the job security of George Dailey and Joan Crawford. The people currently making the decisions at the college do not have the community's best interests.

To the Editor:

Next year I will have three daughters and nieces and nephews attending Northern Middle School. I am concerned about the split shifting that is being proposed and I do not think this is fair to the students' well-being or education.

The hours that are proposed will cause more "latch key" students than ever before. Some middle school students will be getting on the bus at 6:00 a.m. and not all have a bus stop at their front door. To have a youngster waiting at a bus stop at 6:00 a.m. where a parent cannot see him is asking a little too much. Then, a lot of them will go home to an empty house because their parents are working in the middle of the day. There is also the bad problem of weather in the winter. Has the roads department been contacted about going out earlier and staying out later for this schedule? They have budgets, too!

Just a few months ago everyone was upset because many of the county's students didn't pass some of the functional tests that they are required to pass before graduation and now a situation like this is put before them. To some it could be very discouraging.

It doesn't seem like a good idea to disrupt two schools to renovate one. I thought the Editorial published in The Republican 12/27/84 was very good. It suggested that GCC be used for the high school students. Since enrollment at GCC is down, and some professors have been let go, there would probably be plenty of room. This might also encourage some seniors to attend GCC after graduation and could save transportation funds that could be used somewhere else.

This problem did not come about overnight. When it is time to renovate Southern, there is no way possible that those students can fit in Southern Middle. The possibility of using the college for both schools should be considered.

No decision will be easy or uncomplicated, but I think the parents should have been allowed to help make those decisions. My children came home from school and told me they were asked what what wanted to do next year. They were offered only the two split shifts and I had nothing to say one way or the other. Therefore I would like to request an oper Board meeting to be held at NHS in the evening.

I am a clerical aid at Grantsville Elementary and I support the Board of Education, but as a concerned parent I do not support this plan. Students should come first and renovation second.

Sincerely,
Marsha Swauger

To the Editor:

Enjoyed your editorial "Something's Rotten" in the April 18 issue of The Republican.

Occasionally I write to you about certain editorials with which I do not agree, or which I consider to be just in very poor taste for good editorial material.

However, the above mentioned editorial appears to have hit the nail squarely on the head! The Sierra Club is supposed to do considerable good; but, how much bad does it do?

If I had not previously dropped my membership in The Sierra Club for another reason, I would certainly consider doing so now.

Sincerely yours
George L. Porter

To the Editor:

As parents with children in the Garrett County School System, we would like to express our support of the Zaner Bloser penmanship program presently in the proposed budget approved by the Board of Education on April 11, 1985.

After much investigation, we have found there is no formal penmanship program in force in our county schools. After speaking to Charlene Evans-Thomas, Director of Elementary Education, and Albert Ringer, Assistant Superintendent of Curriculum and Instruction, we have learned that the Bomar Noble Noble Company, who supplied Spell-Write spelling and handwriting materials, is no longer publishing these books. Our schools are now using MacMillan spelling books, which do not include penmanship. It is our understanding that since the Board of Education itself is not supplying penmanship materials, this is left up to the individual school principals to pursue. If they do not, or cannot, purchase penmanship materials, it is left up to the classroom teachers to choose whether or not to teach handwriting and if so, how much and how often. This does not provide a set standard for grading purposes—but penmanship is a grade each child receives.

Our own children's papers demonstrate no recognizable handwriting technique. Many children form their letters incorrectly, cannot stay on the line, cannot use proper spacing, cannot maintain consistent slant, and cannot write neatly. Zaner Bloser addresses each of these problems in a program for grades 1-5.

Penmanship is a skill every person needs throughout life. We feel, as parents, that it is time to look closely at this problem and do what is necessary to insure that our children learn this very important, fundamental skill—and that it is reinforced and refined with systematic continuity throughout their elementary schooling.

As the budget will be going before the County Commissioners, we must emphasize the importance of allotting sufficient funds for all instructional programs that are graded. Even though the budget has been tentatively approved by the Board of Education, final approval must wait until fund allocation by the County Commissioners is certain.

With the $2,425 proposed in the budget for the Zaner Bloser penmanship program, the Board of Education will purchase the instructional kits to be given to the elementary teachers throughout Garrett County, grades 1-5. If the Budget is cut by the County Commissioners, the $2,425 for Zaner Bloser penmanship kits must be retained in its entirety.

Hats off to the Boy Scouts!

Today was a beautiful Saturday and I'm sure the boy scouts would have preferred to be playing ball or fishing. They were, however, out with their leaders picking up cans that have been carelessly tossed out of vehicles on the highways and country roads.

Wouldn't it be nice if some adults could take a lesson from the scouts and try to keep Garrett County beautiful? It is a beautiful county, you know. Let's keep it that way!

To the Editor:

I recently had an accident in which I had two broken bones and they both were compound fractures. During surgery they had to cut away most of the muscle and I almost lost my leg and arm. The doctors were considering surgery again.

I joined the Village Nautilus in December and the progress that I have made in the last three months has been exceptional. Surgery has been ruled out. When I started the Nautilus Program I had trouble walking even with crutches, but now I can walk on my own and I am continually gaining the strength, circulation, and growth of the muscles that were destroyed, thanks to God and Village Nautilus.

Gratefully Satisfied

To the Editor:

Another great performance at Northern High School by the Theatre Arts class! "Busybody" was a great play and the entire cast could not have been better!

Thanks to the cast and the director, Mr. Snelson. Another evening well spent!

Yough River

The timber along the river was clear-cut in the 1930's, the area was mined in the mid-30's, and the river was biologically dead in the 1940's. After becoming naturally restored during the last 40 years, the same pressures are again being exerted.

"The state feels it may be necessary to start compensating landowners for lost property rights," said Roberts, "in order to preserve the wild and scenic river for the future as the legislature has mandated."

School Officials

sidered for expulsion were not expelled.

Dr. Ryscavage noted that although students are expelled for the remainder of the school year, the school board has adopted a procedure for those students to be readmitted the following school year.

Some of those students who receive education from an accredited educational institution would be considered for promotion to the next grade level, while others who receive an education from a non-accredited program would have to undergo testing to be considered for promotion.

All students who are expelled will have to attend a six-week summer school to be considered for readmission to the county school system, Ryscavage said.

Some parents who attended the April 10 meeting and others have criticized the policy for being too inflexible and strict.

Parent Ray Wharton stated he felt the school system was not helping students who were expelled from school by denying them their education. He asked that the system provide a way for those expelled from the regular classroom to still receive an education, such as a special class.

Many of the parents who have criticized the policy do not contest that their children are punished, but believe the punishment to be too severe.

Dr. Ryscavage maintains that the policy is not too severe, but has definitely benefitted the school system. He also believes that students are given ample opportunity to correct their behavior and ample warning through the handbook to refrain from serious misbehavior such as battering other students, stealing or abuse of alcohol or drugs.

He points out that the students are aware of the behavior expected from them, and says the handbook helps them to learn to be responsible for their behavior.

"This handbook is as important as any textbook," Ryscavage said, "because it is the school board's attempt to teach the fourth "R", which is responsibility for one's actions."

And, Ryscavage points out, the policy was revised to be stricter because of requests from students and teachers. Also, a gallup poll taken last year revealed the public, both locally and throughout the nation, believed discipline to be a major problem in the schools.

As a result of the expressed need for a stricter policy, a handbook revision committee examined the discipline policy as well as the entire student handbook and made revisions where it felt necessary. Once a draft of the revised policy was complete, the committee circulated it to 300 persons in the community for review. The 37 percent who responded favored the revisions, noted Al Coviello, director of pupil services who headed the policy revision effort.

School officials say they will evaluate the policy at the end of this school year and take into consideration comments from the public.

They point out, however, that they have to draw a line for how much misbehavior can be tolerated and that their primary goal is to protect the students and the academic climate in the schools. As Ed Green said, "We owe them that much."

Our Turn

A Cleaning Fantasy
by Susan Alvarez

It was a bright, sunny day and I was stuck in the house doing spring cleaning. I was in the basement, shuffling dirt from one side to the other, when I realized how depressingly boring spring cleaning can be.

I walked upstairs and began waxing the floors. Suddenly, I looked up and there they were, Willie Nelson and Julio Inglesias. Looking directly at me, ignoring the bandana on my head and the rip in my shirt, they broke out in song, "Of all the girls we've known before, you have the most shiny floor..."

Stunned, I walked into the laundry room only to find Sylvester Stallone holding a pair of dirty boxing shorts. "I hear you're a champ at getting out stains," he mumbled, as I stood there holding a bottle of bleach in one hand and an armful of kitchen curtains in the other.

By now I was in such a stupor that I decided that perhaps it was hunger, not boredom, causing me to hallucinate. I went into the kitchen to fix lunch and there he stood - Clint Eastwood. He was leaning against the counter, squinting directly at me. "Go ahead. Make me a sandwich," he commanded.

I decided that my hallucinations had begun to take over. I walked to the front door to leave, opened it, and there was Clark Gable. "Frankly, Susan, I don't think you like to spring clean."

"Right Rhett. I'll do it tomorrow. After all, tomorrow the dirt will still be there."

Coal Company Officials Discuss Problem Of Dust In Kitzmiller

Tim Lanager and Joe Sines of the Chestnut Ridge Coal Co. met with the Garrett County Commissioners on April 16, to update them on a dust problem which has developed in Kitzmiller.

Chestnut Ridge Coal Co. is located just across the river in West Virginia, and directly across from the Kitzmiller Elementary School. Brenda McCartney, principal of Kitzmiller Elementary School, first noticed the problem and contacted James J. Lupis Jr., assistant superintendent of the Garrett County Board of Education.

Lupis then contacted the coal company officials, who were apparently unaware of the seriousness of the coal dust problem at the school. The coal company officials and the commissioners feel that a lack of communication caused a delay on the part of Lanager and Sines in investigating the problem and the discovery of a solution.

According to the commissioners, the mayor and council of Kitzmiller had apparently discussed the problem at their February 25 meeting, and had decided to send a letter to the coal company describing the situation. For reasons unknown, the letter was not postmarked or received by Chestnut Ridge Coal Co. until March 25, a full month later.

The March 25 Kitzmiller Town Council meeting was attended by the commissioners as a part of scheduled town meetings. During that meeting, several residents of Kitzmiller made the commissioners aware of the coal dust problem in the area.

During the month of March, however, Lupis had met with Lanager and Sines and they had visited the school and made plans to monitor the amount of dust present in the classrooms.

The Chestnut Ridge officials explained that they scheduled Tuesday's meeting with the commissioners to update them on their efforts to correct the potential health hazard which exists.

Lanager and Sines pointed out some of the possible causes of the problem at this time. They stated that there are some 40 employees operating a second shift now, which causes an increase in volume and movement of equipment. They also said that the loading site is on the same level as the school.

Another problem exists with the air bags in the company's dust collector. The air bags must be replaced if any holes develop in them, and the employees have been instructed to shut down the operation as soon as a problem is noticed.

Other attempts to solve the problem have been made by the company officials, including installation of water sprays, keeping all haul roads watered down, installing 10 mph speed limit signs on haul roads, informing, by letter, all vendors and others who use the haul roads about the speed limit, and installing covers on dumping points.

The company will also attempt to move the operation some 3,000 feet farther away from the school. Officials are awaiting state permits to begin this step, and feel that if the permits are granted, the work could be done before the children were back in school again next fall.

Lanager and Sines stated that they will continue to monitor the problem at the school, and try to pinpoint the time of day or night when the most dust is present, which would help them find an answer to the problem.

The commissioners asked to be kept informed, and praised the officials for being concerned enough to come in to talk. They felt that the company was not oblivious to the citizens and appeared to be sincere about solving the problem.

Titchnell Pleads Guilty To Theft In District Court

Garrett County District Court Judge Jack Turney ordered a pre-sentence investigation for an 18-year-old Friendsville man who pled guilty to charges of theft and attempted breaking and entering in court April 16.

Kenneth W. Titchnell admitted to attempting to break into Tabor's Grocery Store, Friendsville, at about 2:30 a.m. on January 4 by prying open the front door with a screwdriver. This attempt was unsuccessful, but Titchnell caused $25 damage to the door.

Titchnell also pled guilty to the January 4 theft of $421.61 worth of items from Friendsville Amoco. Included in the items taken were a Bearcat scanner, a citizen band radio, an AM/FM radio, 12 cartons of cigarettes, and one case of antifreeze.

A charge of malicious destruction of property and of breaking and stealing were not prosecuted in exchange for Titchnell's guilty pleas.

Titchnell's attorney was Bill Lee Smith, Cumberland.

Judge Turney ordered a presentence investigation for James E. Miller, Jr., 19, Cumberland, who pled guilty to a misdemeanor theft charge for taking a $450 set of snow skis and bindings, belonging to Kurt W. Fisher.

The theft occurred at the WISP Ski Area at about 8 p.m. on January 16. The items were recovered. Tfc. David Riggleman, of the Maryland State Police, filed the charge.

Miller's attorney was Stephen Wilkinson, Cumberland.

Also pleading guilty to a misdemeanor theft charge for the same incident was Todd L. Vanderburgh, 19, Clearfield, Pa. The judge ordered a presentence investigation for Vanderburgh who was represented by John Toston, public defender, during the hearing.

Judge Turney fined Ronald L.

MACo is in the process of forming a Landfill Regulations Workgroup to study the changes in requirements for landfill operations. Commissioner Groves has been selected to serve as the Garrett County representative for the workgroup.

Lakers On A Roll; Win Nine Of Last Ten Games This Week

A busy schedule seems to agree with the Garrett Community College baseball team, as the Lakers played ten games in the past seven days, winning nine of them. First-year head coach, Lawrence Nesselrodt, a former outstanding player for the Lakers, has guided his squad to 23 wins so far this season against nine defeats.

A no-hitter by Brian Jones in the second game of a doubleheader last Thursday against visiting Montgomery College of Germantown was the highlight of the ten game series, along with an incredible 37 runs scored on Tuesday in a 19-6 and 18-8 rout of CCAC-Allegheny, also in McHenry.

Jones, a freshman lefthander from Weirton, W. Va., fanned ten Montgomery batters and walked five in picking up his first win of the season, 6-0. The Lakers won the opener, 13-8.

Garrett erupted for seven runs in the second inning of the first game, led by Benny Shreve's two-run double and Brian Cueva's triple, which also scored a pair.

Ted Sova picked up three RBIs on a pair of doubles, while Marty Harvey contributed two singles and Shreve scored three times.

John Lucsko, who was relieved in the fifth by Bill Liller, upped his record to 2-0.

In the five-inning no-hitter, Harvey blasted a three-run homer in the first inning to give the Lakers a lead they would never relinquish. Sova finished with three RBIs with a double and sacrifice fly, while Shreve tripled and scored a pair and Cueva recorded three of the Lakers' seven steals in the game. On Saturday the Lakers dropped the front end of a doubleheader to Frederick CC, 9-6, at McHenry. A two-run error by the Lakers in the sixth inning, followed by back-to-back solo homeruns in the seventh by Frederick's Wilkinson and Smith, resulted in the loss.

Smith finished with a pair of homers, while Shreve paced Garrett with a single, double, and a triple. Sova added a two-run single.

Absorbing the loss on the mound was Denzil Evans.

Harvey's two-run double highlighted a six-run fourth inning in the nightcap, which the Lakers won, 11-5.

Former Northern High standout Phil Carr and Rick Harasti led off that inning with back-to-back singles. Both scored on Shreve's double. Sova then plated Shreve with a single, Cueva singled to move Shreve to third, and Harvey followed with his game-winning double.

The Lakers recorded four runs in the second frame as Harvey led off with a single, Jim Keller went to first on an error, Kent Freeman walked, and Ron Bosley drove home Keller and Harvey on a single. Freeman and Bosley then scored on wild pitches.

Going the distance for the Lakers was Vaughn Yenich, who gave up five hits, struck out ten, and walked five.

Next, it was on to Pittsburgh on Sunday, where the Lakers took a pair from CCAC-South Campus, 10-5 and 9-1.

Harasti recorded five hits in the sweep, including a double and two singles in the opener. Shreve and Harvey added two singles apiece, Freeman hit an RBI single, and Keller accounted for two runs.

Chris Huyett, who gained relief from Ed Frizzell in the sixth, picked up his third win in four starts.

In the nightcap, Harasti and Sova each finished with a pair of doubles, Bosley smacked a two-run homer, and Keller added a two-run single. Stacy Viands went the distance for his second win in as many starts.

A solo homerun by Perry was the only CCAC score.

The next Garrett victim was CCAC-Allegheny, which the Lakers destroyed twice on Tuesday, 19-6 and 18-8, in McHenry.

Former Southern three-sport star Ron Bosley led the Lakers 37-hit attack with six hits on the afternoon good for nine RBIs. He was four-for-four in the second game and his hits included a grand slam homer in the nightcap.

The 10-run rule halted the first game after five innings as the Lakers recorded five runs in the first, four in the second, and ten in the third.

Shreve's two-run homer, his fourth of the season, occurred in the third. He also rapped a pair of doubles.

Sova and Freeman each finished with a pair of doubles. Bosley and Cueva each hit a single and a double, good for three RBIs apiece. Harista and Harvey each socked two singles.

Shreve, Sova, Cueva, and Lenny Shook each scored three runs.

Lucsko improved his personal record to 3-0 on the mound as he tossed a four-hitter. Two of the hits were homeruns by Unger and Fuchs.

CCAC held a 7-1 lead in the top of the third in the second game, but that was before a pair of homers by Freeman and Bosley's grand slam.

Swartzlander fell apart on the mound for CCAC in the bottom of the third, loading the bases with three straight walks. Cueva then narrowed the gap to 7-3 with his two-run single, which was followed by another score via a walk.

Harvey then smacked a two-run single to make the score 7-6.

CCAC moved out to an 8-6 advantage in the fourth, but the Lakers responded with a run in their half of that frame.

The score was tied by Garrett in the fifth when Cueva singled and Freeman smacked the first of his homeruns. Harvey then walked, Keller singled, and Bob Scavina walked to load the bases once again and set the stage for Bosley's grand slam.

Harasti's score on Shreve's double made it a 13-8 Laker advantage.

Freeman homered again to lead off the sixth inning, followed by a double by Harvey, walks by Keller and Bosley, and a two-run single by Sova.

Bill Liller gained his fourth win in six starts for Garrett.

The final pair of victories for the Lakers came yesterday afternoon at New Kensington as they swept a twinbill from the Penn State campus in that city, 8-1 and 7-6.

Chris Huyett tossed a three-hitter in the first game for Garrett, fanning eight batters and walking only one. It was Huyett's fourth triumph in five starts this season.

A pair of doubles by Shreve, two singles by Harvey, and three stolen bases by Shook were the offensive highlights in the Lakers' eight-hit assault.

Bosley and Viands shared the pitching chores in the nightcap, as the Lakers stopped a rally by New Kensington in the bottom of the fourth inning. Sova, who had a pair of RBIs in the first game, rapped a double and a single in the second contest which were also good for two runs. Shook added an RBI double, while Keller and Freeman smacked run-scoring sacrifice flies.

The fast pace of competition continues for the Lakers as they will be going after their eighth and ninth consecutive wins this afternoon. They are slated to take on Beaver CC this afternoon at 1 p.m. on the Pennsylvanians' diamond and then return home Saturday for another 1 p.m. twinbill.

Northern Girls Mash Turkeyfoot, Nip Rockwood

The Northern High School girls varsity softball team improved its season record to 5-1 with a pair of victories during the past week.

The Lady Huskies rolled over Turkeyfoot on Monday, 15-5, as Kim Buckel yielded only four hits. A nine-run third inning erased a 3-1 deficit and gave the Northerners a lead they would never relinquish.

The Husky bats pounded out 15 hits, four of them by Julie Robeson which were good for a pair of RBIs. Liz Sisler finished with three RBIs, while Kris Speicher and Schree Savage also recorded two each.

The Huskies' only loss of the season, to Rockwood, was avenged on Tuesday when they nipped the host Pennsylvanians in an 18-17 slugfest. Kim Buckel raised her season pitching record to 4-1 with the win.

The game featured numerous lead changes and a nine-run fourth inning by the Huskies which gave them a 14-11 advantage at that point. However, Rockwood came back in the fifth with five runs of their own to retake the lead, 16-14.

The winning runs were produced in the top of the seventh, as Lori Sisler led off with a single and scored on Buckel's triple, which was followed by an infield ground out by Kim McClintock to plate Buckel for the winning run.

The Husky defense tightened up in the bottom of the seventh when Rockwood put the first two batters on base, but forced them into a double play. Buckel then struck out Boucher for the final out.

Buckel and Liz Sisler each hit triples for Northern, while teammates Missy Durst and Robeson each finished with a double. Liz Sisler and Lori Sisler each drove home three runs.

Offense has been the story throughout the first six games for the Lady Huskies, who are averaging 16 runs and 15 hits per contest. Other Northern wins include a 16-6 victory over Meyersdale, and a 20-5 and 20-1 sweep over Calvary Christian.

Huskies Fall To Southern, Beall; Rebound For 18-4 Win At Rockwood

An 8-1 loss to arch-rival Southern on Friday was followed by a 9-3 setback Monday afternoon for the Northern Huskies against visiting Beall, however Coach Jack Settle's team made an impressive rebound Tuesday by smashing host Rockwood, 18-5. The Huskies are now 5-4 and will entertain Turkeyfoot this afternoon at 4 p.m.

The Mountaineers, who picked up their fourth win of the campaign in six outings, were led offensively by Andy Saunders, who finished with three RBIs. John Brewer and Russell Metz each recorded a pair of singles for the winners.

Ken Savage and Kevin Sines each smacked a double for the Huskies, good for one run apiece, while Brent Beachy, Northern's starting pitcher, added a run-producing single. Both teams finished with nine hits, but winning pitcher, Bob Cuthbertson, who went the distance, managed to scatter most of the Northern hits.

The Husky bats recorded 13 hits on Tuesday against Rockwood, capitalizing on almost all of them as they scored in all but one inning and ended the game on the ten-run rule in the sixth.

Beachy finished with a double and a pair of singles, good for three RBIs, Steve Zumpano added four runs on two hits, Ken Savage provided three scores on two hits, Bill Murray smacked a two-run homer, Aaron Zumpano recorded a triple and a double, Dennis Hetrick added a two-run double, and Greg Lytle chipped in with a pair of hits.

Highlighting the Pennsylvanians' nine-hit attack was a homerun by Walker.

Kelly Bittinger Signs With West Liberty College

Kelly Bittinger, the 5-11 senior who was the leading rebounder for the Southern High girls' successful basketball team for the past three seasons, signed a letter of intent this week for a scholarship to West Liberty State College.

Bittinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Bittinger, Smouse Road, averaged ten points and nine rebounds per game this past season and provided numerous pitchouts to Southern standout Jenny Hillen on the fast break.

She was listed among the honorable mention selections on the All-Area team the past two seasons, was named "The Girl Who Wouldn't Quit" as a junior, and won the "Most Improved Player" award as a sophomore. She is expected to take home more honors from the 1985 SHS Sports Banquet next month.

Bittinger holds the career rebounding record for girls at Southern. During her three years on the team, the Rams recorded a 44-18 record, won three county championships and two Region I titles.

"Kelly complemented Jenny Hillen so well the past two seasons," stated Ram head coach Don Stemple. "While Jenny was tough on the outside, it was Kelly who made things happen under the boards. For the past three years, she has been feeding the fast break. And if Jenny's outside shot missed, you could count on Kelly to pull the rebound and put the ball up again."

Stemple said Bittinger made "drastic improvement" since her sophomore year and has provided valuable leadership because of her "great dedication."

"She worked so hard, that you could count on her to play almost mistake-free basketball every game," he said.

An honor roll student, Bittinger will probably play in the forward position at West Liberty, Stemple said.

Stemple noted that all four graduating seniors — Bittinger, Hillen, Jane Bell, and Joy Hamilton — have been offered scholarships to play ball at the college level. Bell was also recruited by West Liberty but has

Art Monroe, Cindy Peet Reflect On Successful Hoop Careers At GCC

Garrett Community College basketball standouts, Art Monroe and Cindy Peet, named to the 1985 NJCAA All-Region XX Basketball Teams after outstanding performances on the GCC Lakers Men's and Women's squads this year, say they will leave the school "with happy memories."

"The thing I'll remember most is the people here. They were one of the main reasons I came back to Garrett this year. I'll really miss them when I leave. I sometimes wish it was a four-year instead of only a two-year school," said Cindy Peet, a 6'0 sophomore from Severn who averaged 22 points and 13 rebounds per game as a Lady Laker this year. She finished the season as the Region's leading scorer.

She was named to the Maryland JUCO first team, the All-Region XX Team, and was a member of the Region XX All-Star Team. She has been nominated to the National All-Star Team.

"One thing I wish is that the women's team would get the same support from the fans that the men's team does. We really appreciated the support of the students who came to the games, especially the guys on the baseball team, who gave us a lot of support," she said.

Art Monroe said that his most lasting memory of Garrett will be the fans who supported the Lakers. "They came to every game pumped up, not just to rivalry games like with ACC," said Monroe, a former high school All-American from Catonsville who transferred to Garrett this year from Fairmont State. Monroe averaged 26.5 points per game, with season totals of 162 rebounds, 124 assists, and 93 steals. He was the leading vote-getter in balloting for the Region All-Star Team, and was recently named to the NJCAA All-American third team.

Both players found their stay at Garrett to be a learning experience both on and off the court. Peet said that her game has improved. "My confidence has gone up. I used to be afraid to shoot, but Coach (Ann) Wellham kept pushing me. It helped my inside game and I've become a better player."

Her evaluation of Coach Wellham is enthusiastic. "She is the best coach I've ever had. She'll work with you individually if you need it. She's easy to get along with and understanding, but she works you hard to make you the best you can be."

Peet also praised her experiences in the classroom. "The teachers don't turn you away if you need help. The student tutor program is great because they are able to explain things on your level."

Although the Men's team had a successful 22-10 season, Monroe said that the most valuable lesson he learned on the court at Garrett was about losing. "I felt bad when we lost four games within two weeks," he said. "I didn't know how to take it. In the long run it will be good for me because if it happens again, I'll know how to deal with it."

He said he learned a lot from Coach Tom Bosley, especially, "to be a gentleman on and off the court, and the importance of keeping up with my school work all the time. He taught me a lot of things about keeping control and being a team leader."

Coach Bosley commented on Monroe's contribution. "Art has the ability to score at anytime from anywhere. We knew as long as we had Art on our team we had the ability to come from behind and make up large defects in a short amount of time. He's the best player in the history of GCC basketball."

Coach Wellham is equally pleased with Peet's performance this year. "She is very coachable and willing to try new things," she said. "I think she has the ability to play Division I basketball. As an experienced junior she will be able to help her team both in play and in a leadership role. The fact that she held her own when double-and triple-teamed speaks highly of her ability as a player. She will leave a large gap, not only as a player, but as a unique individual."

Peet will be transferring to Towson State or Loyola University next year to major in psychology. Monroe plans to complete his associate degree at Catonsville Community College next year before pursuing a Division I basketball opportunity.

Both players said that, besides their experiences in the classroom and on the court at Garrett, there is one thing they will always remember about the area—the snow. "I liked it for a while, but then it got to be a little too much," said Peet, as she glanced out the window into an April snowstorm.

Stem, Hillen And Monroe Receive National All-Star Recognition

Three local athletes, two of Southern High School and one at Garrett Community College, received national recognition this past week for their outstanding efforts during the 1984-85 basketball season.

Southern's Scott Stem and Jenny Hillen were both included on the honorable mention list of USA Today's 1985 All-USA Boys and Girls High School Basketball teams, respectively.

GCC standout Art Monroe, who was the top vote-getter for selection on the Region XX All-Star team, was named a third team NJCAA All-America Team.

Stem, a 6-4 senior who averaged 19 points per game this season and led the Rams to a berth in the Maryland Class C semi-finals, is one of 13 players from Maryland on the USA Today list.

Hillen, who has been the Southern girls team leader for the past three years and has signed a four-year scholarship with West Virginia University, is also one of 13 players selected from Maryland for the All-USA honor. Hillen became Southern's all-time leading scorer, for both boys and girls, with a total of 1,812 points. She averaged 23 points per contest this season and led the Rams to a second consecutive state playoff opportunity.

Hillen was also named this week to the Cumberland Times-News All-Area team, while her teammate, Jane Bell, was selected honorable mention All-Area.

The selection of Monroe as an All-American designates him as one of the top 48 junior college players in the nation. The 6-2 guard from Catonsville hit just over 50 percent from the floor this season for the Lakers and averaged nearly 27 points per game. He also finished with a 5.2 rebound average, recorded 124 assists and 93 steals.

GCC Coach Tom Bosley stated that Monroe was "without a doubt the best player I've ever coached."

Monroe plans to complete his AA degree requirements this coming year at Catonsville Community College and then play Division I ball at one of the several colleges and universities that have expressed a strong interest in recruiting him.

SHS Boys Tennis Team Splits, Girls Blanked Twice

The Southern High boys tennis team split this past week, falling to Frankfort last Thursday, 7-2, on the Falcons' courts, then rebounding with a 6-2 triumph over Hampshire on Monday in Romney.

The Southern girls' team was crushed twice, however, losing to Hampshire on Monday, 9-0, and to Bishop Walsh on Tuesday, 9-0, in Cumberland.

Kirk Turney registered the only single win for the Rams against Frankfort, stopping Ron Hall, 8-1. The other Ram victory was by Scott Finch and Eric Elswert in doubles over Tim Nelson and Hall, 8-4.

Against Hampshire, Mike Whitmer, John Hornyak, Elswert, Turney, and Finch all took singles victories, while Whitmer and Gordon Savage teamed up for a doubles win.

Local Runners Compete In 10-K

Five local runners were among the participants in the first Muscular Dystrophy Association 10-Kilometer (6.2 miles) Run, held in Cumberland on Saturday.

John McIntee, Oakland, led the local runners with a time of 37 minutes, 30 seconds. Steve Hile, Oakland, finished in 41:10; Bill Pope, Mtn. Lake Park, 44:13; Randy Storey, 45:30; and Dan Paugh, 49:37.

The event was won by Cumberland's Dave Rinehart with a time of 29:20.

The next race in which local runners plan to participate will be on May 4, also in Cumberland. Persons desiring more information may contact any of the above runners.

Bosley Resigns Post At Garrett

Garrett Community College head basketball coach and instructor Tom Bosley announced his resignation on Tuesday afternoon, effective June 1.

Bosley did not elaborate on his reasons for submitting the resignation, but noted in general that he was suffering from "burnout" and that differences in opinion between the college's administration and himself as to how the basketball program should be operated contributed to his decision.

The third-year coach, who had the most successful record in the history of GCC, stated that he had no other job offers and is not sure what he will be doing this summer and fall. He said he hopes to stay in the area, however, and if the opportunity arises, he may return to the county public school system.

He also noted that he wanted to announce his resignation early enough so that high school players that he had recruited for the 1985-86 season would have the opportunity to reconsider their options, especially those who had offers from other colleges.

Bosley is a former three-sport letterman and graduate of Southern High School, was a player for Garrett, and for Frostburg State College, where he completed his undergraduate education.

Ladies Association Opens '85 Season At Country Club

"A Swing Into Spring" meeting on April 18 opened the 1985 season of the Oakland Ladies Golf Association.

Sue Pagenhart, president, discussed the events scheduled for 1985. Included in the discussion was the newly-formed group playing nine holes.

The association invites all female members of the Oakland Country Club to join them, regardless of how well they play.

The women meet every Thursday during the season at 9 a.m.

Following the meeting a salad buffet was served at the clubhouse. Thirty-one members were present.

Caryl Doe won the 50-50 drawing. A "fun" game of golf was played in the afternoon.

Rams Top Huskies, Central Preston To Raise Season Slate To 7-1

The Southern High School varsity baseball team upped its season record to 7-1 this past weekend by whipping cross-county rival Northern, 8-1, Friday afternoon on the Huskies' diamond and then sweeping a pair of contests from Central Preston on Saturday, 13-2 and 22-4, in Oakland.

The Rams smacked 17 hits against the Huskies, who fell to 4-3, as John Nelson recorded four singles, Manuel Moon finished with a double and a single, and Scott Stem, who pitched the first four innings, hit a pair of run-producing singles.

Southern scored in every inning of the game, while the Huskies' lone score came in the fourth inning on Brent Beachy's RBI double. Dennis Hetrick finished with two of Northern's seven hits, a double and a single.

Wayne Tabor, who was relieved in the seventh by Roger Bittinger, took the loss on the mound.

Southern's bats continued to rap out hit after hit on Saturday against Central Preston as the Rams reached base safely on a total of 24 occasions in the doubleheader.

An eight-run fourth inning in the opener broke a 2-2 tie and the Rams added three more insurance scores in the bottom of the fifth.

Nelson's RBI single started the spree for the Rams in the fourth frame, followed by a two-run single by Jon Reneslacis and a three-run homer by Stem.

The West Virginians never scored again in the opening game after Darryl Dupart's two-run blast in the first inning.

Dave McLaughlin's pair of triples in the nightcap accounted for four of the Rams' runs, while Reneslacis, J.R. Bosley, and Phil Spaulding each finished with two hits.

The second game was called after just four and one-half innings because of the 10-run rule.

Coach Jim Bosley's Rams will be seeking their eighth win of the campaign Friday afternoon in Cumberland against Bishop Walsh.

THIS 1984 NO-TILL CORN CROP on the Ray and Tom Ridder farm was not planted until June 14, after a first-cutting of hay was taken off the field. The corn grew well, possibly because the ground was warmer when it was planted. The corn was already dented when it was cut and put in the silo that fall. Pictured above, left, is Shaun Sanders, district manager of the Garrett Soil Conservation District, and Tom Ridder, examining the quality of the crop which was the Ridder's first experience with no-till corn.

No-Till Corn Conserving Soil In Garrett County

by Bernice Keppie

The following is the first half of a two-part feature about no-till corn planting in Garrett County.

Conserving Garrett County's soil means saving Garrett County's farmers, and the Garrett County Soil Conservation District is devoted to helping preserve both the farmers and the soil they till.

Soil Conservation Districts were organized under the provisions of the Maryland Soil Conservation District Law of 1937. They have the responsibility of assisting in the prevention and control of soil erosion and proper land uses, resulting in the preservation of natural resources, control of floods, prevention of silt and sedimentation of dams, streams, and reservoirs, and the preservation of wildlife.

Conservation districts discourage land use practices which contribute to soil erosion and promote conservation measures which aid in the prevention of erosion. The practices and procedures which can be implemented and adopted to help farmers accomplish this are the utilization of strip cropping, contour farming, filter and buffer strips, minimal and no-till farming, and crop rotation.

One of the newest conservation practices to be used by Garrett County farmers is conservation tillage or no-till planting. Through conservation tillage, farmers can greatly reduce the number of times they need to work the land. In no-till planting, they can eliminate plowing, disking, harrowing and cultivating to control weeds. In conservation tillage systems, weeds and insects are controlled by herbicides and insecticides.

As a result, the new crop is planted directly in the residue of the previous crop. That residue may look unsightly, but it protects the soil from wind and water erosion and acts as a mulch to retain moisture.

No-till planting also saves fuel mainly because fewer trips are made over the field, horsepower requirements are lower, and less equipment is needed to plant a crop. The United States Department of Agriculture claims that farmers who have switched from conventional tillage have reduced their fuel use as much as 80 percent by using no-till planting.

Conserving soil, water, and fuel is a great idea, but most farmers want to know how conservation tillage will affect crop yield and damage from weeds, insects, and disease before going into the new tillage concept.

According to the USDA, yields with no-till generally are the same or higher compared to conventional tillage. Herbicides control most problem weeds, they say, and field experience with no-till has indicated no significant increase in damage from insects and diseases.

Like any other successful farming system, no-till requires proper timing of field operations, careful adjustment and maintenance of equipment, and a close watch for insect and other problems.

Soils that are well adapted to conventional corn production are also well suited to no-tillage management. One of the greatest advantages of no-till is evident on sloping but productive lands subject to erosion. No-till cropping is also effective on moderately coarse textured soils subject to droughtiness and wind erosion.

Garrett County has a wide variety of soil conditions, and although most of that soil is suited to no-till management, it's true that not all of those varieties adapt to no-till planting, explains Shaun Sanders, district manager of the Garrett Soil Conservation District. According to Sanders, soils with a high clay content and poorly-drained soils do not adapt well to no-till.

Poorly drained soils are slow to warm up in the spring and tend to compact more readily with rainfall and remain saturated for long periods. This condition results in poor aeration and, therefore, a poor rooting environment. These conditions also lead to poor cover crop stands which jeopardize a no-till operation.

Sanders pointed out that there are some areas in Garrett County with poorly drained soils, and that a lot of farms contain both types of soils, some good and some not so good for a no-till operation.

Not to be left behind the times, more and more Garrett County farmers are experimenting with no-till production. Several have experienced excellent results and would not go back to conventional tillage.

At the Margroff Brothers Farm in The Cove, owned by Jim and Dennis Margroff, no-till is practiced along with minimum tillage and conventional farming. The Margroff brothers milk a herd of 52 dairy cattle and put out approximately 80 acres of corn, about half in no-till.

According to Jim, one of the big advantages in no-till production for them is that it saves time. Because both of the brothers also work away from the farm, time is very important in their operation.

Some of their fields have been in no-till production for six years. "We haven't plowed any sod ground or any steep ground for years," said Jim. "We find that we can get on the fields sooner in the spring, and there is no washing away of top soil whatsoever."

The Margroff brothers rent a John Deere four-row planter. Jim explains that he likes the John Deere planter better because of its weight. He stressed that it is important to keep all adjustments on the planter tight by checking them often.

Jim feels that the cost of no-till is very much the same as for conventional corn production. "You can't cut corners on spray, lime, and fertilizer," he said.

Herbicide recommendations are higher for no-till corn, according to the University of Maryland Agronomy Department, because the herbicides must persist as long as possible to effectively control weeds until the end of the season. In many situations, the weed infestation might be light and lower rates of herbicides will provide adequate weed control.

The Margroffs use paraquat and atrazine on sod ground. Paraquat is used to kill existing vegetation at or before planting time and does not have any residual herbicidal property. It is deactivated by absorption on the soil. Weed seeds laying dormant will still germinate after paraquat has been applied, therefore, a herbicide like atrazine, which provides season-long control, is also applied. The corn crop is later sprayed with Furadan to protect it from army worms.

Spring, Summer Activities Set By FFA Alumni

The Oakland FFA Alumni is busy planning activities for the rest of the spring and summer.

Coming up in May are the FFA State Judging Contests, FFA Parent-Member Banquet and the Satellite Dish Drawing.

Several FFA Alumni members have been helping train FFA teams for State FFA Judging Contests. Howard and Bernice Kepple have been working with the Horse Judging team. Horse-owners who have cooperated by allowing the team to judge their horses are: Fred and Cissy VanSickle, Harold and Rita Smith, Larry Schenk, and Patsy Evans.

Don Wilt and Cindy Stonesifer have been practicing with the Dairy Judging team. Several practices have been held at local dairy farms. Farmers cooperating thus far have been Elmer Zook, Paul Petersheim, Pete Beachy, Rufus Peachy and Alvin Beachy. Don is also working with the Dairy Foods Contest in preparation for the May 3 State Judging Contest to be held at the University of Maryland, College Park Campus.

The FFA Alumni will be sponsoring the chapter Proficiency Awards at the Oakland FFA Parent-Member Banquet on May 21. A selection committee will be appointed at the May Alumni meeting. The drawing for the winning Satellite Dish ticket will be held at the banquet. The Alumni is selling 200 tickets at $10 each on a "Seabreeze" ten-foot Satellite Dish. Interested persons should contact any FFA Alumni or FFA member or call 334-1580 to purchase a ticket. Proceeds from the drawing will be used for various FFA Activities.

Activities being planned for June include the installation of the new livestock scales at the Garrett County Fairgrounds. The scales were purchased by the Garrett County Livestock Association with various clubs, including the Oakland Alumni, volunteering to set them up. Alumni members will be helping with the Steer Camp and District Livestock Show to be held June 14 and 15 at the Garrett County Fairgrounds. The Alumni will be sponsoring members of the Oakland FFA Chapter to the State FFA Convention to be held at Hagerstown on June 19 and 20.

In July, the Alumni will again sponsor the annual picnic at Deep Creek State Park on July 7. A covered-dish dinner will be served. More details will be available at a later date.

During August, the Garrett County Fair will be the major project for the Alumni. Plans include continuing improvements on the livestock barns and initiating a petting zoo for children during the fair.

Any person interested in joining the Oakland FFA Alumni and participating in activities should call the advisor, Janet Boggess at 334-1580.

Beef Management Tips

Feed Those Cows — Now is the time cows are going onto pastures. Inmature pastures may not provide enough nutrition for a cow nursing a calf and going into breeding season. Cows need to maintain their weight or actually gain some to continue cycling and not disrupt planned conception in the breeding season. Continue feeding hay or silage and add some grain if needed until cows are settled and pastures are mature.

Magnesium Supplementation — A daily source of magnesium needs to be supplied to prevent grass tetany in cows nursing calves on spring grass. Remember, cows do not store magnesium. Commercial high mag supplements or blocks are excellent or many producers use a mix of equal parts by weight of salt, magnesium, oxide, dicalcium phosphate and finely ground corn or soybean meal. Mix should be available year around or well into June.

Deworm Stocker Cattle — Research shows that cattle gain significantly more weight if wormed three weeks after going on pasture and again at 6-9 weeks to break up the life cycle of worms in cattle on pasture. There are a bunch of good worming materials, including Lavamasol, Tramisol, Rumatel, Safeguard, and Ivomec. The main thing is to get those young cattle wormed.

Plan To Use Fly Tags — There are a number of fly repellant ear tags on the market this season, all impregnated with synthetic pyretheroids. It appears that all ear tags are effective against horn and face flies. Around May 15 would be a good date to have cows and young stock ear tagged in Garrett County. For cows and calves it appears that two in the cow and none in the calf will do a good job though many producers like to have one in the calf also.

Implant Calves And Yearlings Going On Grass — There probably is no management practice that has a better pay-back than implanting either steer calves or grazing yearling steers or heifers. Calves may be implanted at birth to one month of age and again after 100 days. Ralgro implants have a 90-100 day life, thus heifers or steers should be implanted twice during the grazing season. Make sure a careful job is done according to manufacturers directions.

Castrate And Dehorn Calves Early — Time to get the job done is at birth or before calf reaches one month. Cutting is still the best method of castration. Get the job done early so the price will not be docked on the calf this fall.

PROBLEMS AND ANSWERS — Once soil erosion starts, top-soil is continually washed away until a correction is made. Pictured above is Butch Miller of the Garrett Soil Conservation District, measuring a five to six inch gully caused by erosion in the Deep Creek area of the county. This problem will be corrected, before it becomes any worse, by planting and preserving a sod waterway to prevent the top soil from washing away. Another answer to an erosion problem on a steep slope is a diversion ditch, like the one being created below in the Avilton area.

OAKLAND FFA HORSE JUDGING TEAM PLACES FOURTH IN STATE CONTEST — The FFA Horse Judging Team from Southern High School traveled to the Prince George's County Equestrian Center in Upper Marlboro to take part in the State Horse Judging Contest held on April 20. Along with tack identification, the group was required to judge one class each of Morgans, Appaloosas, Arabians, Quarter Horses, and Thoroughbreds, and give reasons for the Arabian class. The nationally known official judge was Carl Yenser, who has judged such places as the International Arabian Show in Louisville, Ky. Pictured left to right are team members: David Rounds, alternate; Donnie DeWitt; Marsha Custer; Charles DeBerry; Scott Marley, alternate; and Criss Kepple. Kepple placed seventh individually and was honored for receiving the only perfect reasons score in the contest. Traveling with the team was Bernice Kepple, coach, and Janet Boggess, FFA advisor.

Vo-Ag Class Hosts Two Guests Speakers

Agricultural careers and agricultural marketing were topics presented to the Vo-Ag III-IV class at Southern High School during the past week by guest speakers.

Regina Smick, administrative assistant to the dean of the Institute of Applied Agriculture, University of Maryland, College Park, visited with vo-ag students April 12. She spoke about various careers and job opportunities in the agriculture field and related areas. She presented a short slide presentation on the Institute of Applied Agriculture's programs. Mr. Randall Harman, president of Garrett Community College, accompanied Smick.

Joseph Buck, director, swine and fruit division of PACMA (Pennsylvania Agricultural Cooperative Marketing Association) visited with the Vo-Ag III-IV class on April 16. Buck spent the morning discussing Futures Marketing and Forward Contracting. He presented a 15 minute film on the Chicago Board of Trade and how it operates. He presented information on Forward Contracting agricultural products such as grain or hogs.

Several worksheets and examples were used by Buck to demonstrate marketing principles. He also talked about the benefits of Forward Marketing to area farmers.

Buck visited the class as a result of an invitation extended to him by vocational agriculture instructor, Janet L. Boggess, while attending the Pennsylvania Farm Show in January with the Oakland FFA Chapter.

"The students received some valuable information from both speakers which will be useful to them in the future as they decide on specific career areas they will want to pursue after graduation," said Boggess. She went on to say, "the students expressed gratitude to both Mrs. Smick and Mr. Buck for driving such distances to speak to them."

No-Till Corn

On stubble ground, the Margroffs use a mixture of paraquat, atrazine, and Princep (simazine). An insecticide applicator on the planter is used to apply Furadan and Counter into the ground to protect the crop from root worms.

"To be no-till, you need to be a little more careful," said Jim, "but it definitely works well in Garrett County. Our best corn has been no-till."

An erosion problem on the farm belonging to Ray Ridder and his son, Tom, located south of Oakland on Mason School Road, prompted them to try no-till corn for the first time last year.

"We liked it," said Tom who also explained that no-till saved them a lot of time and fuel. He went on to explain that conventional planting means at least four trips of hard work in the fields for tractors and equipment, where no-till is completed after two trips, planting and spraying. He feels that they cut their fuel bill down to one-third with no-till.

The Ridders double-cropped their corn fields last year by planting the corn on June 14, after taking off a first-cutting of hay. "If you wait a little later to plant, when the ground is warmer, you get a better stand," said Tom. The corn grew well and was already dented when it was put in the silo that fall to feed the Ridders' 45 herd of dairy cows over the winter.

An International four-row planter is used by the Ridders. The planter blows the seed into the ground and has a monitor which tells if each row is being planted correctly. International makes four or five different packer wheels for the planter that can be used to properly pack the soil around the seed being planted—corn, soybeans or whatever.

Tom said he discovered that he should not drive as fast to plant no-till as conventional corn. "That's why it's important to have your own planter so you can plant when you need to at your own speed," he said.

The Ridders sprayed the day after planting with Roundup and atrazine. Ray explained that the ground may be sprayed either before planting or before the corn comes up. According to Ray, the Roundup goes to the roots and kills quack grass. It cost them twice as much per acre as paraquat would have, but Ray exclaimed, "I wouldn't use paraquat if you gave it to me."

After using the Roundup, the grass came back toward fall and made an ideal cover crop for erosion control, according to Tom. Cover crops are an important part of no-till production. According to the University of Maryland Agronomy Department, rye has proven to be a good cover crop for no-till corn. The rye is easy to establish and is very winter hardy. Rye provides vigorous growth which prevents early weed growth and competition, is killed by minimal amounts of herbicide, and provides a longer lasting mulch than most cover crops.

The Ridders believe that no-till is helping their erosion problem. "With no-till, the soil this spring is just like it was last fall; it stayed where it was. With conventional planting, each row had a lttle gutter and water washed a pile of top soil down on to the level and some on into the creek," said Tom. The Ridders plan to expand their no-till production to 35 acres this year due to the success they had last year.

This feature will be continued next week with Roy Umbel of Asher Glade and Dan Ganoe of Finzel telling about their experiences with no-till corn.

Students At Southern Middle School Achieve Outstanding SAT Scores

Southern Middle School students, Sanjeev Magoon and Brenda Caldwell, recently participated in the Johns Hopkins University sponsored Center for the Advancement of Academically Talented Youth Program, and performed notably well on the Scholastic Aptitude Test. The SAT is normally required for admission to many colleges and universities.

Sanjeev was outstanding on the mathematics aspect of the test and received a certificate of distinction from the Johns Hopkins University Center for Talented Youth. He has also been invited to attend a special state awards ceremony, honoring participants with the highest mathematics/verbal scores in Maryland. The ceremony will be held at the university's Shriver Hall in Baltimore on May 4.

Brenda was outstanding on the standard written English aspect of the test and also received a certificate of distinction from the Center for Talented Youth.

Other students from Southern Middle School, who took the achievement test and performed quite well, were Jay Basgall, Stacey Beckman, James Beeman, Deborah Blamble, Lori Lewis, Lisa Lupis, Chander Magoon, Donald Mason, Joy McCain, Bev Myers, Penny Rinker, Sabrena Stemple, Mark Upole, Lori White, and Amy Zimmerman.

Students who participated in the program are recognized for notable academic achievement and are offered special opportunities for unique career exploration and academic enrichment experiences.

Jury Overturns Guilty Verdict

A Garrett County jury has overturned a guilty verdict handed down by Garrett County District Court Judge Jack Turney against Josephine Resh, 39, Accident.

The jury in an April 11 trial, presided over by Garrett County Circuit Court Chief Judge Fred A. Thayer, found Resh not guilty of a battery charge filed against her by Jessie Resh, Accident.

Judge Turney found Resh guilty of the charge in court on August 7, 1984 and fined her $25 and placed her on 12 months of supervised probation.

The $25 fine plus a $764.79 bond were refunded to Resh.

Michael Morrissette, an Oakland attorney, represented Resh in the April 11 trial.

In another court case scheduled for April 11 in the Circuit Court, Charles Guthrie, Mountain Lake Park, dismissed his appeal of a guilty verdict by Judge Turney for malicious destruction of property.

Guthrie is now serving a 30-day jail term for the offense in the Garrett County Jail. He was also fined $100.

The charge stemmed from an August 29, 1984 incident near H Street in Mountain Lake Park.

Guthrie's attorney was Michael Morrissette.

ADVERTISING ISN'T EVERYTHING

There will always be some sellers who are unhappy because THEIR home is not receiving enough individual advertising. This may come as a surprise, but it's not advertising that will sell your home. It's the Realtor that will sell it.

Theoretically, your house could be advertisied every day with troops of lookers parading through for a free tour without generating a single qualified buyer. That's probably not what you want. In fact, studies have shown that more sales of house A are generated through ads on house B and C than through ads on A itself. That means that your agent's overall advertising is more important than blitz advertising of your house in particular.

The important value of real estate advertising is to get the prospect INTO the agency. Once there, they will look at many listings and select what's best for them to look at. This may or may not be the one advertised. Even more important than advertising, is the correct pricing of your home. Any house will sell at the right price.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone one of our offices.

TCC Consultants Hold Economic Strategies Forum

Approximately 35 people crowded into the Board of Garrett County Commissioners meeting room on April 11 for a Tri-County Council sponsored forum to discuss economic strategies for Western Maryland.

Among those attending the forum, besides the TCC consultants, William Owens and Wayne Lemon from Economic Research Associates, Inc. and Barry LeBaron, TCC executive director, were the Garrett County Commissioners, Senator John N. Bambacus, Delegate George Edwards, Promotion Council Director Cindy Kutchman, and Development Corporation Director Tom Jones.

"The focus and thrust of the forum centered on Garrett County's most valuable asset, the natural elements and tourism," said Commissioner Ernest Gregg, Jr.

The consultant felt the Whitewater Championships to be held at the Savage River in Garrett County in 1989 would be the event that promotes Garrett County the most, regionally, nationally and internationally.

It was pointed out that Garrett County is within one day's drive of 25% of the United States and that tourism is now the number one industry in the county with farming, timbering, and mining also being important industries.

"It was a productive meeting. Sometimes it helps to have certain points reinforced; the importance of tourism. With the 1989 Whitewater Championships being held in Garrett County, the challenge is before us. We'll be receiving national and international attention. Newscasters will cover not only the event but the area as well. We need to get busy on a Garrett County major promotion right now," said Sen. Bambacus.

Commissioner Elwood Groves II said, "It was an enlightening meeting with various interested groups represented from local governments, business, industry, promotion people, and individual concerned citizens. The proper promotion will be a hand in hand promotional event that everyone can be involved in."

LOSS OF A GRANDPARENT

For the majority of children, the first encounter with death in the family comes through the death of a grandparent. Grandparents have a special place in the life of their grandchildren, for they represent an unconditional love that can be treasured for a lifetime. The question for the parent is how to explain and make acceptable to the child the death of so important a person in the child's life.

It's not an easy situation. The temptation is to avoid it by telling the child a convenient story and by excluding the child from the funeral service. But this is cheating the child in a very important way. The rites and rituals that we use to mark the end of life are our way of saying a significant and appropriate good-bye. To have this opportunity taken away can leave the child with many unresolved feelings. It can also possibly damage trust between child and parent.

Mortgage Purchase Program Lender Is Announced

The Maryland Department of Economic and Community Development, through Community Development Administration, announces that the Mortgage Purchase Program's local lender will be Magnet Mortgages, Inc., 111 S. George Street, Cumberland.

Under the Mortgage Purchase Program, families earning less than $33,000 yearly can obtain year fixed-rate mortgages at below market interest rates. Two interest rates have been established for loans: people earning $20,000 or less will pay nine-five eights percent, those earning over $20,000 will pay ten-three eights percent. These funds became available April 22.

Interested residents may contact Magnet Mortgages by calling 759-2800 for an appointment. Persons must have a contract of sale on a house or a builder's contract. They need to take to the appointment all of their account numbers for checking and savings accounts, plus all loan account numbers.

These funds are expected to be spent quickly, therefore, those residents who apply first will more than likely receive funds, stated a MDECD spokesman. "We recommend contacting Magnet as soon as possible," he said.

Local persons who have further questions may contact Community Action Committee, Inc., Housing Services Department, 334-9431.

Dog Obedience Course Slated

A Dog Obedience Kick-Off will be held Wednesday, May 1, 7:00 p.m. at the Cooperative Extension Office in Oakland. Any youth 8-19 years of age, or adults interested in assisting in the teaching, may participate.

The objective of the program is to learn about the behavior and care of a dog, and to teach the dog to be a better family member through obedience training.

Eight weeks of a ½ hour per week training session will be set up at the "Kick-Off" meeting that best suits interested participants' schedules. Participants should bring their dog to the "Kick-Off". A slide set, pamphlets and demonstration with a trained dog will be shown at this meeting to illustrate what is involved in the program.

There is no fee for the program; however, a six-foot leather lead and training collar will be required, plus proof of two vaccinations of rabies and DHPLP. It is also recommended to have dogs wormed or worm checked. A friend's dog may be used if a participant does not have a canine. Dogs must be six months of age or older.

For more information persons may contact Ted Sprangel, Extension Agent, at 334-2145 at the Garrett County Extension Office.

Bausch And Lomb Reports Increased Sales, Earnings

Bausch & Lomb Incorporated reported this week an 11% gain in sales and a 19% rise in earnings from continuing operations for the first quarter ending March 30, 1985. Sales for the period were $133.7 million compared to $120.0 million in 1984, and earnings from continuing operations were $11.2 million versus $9.4 million. Earnings per share from continuing operations were $.37 compared to $.32, an increase of 16%.

The company also achieved growth in operating income, which advanced 15% to $26.1 million versus $22.8 million a year ago. The ratio of operating earnings to sales increased to 20% compared to 19% the prior year. The results from continuing operations for last year have been restated to reflect the discontinuation of the company's industrial instruments business in September 1984.

Net earnings for the 1985 period were $11.2 million or $.37 per share compared to the 1984 amounts of $10.1 million or $.34 per share, which included income of $0.7 million or $.02 per share from discontinued industrial instruments operations.

Alcohol, Tobacco Tax Revenue Noted

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein reported that the most recent alcohol and tobacco tax collections for March, 1985, totaled $7,218,813, down 2.8% from the $7,428,744 collected during March, 1984.

"Wine tax revenue, which has grown dramatically for most of Fiscal Year 1985 declined 17.6% in March, 1985 as the marketplace apparently continued to adjust to the ever increasing number of newer wine products," Goldstein stated.

For the month of March, 1985, distilled spirits tax revenue showed a slight gain over the same month of the previous year, while beer tax revenue increased by 1.3%. Tobacco tax revenue declined by 2.8% compared to the previous March.

Comptroller Goldstein noted that alcohol and tobacco tax revenue for the first nine months of Fiscal Year 1985 totaled $64,897,176, almost identical to the $64,953,535 collected for the same period last fiscal year.

"For the nine month period, wine and cigarette tax revenue increased by 9.4% and seventenths of one percent, respectively," the comptroller said.

"Distilled spirits and beer tax revenue posted declines of 1.3% and 4.9%, respectively, compared with the same nine month period a year ago."

New Requirements On Immunization Are Announced

Beginning September 1985, proof of immunization against polio, diphtheria, tetanus and rubella will be required of all pupils in grades 7, 8 and 9, Maryland school and health officials announced this week. These new requirements will also be put into effect for grades 10, 11 and 12 in September 1986. Formerly pupils in grades 7 through 12 were only required to prove immunity to measles.

According to health officials, the majority of pupils in the affected grades have complete immunization histories already on file. However, many pupils lack vaccination dates for one or more of the newly required immunizations.

Parents should review their child's immunizations records, the officials noted. In addition to a measles vaccination, it should show one dose of rubella vaccine; at least three doses of polio vaccine, one of which must be after the fourth birthday; and at least three doses of diphtheria-tetanus, one of which must be after the fourth birthday.

If the immunizations are insufficient, parents should check the school's record. If necessary vaccinations are also absent from the school's record, the child should be immunized as soon as possible by a private doctor or at a local health department. A record of the vaccinations administered should then be provided to the school.

"School immunization requirements have been an extremely effective school health standard, health officials report," a state health official said. "Once commomplace, school epidemics of the immunizable diseases are now rare. Maryland secondary school pupils have not previously been afforded the full degree of health security that is provided by having requirements for all immunizations."

Maryland now joins 43 other states which require secondary school pupils to be fully immunized.

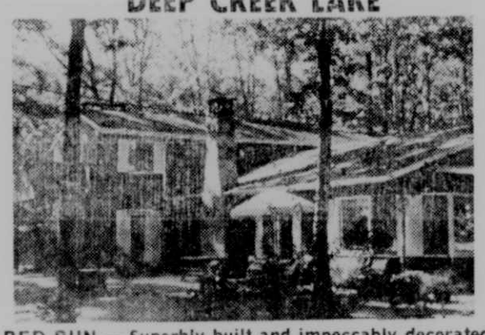

Invited To Join Math Honorary

Seven area students attending Frostburg State College, two from Garrett County, have been selected for membership in Kappa Mu Epsilon, the national mathematics honor society.

To be eligible, a student must have obtained a minimum of a 3.0 grade point average in at least three mathematics courses including calculus, according to Dr. John P. Jones, FSC chapter adviser.

Amy L. Dixon, Swanton, a sophomore majoring in physics and Frederick G. Fox, Friendsville, a senior majoring in chemistry, are among those students selected for membership.

Eglon 4-H

Following the call to order by president Danny Roth, the Eglon Mountaineer 4-H Club was led in a game of "Pretzel" by Jennifer and Bitsy Whitehair at their April 15 meeting.

Bitsy and Jennifer Whitehair were assisted by Mark and John Utterback in their devotional presentation. Mrs. Mary Utterback then presented a program, "Preparing Now for a Healthy Life."

It was reported that 3740 pounds of glass had been taken April 6 to the recycling center. The club will continue to ask the community to save their clear glass and aluminum cans which will be collected again in August.

I DARE YOU — Mike Tichnell of Ryans Glade and Patty Gnegy of Oakland, pictured above, have been awarded the national "I Dare You" Leadership Award by the Garrett County 4-H Program. The honor was presented by Betty Bures, regional extension director of the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service, at ceremonies held April 13, at the Grantsville Fire Hall. Patty and Mike were selected for the award in recognition of excellence in character and well balanced personal development as well as leadership potential. In addition to the national recognition received, the award provides the recipients with a copy of William H. Danforth's book, "I Dare You." Mr. Danforth wrote the book out of his own experience. In the book, he challenges the readers to aspire to their highest potential, to attain constructive lives of service and citizenship, and to commit themselves to excellence. Patty, a six-year 4-H member of the Monte Vista Club, served as a teen leader for the club's junior members. Mike, a nine-year member of the Ryan's Glade 4-H Club, has held various leadership roles and has assisted with the county 4-H Baby Beef tattooing program and the Tractor Certification and Safety programs. Pictured below are the recipients of the 4-H Citizenship Awards presented during the annual 4-H Achievement Program. The awards were presented by Senator John Bambacus and Delegate George Edwards for outstanding club and community achievements and involvement. The recipients are: front row, left to right, Stacy Malone of the Rt. 40 Trailblazers 4-H Club; Amy Zimmerman of the Swallow Falls Club; second row, left to right, Susan Wright of the Shepherds 4-H Club and Ellisa Schofield of the Bittinger Club.

Insight Into Education

This article is the tenth in a series written by members of the Garrett County Board of Education and their staff. The following article was written by Francis E. Harris, supervisor of Chapter I and School Centers Program.

Some Schools Are Open After School

The School Community Centers Program has been operating in Garrett County since 1971. The main goal of the program has been to make school buildings more accessible to students after regular school hours and on weekends. The program provides young people (5-20 years old) with a safe, supervised setting for participating in recreational and supplementary educational activities during their leisure time.

The funding source for this program comes from the Maryland State Department of Education. Each year since 1971 the state legislature in Annapolis has approved the funding of the School Community Centers Program. Garrett County's share for this fiscal year was $27,261.00. The Garrett County Board of Education covers the total cost of utilities, custodial services, and building and playground facilities.

During this past winter, 14 schools in Garrett County have been participating in the program. Approximately 1,300 students are enrolled. Most schools are open evenings and on the weekends. A variety of programs are offered including: drop-in-recreation, crafts, computer literacy, youth basketball leagues, slimnastics, tutoring in reading and math, library walk-in, quilting, girls' basketball.

Other programs can be offered such as photography, taxidermy, woodwork, wrestling, tennis, etc., if there is interest and an instructor can be found.

A special project this past winter which grew out of a cooperative effort between the School Community Centers Program and the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service has been the Survival Skills For Kids program.

This program stemmed from the fact that much publicity has been given in recent months on the national level to the problems of children being left alone without adult supervision. As a result the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service extended an invitation to the Garrett County school system to provide a program that would help meet the needs of children who are sometimes left alone.

Schools were contacted and it was found that nearly 250 third, fourth, and fifth graders were interested in enrolling in the program, even though it was scheduled after the regular school day. A proposal was prepared and submitted to the State Department of Education for the funding of this special project.

Many outside organizations have been involved in the planning of this special project, such as: the Appalachian Adult Activities Centers, the Department of Social Services, Women's Refuge, Inc., the Sheriff's Department, Deputy State Fire Marshal, and local fire departments, state police, local rescue squads, Maryland Cooperative Extension Service, and the Garrett County Board of Education.

In addition, the regular School Community Centers Program also receives input from many local organizations such as the Oakland Rotary Club, the Grantsville Lions Club, the County Planning Commission, and the local school P.T.A. organizations.

Each year the School Community Centers Program grows and serves more of Garrett County's youth. The School Community Centers Program extends an invitation to all organizations and individuals in Garrett County to have input into this program. For further information, contact your local school or Francis E. Harris, Supervisor of Chapter I and School Community Centers Program, Garrett County Board of Education, Oakland, Maryland, 21550; phone, 334-8121.

Youghiogheny Glades DAR Chapter Meets

The Youghiogheny Glades Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution met on April 15 at the home of Mrs. Randall Kahl, with 27 members and guests present.

After the opening ritual conducted by Mrs. Richard Sherwood, Regent, with prayer by Chaplain, Mrs. Asa Lewis, Robert Stevenson, guest speaker, was introduced. He gave a slide presentation with recorded narration and music of the trip the Damascus High School Band took to England and France to participate in commemorating the 40th anniversary of D-Day. Stevenson had been involved with the briefing of the band members, and accompanied them on the trip. There were 154 young people, plus chaperones and three and a half tons of equipment, instruments and uniforms.

The first night was spent in London, where the group had time for sightseeing and shopping, visiting many of the well-known English landmarks. The band performed at South Hampton at the War Memorial there.

On June 4 they left England and crossed the Channel to France, landing at Cherbourg. There they gave a concert at the National Guard Monument and visited the cemetery where there were 9,386 graves of American soldiers who died in the liberation of France. The ceremony at the Memorial Cemetery featured a display of World War II vehicles, simulated parachute jumps, and other events reminiscent of the Second World War.

After the program, committee reports were given, the President General's message was read by Mrs. Sherwood, and the National Defense review was given by Mrs. John Reckner.

Hostesses, in addition to Mrs. Kahl, were Mrs. Edward Kovach, Mrs. William M. Friend, Mrs. Paul Calderwood and Mrs. Lindsay Gonder. Refreshments were served, and the group adjourned to meet on May 20 for a covered dish dinner at the home of Mrs. Charles Thomas.

State Office On Aging Sponsoring Health Workshops

Rosalie S. Abrams, director of the State Office on Aging, today issued a reminder that a series of health promotion workshops for senior citizens is being held statewide. The workshops titled "Look Better Feel Better" deal with four major aspects of health promotion: Nutrition; Physical Fitness; Appropriate Use of Medications; and Accident Prevention.

The purpose of the workshops is to inform the elderly about ways to improve their health and quality of life.

Mrs. Abrams said that the Office on Aging has been designated by Governor Hughes to lead and coordinate State activities in the area of health promotion for the elderly.

"We want older Marylanders to know how they can take positive steps to improve their health and overall well being," explained Mrs. Abrams.

Sponsored by the Office on Aging, the workshops are being presented in cooperation with local Area Agencies on Aging, the State Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, the State Department of Human Resources, the Elder Health Program of the School of Pharmacy, University of Maryland, and the Safety Council of Maryland.

One of the remaining "Look Better Feel Better" workshops is scheduled for May 10 in Allegany County.

Each workshop lasts two hours and is followed by lunch. A certificate is awarded to participants at the conclusion of the workshops.

Additional information about the workshops can be obtained by calling Colleen Pierre at the State Office on Aging at (301) 383-4034, or the Garrett County Area Agency on Aging.

Pledges may be called in to the nursing home (334-3834) Saturday from 2:00 to 4:00 p.m. Rocking and rolling above, left to right, are residents Ida Morton, Mary Jordon, Ethel McGann, and Patty Gonder, and emcee for this year, Miss Ruth Poland.

County Agencies Join In Observing Children's Week

Garrett County Commissioners have proclaimed April 21-27 as the "Week of the Young Child." The Garrett County Board of Education and the Head Start Program, in conjunction with the Maryland State Department of Education and the National Association of Young Children, join in celebrating the week with a theme of "Children - Our Investment in the Future."

The Week of the Young Child has been designated as a time to reflect on the needs and rights of young children; a time to review the commitment to improve the quality of programs offered to all children and their families; and a time for home, school and community to work cooperatively in an effort to fulfill our responsibilities to young children.

Activities for the Board of Education's observance of the week have been coordinated by Sandra Nesline, Teacher Coordinator/Extended Elementary Education Program. Displays at the Board office and the Oakland branch of the Ruth Enlow Library, as well as several schools, highlight the week's theme.

Bookmarks, designed by Maggie Mullich, art teacher, and reproduced by Dorothy Nice and Mrs. Nesline were distributed to all elementary students and staff to publicize the Week of the Young Child.

The county's EEEP schools, Red House and Friendsville, will have special activities including a Grandparent Day at Red House and a Parent Meeting at Friendsville.

The Ruth Enlow Library will offer a story hour for preschoolers (ages 3-5) on Thursday from 10:00 - 11:00 a.m. at the Oakland and Accident branches, and a film festival on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. in Oakland for elementary age children.

Scouts In Action

Girls Scouts in Action

Broadford School Brownie Troop #5523 has been involved in a number of activities this year.

Their activities have included trips to The Republican newspaper office, Weber's Florist, and the Savage Greenhouses.

For Thanksgiving the troop made turkey favors for the Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

This year the troop sold 1,200 boxes of Girl Scout cookies. The profits will be used for a camping trip to Camp Henry Kaufman near Ligonier Pa. which is planned for August 12-15.

The troop consists of: Larissa DeWitt, Maryann Wolfe, Jennifer Moyer, Vicky Elliott, Jennifer Shillingburg, Jessica Mouyard, Mandy Layton, Becky Ford, Salena White, Margie Thayer, Heather Reall, Heidi Reall, Nicole Thayer and Loralie Hoffner.

The troop is sponsored by Piper Building Supply where they recently did a window display for Girl Scout Week.

Troop 5026

Brownie Troop #5026, sponsored by Bausch and Lomb, meets every Wednesday at Broad Ford School from 3:15 to 4:30. The troop consists of fifteen girls, including: Janelle Fogt, Rhonda Ford, Debbie Fulmer, Shellie Glotfelty, Lisa Harvey, Chastity Kent, Laura Livengood, Jennifer and Melissa McCreery, Hope Pfeil, Shannon Phillipi, Meghan Price, Katie Steyer, Alicia Wolfe and Kimberly Zeender. The leaders are Debbie Glotfelty, Debbie Kent and Linda McCreery.

This year the troop has accomplished the following:

Oct. '84: rollerskating party to celebrate Julliette Gordon Low's birthday. Each time the girls fell, they dropped a penny in the can and the donation to JLWFF amounted to $6.01.

Dec. '84: visited Dennett Road Nursing Home and presented each with combs, emory boards, hand lotion and creams donated to the troop from Englander's Pharmacy and Ben Franklin 5&10. The troop made 100 Christmas decorations for the home and sang Christmas carols while the gifts were delivered to each room.

Jan. '85: participated in the annual Girl Scout Cookie Sale. The troop sold 984 boxes of cookies.

Feb. '85: had a Valentines Day Bowling party at Par-Matt Lanes. For the "Thinking Day" project, troop members made special greeting cards and sent to a sister troop in North Carolina. The sister troop made and sent back special cards to celebrate Girl Scout Birthday.

March 10-16: celebrated Girl Scout Week by making a poster and displaying it in the Garrett County Extension Office window. The troop visited Dennett Road Nursing Home and adopted five grandparents, including: Ruby McGuinney, Mary Helmick, Ellen Carpenter, Irene Markley and Viola Wilhelm. Members are now planning to visit the grandmothers about every four to six weeks.

Plans for the remainder of the year are planting flower beds for the troops sponsor, Bausch and Lomb; finishing requirements for "#1" patch, camping at Camp Hickory, a mother-daughter tea, pizza party, and a wrap-up picnic for the Fly Up Ceremony.

The troop has earned the following patches this year: Brownie B Patch, #1 Patch, Tip Top Troop Award and patches from the cookie sale.

SELECTING CHILDREN'S SHOES

Children like to wear shoes that are similar to those their friends wear, while parents sometimes consider price a major factor. The most important consideration should be fit. Many adult foot problems can be traced to improperly fitted shoes that forced the feet out of shape when they were developing.

Careful fit, good design and quality materials and workmanship are the features parents need to consider when selecting and buying shoes for children. Do not economize with second-hand shoes that have been shaped by another child's feet.

The following recommendations will help you get the proper fit when buying shoes for your child:

*Your child should wear the socks that will be worn with the new shoes when trying on the shoes. Have both feet measured while the child is standing. If a difference exists, fit the larger foot.

*Shoes that fit correctly are comfortable from the start and do not need "breaking in."

*Each shoe should be longer than the longest toe. Press the end of the shoe with your thumb to check for adequate length.

*The shoe should allow each toe to lie in a natural position. Compare the width of the shoe at the toe area to the width of your child's toes in a standing position. The toe area also need to be high enough to avoid pinching or pressing down on the toes.

*The ball joint should fall at the widest area of the shoe.

*The vamp crease should cross your child's foot near the ball. Too much creasing or a deep crease could mean the shoes are too wide. If the sides are pushed out at the creases, the shoe may be too narrow. Look at the creasing as your child walks.

*The shoe should cover the instep of the foot with no strain or excess across the top.

*The heel should be snug enough to hold the foot without being tight.

*The shape of the sole should conform to the shape of the foot. Compare the soles of the shoe to the shape of the child's feet by drawing around the feet and comparing the drawn shape to the shape of the shoe.

Next week I will discuss how to check for quality construction when buying children's shoes.

FOOD NOTES

Lamb is now available in stores that usually stock relatively small quantities of it and at better than usual prices. It's a good time to try lamb main dishes.

Try this One:

EASY LEG OF LAMB

(6 to 10 servings, depending on size of lamb leg).

Leg of Lamb (5 to 9 pounds)
½ cup apricot preserves
½ cup Russian salad dressing
3 tablespoons lemon juice

Place lamb in shallow roasting pan. In small saucepan, combine remaining ingredients. Bring to boil over medium heat, stirring constantly. Thoroughly cover surface of lamb with heated sauce mixture. Roast in 325°F. oven for 20 to 25 minutes per pound, or until meat therometer registers 140°F. for well done. Brush lamb with sauce several times during roasting. Allow lamb to rest 20 minutes before carving. Serve with remaining sauce.

EXTENSION HAPPENINGS

The Garrett County Sheriff's Department will be teaching a Homemakers Training meeting on "Home Security" on April 29 at 10 a.m. at the Grantsville Health Center, at 1:00 p.m. at the Extension Office in Oakland, and at 7 p.m. at the GCC McHenry Campus in room MC 352. The public is invited to attend these meetings. To register, please call 334-2145.

Extended Coverage

By ROB MICHAEL Agent

What's your house insured for? If it burned down tomorrow, could you afford to rebuild? Unless you've reviewed your policy recently—and acted on it—you may be shocked to discover how inadequate it is.

Many policies have an inflation-adjustment feature that automatically raises the face value of the policy to keep up with the market. Even with such protection, it's wise to check on local values and building costs.

If you haven't shopped insurance lately, you may not know about replacement-cost coverage. This pays the actual cost of replacing or restoring the contents of your home. It's generally worth the small extra cost. (Regular residential insurance pays you the cash value of your personal property, less depreciation. That depreciation, plus inflation, makes a wide gap between insurance and actual costs.)

You can increase your total coverage without boosting your premiums a lot. Raising the deductible, so that you take care of small nuisance claims yourself, enables you to increase protection where you really need it.

Let's look over your homeowner's policy. We'll show you how to get more for your insurance dollar at

Sealed proposals for rehabilitating sewers will be received by the Garrett County Sanitary District, synonymous with "the owner," until 2:00 p.m., official Eastern Time, May 24, 1985, at which time they will be publicly opened and read aloud.

Work to be performed under this contract includes, but is not limited to all work for the construction of the Upper Youghiogheny Sewerage System Rehabilitation Project.

Excavation, sheeting and shoring, dewatering, backfilling and paving and miscellaneous construction required to complete the rehabilitation project are also included.

The "Contract Time for Completion" shall be 90 calendar days. The Contractor shall employ the necessary crews and equipment required to meet "The Contract Time for Completion" assigned to the contract.

Drawings, specifications, and other contract documents may be examined at the Garrett County Sanitary District, 313 East Alder Street, Old Courthouse, Room 200, Oakland, Maryland 21550, and at the office of Franklin Associates, Inc., 203 South Third Street, Oakland, Maryland 21550, Monday through Friday, 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Copies may be obtained at the above mentioned addresses upon payment of forty (40) dollars, which is nonrefundable. Checks shall be made payable to: Garrett County Sanitary District, Inc.

Bidders shall examine the contract drawings and specifications caretully and shall make a personal examination of the location and nature of the proposed work. In case doubt shall arise as to the meaning or intent of anything in the contract drawings or comprised in the specifications, inquiry shall be made of the Owner in writing before the proposal is submitted. No verbal answers to inquiries will be given. The submission of a proposal shall indicate that the bidder thoroughly understands the contract drawings and the terms of the specifications.

To better insure fair competition and to permit a determination of the lowest bidder, unresponsive bids or bids obviously unbalanced, may be rejected by the Owner.

NON-DISCRIMINATION IN EMPLOYMENT

Bidders of this work will be required to comply with the President's Executive Order Number 11246. The requirements for bidders and constractors under this order are explained in the specifications.

All work on this project shall be performed in accordance with the requirements of the Davis-Bacon Act and Copeland Anti-Kickback Act.

Each proposal shall be accompanied by a certified check or satisfactory bid bond in the amount of five percent (5%) of the amount of the proposal but not less than $1,000 made payable to the Garrett County Sanitary District, Inc., and unless so accompanied will not be considered. The check or bid bond of the bidder to whom a contract is awarded will be forfeited to the Garrett County Sanitary District as liquidated damages in the event the contract and bonds are executed within ten (10) days after receiving the contract for execution. The form of bid bond is bound in the contract specifications.

All proposals must be submitted on the prepared forms, which must remain bound in the contract specifications. Proposals must be signed by the bidder with his name and address, corporate seal affixed, and enclosed in a sealed envelope marked "Proposal for Project C-240583-02, Upper Youghiogheny Sewerage System Rehabilitation Project."

Proposals made in pencil and/or any other than the prepared forms will not be considered. Changes in the phraseology of the proposal, additions or limiting provisions will render the proposal informal and may cause its rejection.

Bidders shall also complete the following forms which are bound in the contract specifications:

1. Minority Business Enterprises (MBE) Participation Documentation Form, Part I or Part II as applicable.
2. Attachment D, Certification of Nonsegregated Facilities.

Proposals once submitted may not be withdrawn for a period of ninety (90) days after the date of opening of bids.

The successful bidder or bidders will be required to furnish individual performance and payment bonds to the Garrett County Sanitary District, each in a sum equal to one hundred percent (100%) of the amount of the proposal, similar to the form of bond hereto attached. The bonding company shall be licensed to do business in Maryland. The bonds will be subject to the approval of the Owner.

The right is reserved to waive informalities, to reject any or all proposals, to advertise for new bids, to proceed to do the work otherwise, or to defer to abandon the work, as the interests of the Owner may require.

Bausch & Lomb President Visits Local Facility

Daniel E. Gill, who is chairman of the board and president of Bausch & Lomb visited the Mountain Lake Park facility on Tuesday, April 9.

John Sheltra, the local plant manager, and members of his staff delivered presentations to Gill on the operational aspects of the facility. A facility tour followed those meetings.

Gill was accompanied by Thomas C. McDermott, senior group president of Consumer and Scientific Products; Richard Clark, president of the Sunglass Division; and Richard G. Schick, vice-president of Human Resources of the Sunglass Division.

Gill remarked, "Our facility in Mountain Lake Park is very well-managed, maintained and staffed with an excellent group of employees, all of which complement our sunglass business needs."

Gill has served as president and chief executive officer since April, 1981. He assumed the additional position of chairman of the Board in January, 1982.

He joined Bausch & Lomb as group vice-president - Soflens Products, and a director of the Company in 1978. He was named president and chief operating officer of the company in October, 1980.

Before joining Bausch & Lomb, Gill was a corporate vice-president of Abbott Laboratories and president of its Hospital Products Division. He held a number of other executive positions with that company during his 13 years there.

Gill is a native of Zeigler, Ill. He received a B.S. degree in finance from Northwestern University in 1958.

He is a member of the Board of Directors of Greyhound Corporation; the Health Industry Manufacturers Association; Rochester Telephone Corporation; Chase Lincoln First Banks, N.A.; and the Business Council of New York State. He also serves as a trustee of the University of Rochester.

THE FIRST GARRETT COUNTY "4-H FAMILY OF THE YEAR" recognition was held during the annual 4-H Achievement and Awards program, April 13, at the Grantsville Fire Hall. Each club was asked to submit its "Family of the Year." The selection for thecounty award was made by the Allegany County extension agents. Chosen as the "Garrett County 4-H Family of the Year" was the Howard Kepple Family of Oakland. Family members include: (above, left to right) Tim, Bernice, Mike, Howard and Criss. Howard and Bernice are eight-year leaders of the Country Kids 4-H Club and all three teens are 4-H members. Criss is also vice president of the State 4-H Teen Council. Their application will be forwarded to the State Selection Committee for consideration for the "State 4-H Family of The Year." The Ryan's Glade 4-H Family of the Year was the Larry Tichnell family. Pictured below, left to right, are family members, Larry, Janet, Mike, Randy, and Julia. Janet and Larry have served 16 years as leaders of the club and all three children are active members.

Entertainment Spending Higher

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein says, for the first time in Fiscal year 1985, his office is returning more admissions and amusement tax revenue to the state's subdivisions than for the same period the previous year. "We are sending checks totaling $4,473,344 to Maryland's counties, cities and towns as their share of admissions and amusement tax revenue for the third quarter of Fiscal Year 1985 (January, February and March, 1985)," Goldstein said. "That's 2.4% more than the $4,369,736 they received for the same period of Fiscal Year 1984."

According to the comptroller's tax figures, Marylanders spent approximately $68.9 million on taxable entertainment during the January through March, 1985 period, slightly less than during the same period of 1984.

"While spending for athletic events continued to decline, as expected, spending for movies, theatre and concerts was greater," Goldstein said. "Spending for movie admissions increased 9.9% to $12.1 million, and bears out recent publicity about increased movie attendance."

Spending for live theatre and concerts increased 34% to $1.3 million.

"Spending for participative sports showed some increases during the recent fiscal period," Goldstein said, noteing that spending for golf green fees and cart rentals totaled $1.1 million, up 38% over the same period last year, and spending for snow skiing admissions and equipment rentals totaled $930,398, up 29%.

"Marylanders spent less money on taxable coin-operated amusement devices, such as arcade video games, and less on admissions to night clubs; however, more money was spent on refreshments and merchandise in clubs and movies," Goldstein said.

The State's Comptroller's Office collects admissions and amusement taxes on rates set by local elected officials, and returns the revenue on a quarterly basis. For the third quarter of Fiscal year 1985, $30,041 was returned to Garrett County, compared to $29,588 for the same quarter last year.

PROFESSIONAL STANDARDS: THE COMING TEACHER SHORTAGE

America will soon face what is an unusual public school crisis: a major shortage of classroom teachers. Some statistics that back this up help to explain why.

The U.S. is in the middle of a baby boom that will create a need for about 250,000 teachers within the next five years, but graduates of teacher training institutes is at its lowest point in the last 30 years.

Over one half of those now in the teaching profession are nearing retirement age, yet 70% of the states have or are considering proposals to make entry standards into teaching tougher.

What does all this mean? At the time when it is becoming tougher to be a teacher, the need for teachers is increasing and the number of young people wanting to be teachers is decreasing.

In the past, teacher shortages were dealt with by lowering requirements for teaching certificates. Unfortunately, this seems to be the way states will deal with it again.

It seems that higher wages, comparable with other professions, would increase the number of QUALITY teachers instead of employing less than qualified educators to save money.

Fringe Benefits - Taxable Income?

The federal government has a $200 billion Budget deficit. U.S. Treasury Department officials think they have come up with a "solution" - a tax law change that would count employee fringe benefits as income subject to personal income taxes.

Some estimates say this would raise $115 billion in federal revenue. Taxing fringe benefits of education employees could be a disaster.

An average employee receives about 28 percent in non-salary benefits, such as sick leave, health leave, and health benefits. Think about what would happen to finances when you have 28 percent more taxable income, but not one penny more in salary to pay the taxes that would be due on that income.

The moderate income taxpayer would feel the crunch more than anyone. Approximately 80 percent of the revenue such a tax would raise would come from employees making less than $25,000. Only three percent of the revenue would come from employees making over $50,000.

FRIEND OF 4-H AND ALUMNI AWARDS PRESENTED — The annual Garrett County 4-H Achievement Dinner & Program was held April 13 at the Grantsville Fire Hall. Those recognized as "Friends of 4-H" by the 4-H program included: Gene Schmidt, co-owner of 135 Meat Market, who accepted the award from his grandson, Tommy Ritchey, a member of the Red House 4-H Club; and Paul Yoder, of Yoder's, Inc., was presented the plaque by Gary Broadwater of the Grantsville Club. Both companies have been extensive supporters of the Garrett County Livestock Sale for 15 and 27 years respectively. The Oakland Rotary Club represented by Tom Jones, president, was recognized for their two years of honoring the Outstanding Youth Exhibitor at the Garrett County Fair by John Leininger, Shepherds 4-H Club and the 1983 award recipient. Susan Wright of the Shepherds Club honored Jim and Cott Callis, former owners of Oakland Equipment. For many years the Callises provided work space and housing for 4-H Club floats being prepared for the Autumn Glory Parade. Pictured above are Gene Schmidt, left, and Paul Yoder. Six former 4-H members honored as 4-H Alumni during the program are pictured below, left to right: Marvin Kolb, Accident; Janet Paugh, Deer Park; Carl Fike, Oakland; Linda Oursler Freyman, Deer Park; and Carol Durst Newman, Grantsville. These individuals, all former Garrett County members, were presented Alumni Pins by Lori Dodge, Sherri Wilt, Becky Fratz, Pam Evans, Roger Wilhelm, and Karen Wilhelm. The winners were nominated by indivduals and clubs, and were selected by the County 4-H Council based on their citizenship and leadership to the community, and their career accomplishments.

POTOMAC VALLEY FARM CREDIT FAIR-CLUB AWARD — During the annual 4-H Awards Program, the Red House and Country Kids 4-H Clubs were jointly awarded the seventh annual 4-H Fair Club Award presented by the Potomac Valley Farm Credit Service. This award goes to the 4-H Club with the highest percentage of participation in the Garrett County Fair. For the 1984 Fair, these two clubs tied for the award with less than half a point between them. Pictured above are members of the Country Kids 4-H Club, on the left, and the Red House 4-H Club, on the right.

4-H Achievement Awards Presented

Over 300 4-H members, leaders, parents, and guests attended the annual Garrett County 4-H Achievement Dinner and Program which was held April 13 at the Grantsville Fire Hall.

The welcome was given by Dove Wassell of the Bittinger 4-H Club, who was master of ceremonies for the evening; and an invocation was given by Ellisa Schofield, of the same club. A covered-dish dinner was served, followed by an opening ceremony with pledges led by Lori Dodge of the Monte Vista Club.

Special guests for the evening included: Senator John N. Bambacus; Delegate George C. Edwards; Garrett County Commissioners Ernest Gregg, John Braskey, and Elwood Groves; Betty Bures, regional extension director for the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service and her husband, Marvin Bures; Lee Shillingburg, president, Garrett County Agricultural Fair and president, Garrett County Livestock Association, and Mrs. Shillingburg; Clark Kolb, president, Garrett County Farm Bureau, and Mrs. Kolb; Darwin Bender, president, Garrett County DHIA, and Mrs. Bender; Craig Phillips, The Republican newspaper; Criss Kepple, Garrett County Farm Queen, president, Southern FFA Chapter; Don Sealing and Gene Matthews, Garrett's representatives on the Maryland 4-H Foundation Board of Trustees, and Mrs. Joan Sprangel.

Grantsville was again the host club and in charge of the fire hall arrangements, while the Shepherds Club was in charge of registration. Roger Wilhelm developed the theme and designed the program cover, and Ryan's Glade provided the flags.

Club representatives presented Leader Years of Service Awards to: (first year awards), Nancy Friend, Sharon Thomas, Kenneth Hinebaugh, Marlene Schroyer, Carol Umbel, Victoria Evans, Carole Lupis, Patty Zimmerman, Gregg Savage, Ronda Savage, and Joyce Paugh. Leaders with three years of service were: Verne Leininger, John Wright, and Sharon Rodeheaver. Five

Senior Citizens Visit Pittsburgh Flower Event

Leaving the early morning fog behind, 84 county senior citizens and friends travelled to Pittsburgh on April 12 to preview spring at the indoor flower show. The trip was organized by the Area Agency on Aging and the journey was made in two motor coaches. Travellers were picked up in Oakland, Accident, and Grantsville to accommodate individuals from various parts of the county.

Upon arrival, the group first visited Carnegie Museum where they viewed exhibits and had lunch in the cafeteria. Next they were taken to Phipps Conservatory where the "Broadway in Bloom" show was underway.

After stopping for dinner at Glisan's on Route 40, the travellers sang favorite folk songs and hymns on their way back to their destinations.

ASK ME ABOUT TV

By Val Carew

Mark Harmon of "St. Elsewhere" is my favorite actor. Can you tell me about him? Where can I write to him? — D.M., Wickliffe, Ohio.

Mark Harmon

Harmon, who plays Dr. Robert Caldwell on the NBC series, is the son of former All-America football player and broadcaster Tom Harmon and former actress Elyse Knox. Harmon, the star quarterback on his college football team in 1972 and 1973, opted for an acting career. He received an Emmy nomination for his role in the miniseries "Eleanor and Franklin: The White House Years," and starred in three other series: "Flamingo Road," "Sam" and "240-Robert."

Harmon has also appeared in several TV movies, including "Little Mo," "Getting Married" and "The Dream Merchants." Letters can reach the actor c/o MTM Enterprises, Inc., 4024 Radford Ave., Studio City, CA 91604.

I have been wondering about this for years. Is James MacArthur, the co-star of "Hawaii Five-O," the same actor who played Boy in the old Tarzan flicks? — M.H., Jacksonville, Fla.

The actor who played the Boy in several Tarzan films was Johnny Sheffield, who later starred in the "Bomba" series. MacArthur, the adopted son of legendary actress Helen Hayes and the late writer James MacArthur, starred in "Spencer's Mountain," the pilot for the CBS series "The Waltons."

Can you give me Lee Horsley's address? — M.M., Augusta, Ga.

Lee Horsley

You can write to the star of "Matt Houston" c/o ABC, 2040 Avenue of the Stars, Century City, CA 90067.

Bios of the rich and famous will come to TV

By Cindy Adams

NEW YORK — We'll soon be drowning in celebrity TV bios. Joan Collins owns the rights to the book on Maria Callas. Joan also owns the producer, Peter Holm, her live-in lover, who looks so young he's still teething. The Callas story will be a six-part miniseries.

Joan Collins

Then there's "Indira," a four-hour film on the life and assassination of Indira Gandhi, the prime minister of India who was murdered in 1984. The film will be an original story written especially for television, and will air sometime in '86. Producers are looking for a newcomer, an Indian unknown, who will play the lead.

Then there's a miniseries based on the life and career of John Wayne. The flick will be based on Maurice Zolotow's book, a tome the Wayne family did not approve.

Then there's Dick Clark's Janis Joplin bio for NBC.

Glory, glory hallelujah! The truth is marching on.

Liberace's apartment-sitting temporarily in the model apartment of the posh NYC Trump Tower. To make himself comfy in the ultramodern marble-chrome-glass digs, Lee hocked a few rings and bought $1,000 in real flowers, as well as red silk flowers, red silk pillows, a red-lacquered bar and a china set for 12. You got it — it was red china.

Barbie Benton, Hugh Hefner's former passion, will be entering the New York City Marathon. Barbi's now in Colorado, running 12 miles a day. She's been doing this for one month and should be in Newark by now.

John Wayne

Jennifer O'Neill's boyfriend, Lorenzo Lamas, busted his leg, is in a cast and is forcing "Falcon Crest" producers to shoot him from the leg up. Despite the leg injury, their romance is still limping along.

Local Couple Sentenced In Allegany County

A young Mtn. Lake Park couple was sentenced last Wednesday for multiple thefts in Allegany County District Court. The thefts occurred on February 12 from eight stores at the Country Club Mall in La-Vale.

Terry Lynn Auvil, 20, and Rebecca K. Auvil, 18, were each sentenced to one year in custody of the Division of Correction and fined $300 and costs for theft of merchandise from the BonTon/Eyerly's Department Store. However, Judge Paul J. Stakem suspended all but 30 days of the jail terms, which will be served in the Allegany County Jail.

Judge Stakem imposed concurrent 30-day sentences on each of the seven other theft counts against Auvil and his wife. The couple was ordered to pay the fines and costs within 90 days after their release from jail. At that time both will placed on supervised probation for two years on the condition that they do not violate the law and remain away from the Country Club Mall.

Former Resident Named Manager At Chemical Firm

D. Douglas Fratz, a former Garrett County resident, has recently been appointed Manager of Techinal Affairs for Chemical Specialties Manufacturer's Association, Inc. He is presently serving as the Associate Director of Scientific Affairs and will also maintain that position.

In his new position, Fratz will report directly to the CSMA president in handling a number of technical projects. Projects he has been involved in recently include: the Aerosol Warehouse Storage Fire Testing Program, the EPA's pesticide effluent guidelines, pesticide labeling and registration data requirements, chlorofluorocarbon issues and biological pest controls.

Fratz, who joined CSMA in January, 1980, holds a masters of science degree in environmental science from George Washington University, and a bachelor of science degree in chemistry from the University of Maryland.

CSMA president, Ralph Engel, noted that, "Doug's promotion is in recognition of his important contributions to the association's technical activities."

Fratz spends much of his spare time as a critic, publisher and editor of a review journal covering science fiction and fantasy literature. He and his wife, Naomi Richfield-Fratz, who is a chemist with the FDA, have a seven-month-old son, Alexander Paul, and live in Gaithersburg.

Fratz is the son of Donald and Anna Mary Fratz, and grandson of Mary Jane Savage, McHenry.

Oakland Chapter Of Eastern Star Holds Initiation

"A Smile" was the opening thought of Worthy Matron Eleanor Teats as Oakland Chapter #67 held its regular order of business April 16 at the Masonic Temple in Oakland.

Among the guests greeted by the Worthy Matron were Deputy Grand Lecturer Wilda Hile, two Past Matrons of other chapters, the Past Matrons, Past Patrons, officers and members of the Oakland Chapter and one visitor.

Business conducted during the evening included balloting on candidates, report of special committees, and the initiation of Mrs. Eileen McCartney.

Mrs. Teats announced the dates for Grand Session and the next meeting to be held May 7 when the Chapter will celebrate Mother's Day. April birthdays were celebrated.

The Worthy Matron's closing thought was "How Great The Yield From a Fertile Field." She asked that all remain to continue fellowship with refreshments, served by Helen Henline and her committee.

Sheriff's Dept. Probes Thefts In McHenry Area

The Garrett County Sheriff's Department is presently investigating two cases of breaking and entering and theft which occurred in the McHenry area last week.

Reuben E. Savage, Sang Run Road, reported that sometime between April 11 and April 16 unknown person(s) entered his home and storage shed. Taken from the home were numerous household items, including a television, a radio and a telephone. Removed from the storage shed were two chain saws, a 12-volt battery and assorted tools. Loss has been set at $546.

Another report of breaking and entering and theft was reported by Roy Kahl, Bumble Bee Road. Kahl said someone entered his home and barn sometime between April 10 and April 12. A McCulloch chain saw and a splitting maul were taken from the barn and considerable damage was done to the interior of the home.

Deputy Larry Gnegy is currently following leads on suspects in both cases.

A Deep Creek Lake area man is being held without bail in the Garrett County Jail for failure to appear in court on October 30, 1984.

Anthony S. Riley, 24, Lake Shore Drive, was arrested by Deputy Charles Nolan Saturday on a bench warrant. Riley was facing charges on assault and battery.

George Snyder, 18, and a juvenile were placed under arrest last Tuesday after turning themselves in for allegedly stealing diesel fuel from Mattingly Construction Company in the amount of $6.00.

Deputy P.J. Pratt was the arresting officer.

Deputy Richard Kutchman is continuing his investigation of the theft of a four-wheeler which was floating in Mountain Lake this weekend.

Upon questioning Mellinger Enterprises, Kutchman found the four-wheeler was registered to a summer resident, Dr. Gary W. Langston, Silver Spring. Langston said he did not know the vehicle had been stolen.
